GIVES HIS VIEW TO BORAH

STRESSES ECONOMIC SIDE

He Would Work Problem Out 'Constructively'—Fails to Meet Specific Questions.

WILLIS ISSUES CHALLENGE

Ohio Senator, Recorded as Dry, Says Declaration Is Vague—Wet Chief 'Disappointed.'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Secretary Hoover, as a candidate for the Presidency, is opposed to any "repeal" of the Eighteenth Amendment and favors "efficient, vigorous and sincere enforcement" of the laws enacted under it. His position was disclosed today when he replied to the Borah questionnaire asking for Mr. Hoover's attitude on the wet and dry issue.

The Secretary thus aligned himself, so far as enforcement is concerned, on the same side of the question with Senators Curtis of Kansas and Willis of Ohio, the only other candidates thus far put on record by the Idaho Senator.

But he did not specifically take a stand on each of the questions propounded. One of these related as to whether he believed in a dry plank in the party platform, and another as to whether he thought a State had the right to say what the alcoholic content should be for a beverage to become intoxicating.

For "Constructive" Enforcement.

Mr. Hoover made it clear that his conception of the Presidential office was that whoever fills it would be obligated by his oath to enforce the law. In that connection he declared:

"Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively."

Prediction was made that the Secretary's explanation of why he did not approve of answers to all the questions would prove satisfactory.

Some political observers also thought that certain of the "liberals" in the country would view with satisfaction his statement that the problem should be worked out "constructively."

In one wet quarter Mr. Hoover's stand brought disappointment. Captain W. H. Stayton, National Chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said he "had hoped for something more than mere platitudes on this subject from the lips of Mr. Hoover."

Hoover's Reply to Borah.

Mr. Hoover's letter follows:

Feb. 23, 1928.

The Hon. William E. Borah,
United States Senate.

My dear Mr. Senator:

Upon my return to Washington I have taken up your letter.

I feel that the dissension of public questions by reply to questionnaires is likely to be unsatisfactory and oftimes leads to confusion rather than clarity. Replies to the scores of such inquiries on many questions are impossible.

Out of my regard for your known sincerity and your interest in the essential question I will, however, say again that I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I stand, of course, for the efficient, vigorous and sincere enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Whoever is chosen President has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course.

Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) HERBERT HOOVER.

Senator Willis, on being informed of the letter, inferentially suggested that Mr. Hoover's declaration was lacking in vigor.

Willis Calls for Comparison.

"I shall be perfectly contented," he said, "if Secretary Hoover's letter and my own (in reply to the Borah questionnaire) can be published side by side so that the American public can see both and judge as to their comparative merits from the standpoint of courage, definiteness, clearness and responsiveness."

Generally, however, the Hoover declaration was regarded as one that would please the dry bosses of its positive assertions for law enforcement. That has been their chief battle cry ever since it was voiced by the late Wayne B. Wheeler soon after passage of the Volstead act.

Senator Curtis would not comment on Mr. Hoover's reply.

Senator Borah also withheld his views on the Hoover response. He is planning to study all the letters of the candidates and will probably discuss them in speeches he intends making this Spring in his campaign to put the Republican party on record.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Twenty-five million pounds were offered in fifteen minutes, as subscriptions to the new issue of £3,000,000 5½ per cent. debenture stock, made by the Northcliffe Newspapers, Ltd., for the purpose of establishing a circuit of provincial evening papers.

A quarter of an hour after the subscription lists opened this morning applications amounting to that huge figure had been received and the lists had to be closed.

LEGISLATORS BACK WAR ON LOAN SHARKS

HE WANTED SPECIAL BODY

If Crime Commission Lacks Power, Amendments Giving It Will Be Sought in Charter.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—Attorney General Ottinger made a plea today for a legislative investigation of loan shark activities, which are said to cost small borrowers in this State about $25,000,000 annually in usurious interest.

The response by the legislative leaders was prompt, but whereas Attorney General Ottinger asked for the creation of a new legislative committee to undertake the investigation, they decided to refer the matter to the Baumes Crime Commission, already in existence.

Following the Attorney General's request, Senator Caleb H. Baumes of Orange, Chairman, and Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond of Saratoga, Vice Chairman of the Crime Commission, introduced a bill to prolong its life and to provide an additional $50,000 for expenses during that period.

Powers Are Questioned.

A question has arisen whether the commission possesses the power to investigate the loan shark evil. Its present charter defines its scope as follows:

"The commission shall examine the crime situation in New York State with special consideration of robbery, burglary and theft amounting to grand larceny, and shall examine the procedure, methods and agencies concerned with the detection of crime, the apprehension, bailing, prosecution and trial of persons charged with crime, and the punishment, treatment and pardon of convicted persons, and all other matters which have relation directly or indirectly to the crime situation in the State."

The Attorney General, it was learned today, will confer with Senator Baumes here Monday afternoon to learn if the commission is in a position to take up the proposed inquiry. Should the commission require specific authority for the investigation, amendments will be introduced to the law which created the commission in 1926 so as to broaden its scope to the extent needed.

The alternative would be the creation of a new legislative committee and the Republican leaders are averse to this.

Mr. Ottinger, in a statement sent to

BETHLEN WON'T STOP SALE

Says He Cannot, but Will Ask Buyer to Let Goods Remain Where They Are.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The affair of the St. Gothard machine guns took on new importance today when Teheng Loh, the Chinese Minister to Paris and acting President of the Council of the League of Nations, caused to be sent to the Hungarian Government by the League Secretariat a telegram calling on Budapest in the name of the Council to delay the sale of the alleged destroyed machine guns tomorrow.

This action was taken after a conference between the Chinese Minister and M. Briand, and, it is said, after communication by telephone with Downing Street.

The action of the Hungarian Government in announcing that it had destroyed the machine guns by reducing them to scrap iron and would sell the remains tomorrow constituted, according to other League members, a direct defiance of the League Council, which, when it meets on March 8, will have before it a complaint by Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia against the shipment of arms from Italy to Hungary in violation by both countries of the Treaty of Trianon.

It became evident that if the last vestiges of Exhibit A disappeared before the court opened trial would be difficult. The Council has now called on Count Bethlen to save the pieces.

Doubt Guns Are Destroyed.

And that has its importance, for two reasons. In the first place, some folks are so suspicious of Budapest that they believe Count Bethlen has not destroyed the machine guns at all. The Journal des Débats tonight voices this belief. In the second place, it is reported that the machine guns were actually old Austrian arms delivered to the Italians after the end of the war.

This would mean that it was not an arms firm but the Italian Government itself which shipped them to Hungary. When an effort was made to find the shipper the only report which came back was that the shipper could not be found by the Verona authorities.

It is obvious that if the machine guns have only been broken up by stopping the sale and disappearance of the pieces one can easily establish just what brand of machine guns were on their way from Italy to Hungary.

One might smile at a Chinese diplomat raising the issue of smuggled arms, but Teheng Loh happens to be President of the Council only by the working of the rotation system and his action really may be credited to M. Briand. Today's move by the Chinese diplomat followed publication in the Paris Matin of an interview with M. Politis of Greece, who pointed out how M. Briand acted quickly in the Greek-Bulgar dispute and expressed surprise that the acting President of the Council had done nothing.

Teheng Loh's telegram to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary General of the League, said:

"Please telegraph the Hungarian

Paulding, Rail Executive, Facing Loss of Arm, Reported to Prefer Death to Being Cripple

Charles Cook Paulding, 58-year-old Vice President of the New York Central Lines and nephew of Chauncey M. Depew, who is in a grave condition in the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled with a gangrenous right arm, faces the amputation of the arm or probable death, it was learned last night. Mr. Paulding noticed symptoms of an infection three weeks ago, but did not go to the hospital until last Monday. He was reported to have said, when his physicians told him the amputation was daily growing more imperative:

"I would rather die than be without my arm."

This statement, however, has been strongly denied by the three surgeons attending him and by officials of the railroad.

His physicians, after a day of minimizing Mr. Paulding's condition, finally authorized a statement from the railroad's office of Public Relations, of which department he is the head, which said that Mr. Paulding was "undergoing treatment for arterial thrombosis in the right arm," that his condition was "favorable" and that no operation had been performed.

Three weeks ago Mr. Paulding complained of a numbness in the fingers of his right hand. He thought little of it at first, but when the condition became aggravated he consulted Dr. David H. M. Gillespie, it was learned, who recommended that he be diagnosed by a neurologist. The infection, which started in his fingers, spread, however, and, on last Monday afternoon Mr. Paulding, his hand in bandages, walked from the Yale Club, where he lives, to the hospital at 321 East Forty-second Street.

It was said yesterday by a medical authority that amputation of Mr. Paulding's fingers would not stop the infection.

Mr. Paulding, the son of the late William H. and Anne Mitchell Paulding, the sister of Mr. Depew, was born in New York City. He is unmarried and is descended from John Paulding who helped capture Major Andre in the Revolutionary War. He is a member of the following clubs: Yale, Union League, University, New York Yacht, Republican, Transportation and Metropolitan of New York, Metropolitan of Washington, D. C., and the Sleepy Hollow Country.

WALKER IMPRESSES ATLANTA'S LEADERS

Mayor Asks 'Understanding' for New York as Representative of the Whole Country.

THRILL AT STONE MOUNTAIN

Hailed as Benefactor of the Memorial, He Pays Homage to Heroes of the South.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York City was entertained here today as a friend of Atlanta and the South. In fact, he was invited to return here to make his home with the promise that he could be elected Mayor of Atlanta, which Atlantans "if the New York of the South."

Mayor Walker arrived early in the morning because of the cancellation of the program at Mobile last night, following the change in plans which caused the Mayor to believe that "the common people were being high-hatted," and the first two persons to greet him were Major John S. Cohen, President and editor of The Atlanta Journal, and Bobby Jones, the golfer. He received them in pajamas.

Soon afterward Mayor Walker went to a luncheon at the Capital City Club, given by Major Cohen, and to Stone Mountain, at the invitation of Hollins N. Randolph, to view the giant memorial to the Confederacy, which Mr. Randolph gave him credit for making possible through the sale in New York of $1,000 Stone Mountain memorial coins.

Friendship for Him Manifest.

As in the other cities which he has visited, Mr. Walker apparently won all who heard him. There was no mention of politics, only the plea to consider New York City on its merits and to give it the same opportunity for judgment as its Mayor received. And in the two addresses the Mayor delivered or rather the two informal talks, the plea seemed to make an impression.

Major Cohen, a friend of Governor Smith, Mr. Randolph, who is President of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association, led the Georgia delegation for McAdoo at the last Democratic convention in New York, but each showed his friendship for Mayor Walker.

"Mayor Walker enshrined himself in our hearts on a previous visit," said Major Cohen at the Capital City Club luncheon, which was attended by leading business men of the city, "if he would change his residence he could be Mayor of Atlanta and have no transit problem."

Pleads for Understanding.

Major Cohen introduced Eugene R. Black, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, a brother of Supreme Court Justice William Harmon Black of New York City, who, in turn, introduced the Mayor as a friend of Atlantans.

"There isn't a place I am compelled to admire except the place of my birth, more than I am compelled to admire Atlanta," said the Mayor.

He repeated that he could not understand how New York was misunderstood as it was in the country, and said made the plea to give New York as fair a hearing as New York had given to other places since the Civil War.

He mentioned Colonel John R. Fellows and General Dyer as two men who had "put aside their Confederate uniform" to come to New York and declared that they had received an opportunity to "make good." "That's the spirit of New York," he said.

Mr. Walker went from the club to the Atlanta Terminal Station, where Mayor N. Rainsdale of Atlanta and the City Council, and after shaking hands with them he went to Stone Mountain. Here Mr. Randolph gave Mr. Walker credit for being the "greatest benefactor" of Stone Mountain through the sale of the coins. He said that but for the Mayor's efforts the project might have languished and perished.

"You stand toward this enterprise as its strongest benefactor," he said.

Calls New York a National City.

In reply Mr. Walker said he came "from a town which knows no division—North, East, South or West."

"I come from a city which main-

SUCH A MOVE DOUBTFUL

Road's Counsel Has Agreed to Await Ruling—Seven Union Men Suspended.

In an affidavit filed with Federal Judge William J. Bondy and served upon the city and Transit Commission yesterday the Interborough Rapid Transit Company again asserted its contention that the rejection of its revised fare schedules by the Transit Commission automatically puts a 7-cent fare into effect on March 3. It is doubtful, however, if an attempt will be made to enforce the higher fare there because of the pending Federal court proceedings.

The company's assertion of its legal right to charge the 7-cent fare after March 3 was set forth in an affidavit made by William L. Ransom, the I. R. T. special counsel, in answer to affidavits filed with Judge Bondy on Tuesday by the city and the Transit Commission. Referring to the filing of the 7-cent fare schedules with the commission, Mr. Ransom said:

"Such a filing and posting of tariff schedules, in pursuance of the power delegated to public service corporations by the Public Service Commission law, is, according to my advice and opinion, one of the modes authorized by that law for a public service corporation to effect an increase in its rates, subject to the regulatory power of the commission to hold hearings and reduce the filed rate if too high, but without any prior consent of the commission to such filing and increase, and notwithstanding that different or other rates are fixed or agreed upon in prior private contracts or franchise contracts or customer contracts."

Gives Out Affidavit.

James H. Quackenbush, general counsel for the company, made public the affidavit. In it the company contends that the city and Transit Commission by not refuting them had admitted five points in the Interborough's application for a temporary injunction staying all proceedings in the State courts.

Mr. Ransom also dealt in detail with the actions of the Transit Commission and Samuel Untermyer, the commission's special counsel, following the filing of the company's application for an increased fare. He contended the company was justified in seeking the protection of the Federal courts because the plan of the authorities was to withhold denial of the company's petition until after this company had acted in the State courts to prevent the Federal court from getting jurisdiction.

The five contentions of the Interborough which Mr. Ransom held had been conceded by the authorities were:

That the company began its Federal Court suit before the State court suits were started.

That the avowed purpose of the officials was to prevent the Interborough from making an application for a temporary increase or a Federal statutory court.

That the company's increased fare schedules were properly filed with the Transit Commission and remain on file as public records.

That the five-cent fare has been satisfactory on both subway and elevated lines.

That $142,564,000 of "value" of the elevated lines, $10,579,474 of tax-exempt property and $372,060,174 also provided by the company is involved.

Wanted Board to Act, He Says.

The assertion of Clarence M. Lewis, the Transit Commission's general counsel, that the company merely filed the new schedules with the Transit Commission as an excuse to go into the Federal courts was denied by Mr. Ransom. On the contrary, he said, the company had hoped the Transit Commission would act on the schedules and allow hearing at which the company would present proof of the justice of its plea.

Although the Newspaper Guild of New York, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America and the Brotherhood of Railway Employees, all parts of the Interborough Federation, have voted to strike if the 7-cent fare is put into effect, the Interborough has not yet signed contracts with any of the unions. Seven members of the Brotherhood of Railway Employees were suspended yesterday for refusing to work on the Lexington Avenue subway and elevated lines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Former President Alexandre Millerand of France pleaded the case of Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State of the United States, in the suit for divorce brought against Mrs. Colby in the Versailles courts today. Mrs. Colby was not represented.

In his speech to the Court arguing the case for Mr. Colby, M. Millerand said that the "capricious temperament" of Mrs. Colby made life insupportable for her husband. He quoted passages from two of Mrs. Colby's novels, "Green Forest" and "Black Steam" in an effort to show that in them the author had sought to ridicule her husband and President Harding.

Letters from Mrs. Colby were also quoted as evidence of her alleged "capricious temperament," which, M. Millerand said, had "destroyed her husband's work for peace in France as a citizen of freedom and opportunity to begin a new life." Mrs. Colby, it was stated, had herself suggested a divorce in 1925.

As customary in such cases, judgment will not be handed down until two weeks from today.

When reached at her apartment, 137 East Seventy-second Street, yesterday, Mrs. Colby, the former Natalie Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., refused to comment on the divorce proceedings in France. Her only reply to questions on the subject was, "I have nothing to say."

Reports that the interview was connected in some way with Mrs. Colby's novel, "Green Forest," have been current for several years. When the book was published it was said that the central male character, a politician, suggested Mr. Colby in the novel the husband and wife knit and faithfully sketched and failed to complete the understanding of each other. Mrs. Colby later denied that this character was in any sense modeled upon her husband.

"Mr. Colby is much too colossal a figure to be encompassed in any single book," she said at that time.

Bainbridge Colby was Secretary of State under President Wilson, and has been one of the country's outstanding lawyers for many years. At first active in the Republican Party, he joined the Roosevelt Progressives in 1912 and later entered the Democratic Party, in which he became an intimate associate of President Wilson. In 1921 he became a law partner of the ex-President.

Mr. and Mrs. Colby have two grown daughters, Misses Katherine and Natalie Colby.

Writer Says He Struck Her on Auto Ride, and, Thinking Her Dead, Set Fire to Hide Crime.

RETURNS TWO $1,000 BONDS

Asserts He Is Starting in Car, 'To Hell, I Suppose,' and Will End His Life if Caught.

LETTER POSTED IN NEWARK

Little Help in Trading Murderer —Seems Authentic, but Upsets Evidence Killing Was Planned.

An unsigned letter confessing the murder of Miss Margaret Brown and enclosing two $1,000 bonds which had been stolen from her was received in the mail yesterday morning by Borough Marshal Thomas Parry of Bernardsville, N. J. It was also said the writer had returned a five-hundred-dollar bill but that was not mentioned in the letter as given out.

The author, who described himself as a medical student, said he had struck her over the head because she resisted his advances and that, believing her to be dead, he took gasoline from his automobile and burned the body to conceal the crime.

The letter was postmarked from Newark on Wednesday night, but the writer said that he had a car and was starting out, "God knows where—to hell I suppose" and that he was prepared to end his life if in danger of being caught.

One of the $1,000 bonds was of the Province of Buenos Aires, the other was of the Cities Service Power and Light Company. These were identified yesterday as the property of Miss Brown. The letter confirms with much of the information gathered by investigators, but the police said it established rather conclusively that the writer was the murderer, although it was a question how much of his letter was true and how much was false.

The professed despair and remorse of the writer and his return of the stolen bonds came as a surprise, because other circumstances had given rise to the belief that the murderer was a criminal of the most callous type.

Borough Marshal Parry turned the letter over to District Attorney Francis Bergen. He withheld certain passages of it and made public the rest.

Text of Letter Made Public.

Dear Sir, I have been drinking. I am stricken with remorse at my deed. I have known Miss Brown for two years. I met her in Buffalo. I have been deeply in love with her and have wanted to marry her. I came to New York and have gone out with her several times. I wanted to marry her, but she has always told me that she would never marry me. I have tried to impress her with the fact that I am a medical student and could make good. I telephoned to her about 4:30 o'clock on Monday and she met me by appointment at about 7:15 in New York. We drove over to Lover's Lane. When we got there, there was a car parking there ahead of us. We drove around a while and came back and the car was gone. We parked there. I tried to take advantage of her. She resisted and I struck her over the head. We had had two bottles of wine which we had drunk on the way out.

After striking her I thought she was dead and took gasoline out of my car and poured it over her and set her on fire. I destroyed the bonds which I took from her purse. I threw the rest of the stuff into the creek.

I drove around Bernardsville and that vicinity all night and parked and slept in the car. I threw her bag into the brook. After I woke I went back to Newark and have been hiding here. I have a good car and good tires and am starting out God knows where—to Hell, I suppose. By the time you get this letter I will have a good start on you. I am going until my money gives out, and then, when I am caught, I have something with me to end it all before they can do anything.

Nazareth Suffers in Severe Earthquake; Other Towns and Mount of Olives Shaken

JERUSALEM, Feb. 23.—Jewish Telegraphic Agency—Nazareth was among the many cities which suffered from two earthquake shocks which rocked Palestine yesterday. The first tremor, which occurred at 7:45 A. M., was slight, but the second shook at 7:50 P. M. was much stronger, although not as severe as the quake of July, 1927.

Reports received by Government headquarters in Jerusalem indicate that the shocks throughout the country were severely felt.

In Haifa, Safed, Acre, Tel Aviv, Tiberias, Nahalal, Mahlul, Ramleh and Tel Aviv, where many houses, including synagogues and Government buildings were damaged. Telegraph and telephone communications were interrupted.

In Jerusalem the Government House on the Mount of Olives, which suffered in the earthquake of last July, was again damaged.

The Hebrew University on Mount Scopus again suffered damage, many walls of the buildings being cracked. The Allenby Bridge across the River Jordan was damaged. All traffic across the bridge was stopped because of its weakened condition.

In many cities and villages the population passed the night in the open, afraid of a repetition of the shocks. No casualties have been reported.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—John McCormack, the singer, has been raised to a papal peerage with the title and dignity of Count, it is announced by the Catholic organ The Universe, which adds that the honor was conferred in recognition of the great singer's eminent position in the world of art, together with his lifelong ardent devotion to his faith and to the Holy See and his magnificent generosity to Catholic causes in the Old and the New World.

Mr. McCormack became a naturalized American citizen in 1919.

NASHVILLE, Feb. 23 (AP).—John McCormack, who is here to fill a concert engagement said tonight:

"I am overwhelmed with the announcement. I have become very much excited when I think what joy and happiness it will bring to my mother and father in Ireland. I have never been so surprised with anything in my life."

WOMEN DRYS FIGHT BUTLER AS DELEGATE

But Party Leaders Are Solid for Him and Discount Effect of the Campaign.

The League of Women Voters and the W. C. T. U. with the aid of several church organizations have started a campaign against the election of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, as a delegate to the Republican National Convention from the Nineteenth Congressional District because of his advocacy of the repeal of the Volstead act and the Eighteenth Amendment.

It was learned yesterday that petitions were being circulated for Miss Lois Barr, a lawyer, who will run against Dr. Butler at the primary election on April 3.

Dr. Butler will have the support of the Republican leaders of the Ninth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-first Assembly Districts, which are included complete or in part in the Congressional District.

His election as a delegate by a large majority is predicted, although those opposing him have been very active and the contest is causing much interest in Harlem and on Morningside Heights.

Persons circulating Miss Barr's petitions have attached to them clippings of a newspaper article to the effect that Dr. Butler is likely to bolt the Republican national ticket and support Governor Smith if the latter should be the Democratic nominee for President. Copies of Dr. Butler's speeches, in which he had spoken well of Governor Smith and condemned prohibition also have been circulated.

Leaders of the Republican county and State organizations have felt for some time resentment at Dr. Butler's activity in the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but the leaders of the district leaders have refused to join in the fight. Miss Barr's petitions are the first to be filed in the district.

Neither the county nor State organization, however, has had any thought of trying to prevent Dr. Butler's election as a delegate. It is said, because of his past services to the party and his prominence in public affairs.

Keyes Winter, Republican leader of the Fifteenth Assembly District was elected last night as an organization candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention from the Seventeenth Congressional District at a meeting of the Assembly district organization held at its clubhouse, 1,040 Madison Avenue. Miss Frances Carter Wood was selected as alternate.

Mr. Winter and Mrs. Rose B. Feiker, Chairman and member of the Board of Aldermen, were nominated for members of the Republican State Committee from the Assembly district.

ATTORNEY BARES PROFITS

Denver Man Testifies of Visit to Montreal to See Exiled Witness.

ABOUT $2,000,000 TRACED

STEWART APPEALS, BAILED

Court Calls Contempt Defense Frivolous—More Burns Men to Be Prosecuted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—H. M. Blackmer, self-exiled witness in the oil scandal cases, got $750,000 of the Continental Trading Company profits, it was revealed today to the Senate Public Lands Committee. During the hearing at which this information was obtained Justice Bailey dismissed the habeas corpus writ granted Robert W. Stewart in his fight against the Senate contempt proceedings. Colonel Stewart also was released on appeal and he continued at liberty under $5,000 bail.

Immediately after Justice Bailey had vacated Stewart's writ, District Attorney Dodson announced that each year, while he will proceed against every Burns detective who was shown by the evidence in the Sinclair-Day-Burns criminal contempt case to have actively and knowingly taken part in the shadowing and investigation of the men and women of the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy panels.

Mr. Gordon called attention to the fact that when the Government tried Sinclair, Day, W. J. Burns and their co-defendants the right was reserved to proceed against any and all other persons who were shown to be implicated by the evidence. At least fourteen persons, other than the defendants, were mentioned in the evidence and they will be acted for criminal contempt, said the District Attorney.

Today's developments bring the total amount of Continental bonds now accounted for to $1,383,000, of which a part represents reinvested coupons, cut and cashed from those bonds. Still to be accounted for are bonds to the total par value of $1,117,000. Those accounted for represent payments in principal and interest to James E. O'Neil, now in the Prairie Oil Company treasury, $500,000; H. M. Blackmer, $783,000; Albert B. Fall, $293,000; Republican National Committee, $25,000, and to H. S. Osler, for organizing the Continental company, $61,000.

Bankers Give Testimony.

These were the three main developments in today's inquiry into the Continental and other phases of the Teapot Dome case. However, there were two other developments which, in the view of the Senate Committee, were of importance. One was the appearance before the committee of various bank officials of New York, Chicago and Boston.

They brought with them books, ledger sheets and wads of cancelled checks. The banks represented were the Chase National and the National City of New York, the First National of Boston and the Continental Bank and Trust Company of Chicago. While none of the bank witnesses had any testimony to show that Continental bonds were applied to the liquidation of the Republican National Committee deficit of 1920, the evidence did disclose that about $900,000 was deposited to the credit of that committee, mainly in the Chase National, in November and December, 1923.

Agents of the committee were tonight directed to investigate for the purpose of tracing the source of these deposits.

The fifth and final chapter in this busy day in the oil proceedings was the appearance before the Senate committee of Representative Cordell Hull, who was Chairman of the National Democratic Committee from Nov. 1, 1921, until July, 1924. Mr. Hull said that every book, every record of the Democratic National Committee was at the disposal of the Senate committee.

Not a cent of Continental money, he declared, was applied to the 1920 Democratic campaign deficit, which was about $136,000 when he was elected Chairman. This he pointed out, was prior to the Continental deal, which was Nov. 11, 1921.

Sinclair's Counsel Heard.

When the committee inquiry got under way again today Earl C. Schuyler of Denver, personal counsel for Blackmer, disclosed that in a safety deposit box in the Equitable Trust Company at New York there is at this moment $782,000 in bonds, part of the Continental profits and all of them held for Blackmer for whom Chairman of the Board of the Midwest Refining Company and since January, 1924, at his home in Europe.

It was admitted that Blackmer had double whether his title to the bonds is clear, and for this reason they have not been put amount put away in the safety vaults of the Equitable Trust. $12,000 represents part of the interest of $780,000, which was Blackmer's cut in the $3,080,000 resale profits deal of the Continental.

Mr. Schuyler said that in July, 1926, he met Blackmer in Montreal, where previously Samuel Fitzpatrick, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, had met James E. O'Neil, former President of the Prairie, and from him received for the Prairie the $800,000 in bonds and interest which O'Neil had received out of the Continental profits but which in the end O'Neil, apprehensive that death was not far off, had returned to the company because he believed the money was the Prairie's and not his.

The witness testified that when he met Blackmer in Montreal the bonds alleted to Blackmer were in the keeping of George Gordon Battle and George E. Holmes of New York City, and then, as now, were in the vaults of the Equitable Trust Company.

Stewart Defense Held Frivolous.

The writ of habeas corpus which was sued out to save Colonel Stewart the ordeal of facing the bar of the Senate, there to be asked questions as to his knowledge of the Continental transaction, was quashed because in the opinion of Justice Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme Court the grounds upon which Stewart sought the protection of the court were "frivolous and without legal basis."

For a minute or two Colonel Stewart was again under arrest and in the custody of David S. Barry, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate. During this brief interval his half a dozen lawyers were conferring and Jesse Adkins, arising, noted an appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Once again Stewart was saved from arraignment before Vice President Dawes in the Senate.

Stewart, again free on $5,000 bail, is to await the action of the Court of Appeals. That may be months or weeks. George W. Wickersham, chief counsel for the Senate, was optimistic and said he had reason to hope it would be only weeks before the appeal is disposed of.

Justice Bailey's Decision.

Justice Bailey declared that the original Teapot Dome inquiry had resulted in legislation directing the prosecution of suits which had resulted in the recovery of the Elk Hills and Teapot Dome naval oil reserves.

"It may be assumed," he continued, "that the Senate had in mind the possibility of the need of further legislation when the latest resolution was passed. The failure to specify such purpose is not fatal to the inquiry. Where the particular investigation has already formed the basis of legislation, the Court will not assume that some particular phase of a later investigation, supplementary to the former, cannot be made for the purpose of legislation and that the Senate is transcending its functions under the Constitution.

"The petitioner states that he appeared voluntarily before the committee to give his testimony. He took an oath to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

"He raised no general objection to the scope of the inquiry, but after he had proceeded to answer numerous questions he finally refused to answer as to his knowledge of any one who received the Liberty bonds mentioned in the resolution, or whether he had discussed any of the bond transactions with Sinclair, and other questions of similar character. He voluntarily testified in part, but refused to tell the whole truth, and a partial truth may be as misleading as a falsehood. These questions were clearly relevant to the inquiry and involved no question of privilege.

"They did not involve the private affairs of the witness and the witness cannot make such a claim on behalf of others for whom he does not appear to be acting in a representative capacity. But even such a ground would not be an excuse for failure to answer questions relevant to any matters which were the subject of proper inquiry.

"The writ of habeas corpus will be discharged and the petitioner remanded to the custody of the respondents."

Schuyler Testimony a Surprise.

The story of what Blackmer got out of the Continental deal came as a complete surprise to the committee. Mr. Schuyler said that on Jan. 24 last he had written Mr. Blackmer, who is in Paris, and urged him to cable permission to talk, pointing out that whether he remained silent or permitted the disclosure would make little difference, for "litigation seems to me unavoidable in any event." On Monday of this week Blackmer cabled from Paris to Schuyler:

"You are authorized to make statement for me."

Plaza Hotel, New York,
Jan. 24, 1928.

Dear H. M. B.:

The United States Senate has passed a resolution to investigate the uses and whereabouts of the Continental Trading Company's Liberty bonds. No doubt you have gathered this from the press reports.

This action, it seems to me, demands the most serious consideration by you of the policy of declaring your interest and position with reference to the bonds. In my own judgment it is not natural desire to avoid bringing litigation down upon you by disclosure of your definite position comparable with the importance of recognition of the demand for information emanating from this high source? Frankly, I do not think so. Litigation seems to me unavoidable in any event.

Do let me know how the idea appeals to you. I sincerely hope you will think it wise to make a statement or to authorize me to make a statement. I feel sure that a frank statement by you, or by me for you, of your position with reference to these bonds will go far toward clearing you of suspicions and false imputations. Of course I can not and will not speak without your consent.

Please consider carefully, and if favorably disposed suggest you cable me "You are authorized." If I do not receive this I will know you are not inclined and no cable will be necessary.

Mrs. Schuyler is with me and joins me in all kindest regards.

Sincerely yours,

EARL C. SCHUYLER.

Lent a Friend of Blackmer.

Facing Senator Walsh, Mr. Schuyler explained that he was a volunteer witness and said he wanted it distinctly understood that he had nothing, directly or indirectly to do with the organization or activities of the Continental Trading Company nor had he ever had any personal interest in any of the profits of that short-lived corporation.

He had known Blackmer all his life, said Mr. Schuyler. They were boys together in Colorado Springs and had practiced law at the same time in Denver. They have always been close friends and he is still Blackmer's friend and the custodian of the bonds that Blackmer obtained out of the resale millions of the Continental.

"In July of 1926," said the witness, "I received word from Mr. Blackmer that he was en route to Montreal, Canada, and that he hoped I might see my way clear to meet him there. I went to Montreal and was with Mr. Blackmer two or three days.

"Mr. Blackmer informed me that the chief reason why he had wanted me to come to Montreal was to advise him professionally concerning his position as to certain Liberty bonds which he had received for services in the purchase and re-sale of the Mexia and other Texas oil of the Humphreys companies in the so-called Continental Trading Company transaction.

"Before accepting the employment offered, I asked Mr. Blackmer whether to his knowledge the Continental Trading Company ever had any dealings with any public official of the United States; whether that company ever had any interest in the so-called Teapot lease, and, generally, whether any funds of or bonds purchased by that company had been used for any unlawful purpose.

Assurances From Blackmer.

"Mr. Blackmer answered in the most unequivocal manner that he had no such knowledge. I believed him then, and have had no subsequent reason to doubt the honesty or good faith of his answer."

Mr. Schuyler then said Mr. Blackmer stated to him that he preferred not to appear as a volunteer witness in the Teapot Dome civil case, that his testimony would expose his private affairs and tend to involve him in litigation.

"He informed me that the bonds were in a safe deposit box in the Equitable Trust Company, New York, held in the joint names of George E. Holmes and George Gordon Battle of the New York bar and of myself. To make that clear I wish to add a brief explanation. In November, 1925, the business which I had been attending to for Mr. Blackmer called me to New York for conference with Mr. Holmes.

"During this visit to New York Mr. Holmes advised me that there were certain packages of papers which Mr. Blackmer had placed with him as his attorney. Mr. Holmes stated that he preferred to have them placed in the custody of three attorneys rather than with himself alone, with the idea in mind that access to such papers would then be available to any two in case of the absence, incapacity or death of the third, and desired to know if I would be willing to join him and Mr. Battle in opening a safe deposit box in our joint names.

"This plan was agreed upon. At that time I did not inquire, nor was I informed, as to the fact that among the papers were the bonds herein discussed.

Counsel's Advice to Client.

"From a survey of the whole situation as it was disclosed to me by Mr. Blackmer, I advised him substantially as follows:

"That as to actions that might be brought by the Midwest Refining Company or by Standard Oil Company of Indiana, I felt quite clear on points of strength. He was neither officer nor director of Standard of Indiana, nor of Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company. Standard of Indiana had made no attempt to break down the separate corporate functions of Midwest. Midwest had nothing to do with the policies of Standard of Indiana. Midwest was not in the market for Texas oil. Midwest suffered in no way from the transaction.

"I also advised him that in my opinion it was doubtful whether he would incur any tax liability until he had definitely converted the property to his own use; that I thought he had shown wisdom and good faith in keeping the bonds intact."

Pittman Questions Schuyler.

Replying to a question by Senator Pittman of Nevada as to what he considered "matters of danger" in Blackmer's situation, Mr. Schuyler said:

"I view it as a situation where its title is under the likelihood of serious challenge, and has been."

Q.—Were you not interested in knowing just exactly what every step was that led up to these bonds being created and coming into his hands? A.—No, because it did not seem a question that was troubling him, which was his relationship to his own companies, the Midwest Refining Company rather, and the possibility of attack from the Ministry of Indiana.

Q.—You immediately told him that the Midwest Company had nothing to do with the deal? A.—No, I did not tell him that immediately. This was a matter of considerable discussion.

Q.—He came to you, sent for you, to ask your advice with regard to a matter that is now established that the bonds have been locked up in a safe deposit box for four or five years without any one's knowledge of where it was except you and Mr. Blackmer? A.—Mr. Holmes and Mr. Battle, yes.

Q.—There must have been some very serious reasons for such action, were these not? A.—None except what I have specified here.

Q.—Was it suggested to you by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, or by the Midwest Refining Company, just those two possible suits? A.—Those were the two possible suits I considered, and which he seemed to feel might be instituted.

Q.—And you advised him that in your opinion there was no foundation for such? A.—I advised him that I thought he would win. I thought he had the best of it and so advised him, but that there was a serious enough challenge to cause him, as a matter of prudence, to keep the fund intact.

Q.—It did not occur to you, nor did you discuss with Blackmer any possible suit by the stockholders of the Continental Trading Company or by the board of directors of a trustee of it in the event of dissolution? A.—It did not.

Q.—And neither of you seemed to be at all interested in whatever legal steps might have been taken to originally bring those bonds into his possession? A.—No.

Replying to questions by Senator Walsh, Mr. Schuyler insisted that Mr. Blackmer only told him the bonds came to him because of "services" in the Continental deal. He did not give him any details as to the nature of those "services."

Bankers Identify Bonds.

When the attorney left the witness chair he was followed by the bankers, among them N. G. Lenfestey of the National City; John Prentice of the Chase National, New York; E. D. Blaisdell of the First National, Boston; William H. Giles of the Continental Bank and Trust Company, Chicago; John A. Moon of Blair & Co., New York, and Harold W. Kentwell of the Sinclair-owned Hyva Corporation.

A study of the serial numbers of about $6,000,000 in Liberty bonds purchased for the Hyva Corporation disclosed that sixteen of them were Continentals, which had been in the O'Neil allotment. The theory is that other bonds were substituted for them when O'Neil made restitution to the Prairie company.

Mr. Lenfestey identified $215,000 Continental bonds which had been handled by that institution for O'Neil several years ago. The date of this transaction were disclosed at the suit in Cheyenne.

The next public session of the committee will begin Saturday morning.

ISLAM'S 30-DAY FAST OPENS.

But Turkey Honors It as Much in Breach as Observance Now.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 23.—The Moslem Lent, the thirty days' fast of Ramazan, began this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the midst of a blizzard.

Though opened with the traditional signal gun, the observance of the fast is now vastly different from the Caliphate times, when the police used to enforce prayers, fasting, non-smoking and non-drinking between sunrise and sunset.

Today the Government leaves these things to the individual conscience, but it continues selling special cigarettes, advertising its monopoly and erecting refreshment booths outside the mosques.

Ramadan is now honored as much in the breach as in the observance, though Islam remains the State religion.

DIPLOMATIC PUZZLE IN JOHN HAY'S NOTE

LETTER IN SECRET FILES

It Is Thought to Have Been Sent in Response to Overtures Hostile to Britain.

A secret note to an unidentified foreign Ambassador is the confidential papers of John Hay, Secretary of State under McKinley and Roosevelt, which the records of the State Department do not explain, has been found by Dr. Alfred L. P. Dennis, Professor of Modern History at Clark University.

While confessing his inability to solve the puzzle, Professor Dennis suggests in his "Adventures in American Diplomacy, 1896-1906," published today by E. P. Dutton & Co. that the note may have been addressed either to the Russian or the German Ambassador, and that it was in reply to overtures hostile to British interests during the Boer War.

This volume, treating of a decade of American foreign affairs, is based largely on unpublished material obtained from a study of the Olney papers, the Roosevelt papers at the Congressional Library, the unpublished papers of John Hay, and the archives of the Department of State.

Envoy Made Proposals.

The note in question was written on Jan. 4, 1900, after a visit to Mr. Hay by the foreign Ambassador whose identity has not been learned and who made certain proposals to the United States. The original of Mr. Hay's note seems to have been on the stationery of the Department of State. The copy found in the Hay secret file reads:

My dear Ambassador:

I have conversed with the President in regard to the matter mentioned between us this morning. As I anticipated, he feels that we are precluded by all our traditions from joining in any representations such as were suggested.

We are greatly gratified by such an evidence of His Imperial Majesty's confidence and esteem.

I need not say the matter will not be mentioned to any of my colleagues in the Government.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN HAY.

"This note, which I found among the Hay Papers (secret and confidential file)," says Professor Dennis in his book, "is a puzzle, nor can the Department of State cast any light, for they know nothing of the matter. There is no response to the papers of any of Mr. Hay's colleagues, for he invariably stated that he will not make the matter known to any of them, and unfortunately President McKinley did not keep a diary.

Thinks Russian More Likely.

"If it had not been that the German Ambassador had seen Secretary Hay only two days before, there might be reason to suspect him as the recipient. Two others are possible—the Austrian and the Russian Ambassadors. Of these it seems far more likely that the proposal should have come from the Russian Ambassador.

"The Russian Government had been anxious to promote mediation in October and November. Her partner, France, was at the end of December much inclined to accede to her suggestions and American-Russian relations were notably good at this time. Furthermore, in February these Russian suggestions were to be revived in Europe. On Feb. 2 the German Ambassador had another long interview with Secretary Hay in which the Secretary repeated much of what he had already said on Jan. 3, though in a very excited manner.

"Thus we are left in a fog as regards this note of Jan. 4 from Secretary Hay to a unidentified Ambassador. I make the suggestion that it was addressed to the Russian or possibly the German Ambassador and that it was in reply to overtures hostile to British interests. Some one else may yet complete the answer to this puzzle."

Professor Dennis also discusses Germany's preamble for territory after the Spanish-American War, quoting a telegram from the German Government to the German Ambassador in Washington to the effect that the Kaiser "considers it one of the main tasks of German policy not to allow any opportunity slip by for the acquisition of maritime footholds in Asia."

Washington Also Puzzled.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The secret note written by the late John Hay to an unidentified foreign Ambassador at Washington in 1900 is regarded in official quarters here as an important contribution to the annals of American diplomacy.

Officials of the State Department, after search of its archives, declared that they were unable to shed real light on the note. There is no record of it in the State Department's files.

Only Six Ambassadors There.

By processes of elimination, however, the note must have been written either to Herr von Holleben, the German Ambassador at Washington, or to Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador. Mr. Hay's note is addressed to "My Dear Ambassador." At that time there were only six Ambassadors in Washington. They were Lord Pauncefote of Preston, the British Ambassador; Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador; Baron de Fava, the Italian Ambassador; Count Cassini of Russia; Herr von Holleben of Germany, and Senor Don Manuel de Arpiroz, the Mexican Ambassador.

Japan had no Ambassador then, only a Minister in the person of Jutaro Komura, and the same was true of Austria-Hungary, whose Minister was Count de Lichtervelde. Except for a keynote phrase used elsewhere in Mr. Hay's secret note, it might have been written to any one of these six diplomats. But Mr. Hay referred to the gratification of Mr. McKinley and himself over "his Imperial Majesty's confidence and esteem." The use of the word "imperial" as used in diplomacy at that time, could refer only to the Emperor of Germany, the Czar of Russia or the Mikado of Japan, and Japan's representative was not an Ambassador.

The note, therefore, must have been addressed either to the German or the Russian Ambassador. And opinion in informed quarters is strongly inclined to the view that the Ambassador was Herr von Holleben.

The significance of the letter, it was agreed today, was to be found in Mr. Hay's statement to the Ambassador—whether it was von Holleben or Cassini—that President McKinley felt "precluded by all our traditions from joining in any representations such as were suggested," and there was a disposition to think that it related probably to the Delagoa Bay cases which then constituted one of the liveliest matters of discussion between the German and British Governments. A German mail steamer and several other German vessels had been seized by a British cruiser in Delagoa Bay on suspicion of carrying arms and provisions to the Boers. Two German warships started for the scene, and on Jan. 4, the date of the Hay letter, American Ambassador Choate visited Lord Salisbury, then British Prime Minister, in London, to protest the seizures of American flour supposedly sent to the same destination.

Important questions of "contraband" and "continuous" voyage were raised and discussed in interesting correspondence between Germany and Great Britain at that time growing out of the seizure and detention of these steamers, at least one of which was suspected of carrying Dutch and German officers and recruits for the Boers.

Search of the vessels disclosed no contraband, but meantime it is considered quite possible that an attempt was made to have the United States join in a protest against the seizures. In the absence of all data, however, this is at best a conjecture.

BOMBED TEACHER SOBS AS REED FACES COURT

Young Illinois Farmer Asserts He Will Not Offer Marriage Until Acquitted.

OTTAWA, Ill., Feb. 23 (AP).—Hiram Reed heard with apparent unconcern today the State outline its case against him, at the opening of his trial on a charge of bombing the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse. A few feet from him his former sweetheart, Miss Iola Bradford, her face stained by the explosion of the dynamite the State accuses Reed of placing in the stove at the school, sat sobbing.

The young farmer, through his lawyers, declared he would deny his guilt on the witness stand and would not offer to marry Miss Bradford until he had been acquitted. The State asserts Reed tried to avoid marriage by causing her death by placing dynamite in the school where she taught.

Twenty-three of Miss Bradford's former pupils were waiting in an anteroom to testify regarding the explosion. Only one was in the school when the explosion occurred and she was not hurt. The others were in the schoolyard.

State's Attorney Hanson said the bombing was the most atrocious crime ever perpetrated in the county. He won a point against the defense counsel when Judge Frank Hayes permitted him to tell the jury of Miss Bradford's approaching motherhood. It was for the purpose, he said, of establishing a motive.

George Spreuger, chief defense counsel, said he would prove that Reed did not place the dynamite in the stove and that he did not confess to so doing. He said the defense would show the dynamite was put in the stove by those who hoped to find out during the trial.

MENACED BY BOMB GANG.

Chicago Police Deputy Is Closely Guarded From Assassination.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24 (AP).—William H. O'Connor, Deputy Commissioner of Police, said today that his life had been threatened in retaliation for the police campaign against bomb terrorists.

He said that word had come out in gangland to "get" him, and that as a result a nightly police search for an ambuscade is made at a stretch of prairie near O'Connor's home.

He is constantly under guard.

FIRE SLAYER ADMITS KILLING GOVERNESS

tine and the Cities Service bonds which the murderer had returned, but they knew of no others. The slayer's story that he had thrown other "stuff" away could not be verified. A pond near the place where the murder was committed was dragged on the supposition that it might be the brook referred to by the murderer, but nothing was found. Realization of the difficulty of selling the bonds or changing the $500 bill without attracting suspicion might have been factors in the murderer's determination to return the stolen property.

The letter is believed to be correct in describing the murderer as a medical student. The man whom Miss Brown was in the habit of meeting was known as "Doctor" or "Doc." A friend of the dead woman told the police that she believed that the last name was "Huff" or "Hoff," but she was not sure either of the pronunciation or spelling.

The statement of the slayer that he had knocked the woman unconscious with a blow over the head does not agree with the autopsy report. No external wounds were found. It was believed that she had been drugged and while unconscious was drenched with gasoline and set afire.

Coin Still a Mystery.

In spite of the weird manner in which the murderer projected his personality into the affair by his letter, the case remained about as much of a mystery as before and quite as far from solution. The only practical help the latter and the bonds might be is that of furnishing finger-prints. Detectives at New York Police Headquarters declined to say whether the documents had been of any benefit in this regard. The handwriting was not useful as a clue, because the letters were constructed by pencil in imitation of type. The letter established that "Huff" if that is his name, was in New York on Wednesday, but that is of slight value, in view of the fact that he could have covered several hundred miles since then in his automobile.

The murder was casual and unpremeditated, according to the narrative in the letter, but this does not seem to accord with other known facts. Miss Brown had given up her employment with the James P. Gillespie family at 1,105 Park Avenue. She deceived the Gillespies as to her plans, telling them that she was going to California to nurse a sick sister. She deceived her own relatives, telling them she was going South with the Gillespies. She drew all her money from her bank and obtained her Bonds from her brokers. She packed two trunks and checked them for California. Undoubtedly she was contemplating one more momentous step. Her elaborate arrangements do not accord with the murderer's story of a chance automobile ride, a drinking party, an unexpected struggle and an accidental killing.

Miss Brown was alone when she withdrew her bonds from Harris, Forbes & Co. on Monday. She was alone when she called on her niece, Miss Mary Brown, on Monday. No one who knew her saw her on Monday in company with the man who later drove her to the place on the Morristown - Bernardsville road, where her body was found burning.

Employers Know Nothing of Man.

Mr. Gillespie denied yesterday a story that Miss Brown had been requested by his family not to meet her friend near their home. He said that neither he, his wife nor his children knew anything about her meeting with a man, and that they were absolutely unable to assist the police in any way. He said they had believed Miss Brown's story that she was going to California to nurse a sick sister and felt no skepticism on the subject. They had no idea that anything was wrong until Mrs. Gillespie read an elaborate account of the dress and appearance of the woman who had been burned, causing her to jump to the conclusion that the dead woman was Miss Brown.

Ferdinand J. Brown of Fort Lee, N. J., brother of Miss Brown, said yesterday that he had been skeptical of the anonymous letter describing the crime, but would be convinced that the author was the murderer if the bonds proved to be those of Miss Brown.

"I was interested," he said, "in the part of the letter where the writer said that he would continue on until his money gave out and then intimated that he would end his life because of remorse.

"My wife has written my sister, who is ill in California, breaking the news as gently as possible to her."

The body of the murdered woman will be buried this afternoon at the Bayview Cemetery, Fairview, N. J.

Hunt Made in Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—The search for the slayer of Miss Margaret Brown turned to Albany today when Ernest G. Duncan, 21 years old, a taxi driver of Lynbrook, L. I., told how two men, whom he drove to Albany from New York, latch stole his taxi. The police recovered the taxi where it had been abandoned and are now checking up the story.

Duncan said that on the journey the two men frequently discussed the murder. He said that on Wednesday afternoon he was in Lynbrook and was hailed by a man who asked him to drive him to New York. Duncan drove the man to 126th Street and Third Avenue, where they were joined by another man. The two men told him to drive to Yonkers and later directed him to proceed to Albany. He said they pointed a gun at him. They reached Albany about 10:30 o'clock, he said, and he was forced to leave his car. Duncan described the men to the police. Later he left for Windham, Greene County.

VOIDS DRY SEARCH ON 'SMELL WARRANT'

New Orleans Federal Judge Holds Direct Information of Liquor Sale Essential for Raids.

QUASHES FORFEITURE SUIT

Refuses to Confiscate Residence Where Still Was Found When Agents Smelled Brew.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23.—The use of "smell warrants" for the search of private homes was condemned by Federal Judge Louis H. Burns in a decision handed down today in which he sustained a motion to quash the forfeiture proceedings brought against the residence of Giuseppe Cangemi. The Court held that direct information of the sale of liquor was essential to a search warrant.

Prohibition agents have hitherto obtained search warrants for private dwellings on their affidavits that they were able to smell liquor being manufactured.

The raid on the home of Cangemi occurred on Oct. 26. A still was found on the premises and Government agents filed a motion to forfeit the entire building under the terms of the law.

Cangemi's attorney filed a motion to quash the proceedings on the ground that the search warrant was illegally obtained and that Cangemi's home was a "home" in fact and not a business.

Judge Burns in his decision concluded that "the use of the so-called smell warrants should no longer be countenanced. He said:

"On the face of the affidavit for the search warrant in its material part it appears plainly that the affiant could not swear to the first specific consideration required by the statute, namely, that the private dwelling occupied as such was being used for the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor. It therefore resorted to swearing to his own positive conclusion that it was used in part for business purposes, to wit, the manufacture of liquor.

"The myopia peculiar to officious zeal is necessary to bestow serious consideration on that conclusion. The least careful observer of average intelligence knows how difficult it is for the sense of smell to detect the source of emanation of an odor, and knows that vegetable matter in the process of boiling or cooking smells identically, whether the cooking be for food or beverage purposes and whether the cooking proceeds within a city dwelling or on a farm for stock feed.

"The fact still remains that a manufacturing operation in the production of whisky, wine or beer in a dwelling does not convert that house into a distillery, brewery or vineyard. This disposes of the sole question presented here for decision."

BRUMBY OFF ON A CRUISE.

Leaves Canal Zone Without Telling Whether He Was Recalled.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, Feb. 23.—Although news of the prospective recall of Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby to the United States in connection with further investigation into the sinking of the submarine S-4 was published here this morning, the Admiral sailed at 11 o'clock aboard the flagship Camden for the Perlas Islands, where the Control Force and the submarines are carrying out a practice cruise and manoeuvres.

It is not known whether Admiral Brumby has received orders from Secretary Wilbur to report in the United States, but the Camden is expected to return to Balboa in a few days.

Rear Admiral M. M. Christy, Commandant of the Fifteenth Naval District, said did not know whether Admiral Brumby had received orders to return to the United States. He explained that he had nothing to do with the control force, which at present is under the command of Admiral Brumby.

Presents Medal to Radio.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—President Coolidge awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor today to Thomas Radio, chief gunner's mate, U. S. N., in recognition of his work on the sunken submarine S-4 and in rescuing another diver whose air hose had become fouled. The presentation was made in the White House grounds. Secretary Wilbur read the citation and President Coolidge conferred the medal in the presence of high ranking naval officers.

LONGWORTH OPPOSES INCREASE IN THE HOUSE

He Urges Reapportionment of the Present Membership on Basis of the 1930 Census.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Speaker Longworth is opposed to any increase in the size of the House beyond its present membership of 435, and is of the opinion that legislation providing for reapportionment should be framed with this idea in view. He so expressed himself in a letter addressed to Chairman Fenn of the House Census Committee, which is considering bills on reapportionment.

"May I be permitted," Mr. Longworth wrote in part, "to express my sincere hope that a bill ma ybe reported substantially the same as the bill introduced by yourself, which was acted upon in the House during the last session—that is to say, a bill maintaining the House at its present size, with reapportioning the members among the different States on the basis of the coming 1930 Federal census?

"I am entirely opposed to any increase in the present size of the House. The average increase of population of the United States for the past sixty or seventy years, as I understand it, has been such as to justify an increase in the membership of the House, on the basis that no State should lose any of its Representatives, by about fifty every ten years. Upon this basis the membership of the House, apportioned under the 1930 census, would be increased to, probably, as many as 540.

"Of course it is hard for some States to lose Representatives and hard, too, for members to give up their seats, but it seems to me that Congress is subject to legitimate criticism for having failed to act for some years, and that we ought no longer deny to the communities where large increases of population have occurred the right to the proportionate representation guaranteed to them by the Constitution."

CUBA OFFERS TO RAISE THE PARCEL POST LIMIT

Would Also Approve C. O. D. Service if We Admit Cigars in Lots of Less Than 3,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Willingness on the part of Cuba to meet the United States more than half way in the parcel post controversy was seen by many today, when Havana informed the Post Office Department that it would agree to a twenty-two pound limit on parcel post packages instead of the existing eleven-pound limit and that it would also approve of the C. O. D. service, for which the United States has been striving for many years.

Hugo Hartenstein, President of the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba, called to W. I. Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, today, taking exception to certain statements credited to Representative Henry D. Rainey of Illinois in connection with the parcel post situation.

Mr. Rainey was reported as stating before the Rules Committee that Cuba would maintain its modus vivandi extending the life of the parcel post convention between the republic and the United States after March 1.

Mr. Hartenstein's cablegram denied this and declares that the modus vivandi will expire on March 1 if Congress fails to enact legislation before that date permitting the importation from Cuba of cigars in lots of less than 3,000.

Cuba notified the Post Office Department to that effect last week.

SENATE QUERIES COOLIDGE.

It Wants to Know If 'National Origins' Quota Basis Is Being Revised.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—President Coolidge was asked in a resolution passed by the Senate today whether the "national origins" figures, intended to be used as a basis for immigration quotas, were being revised and when they would be sent to the Senate. The resolution, introduced by Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, was passed without roll-call.

On Jan. 6, 1927, the President sent the Senate a letter containing estimates made up by the Secretaries of State, Commerce and Labor, but a week later another letter was sent saying the figures in the first communication were not supported by reasonable documentary evidence.

Much opposition arose concerning the original figures on the ground that if these were used as a basis for immigration quotas the number of immigrants from Great Britain and the North of Ireland would be materially increased, whereas those from the Irish Free State, Scandinavia and Germany would be reduced.

80 VOTES FOR HOOVER PREDICTED IN STATE

Mills Finds There Is No Sentiment for Others as 40 Delegates Are Slated.

SAYS 38 FAVOR SECRETARY

Backers Sure He Will Be Strong in City—New York County Group May Be Picked Today.

SHOW-DOWN ON MARCH 9

Prospective Delegates Will Then Have an Opportunity to Declare Their Preference.

With candidates for delegates to the Republican National Convention virtually slated from every county in the State except Albany and New York, Ogden L. Mills, Under Secretary of the Treasury, declared yesterday that from thirty-eight to forty of these delegates favored the nomination of Secretary Hoover for President. Mr. Mills predicted that at least eighty of New York's ninety delegates would be for Mr. Hoover by the time the convention opened at Kansas City on June 12.

"There is no sentiment for any candidate but Hoover," said Mr. Mills. "I believe the delegates ultimately will be influenced by this sentiment and will properly represent their districts at the convention. What will they do when the delegates learn that President Coolidge will not run for re-election? The delegates from New York State can't be delivered by any one. The election law prevents their instruction and all talk of it being an uninstructed delegation is just hokum and is the talk that the delegation can be delivered to this or that candidate."

Mr. Mills made his prediction following a conference of Hoover supporters at the headquarters of the New York State Hoover-for-President Committee, 11 West Forty-second Street. Others in the conference were former Representative William H. Hill of Binghamton, Chairman of the committee, and Richard W. Lawrence and Meier Steinbrink, who are leading the Hoover campaign in New York City.

Strength in City Seen.

It was learned that the Hoover campaign managers had checked over the list of prospective delegates carefully and were satisfied that Mr. Hoover would have much greater strength in New York City than was generally believed. For example, it was said that he would have the support of nine of the sixteen Congressional district delegates from Brooklyn.

State Chairman George K. Morris will issue a call for a meeting of the Republican State Committee at the National Republican Club at noon on Friday, March 9, and the first opportunity for a show-down on delegate strength will come then. By that time the time for filing designations for delegates to be chosen at the primary election on April 3 will have been passed and prospective delegates, who have refrained up to the present time declaring for any particular candidate, will then feel more free to declare themselves. It was said, since by that time no other candidates can enter the primaries to run against them.

The main purpose of the State Committee meeting will be the election of delegates-at-large and alternates-at-large, but there will be opportunity to transact any other business that may be brought before the committee. The organization slate for delegates-at-large, which was approved by the committee, as County Chairmen at Schenectady, remains unchanged, but it is expected that a formal protest against the selection of former Senator James W. Wadsworth will be made at the meeting by several women's prohibition organizations.

Candidates Agreed On.

The list of organization candidates for delegates, so far as agreed upon, follows:

Delegates-at-large: Charles D. Hilles, Vice Chairman of the Republican National Committee; State Chairman George K. Morris, Cornelius F. Kelly, James W. Wadsworth, Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin and Miss Florence Ward Watts.

FIRST DISTRICT—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

SECOND DISTRICT—Joseph H. De Bragga, Mrs. Eva Schumacher.

FOURTH DISTRICT—Charles Dewey, Harold Turk.

SEVENTH DISTRICT—Clarence Donovan, J. Lipowitz.

EIGHTH DISTRICT—John F. Fanning.

TENTH DISTRICT—Charles G. Lockwood.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT—Chauncey M. Depew, Or. J. Sharrett.

TWENTIETH DISTRICT—Ogden L. Mills.

TWENTY-SECOND DISTRICT—A. D. Bruner, Richard W. Lawrence.

TWENTY-FIFTH DISTRICT—William E. Hall, Eugene Boyd.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DISTRICT—Collector of the Port Philip Eiting.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT, Albany County—Not yet selected.

THIRTIETH DISTRICT—Cyrus Durey.

THIRTY-SECOND DISTRICT—McGregor Phillips, Henry J. Mitchell.

THIRTY-FOURTH DISTRICT—William H. Hill, Representative John D. Clarke.

FORTIETH DISTRICT—Edward H. Butler, Paul R. Schaellkopf.

FORTY-FIRST DISTRICT—George Urban, Harry Knapper.

May Pick Group Here Today.

Several difficulties have prevented the selection of the New York County delegates, but Chairman Samuel S. Koenig said they probably would be decided upon today. Mr. Mills, it was learned, will go as a delegate from Representative F. H. LaGuardia's district, with Mr. LaGuardia as an alternate. There has been great difficulty in the Nineteenth Congressional District, home of Mr. Mills, and it was said that the probable delegates would be Keyes Einter, Republican leader of the Fifteenth Assembly District, and former State Senator Nathaniel A. Elsberg. Attorney General Albert Ottinger and Deputy Attorney General Oliver B. James, Treasurer of the county committee, probably will go as delegates from same other district.

SMITH GIVES THANKS TO QUEENS DEMOCRATS

Endorsement for Presidency Brings Nearest Statement From Him of Candidacy.

Mason O. Smedley, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Queens County Democratic Committee, made public yesterday a letter from Governor Smith thanking the Queens Democratic organization for adoption of a resolution endorsing the Governor's candidacy for the Presidential nomination and instructing the Queens delegates to vote for him at the Democratic National Convention. The Governor's letter, which comes the nearest to definitely announcing his candidacy of anything he has said or written in the present campaign, follows:

My Dear Chairman:

I am deeply appreciative of your communication to me acquainting me with the action taken by the Democratic organization of Queens County in the adoption of resolutions. Will you kindly extend to the officers and members my thanks and best wishes.

With kind personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

ALFRED E. SMITH.

Mr. Smedley said the letter spoke for itself and added that he intended to send a photostatic copy of it to each member of the Executive Committee. At the same meeting at which it adopted the resolution endorsement the committee chose Mr. Smedley and Commissioner of Markets Bernard Patterson as delegates, and failed to name Borough President Maurice E. Connolly, against whom charges are pending before a commissioner appointed by the Governor.

SMITH'S SISTER HONORED.

Mrs. Mary A. Glynn Is Guest of Women Democrats in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Mary A. Glynn, the sister of Governor Smith, was the guest of honor last evening at a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club of the Twenty-first Assembly District, held at the clubhouse, 74 Linden Boulevard, Brooklyn. Mrs. Mary F. O'Malley, co-leader of the district, introduced her, and amid the applause of the club Mrs. Glynn arose.

"I have never made a political speech in my life," she said. "I leave all that to another member of the family. I wish to thank you all, however, for inviting me here."

The other address on the program was by Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Byrne, who spoke on the meaning and value of citizenship.

CAPPER SAYS WEST MUST GET SPEEDY AID

OTHER EXPERTS JOIN PLEA

Dr. Butterfield of Michigan Backs Columbia Research Project at Country Life Dinner.

The plight of the American farmer was analyzed last night at the Country Life Dinner, held in the International House Auditorium, Riverside Drive at 124th Street, in commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Roosevelt Commission on Country Life. The dinner was held under the auspices of Columbia University and the American Country Life Association, with President Nicholas Murray Butler of the university presiding, and with Liberty Hyde Bailey, Chairman of the Roosevelt Commission, and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as the guests of honor.

Three speakers, United States Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, Kenyon L. Butterfield, President of the Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, and Henry Israel, former Secretary of the American Country Life Association, all agreed that the American farmer's life was not free of hardships. They listed his struggles to obtain a good income, his fight to keep his children on the farm and his lack of opportunity to gain the best in education and opportunities for his offspring in rural communities.

Pays High for Necessities.

"The kernel of the whole agricultural problem," said Senator Capper, "is in the difference between the value of what a farmer sells and what he buys. The situation is this: the things that a farmer sells bring 34 per cent. more than before the war, but the average selling price of commodities which the farmer must buy is 59 per cent. higher than before the war."

"Expressed in another way," Senator Capper went on, "the farmer's dollar is worth about 85 cents, while the rest of us have a dollar with an exchange value of 100 cents.

"Although farming is the nation's biggest business; although the farmer has more capital invested in plant and equipment than has any other industry, he has not had a fair return nor has he had a fair chance in the last five years."

Senator Capper declared that last year the farmer got about $10,000,000,000 for his products, while the consumer paid $30,000,000,000 for the same products. The rest went to the middlemen, he said.

Big Profit for Middleman.

"The spread between producer and consumer," Senator Capper continued, "was entirely too great. That affects all of us. In this country the producer receives one-third of the consumer's dollar; in other countries, Denmark, for example, he gets two-thirds."

According to Senator Capper the farmer's earnings have shrunk from $1,870 as an average to $648 a year, "which means 30 cents an hour wages for himself and a team of horses. That is a startling contrast to conditions in other lines of business."

In prescribing for the farmer Senator Capper declared that "the West has waited patiently for the same degree of legislative assistance and relief that the Government nearly always has extended to the industrial East. But the West cannot wait forever. The people on the farms demand a fair return for their labor. They are entitled to it. They must have it."

"I am of the opinion," the Senator went on, "that legislation will not solve all of the farmer's problems. A carefully worked out system of cooperative marketing will probably do more. Yet the farmer can be helped in Washington."

Theodore Roosevelt, the late President, was praised by Senator Capper as he was by other speakers at the dinner. "Many years before most of his contemporaries, he perceived that the people of rural America were economically handicapped. He foresaw the farm crisis long before it became an actuality," said Senator Capper.

Takes Up Columbia Project.

Dr. Butterfield, speaking on "Possible Contributions of Columbia University and of the American Country Life Association to Rural Welfare," urged for farmers "the securing of a more efficient distribution system, and a closer correlation between consumer and producers, so that the total farm enterprise will approximate some sort of order and system." He said the first thing to be done in the "statesmanship of agriculture" was to ascertain the world's need for food and soil grown products.

Mr. Israel outlined the scope and activities of the American Country Life Association. "We are here tonight," he said, "frankly to challenge the greatest port of entry to the greatest raw material producing nation in the world to assume its place to bring justice and equity to those of our fellow citizens who have carried the load of our lives on their backs in order to make industry, commerce and finance the success it has achieved in the world."

2,150 IN REPUBLICAN CLUB.

President Desmond Says It Now Is Largest in the State.

At the monthly dinner of the Young Republican Club, in the grill room of the National Republican Club last night, Thomas C. Desmond, President, announced that the membership was now 2,150, which made it the largest Republican club in the State. Mr. Desmond announced the committee appointments for the coming year, of which the Chairmen will be:

Advisory Board, Kenneth M. Spence; executive, Horace G. Hitchcock; Americanization, J. Henry Smythe Jr.; auditing, Lawrence W. Aldrich; campaign, J. Edward Lumbard Jr.; city affairs, Archie O. Dawson; civil service, Nicholas Mortimer Kraus; employment, D. Jerome O'Connor; entertainment, Samuel C. Coleman; finance, Charles G. Wray; law, Herman F. Stichman; membership, Lowell Wadmond; national affairs, C. Dickerman Williams; publication, William Bradford; press, Victor House; speakers, Aaron Benanson, and State affairs, William E. Stevenson.

CAPPER BELITTLES CHANCES FOR SMITH

Senator Agrees, However, That Governor's Nomination Would Raise the Dry Issue.

CALLS HIM WEAK IN WEST

He Regards Curtis as Logical Man to Carry on the Policies of Coolidge's Administration.

If Governor Smith is nominated as Democratic candidate for President, prohibition probably will be the dominant issue of the campaign, as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler has predicted, especially in the Eastern States, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas declared yesterday afternoon. He was interviewed at the headquarters of the club favoring the nomination of Senator Curtis of Kansas as Republican candidate for President, at 233 West Fifty-second Street.

"But Al Smith would not carry a State west of the Mississippi River," said Senator Capper, "and I don't think he has a chance of election. In the States of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and some others, Governor Smith undoubtedly would be a real contender for the place, but in the West and Middle West he would be very weak.

"I don't think the country is going to take a chance on a change of parties," continued the Senator. "I think that the people feel safe under Republican control. No matter whom the Republicans put up, the people are going to think a long time before turning over the affairs of this country to a party that has no record to commend itself. I think the record of the Republican Party under President Coolidge is its greatest recommendation at this time.

"Senator Curtis has had a big part in the shaping of this program in the last eight years, which is to his credit. It has shown he is sound, level-headed, and courageous. He knows the business of this Government as few other men in the country. I know of no man who could take up the work where Mr. Coolidge leaves off and carry on in a surer way than Mr. Curtis."

Speaking of Dr. Butler, Senator Capper said he went "with him very strongly" on a number of issues, but that he was absolutely opposed to the former's recommendation for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"I do not think there's the slightest chance for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," he continued, "or any change of the Volstead act, at least in this Congress, which is overwhelmingly dry. We are not for many years going to see any backward step, or what I call a backward step, on the prohibition question."

Joseph Steinberg, former New York Assemblyman, Treasurer of the Curtis-for-President Club, announced that the New York and Eastern headquarters of the club had been definitely established at 233 West Fifty-second Street.

FILE FOR SMITH IN MICHIGAN

Democratic Leaders Indicate a Solid Delegation for Him.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 23.—Petitions bearing nearly 7,500 signatures were filed today with the Secretary of State placing in nomination the name of Governor Smith of New York as the Democratic candidate for President in the Michigan primary election to be held April 2.

The petitions were filed by a committee of Detroiters, consisting of William M. Donnelly, Roscoe B. Huston, Andred S. Baird, Patrick Keating and Chester Martin.

The committee today indicated that only Governor Smith's name will be on the Democratic ballot and that Michigan's delegation to the National Convention will be a solid one for the New York Governor. Governor Smith is the first candidate to qualify for the Presidential contest in Michigan. Petitions qualifying Secretary Hoover and former Governor Lowden on the Republican ticket are expected soon.

CORRESPONDENT IN RACE.

Louis Ludlow Seeks a Seat in Congress From Indiana.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Louis Ludlow, former President of the National Press Club and Washington correspondent for Indiana papers more than thirty years, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Seventh Indiana District, embracing Marion County, of which Indianapolis is the seat.

Mr. Ludlow began his newspaper career as a reporter for The Indianapolis Sun in 1892. He has found time during his newspaper work to write three books, "From Cornfield to Press Gallery," a book of personal recollections; "In the Heart of Hoosierland," a story intended to commemorate the achievements of the Indiana pioneers, and "Senator Solomon Spitfiddle," a political satire designed to expose "hokum" and "bunkum" in the public service.

HOOVER ENDORSES PROHIBITION LAW

Borah's Reaction Is Awaited.

Considerable attention will undoubtedly be given by close students of the Hoover letter to his reference to the questionnaire method adopted by Senator Borah, with the statement that confusion, rather than clarity is likely to result.

The four questions asked of Mr. Hoover by Senator Borah, in substance, were:

Was he in favor of including a plank in the Republican platform declaring for the Eighteenth Amendment and sincere enforcement of the Volstead act? What would be his attitude toward prohibition and enforcement if he were elected President? Was he in favor of modification by letting the States decide for themselves individually what alcohol content should be considered intoxicating? Was he in favor of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment or Volstead act?

In view of the declared intention of Mr. Borah to force the issue along the lines of his questions, it was regarded as possible that he might assail the failure of Mr. Hoover to answer specifically whether a party dry plank should be adopted and whether he believed a State should decide for itself what alcoholic content is intoxicating.

Captain Stayton's Comment.

Captain Stayton, in his comment, said:

"Mr. Hoover's statement that it is the duty of a President to enforce the law efficiently, vigorously and sincerely is, perhaps, in view of all the facts, the severest implied criticism that an Cabinet officer ever made, directed at his President.

"It is not conceivable that the Democrats will fail to take advantage of the magnificent opportunities opened by this statement in the event that Mr. Hoover wins the Republican nomination.

"At least one eminent Republican, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, has seen the handwriting on the wall. In his address of yesterday he warned Republicans that continuance of the party's straddling policy would be fatal. Apparently he was not convinced Mr. Hoover's statement would help.

The Anti-Saloon League withheld comment, but indicated that something might be said tomorrow.

WATSON IS ENDORSED BY INDIANA PARTY

Backed for President by State Republican Committee and Entered in May Primary.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23 (AP).—The candidacy of Senator James E. Watson for the Republican nomination for President received the endorsement of the Republican State Committee at a meeting here today, preliminary to a love feast in support of Senator Watson tonight.

In addition, a petition bearing 15,000 signatures was filed with the Secretary of State asking that Senator Watson's name be placed on the ballot as a candidate for Presidential preferment at the primary on May 8.

Representative Albert H. Vestal of the Eighth Indiana District made the principal address before several hundred Republicans at tonight's banquet, in which he extolled the long public record of Senator Watson.

M. Burt Thurman, national campaign manager for the Senator, announced that it all probability Mr. Watson's name would be entered in the West Virginia primary and possibly in the Ohio primary. The question of entering the Ohio primary will be decided at a conference Mr. Thurman plans to hold with Senator Watson in Washington within a few days, he said.

Mr. Watson, his manager said, had made tentative plans to make six or seven speeches in various parts of the country in furtherance of his candidacy.

Following a speech by Chairman E. Fay Kitselman in praise of Senator Watson the State Committee adopted a resolution endorsing the Indiana Senator as a candidate for the Presidential nomination and invited Republicans of the nation to support him.

The committee refused to accede to two requests from Republican editors of the State that it demand the resignation of Governor Ed Jackson.

N. Y. U. DEAN ACCEPTS CALL TO EDINBURGH

Dr. Kendall Will Succeed His Old Teacher, Sir James Walker, as Chemistry Professor There.

Professor James Kendall, Dean of the New York University Graduate School since March, 1927, has accepted the Chair of Chemistry at the University of Edinburgh, it was announced yesterday. Dean Kendall's resignation from N. Y. U. will take effect at the end of the academic year. He will succeed his old teacher, Professor Sir James Walker of Edinburgh.

Dean Kendall, who was born in Surrey, England, and studied at Edinburgh, was for several years Professor of Chemistry at Columbia University and was called to the Chair of Chemistry in the Washington Square College of New York University in 1923.

His research work in physical chemistry won him much attention and led to his nomination a year ago as a Fellow of the Royal Society of London. He has written several works on chemistry, including "College Chemistry Companion," 1924, and "Intermediate Chemistry Companion," 1925. He edited and revised the texts of many works of Professor Alexander Smith, with whom he was associated for several years. During the World War he served as a liaison officer with the Allied forces, devoting himself to the study of naval gas warfare.

When Dean Kendall goes to Edinburgh he will have the benefit of a $35,000 bequest from the estate of James Sanderson, which is to be applied to the advancement of technical and scientific research in the chemistry and engineering branches of the university's Faculty of Science.

SEES IOWA FOR SMITH.

Stack Says He Will Have Vote Over Meredith as "Favorite Son."

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 23 (AP).—United States Senator Dan Steck today predicted that Iowa Democrats would support Governor Smith of New York for the Presidency at the National Convention at Houston this Summer. He reached the conclusion, he said, after a careful survey of the "favorite son" sentiment behind Edwin T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, and after a three-days' conference with his party leaders from all parts of the State.

Senator Steck on Monday was chosen to act as temporary Chairman and "keynote" speaker at the Democratic State Convention, April 20, when the Iowa delegation to the National Convention will be chosen.

"The Democratic Party," Senator Steck said, "can win in this year's Presidential contest if it will avoid the petty difficulties that have hampered its effectiveness in the past few elections.

"In the East and portions of the South and West the Democrats seem agreed that if Governor Al Smith retains his present strength until the convention he can easily be nominated and would have an excellent chance of being elected."

WOMEN DEMOCRATS WANT SMITH NAMED

Union Asserts That Presidential Candidate Has Record of Courage in Office.

PLANKS WILL BE DRAFTED

Resolution Asks State Officers of Party to Get Permission for Convention Action.

That the Democratic State Committee ask Governor Smith to permit the presentation of his name to the National Democratic Convention as a candidate for President was urged in a resolution adopted unanimously yesterday afternoon at a special meeting of the Women's Democratic Union, Inc., at the home of Mrs. Montgomery Hare, 108 East Sixty-fourth Street. Fifty women attended the meeting, which was followed by a tea.

In endorsing Governor Smith the union said in its resolution that the organization "believes that the party's standard bearer should be one whose unbroken record of courage, honesty, fidelity to public trust and genius in leadership are a guarantee of his ability to meet the national issues of the hour in the same spirit of fearlessness and integrity.

"We therefore urge upon the Democratic State Committee that at the proper time it request Governor Alfred E. Smith to permit the presentation of his name to the National Democratic Convention as a candidate for President of the United States."

In addition to Mrs. Blair the officers of the union are:

Vice Chairmen, Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Montgomery Hare, Mrs. David F. Houston and Mrs. Henry Mottet; Secretary, Mrs. Anna O'Hagan Shinn; Treasurer, Mrs. Abram I. Elkus; directors, Miss Amey Aldrich, Mrs. Norman H. Davis, Miss Martha Dexter, Mrs. William T. Emmet, Mrs. Alfred E. Hess, Miss A. J. G. Perkins, Miss Virginia Potter and Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb.

DUCE LOWERS CLOTH PRICES

He Sets Retail Figures at $2.10 to 70 Cents a Meter.

ROME, Feb. 23 (AP).—Cheaper cloth will soon be available in all of Italy at Premier Mussolini's instigation.

Eight categories of cloth, six of which are all wool and two a combination of wool and cotton, will be put on the market at retail prices ranging roughly from $2.10 to 70 cents a meter (a little more than a yard).

These prices, a Government communication says, are lower than any pre-war prices, taking into consideration the lira's present valuation.

FRENCH CUT TARIFF ON FARM MACHINES

3 TRADE TREATIES RATIFIED

France Also Signs New Commercial Agreements With Germany and Belgium.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Two tariff concessions, involving an annual saving of many thousands of dollars, have just been made by France on all classes of agricultural machinery imported by this country from the United States.

At the same time the French further developed their own export trade system by signing two new commercial accords today with Belgium and Germany and ratifying existing accords signed during the last few months with Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

The concessions to the United States are in the form of amendments to the new tariff measure now before Parliament. The first relates to American tractors, of which there are more than 20,000 users in France alone. The second applies to all other kinds of farm implements, which are brought in to an aggregate of more than 50,000,000 francs yearly.

Nearly $500,000 worth of American tractors have been held up in French ports since last Fall, pending settlement of a definite tariff. The French suddenly applied a 45 per cent. ad valorem duty on tractors, which amounts to about 5,000 francs per machine, thereby making their sale in France practically impossible. The new Poincaré tariff bill registered a small reduction, and now this duty has been further reduced to 270 francs per 100 kilos or about 3,300 francs per tractor. Under this arrangement sales may be resumed at once on a favorable competitive basis with French or German machines.

As regards other farm machinery, the concession is considered by American officials as an important one. It provides that all farm implements "entering France by sea" will pay on net weight instead of gross, as at present. The old system left American products at a disadvantage with German and Belgian machines.

Belgians Yield to French.

For example, American machines must be heavily packed while European machines can be shipped in comparatively light boxes. Thus a plow arriving here from the United States weighs 100 kilos plus 30 kilos for packing. European plows, including packing, weighed but 110 kilos. Duties on each have been paid on the total weights.

On the export side Belgium in the new accord has, after long resistance, partly yielded to French demands for favorable tariffs on silks, wines and automobiles. By the agreement with Germany the tariff situation between Germany and the Saar Basin is defined in an exact manner which permits the importation into the Saar of certain German products duty free and the export from the Saar of minerals, glass and pottery under similar conditions.

These and the other accords ratified today form part of a system which France is building up for the assurance of the prosperity of her export trade. In each case preferential treatment has been given certain specific exports in return for the granting by France of reciprocal advantages to imports from her neighbors.

In the Chamber during the discussion of these accords the Minister of Commerce, M. Bokanowski, defined the system precisely in answer to a protest from a Deputy against most favored treatment having been given to Germany.

Defines French Tariff Policy.

"Most favored nation treatment," said M. Bokanowski, "has been granted Germany only on conditions. Germany asked for it and paid generously. That is why it got it."

This system has been applied in all the accords which France is making, and if and when the temporary arrangement at present in existence with the United States comes up for revision American negotiators are likely to find it difficult to argue that they should obtain minimum rates unless there is the same reciprocity with regard to imports of French goods as other countries have received.

All these arrangements have necessitated certain alterations in the French tariff schedule and the Government attached to the bills of ratification a proviso for approval of the new tariff schedule.

Yesterday this move was stoutly opposed by the Commission on Commerce and by various groups, but during the night the commission was persuaded to withdraw its opposition so that the new tariffs, which are mainly designed to help French farmers, could be voted at once.

One of the difficulties in the new schedule is that, even with the increases, import duties in some cases still fall below pre-war tariffs in gold value. Thus the duty on imported sugar, which was raised 100 francs, is still less than what it was in 1913. A motion to reduce the duty to ninety francs was defeated by 308 votes to 215, and practically all motions for reduction were similarly defeated, although the general tendency of the new measure will be to increase the cost of living.

FILM AID COSTLY TO REICH.

Promises to Phoebus Concern Boost Budget 10,000,000 Marks.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The Reichstag Budget Committee decided today to add 10,000,000 marks to the supplementary budget bill in order that the Government's promises of aid to the Phoebus film concern may be fulfilled.

Several months ago the discovery was made that this company had received several large sums totaling about 6,000,000 marks from the Reichswehr's secret funds, part of which were approved by the Ministers of War and Commerce. Additional sums were given by Naval Captain Lohmann, who was in charge of the funds, according to Reichstag reports.

In addition to these sums the Government is apparently bound legally by promises to furnish sums totaling 10,000,000 marks. Up to the present the supplementary budget bill has reached 900,000,000 marks.

French Grottoes Yield Prehistoric Relics; 2,600-Year-Old Tomb Found in Italy

NICE, Feb. 23.—Excavations regarded by scientists as of extreme importance are under way in grottoes of the cliffs rising from the sea on the France-Italian frontier near Mentone and known as Les Roches Rouges, or red rocks.

The commission, organized by the Italian Government, began work a week ago and has already unearthed remarkable finds which are credited to the remotest and least known period in the dawn of mankind.

The objects include a perfectly preserved rhinoceros jawbone, bones belonging to some species of big deer and also bones of a hippopotamus.

The excavations incidentally show that the conformation of the coast has been greatly modified. When the grottoes were inhabited the sea was at least 100 meters lower, on a level with the edge of a densely wooded plain descending toward it.

The head of the commission is Conte Costantini, founder of the Institute of Anthropology at Florence, who is assisted by the Abbé de Breuil of the Paris Institute of Paleontology. Dr. John Kjerfdas, Swedish scientist; Miss Mayra Boyle of Edinburgh, author of several works on the subject, and several other persons.

PIOMBINO, Italy, Feb. 23 (AP).—An Etruscan tomb, twenty-six centuries old, has been discovered in the ruins of the ancient city of Populonia, one of the oldest and richest of the historic Etruscan settlements.

The tomb is cylindrical in shape and is surmounted by a conical dome overlapping the tomb itself to ward off rain. The wall is of tufa stone and the door is square instead of rectangular, as is usual.

Inside the tomb were found four sarcophagi containing the remains of skeletons and most important objects such as gold fibuli or brooches, large wrought hairpins, earrings and rings, some of which are of gold with decorations representing sirens and tritons. An alabaster cone, four helmets, two shields, three censers and many cases of knives, daggers and spears also were found, in addition to a number of china objects.

QUEEN TO INSPECT STYLES

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Germany's royal guest, Amanullah, Ameer of Afghanistan, showed the Germans today that he is able to say "No" when he feels like it. Invited while visiting the Tempelhof Flying Field this morning to fly over the city in one of the Lufthansa planes, the monarch answered in a manner that left no doubt in any one's mind that he would not fly.

He showed the same positiveness in declining to take part in the stag hunt planned for the Potsdam wild park, where the palaces of the Hohenzollerns are located. Whether the idea of shooting a tame deer, which was more likely to try to eat from his hand than to escape from his gun compared badly to the excitement of hunting on his native mountains, caused him politely to decline the invitation was not stated, but the German press intimates as much.

But Amanullah did not refuse to accept a three-motor, all-metal, ten passenger Junkers plane, which the Government decided to present to him. There is even a probability that some of his retinue will accompany the airplane on its flight eastward when the present, which is valued at 250,000 marks, is delivered to Kabul, his capital.

King Plans to Fly Later.

The Ameer said he intended to make flights while in Germany and hoped to make a journey from Berlin to one of the distant cities in a regular passenger machine.

While yesterday was devoted entirely to ceremony, the visiting potentate was able today to do some industrial investigation, which is the object of his trip. Early this morning the royal party was taken to Tempelhof Field and the Ameer inspected not only the various types of machines there, but also the entire field organization, including the handling of passengers, mail and freight.

He applauded when Herr Koch, Minister of Transportation, expressed the hope that the Berlin-Moscow line would soon be extended to the Afghan capital.

Paul Loebe, the Reichstag President, gave a luncheon to the royal pair, which was attended by a number of political and industrial leaders. At the special request of the King, speechmaking was omitted during the luncheon. In the afternoon the party visited the War Museum and later the stadium, where German athletes played exhibition games and give drills.

Berlin's curiosity over the visitors has not abated since their arrival yesterday. Crowds wait outside the Prince Albrecht Palace, where the King is quartered, and along the streets he follows in his trips. The street decorations have been left untouched, but there has been some let-up in the firing of salutes, bowing, saluting and other formalities.

Dinner at Chancellery.

The royal pair, with a number of their retinue were the guests this evening of Vice Chancellor Hergt at a dinner at the Chancellery, Chancellor Marx being unable, on account of ill-health, to do the honors.

Tomorrow, being Friday and religious day of rest for the King, no ceremonies are planned until the afternoon. Since both the King and Queen and practically all their suite are suffering from colds, the palace will remain quiet while all rest. They contracted their colds on the journey here from the Swiss border when the heating system in President von Hindenburg's special train, which the party used, failed to function, it is said.

As soon as the ceremonies are over and the official visit is ended, the Queen intends to call on a number of dressmakers and shoe stores to get the latest Spring fashions. A special fashion show has been arranged for her benefit. There is a rumor that the King will extend his visit beyond the time first proposed, though he will travel incognito. He has expressed complete satisfaction with the palace placed at his disposal and is pleased at his reception.

Though there are some who think that the costs of the entertainment of the monarch are more than the Republican coffers can stand, the only open complaint has been made by Nationalists, who feel that their pride has been wounded because the official flag with the imperial colors, with a small touch of Republican colors was not raised at the Tempelhof Flying Field and that the Republican colors enjoyed undue prominence.

JAPANESE ELECTION ENDS IN STALEMATE

TANAKA TO STAY IN POWER

Premier Has No Choice but to Continue in Weak Position—Labor Elects Eight Members.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Feb. 23.—The general election has resulted in a mathematically balanced stalemate. At midnight 461 out of the total of 466 members had been elected. The Minseito, the Opposition Party, together with Labor and other allies on whom it counts, now commands 233 votes, or exactly half of the House. If the Government Party, the Seiyukai, wins, as it expects, all five remaining seats, it can only draw level.

The position of the parties at midnight was: Seiyukai, 216; Minseito, 215; Independents, 14; Labor, 3; Kakushin, 4; Business Party, 4.

The Labor, Kakushin and six of the Independent members will vote for the Minseito, giving it 233 votes in the full Houses. The Government counts on eight Independents, the Business Party and the five remaining seats. The Seiyukai has gained twenty-seven seats, compared with the last Diet, wiping out its minority. A close balance between the major parties is not unprecedented in Japan, but the election, by virtually abolishing the smaller groups, leaves Premier Baron Tanaka without the usual material from which a working majority can be constructed. The Opposition's bloc is virtually solid, consisting of Labor and the Liberal Kakushin group.

Judging from conversation at the Seiyukai headquarters tonight, efforts will be made to represent the Government's position as better than it is by including some of the Independents in the Seiyukai, thus showing a plurality over the Minseito. Some such pretext is necessary, for the Government must be carried on, and the Minseito is no stronger than the Seiyukai.

The Minseito is exultant, as its gains amount to six more than its organization expected. The press interprets the result as a sweeping repulse to the Government, as it is considering how Governments have usually won elections in the past. Several candidates assert that the Government interference caused the voters to support them.

Three courses are open to Baron Tanaka, one is to continue the Government with noncontroversial program and a tacit understanding with the Opposition. The second is to resign, leaving Prince Saionji, the elder statesman, to recommend an Opposition leader to the throne. The third is to dissolve the Diet and order another election.

Resignation would only replace one weak Government by another. Owing to the financial exhaustion of the other parties, a fresh election might give the Seiyukai a clear majority, but dissolution would involve so much expense that Premier Tanaka's own party would revolt and it is doubtful if the Emperor's advisers would sanction it.

In practice the Government has no choice except to remain, not in power but in office, and follow the line of least resistance till the next turn of the political wheel.

Labor's eight members but poorly represent the votes cast for Labor. In several constituencies Labor candidates opposed each other with the result that their supporters' votes were hopelessly split. In others the Laborites polled heavily, though unsuccessfully. Six of the eight are of the Right Wing and five are graduates of the Imperial University.

"PLOT" TO KILL A HOAX.

Woman, Found With "Black Hand" Letter, Wrote It Herself.

WARSAW, Feb. 23.—The Warsaw police believed today that they were on the track of a well organized scheme to assassinate Marshal Pilsudski.

A woman named Stebinski, arrested for destroying election posters, was found to be carrying a letter signed by a Black Hand society directing her as one of its members to carry out a plot to kill the Premier. The names and addresses were also given of several other members from whom the woman should obtain the necessary weapons to carry out the plot.

Later the police discovered that these addresses were bogus and when they looked into the woman's past they found that she had been using all sorts of schemes to break into jail and get food and lodging gratis. After further examination it was found that she had written the letter herself and the plot vanished.

Liquor Ship Free of Libel.

SUBKOV IS ARRESTED FOR BERLIN BRAWL

Young Husband of Ex-Kaiser's Sister Assaulted a Page Boy in a Cafe.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Alexander Subkov, the husband of Princess Victoria of Schaumburg-Lippe and the brother-in-law of the former Kaiser, forgot the promises he made to his wife a few days ago to observe an early curfew while he was in Berlin alone with money in his pockets. As a result of his failure to follow the advice of his wife, some thirty years his senior, the Russian adventurer is now facing a charge of assault on a page early this morning in a West End bar. His escapade may even lead to his being expelled from Germany as an undesirable foreigner.

Princess Victoria left Berlin in the early part of the week; the "bar barrier" as she proper calls her husband, remaining here for further negotiations for his proposed transatlantic flight with his wife as a passenger. Since then Subkov has been a regular visitor at the Casanova Café, where he, with friends of both sexes, led a gay life, drinking, singing and dancing.

Last night he arrived at his haunt after midnight and, according to witnesses, was more or less intoxicated. On leaving at about 3 A. M. a page tried to assist him with his overcoat. Subkov thought the youth was trying to hear what he was asking his lady companion and ordered him to leave the room. The page explained that he was under orders of the manager not to leave the room, whereupon the Russian "parent" struck the youth in the face, knocking him to the floor and immediately began kicking him.

Fined on Passport Charge.

Police appeared and took Subkov, who apparently was very drunk, to the station. Here the Princess's husband denied the kicking, saying he always fights fair. Subkov was allowed to go to his hotel, but must answer charges of assault brought by the boy's parents.

The police discovered that Subkov's passport expired in December and had not been renewed. He was called before the authorities, charged with violating the regulations for foreigners and was fined 300 marks. Since the Russian revolution he has been a "man without a country" and held a "Nansen passport" granted through the League of Nations.

Since his wife is now on the same status, she also can be deported for her husband's apparent violation of the law, though whether the authorities will exercise their prerogative is not known.

It is an open secret that many people would like to see the adventurer deported. Subkov finds no champion in either the monarchistic or Liberal press. Also it is said that the Hohenzollerns see deportation as the easiest means of getting rid of the undesirable adjunct to the family whom they know no desire to recognize.

SOUTH TYROL SUFFERS, VIENNA CHAMBER SAYS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Feb. 23.—The South Tyrol's grievances against the Italian Administration today got a full hearing in the Austrian Parliament and as a result of the hearing Parliament unanimously declared its sympathy with the Germans there as oppressed brothers and a mistreated minority.

The usually dull item of "the budget" was the subject under discussion when Deputy Kolb, Chancellor of Seipel's own party, rose and in a long speech recounted the wrongs under which he said the Tyrolians are suffering. Throughout his speech he was heard with careful and sympathetic attention which broke forth in a long ovation when he finished.

For the first time in many months Deputies forgot party differences and to a man staged an informal demonstration. The President of Parliament, Herr Miklas, recognized the demonstration officially by declaring that he would take due note of it.

After Herr Kolb sat down speakers from each party in turn declared the same sentiments, after which Chancellor Seipel himself took the stand and in one of the most open speeches in his career proclaimed that Austria feels on her heart the burden of oppression which the Germans arbitrarily assigned to Italy by the peace treaties are suffering at Italy's hands.

Austria cannot and does not wish to interfere in the domestic affairs of any other country, he declared, but she does have the right to discuss them in orderly and duly elected assemblies and public gatherings.

Austria is a free and independent country where free speech is recognized, he went on. She cannot appeal to the League of Nations nor can she directly take up with Rome the question of South Tyrol, he explained, but she does rely on something which is higher than international traditions and rights, and that is the conscience of the world.

In some quarters it is thought that Premier Mussolini, despite this "rebuke" from Chancellor Seipel, will lodge a protest against this session of Parliament as he has done recently against the caustic remarks of South Tyrol made in the provincial Diet of Tyrol by members of that body.

WHIPPET TAKES FIRE, RACING AT DAYTONA

CAMPBELL NEAR RECORD

Englishman Makes an Exhibition Dash at 206.797 Miles An Hour.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP).—The second mishap of the motor race meet here occurred this afternoon when the Whippet automobile driven by Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, in preparation for an attempt at the four-cylinder record, burst into flames and was steered into the ocean to avoid serious consequences.

The car was not badly damaged and Shaw was uninjured. He attributed the blaze to a backfiring motor. He had the tiny machine towed to a garage, until for further use before the meet officially closed today.

Frank Lockhart, who narrowly escaped death yesterday when his Stutz Blackhawk somersaulted into the ocean, talked to newspapermen at his hospital bed today against the advice of physicians.

He was "giving it all it could take," he said, when the machine streaked into a rain squall at 225 miles an hour and he saw nothing until he stopped in the sea.

"Feeling Way in Mist."

"I was feeling my way, wide open in the mist," he added, "and started instinctively pulling the car higher on the beach, away from the ocean. When I struck soft sand, I knew I was too high and pulled her down again—but too quickly. The next thing I knew I was in the water."

The young track veteran attributed his escape to the sturdy construction of the car and the quick work of men who pulled it from the surf. He said he was "perhaps overanxious" at the start and blamed this condition on the edict which, he said, forced him to try for a record yesterday or today.

Lockhart plans to rebuild his car immediately and make another attempt at the world's speed record. The only injury that worried him today was a cut on his wrist which severed several tendons. It will not affect his driving, physicians said.

Campbell Gives Exhibition.

Making an exhibition run on the Ocean Speedway here late today, Captain Malcolm Campbell of England negotiated the measured mile stretch at an average speed of 206.79712 miles per hour in his giant Napier Blue Bird racer. This was slightly less than his world's record of 206.956 set here last Sunday.

The Englishman had announced before his start that the run would not be an attempt to better the record, because weather and beach conditions were unfavorable.

In one of the closing events of the meet Gil Anderson of Indianapolis established a new world's record for stock cars when he drove his Stutz over an official mile course for an average way speed of 106.52463 miles an hour.

The former record, set here last week by Wade Morton of Auburn, Ind., was 104.34782.

Tom Rooney of Chicago, in another Stutz, also bettered the former record when he clipped off the mile in an average speed of 105.54089 miles an hour.

STRESEMANN SEEKS DEAL WITH RUMANIA

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MENTONE, France, Feb. 22.—German Finance Minister Reinhold arrived here today and joined Foreign Minister Stresemann at the Cap Martin Hotel here, where he announced that he would remain a week or ten days.

On the other hand, the Rumanian Foreign Minister, M. Titulescu, who, after several meetings with Dr. Stresemann, including a luncheon yesterday, at which Lord D'Abernon, ex-British Ambassador to Germany, was the non-German and non-Rumanian guest, told journalists that the conversations were ended, and that he was departing today, has canceled his arrangements, and will remain at Menton another week.

While the most complete discretion and silence are maintained among the large staff of the two principal Ministers, this fresh development of affairs tends to confirm recent forecasts that the conversations of the two statesmen were arranged in order to deal with certain financial questions interesting Germany and Rumania, notably the establishment of a bank of issue in Rumania with power to absorb the paper money the Germans printed and used during the period of occupation and more intensive exploitation of the Rumanian oil fields.

Regarding the latter question the same informant today draws attention to the significance of the presence of Lord D'Abernon. From the diplomatic point of view its importance is entirely negligible, but it is remembered that Lord D'Abernon was formerly Sir Daniel Vincent, Director of the Ottoman Bank of Constantinople, and a financier closely affiliated with powerful syndicates deeply involved in Near Eastern and Balkan affairs.

M. Titulescu's presence at the luncheon given by Dr. Stresemann is therefore taken as quite fortuitous. Finally, the fact that Hungarian Minister von Pesthy, now at Monte Carlo, has not, contrary to general expectations here, been invited to any of the Cap Martin meetings, is held to confirm the belief that the talks are entirely restricted to matters immediately concerning Rumania and Germany, and are not connected with the approaching Geneva discussions.

ORDERS HUNGARY TO HALT GUN SALE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Government that the Council, having before it a request from the Czechoslovak, Rumanian and Serbian Governments and having learned from the press that the Hungarian Government is going to sell the objects to which the request refers, thinks it would be prudent to delay this project, the matter involved coming before the Council in a few days."

"I have just been notified by Sir Eric Drummond," he said, "that my message has been sent to the Hungarian Government."

When it was remarked that his message was somewhat late he answered:

"Yes, it is late, but not too late. Just a few hours ago I agreed with M. Briand on the text of the telegram which was forwarded through the League Secretariat. It is now certain that the Hungarian Government has been warned in time to prevent the sale projected."

In large measure Hungary is still under the tutelage of the League of Nations, her finances having been restored by a loan in which her former enemies participated.

Hungary Refuses to Stop Sale.

VIENNA, Feb. 22.—In record time today telegrams were exchanged between the League of Nations Secretariat and the Hungarian Government apropos of the St. Gothard affair. On behalf of the League Council the Secretariat advised Premier Bethlen to postpone the auction sale of the smuggled machine guns which was scheduled for tomorrow.

Count Bethlen immediately replied in substance:

"Sorry too late and besides this is a Hungarian affair."

In his telegram Sir Eric Drummond stated that he was instructed by the Council President, Tchang Loh, who is in Paris, that the council had under consideration a memorandum of the Czechoslovak, Yugoslav and Rumanian Governments and that the council, informed through the press that Hungary intends to sell the machine guns as old iron tomorrow, wishes the sale postponed.

Count Bethlen, according to an official communique issued at Budapest tonight, replied as follows:

"The Hungarian Government tonight received with surprise your telegram. In official statements published through the press a number of weeks past Hungary has published details of how the arms are to be disposed of as uncalled-for goods. The public auction sale is scheduled for tomorrow at St. Gothard in the method prescribed for such sales. It is impossible to postpone the auction.

"I may remark that the regulations for investigation rights inherent in the League of Nations do not apply in the present case. However, the Hungarian Government as a courtesy to the Council's President, will ask the purchaser of the goods to leave them untouched where they now lie."

The machine guns in question, after remaining without being claimed for almost two months, were ordered by the War Ministry to be rendered useless for military purposes, the railway being then allowed to sell them as scrap iron.

NEW FRENCH PROPOSAL.

Army General Staff Plan Would Increase League Authority.

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—The Security and Arbitration Committee, which this morning passed into the deliberations of technical subcommittee discussions, came with a sudden bump against the opinions of the General Staff of the French Army.

Naturally, as the present meeting is merely preliminary to that of the Disarmament Commission, these opinions are not officially labeled as other than the views of the French delegation. Nevertheless, they are likely to serve as the basis for considerable discussion before the committee makes its final report. Also they indicate that the Russian disarmament proposals will get short shrift when they come up for official discussion.

As a matter of fact the French correspondents, after talking with members of the delegation yesterday, dismissed the Soviet draft convention in a few lines, declaring it was chimerical and not worth serious consideration.

Meanwhile, as a member of the committee has revealed, the French General Staff has been laboring toward the end that both the security and disarmament reports shall give added authority to the Council of the League of Nations, enabling that body in the presence of future war threats to act more promptly and efficiently than in the present case with Hungary. "Methods of conservation" is the slogan adopted in the policy of bolstering the Council upon firmer foundations.

In this the French appear somewhat in line with the suggestion made by the German delegate, Herr von Simson, yesterday, that all member States give pledges to obey the orders of the Council, except that they feel that Germany, though taking a high moral tone now, may not be so enthusiastic in the practical working out of the plan.

However, in view of the present situation, German reinforcements have been summoned. It is stated today that Count von Bernstorff will arrive Monday night to supersede von Simson or to act in collaboration with him.

Chairman Benes still maintains that it is unnecessary for any of the delegates to get unduly excited, inasmuch as the present work is all preliminary, and that the States will have ample opportunity to present their views when the commission's report is presented to the League Assembly.

The three main points of the French program are as follows:

First—A small body of trained investigators numbering about five to be maintained at Geneva, always ready to start for sources of either complaints or threatened outbreaks, with power to serve warnings on belligerent Governments to preserve the status quo until the Council acts.

Second—That the powers of the Council shall not be rigid, so that neutral areas may be made wide or narrow, according to the situation that arises; also that the Council may be able to order certain measures pertaining to the disposition of navies of the powers concerned.

Third—That sanctions by the Council under resolution of March 16, 1927, shall be carried out at the first appearance of trouble if one nation does not respond to the Council's demands. Either naval or aerial demonstrations by another power shall be at once undertaken.

British Firm on Treaties.

GENEVA, Feb. 23 (AP).—A firm stand was taken at the session of the League of Nations Security Committee today by Lord Cushendun, the British delegate, against multilateral arbitration treaties or any too rigid form of bilateral treaty.

Alluding to the speeches of the Argentine and Chilean representatives at a previous sitting, Lord Cushendun said they had called attention to the totally different circumstances for which they acceded to provide, as compared with European States, and asked why it should be imagined that one treaty could fit the diverse circumstances of the different European States. Canada had referred to the court dealing with disputes between Canada and the United States, and the circumstances of each State, he argued, should determine the type of tribunal.

This viewpoint was supported by Señor Valdes Mendeville, the Chilean delegate.

The Canadian representative, Dr. Riddell, said he had no instructions to oppose multilateral treaties, but he thought that the delegates would get further if they confined themselves to bilateral treaties, and there was evidently no support for one definite model of a bilateral treaty.

The South Americans said a type they were not likely to abandon, nor would Canada abandon the treaty which had worked well with the United States, in favor of something theoretical worked out at Geneva.

It is probable that a drafting committee will submit alternative forms of treaties.

PLAN ANGLO-FRENCH BANK.

Earl of Derby and Others Are Behind New Institution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—An Anglo-French bank of which the Earl of Derby will be one of the directors is in process of formation, according to The Daily Telegraph. It will be a commercial undertaking, and not related in any way to the Bank of France or the Bank of England. Also it has no relation to the recent visit of M. Moreau, Governor of the Bank of France, to London.

"The new institution," says The Daily Telegraph, "would seem to foreshadow closer financial relations for business purposes between the two countries, and in view of the very large credits of which France has control over here such a development cannot be other than satisfactory for our money market."

5 WOMEN QUIT PARIS ON HORSES FOR CANNES

Two Suffering From Grip as 500-Mile Journey of Fifteen Days Is Started.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Five young women, of whom one is an amateur and four are professional equestriennes, started off this morning from the south gate of Paris to ride horseback to Cannes, a distance of more than 600 miles. They, or at least some them, expect to cover the distance in fifteen days. Two of them, Mary Fernand, who is challenger to the race, and Mlle. Eddy Weed, have both during the past five days been suffering from severe cases of grip, but with admirable courage and the conviction that forty miles a day on horseback will cure any cold they started with the others.

One of the competitors is a Hindoo dancer, Mlle. Galatry, who is confident that her horse, Collier, will easily carry her 160-pound weight for the whole distance without the least difficulty.

Miss Cody, who rides in boy's costume, and Mlle. Rachel Gerard were the first to finish the first stage of the journey, Paris to Chastrettes, slightly in excess of thirty miles. They arrived together, having completed the stage in eight minutes less than eight hours, which indicates an intention to treat their horses very carefully.

Freiheker in Snow Is Freed.

Anthony Kohlfant, 55 years old, a real estate operator, of 55 West Fifty-second Street, who, dressed merely in a bathing suit and tennis shoes, entertained a crowd in City Hall Park Monday afternoon by rolling in the snow in front of the statue of Civic Virtue, pleaded guilty yesterday before Magistrate Simpson in the Tombs Court to disorderly conduct and was fined on a suspended sentence.

JUDGES ARE WARNED OF A 'POISON PLOT'

WRITING LIKE SCHOOLBOY'S

Judge Mancuso of General Sessions made public yesterday a postcard which he had received the day before warning him "of a poison plot for the wholesale assassination of General Sessions Judges by Moscow Bolshevik agents." The card, which was unsigned, and written in the vertical hand of a schoolboy, added that "Mysteryman" is the leader of the plot, and continued: "They never let up, so watch out. They keep after a man for fifty years till they kill him or the man must kill them. Their mission is to kill."

Judge Mancuso did not regard the card seriously, although he informed his fellow-jurists of it. He learned that on the preceding Tuesday missives containing nitrate of silver, such as had been sent to several Magistrates in the city in the last week, had been received at the chambers of Judges Rosalsky, Levine, Koenig and Collins. A similar missive was received by William L. Kavanagh, Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply. It was addressed to him at the District Attorney's office, where he formerly was chief clerk. Judge Rosalsky was the only jurist to receive the powder. The secretaries to the other Judges had thrown away the envelopes and their contents.

Justices Murray, Noonan and Eder of the west side municipal court all received letters containing the white powder, the first two on Tuesday and the latter on Wednesday. They did not report the occurrence to the police.

Acting Captain Henry Scherb of the narcotic division at Police Headquarters received from Edward Kelly, City Chemist, an analysis of the powder sent to the various Judges. The report said it was a "compound of nitrate of silver."

Captain Scherb's men are working on the case, tracing the letters from the postmarks and the brief notes around the powder. The police believe the threats are the work of a crank.

His insistence on interviewing a Federal Judge at the Woolworth Building led yesterday to the remanding of a man who described himself as John Jones of Orange, N. J., to the Tombs without bail for sentence tomorrow. He was found guilty before Magistrate Simpson in the Tombs court of disorderly conduct.

Patrolman Prunsk of the Greenwich Street Station told the Magistrate he had arrested the man the afternoon before when he refused to leave the corridor of the Judges' chambers after being warned to keep away. Jones said that he wanted to obtain the advice of a Federal Judge on how he could collect a commission due him from a commercial firm.

Coolidge's Friend Wins in Suit.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 23 (AP).—A jury in Superior Court today returned a verdict for James Lucey, President Coolidge's cobbler-philosopher friend, who was sued by Edward Brooks, his wife and daughter for $9,000 for injuries suffered when the door of a tenement owned by the defendant collapsed on June 21, 1925.

SOVIET LEADERS GREET RED ARMY'S 10TH YEAR

Press Devotes Pages to Its Glory Without Once Mentioning Trotsky's Name.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—The Soviet leaders MM. Stalin, Rykov and Kalinin saluted today's tenth anniversary of the Red Army's formation with brief, cautiously worded statements appropriate to the recent disarmament manifesto issued by the Soviet representative, M. Stein, in Geneva.

Similarly, editorials in the Soviet press emphasize that the Red Army, as distinct from the Red Guard which made the revolution, was brought into being for the purpose of fighting the counter-revolutionary movements and has been maintained to defend the "Socialist fatherland against imperialist aggression."

But the fiery German Communist, Herr Teilman, who is said to have organized a force of more than 100,000 German Red "centurions" from former soldiers of the great war, writes in Pravda that he and his comrades are eagerly awaiting the moment when they can "stab in the back our exploiters" and unite with a victorious Red army flooding across Europe to establish a one and indivisible Soviet republic from Vladivostok to Gibraltar. Which wordy chauvinism marks the striking difference between the would-be revolutionary and the Soviet executive, sobered by ten years of power—and economic problems.

The anniversary of the celebration is equally circumspect. There was no special function today save a ceremonial opening of the new central Red Army clubhouse. There was not even a public holiday, which is the almost invariable concomitant of a Soviet anniversary.

Today, tomorrow and Saturday the Moscow garrison receives extra leave and free admission to theatrical shows at workers' clubs and several theatres. Sunday there will be a big parade in the Red Square.

But the Soviet press is doing its utmost to give lustre to the anniversary. Every important newspaper in Moscow is devoting upward of six pages to the glorification of the "Red Army's fight for freedom."

Miraculously all of them managed to fill the pages without, so far as the writer is able to discover, a single mention of the name Trotsky. What, one wonders, are the feelings of that fallen idol in his distant exile?

The Soviet press today tries to give credit for the success of the Red Army to Lenin. Doubtless his was the directing brain, but what historian will deny that Trotsky forged the Red sword?

CONVICTED OF MURDER IN BROOKLYN SHOOTING

Anthony Russo to Be Sentenced March 3—Testified to Struggle Over a Weapon.

A jury convicted Anthony Russo of first degree murder last night in the Kings County Court for shooting Gegnie Carpone of 2,315 Pacific Street, at Broadway and Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, on Oct. 11, 1927. Russo, who was paroled from the State Prison at Trenton in 1926 after serving part of his sentence for manslaughter at Bayonne, N. J., was remanded by Judge Franklin Taylor for sentence on March 3. He formerly lived at 182 Hull Street, Brooklyn.

The chief witness against Russo was Mary Schad of 39-11 Ninety-second Street, Woodhaven, Queens, who testified she had seen him and Carpone together when a shot was fired. Russo, she said, held his hand in his coat pocket. Detective Gratland, who arrested Russo, said he found no powder marks on the defendant's coat. Russo testified that Carpone had threatened him with a pistol and that when he attempted to seize the weapon to protect himself it was discharged.

SENATORS INSPECT COAL STRIKE AREA

Union Leaders Win Point by Being Allowed to Go on Survey With Committee.

EVIDENCE GIVEN BY MINERS

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Wading through mud and snow, four United States Senators, of the Senatorial mine investigating committee, today personally inspected the mining sector and strike area in the district of the South Hills.

The committee is composed of Senators Frank R. Gooding of Idaho, Chairman; Burt K. Wheeler of Montana, Robert F. Wagner of New York, W. B. Pine of Oklahoma and Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island. Senator Metcalf because of illness did not accompany the party from Washington.

Union officials won the first lift of the Pittsburgh hearing when the Senators, meeting the first time after their arrival today in the William Penn Hotel, refused to accede to the plea of a committee representing the operators which would bar the union officials and labor leaders from accompanying the committee on its tour.

The operators' committee was headed by J. D. A. Morrow, President of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and Horace W. Baker, President of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company.

United Mine Workers' officials, headed by Philip Murray, International Vice President of the organization, were in constant company with the committee through today's tour.

Their first visits were to the Castle Shannon mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company. There they made a first-hand survey of conditions, going to the miners' barracks and talking to children and to the strikers. They also visited the homes of the strike-breakers and questioned their wives and families.

Inspections were made of the company houses, vacated by the union miners as the result of court injunctions at No. 2 mine in Castle Shannon. At No. 4 mine they questioned J. M. Provost, superintendent.

Senator Gooding inquired of him if the miners employed were experienced. Mr. Provost said they were, and the Senator then asked where they were recruited. Mr. Provost replied:

"From almost everywhere."

Tells Reason to Stop "Fusspotting."

Senator Gooding then inquired of Mrs. Mike Zorzi, wife of a non-union miner at No. 4, how much her husband had left in his pay envelope after paying the company store and the rent. In broken English she said the sum was $30.

After visiting the Castle Shannon district the committee inspected Bruceton mines, Coverdale and Broughton. Broughton was the scene of the recent acts of lawlessness and gun battles that resulted in the closing of a school and in appeals by citizens to the Federal and State Governments to intervene in the strike.

After crossing the hills on foot to the non-union headquarters at Coverdale, other workers of the Terminal Company were interviewed by the Senators. Among them were many negro non-union miners.

A dramatic scene here took place when the Senators ordered the mine bosses and executives of the local operations aside and commanded them to "stop prompting the answers to the questions."

From then on the Senators took the person to be interviewed ten feet away from the rest of the group.

The Senators quizzed the non-union men as to the moral conditions in the camps and whether or not liquor was sold openly. The replies varied.

Questioned on the money left in the pay envelopes of the non-union men after the company deductions for board, store bills or rent, some of the workers replied they received nothing for their labor, while others said they had from $10 to $20 remaining after a half month's work.

The Senators heard testimony alleging rampant bootlegging and social evils in the strike breakers' camp.

Police Are Charged With Brutality.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 23 (AP).—The United Mine Workers of America were given the first chance to present their side of the wage disputes of nearly a year's duration between miners and bituminous operators in this field when the subcommittee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today opened its inspection of conditions in mining camps.

After spending seven hours investigating the miners' surroundings, the committeemen had no comment to make.

The committee heard charges of brutality on the part of Coal and Iron Police employed under State commissions to guard mine property. Mrs. Clarissa Engiar, mother of four children, said she was beaten and kicked by these police when she recently went to investigate some shooting near her home.

Charges that Communists were attempting to extend their activities in the union camps were made by Father Edward A. Glennon of Finleyville.

"The situation has opened the door to communism, socialism and the embittering of the labor class," he said.

The Red Cross was accused of failing to aid miners "in a case of necessity" by Father C. F. Feirenbach of Curry, who described conditions as "very distressing."

SNIPER TAKES A SHOT AT LONG ISLAND TRAIN

Although few passengers were aware of it, a sniper shot at a Long Island Railroad express train last night as it sped past between Forest Hills and Woodside. A bullet, apparently of large calibre, struck a steel pillar, missing by the front of the car and glanced off.

The train left Long Beach at 7:26 P. M. in charge of Conductor A. J. Eby of Babylon, L. I. It carried few passengers, and at the time the shot was fired only a few had come to the smoking car. According to Eby the train had left Forest Hills at 8:21 and was nearing Regal Park when he saw a man standing on the east-bound track. The conductor was busying over to make change and at the moment of passing he saw the man raise his arm, saw a red flash and then the window pane broke.

HAIR COMBS IN FASHION.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ANTWERP, Feb. 23.—Fancy comb manufacturers here, whose business has suffered heavily since bobbed hair became the fashion, report the receipt of large orders recently from the United States, which they believe heralds the return of long hair.

Most fashionable hairdressers say otherwise. At the recent International Hairdressers' Conference, they say, it was decided that women's hair should be worn about five inches long, which length requires the use of combs as well as constant cutting and curling.

Thus the hairdressers, who practically enjoyed a monopoly, have agreed to persuade the public makers and permit them to share in the profits.

NICARAGUANS FIGHT 'COMPROMISE' PLAN

MONCADA HOTLY OPPOSED

By HAROLD N. DENNY,
Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

By Tropical Radio.

MANAGUA, Feb. 23.—Although the newspapers of Managua are filled with dispatches and comment on the recent proposal to have the warring parties of Nicaragua choose a compromise candidate for President in order to solve the present crisis, in most circles here the suggestion is taken as at the best an empty gesture and at the worst a new smoke screen with a double design to handicap General José Moncada, the Liberal candidate, and hamper the American program to supervise the election.

General Moncada, in an interview this evening, declares his unequivocal opposition to the compromise plan, and this in itself seems sufficient to shelve it.

Among well-informed Americans, familiar with the intricacies of Nicaraguan politics as well as with the efforts of the State Department to bring about the supervision pledged in the Stimson agreement, there is a distinct feeling that certain Conservatives are seizing upon the proposal as a smoke screen if they themselves did not actually originate it.

Chamorro for Washington Parley.

Questions directed by your correspondent to leaders of the Liberals, pro-Chamorrist Conservatives and anti-Chamorrist Conservatives brought out only one utterance favorable to the project and that was from General Emiliano Chamorro himself.

"I think that a conference of the leaders of both parties at Washington would be the best solution of the whole problem," General Chamorro said.

Asked about the origin of the so-called compromise plan, General Chamorro said that he had received a telegram from Perrow G. Knowles of New York asking his opinion regarding a Washington conference to pick a coalition candidate, but that he had not yet replied.

Such telegrams have been addressed to many prominent Nicaraguans of all political hues. Two such telegrams, signed by Mr. Knowles, have been received from New York and Havana, both dated Feb. 19.

Moncada Flatly Rejects Plan.

General Moncada, with the backing of the entire Liberal Party behind him now as result of his nomination by the Leon Convention, declared:

"We can never accept such a proposal."

"The compromise already has been made and that is the Tipitapa agreement," the leader of last year's revolutionary army continued. "We put our names to that compromise providing for free elections and laid down arms. Under this same agreement the United States promised free elections which will be the first free elections in the history of this country.

"They not only will permit the people to say who they wish to govern them but will begin the people's education in free government. There cannot be a free election if only one candidate is chosen in advance by a committee in Washington."

General Moncada added that a coalition Government already had been tried in Nicaragua in the election of Solorsano with Sacasa as Vice President, and that General Chamorro himself had been the one to overturn it by force of arms, thus setting in motion the train of disorders which is continuing to the present day.

"That started the terrible war," General Moncada concluded, "and we fear a repetition of such an experience might produce a repetition of the consequences."

Aim to Embarrass Moncada Some.

Americans here who favor the State Department's policy toward Nicaragua regard the proposal as an attempt to put General Moncada in the position of being the sole man opposing the harmony program for Nicaragua. General Moncada firmly believes that he has an excellent chance of being elected in October. He could not conceivably be chosen as the compromise candidate, since the Conservatives hate him bitterly.

These same observers see the proposal as an underhand attack upon the supervision of the elections, from the point of view that it sets up a scheme which would mean America's backing down.

Meanwhile General McCoy and Minister Eberhardt are proceeding unperturbed with the plans for election. Colonel Francis De J. Parker of General McCoy's staff is now journeying throughout Nicaragua, investigating all conditions affecting the elections. In the past week he has traveled up into the zone north of Matagalpa, where the bandits are active, often accompanied by a marine armed escort.

Strong Hopes for Election Law.

The brunt of the fight in the Congress for electoral laws is being carried by Leopoldo Salazar, President of the Senate. While General Chamorro declares confidently that the so-called McCoy law cannot pass, Señor Salazar has assured your correspondent with equal positiveness that the law would go through after the Congress reconvenes on March 6, at the end of the present recess.

Señor Salazar is being violently attacked in the Conservative papers as a traitor to the Conservatives and they are demanding that he be expelled from the party. He laughed at this today. He has won two important victories against intense opposition in the past few days. One was winning re-election as President of the Senate and the other was forcing through the adjournment, during which the proponents of the McCoy law have an opportunity to try to win over the recalcitrant deputies.

Cuadra Pasos, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, who led the Nicaraguan delegation at the Havana conference, is expected to return March 2. He is understood still to favor the American program, and Señor Salazar looks to him for powerful support in the five sessions remaining before the Congress finally adjourns.

Señor Salazar has made eleven trips to the United States and his children have been educated there. He said today that he was reminding members of the Congress that Central American countries would be only Esperanto-speaking today if it were not for the United States with the Monroe Doctrine, and that if Nicaragua could boast it was a free country, it was only because of North America's help.

STRESSES OUR IMPARTIALITY.

Kellogg Sets Forth Policy as to Election in Nicaragua.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The impartiality of the United States in the coming Presidential election in Nicaragua was emphasized by Secretary Kellogg today in a statement saying:

"In view of numerous tendentious rumors and newspaper articles evidently of a propagandist nature which have come to my attention I desire once more to state with the utmost emphasis that the United States is maintaining and will continue to maintain an attitude of absolute impartiality in all matters relating to the forthcoming Nicaraguan election. The United States will favor neither any candidate nor any party in that election.

"All of its representatives in Nicaragua have been definitely instructed in that sense from the beginning, and this Government knows of no violation whatever of these instructions. Naturally we cannot accept any responsibility for rumors and newspaper stories of the character referred to.

"FRANK B. KELLOGG."

The concern with which officials have regarded published articles concerning the attitude of the United States not only toward Nicaragua but all Latin America was revealed when it was declared on the authority of Mr. Kellogg that the European press was not fair to this country in reporting the proceedings of the Pan-American Conference at Havana.

The assertion was made in support of the remarks of Ambassador Herrick in Paris yesterday reproving foreign newspapers for what he said was a misinterpretation of the conference.

LAGUARDIA STRIKES AT FEDERAL COURTS

DEMANDS CONGRESS CURB

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—An attack upon the Federal courts, directed mainly at the transit situation in New York City, where an injunction of a State court restraining the transportation companies from putting into effect a seven-cent fare was stayed by Federal Judge Winslow, was made in the House today by Representative LaGuardia, Republican.

The New York member spoke in support of his bill which seeks to take from Federal courts power to set aside or restrain the enforcement of orders made by administrative boards or commissions in any State with respect to the operation or rates of a public utility corporation.

Mr. LaGuardia charged that the action that accompanied the New York City gas cases "was so outrageous and sordid that people lost confidence in Federal courts."

"At the present moment in New York City the traction companies have resorted to the Federal courts. In this instance not for protection against an arbitrary order of a State board or commission, but to avoid the terms of a contract which they themselves willingly entered into.

"The misuse of Federal courts to avoid obligations under contracts, to disregard orders of State commissions and to disregard the law itself on the part of the public utility companies has grown to such an extent that it has become a national scandal. The courts are being used, instead of administering justice, as a delousing plant for dirty and unclean public utility corporations, and that means the traction companies of New York.

"It was never intended that United States District Courts should intervene in the first instance to permit public utility companies to disregard law or obligations under contracts. The custom now has become so general, the powers of injunction and over public utility companies so great, the exploitation of the people so ruthless that Congress must step in and curb this evil.

Two Students Expelled and Ten Suspended for Cheating.

Two students at New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance were expelled, ten suspended and seven others given failures for violation of final mid-term examination rules, according to Hugh E. Agnew, Chairman of the Committee on Student Discipline.

The two students expelled had bribe which they took to the examination room with them and lied to the committee, he said. Of the ten suspended one, a senior, had prepared a crib on an examination book which he had procured under false pretenses. He was given a failure in the course and suspended until next February. Five others who had bribe in their possession received failures in the various courses and were suspended until June.

Seven students received failures for soliciting or receiving aid in examinations. Six were exonerated from all blame and their books passed for credit without prejudice. Four cases are still pending. It is against the policy of the school authorities to divulge the names of the students.

COURT CUTS SONG PRACTICE

14-Hour Limit Imposed on Singer Accused by Neighbor.

Tito Ventura, photographer, of 51 East Fifty-ninth Street, likes music, but not twenty-four hours a day, he told Magistrate Renaud yesterday, when he appeared against Giuseppi Inserillo, opera singer, in Harlem court.

Inserillo, who lives with his wife, Marguerite, in a studio directly above Ventura, admitted he sang a lot and in a powerful voice, but explained that he had to practice. He said he had sung with Caruso and Melba, and that if his singing annoyed Ventura it had apparently not annoyed the thousands of persons who had heard him on the opera and concert stages.

Ventura said Inserillo's voice was so powerful that it caused the dishes to rattle in the cupboard and kept him awake at all hours of the night. Magistrate Renaud dismissed the summons after exacting a promise from the singer that he would confine his practice to the hours between 8 A. M. and 10 P. M.

CAMPBELL PLEADS INSANITY

A plea of not guilty on the ground of insanity was entered yesterday in General Sessions for Cecil Clyde Campbell, 45 years old, when he was arraigned before Judge Donnellan on an indictment charging first degree murder of his common-law wife, Mary MacLean Campbell with a claw hammer in their room in the Grand Hotel, Feb. 6. The plea was entered by Alexander I. Rorke and Hyman Bushel, who had been assigned by the Court to defend Campbell who said he had no funds to employ counsel.

MEXICANS BELITTLE HAVANA CONFERENCE

THEY PUT FAITH IN MORROW

Best Thing for Mexico to Do is to Work With Him to Settle Debt and Other Issues, They Say.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company. Special Cables to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23.—With the end of the Pan-American Conference at Havana this week has come considerable depression over its results among observers in Mexico, the general view being that nothing of practical value was accomplished for Pan-Americanism in the true sense of that term.

All the main questions, including intervention, were sidestepped, these observers think, the results being confined to what they regard as minor matters, such as plans for aviation treaties and border regulations. But the question of customs barriers between nations, they pointed out, was not settled.

These observers take the view that Washington proved too strong for the other nations at Havana and that Charles Evans Hughes, the head of the United States delegation, succeeded fully in carrying out Secretary Kellogg's orders not to recede one step on the question of the right of the United States to intervene in future in such a situation as that in Nicaragua.

Whatever may be the eventual result of the conference or of any further meetings before the next one, Mexican observers consider the most important aspect of the situation the possible effect on Mexican-American relations in view of the problems pending between the two republics. They take the view that Mexico's attitude at Havana is not likely to affect the friendly labors of Ambassador Morrow and President Calles to settle long-standing questions between Mexico and the United States which touch vitally this country's financial and economic position. In support of this view they cite Mr. Morrow's return from the Havana conference after a few days there to devote himself to trying to straighten out Mexican-American difficulties, which, incidentally, all circles now believe no one can do better than he.

Mexico today faces a financial crisis of a very grave character. This republic is seeking a new agreement for service of its debt. Federal employes' salaries are admittedly much in arrears and a considerable amount of money must be needed to finance the Federal campaign against the rebels in the Central States, Guanajuato, Jalisco and others.

Special Cables to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—All women employees of the German postal system, including the telephone, telegraph and postoffice services, must wear skirts reaching at least eight inches below the knees, Herr Schaetzel, Minister of Posts, has issued this decree as a protest against the "knee knee" movement in women's apparel.

It became a question of how much must be exposed to give the knees proper liberty, and officials think that some of the weaker sex showed a decided lack of knowledge of anatomy and confused the knees with the thighs.

As soon as work is over the girls will be allowed to lay aside the service garment, however.

The union of female postal officials had made a protest against the decree as unconstitutional, arguing that such restrictions are not in accordance with the present age.

Herr Schaetzel is said to be the first to decree the length of garments from the knees down, others having designated the distance from the ground to the skirt.

SEARCH WITH TORCHES FOR BOY IN CULVERT

Plainfield Men Hold Out Little Hope That Youngster, Who Fell Into Stream, Is Alive.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Feb. 23.—The search for Philip de Lelle, 4 years old, of 755 North Avenue, who fell into Cedar Brook where that stream runs through a hundred-yard culvert diagonally under North Avenue, will be continued through the night with the aid of acetylene gas torches by a squad of twelve men from the street and fire departments.

The culvert was thoroughly dragged during the afternoon and no trace of the boy was found. The searchers then went down the stream, which runs through the residential section of the city and ends at Cedar Brook Park a mile away. Pike-poles were used, and all the crannies of the banks were investigated without success. Owing to the long period of submersion and the temperature of the water at this time of the year little hope is held for recovering the child alive.

The boy was playing with Benjamin Diano, 6, of 743 North Avenue, and Fabua de Pola, 5, of 727 North Avenue, when he suddenly slipped down the six-foot embankment and into the water. The current carried him quickly into the mouth of the culvert. His companions, frightened, ran to the home of Joseph Vizo at 705 North Avenue, who immediately notified the police.

The stream, ordinarily little more than a brook carrying off the water from the lowlands, has been greatly swollen by heavy rains. The rescuers broke into the culvert in several places during the day, but all they could see was the swirl of water.

CATHOLIC LAYMEN AID SCHOOL FOR NEGROES

John G. Agar Heads Local Group to Further Aims of Cardinal Gibbons Institute.

A special Advisory Committee of prominent Catholic laymen and one priest has been formed to aid the Cardinal Gibbons Institute of Ridge, Md., a Catholic school for negroes. The Institute trustees announced the creation of the committee yesterday. The committee was organized at the University Club here last Monday. The trustees at their annual meeting in Washington, D. C., with Admiral W. S. Benson, the Chairman presiding, a action-wide movement on behalf of the negroes of the United States was started.

John G. Agar was elected President of the committee here. Other officers are Vice President, James Byrnes; Treasurer, Robert L. Hague; Secretary, Forney C. W. King. The other members of the committee elected were Admiral Benson, Marvin Cooney, James J. Hoey, Oliver H. P. LaFarge, Frank L. Sadler, Judge W. D. Cunningham, Robert C. J. Reilly, Louis H. Donegan, J. Carberry Kitchie, Edward McGuire, the Rev. John LaFarge, S. J., Michael Williams, T. Lawrence Williams of Ridge, Md.; A. J. Monahan of Washington. Other prominent Catholics who have promised support are John D. Ryan and Joseph P. Grace.

George Foster Peabody, who for forty years has been associated with negro education, spoke at the meeting. He described a recent visit to the Cardinal Gibbons Institute. He expressed the opinion that the entrance of the Catholic Church through a representative body of laymen into the field of negro education would be of great benefit to the country.

Father LaFarge described the agricultural and trade education being given to negroes at the institute. The Advisory Committee will arrange for the erection of new dormitories and other buildings. The announcement was made that Archbishop Curley of Baltimore, successor to the late Cardinal Gibbons, is greatly interested in the plans.

The Catholic negroes have borne more than half the cost of the maintenance of the institute since its beginning. The staff is composed of negro teachers. Victor H. Daniel is the principal and his wife is his assistant.

HOUSTON HALL BIDS FAULTY

Convention City Is Expected to Call for New Proposals.

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 23 (AP).—Bids by six contractors for construction of the temporary auditorium for the Democratic National Convention here in June all may be rejected, Mayor Holcombe announced today after proposals were opened.

It was apparent, the Mayor said, that all the contractors had made their bids in such a way as to evade payment of a penalty of $2,000 a day for delay in completion of the hall after May 15.

The bidders' whose specifications included lighting and plumbing but excluded chairs and other furnishings, were Tellepsen Construction Company, $147,147; Universal Construction Company, $146,000; W. E. Woodruff Company, $146,397.35; Southwestern Construction Company, $161,000; American Construction Company, $152,000; M. T. Parker Company, $153,000.

TO AID NEEDY BRITISH HERE

Organizations Meet Tonight to Form Charities Body.

Leading British residents of this vicinity, as individuals or through their organizations, will meet this evening at the Canadian Club headquarters in the Belmont Hotel to organize a united British relief body which will augment the charitable activities now conducted separately by these organizations.

The meeting is the outcome of a series of preliminary conferences called by Harry M. Reid, chairman of the relief committee of the British Great War Veterans.

The movement is a result of the present unemployment situation, it was explained. The British Great War Veterans, for instance, which raises about $8,000 annually for relief work, has been overwhelmed with applications for aid, receiving requests of as many as eighty needy cases in one day.

TRINITY WINS $605,000 SUIT.

Court Orders Berry to Audit Voucher for Subway Easement.

Trinity Church won its suit yesterday against Controller Berry to compel him to audit and pay the voucher of the Board of Transportation in favor of the church for $605,000 for the easement of the site west side subway under the westerly part of St. Paul's Churchyard. Supreme Court Justice Delehanty granted a mandamus writ against the Controller. The Court said that the Controller contended that the word "audit" in the statute meant that he had the right to determine the amount to be paid and that he had authority to reduce the amount agreed upon for the easement.

"But the power to determine this contract and fix its terms is given to other entities than the Controller," said the Court, who remarked that even if he were not bound by previous decisions he would find that in auditing a claim which, as here, is irrevocably fixed the Controller has power to audit only at that amount.

e: l days said that the commission was going to resort to the State courts to prevent an increase in fare, statements which were afterward borne out, Mr. Ransom continued, the company still withheld court action hoping to get a hearing. The company did not begin preparation of the Federal suit until Feb. 8 and did not complete the papers until the night of Feb. 13, the day before the suit was filed, Mr. Ransom said.

Commenting on Mr. Lewis's assertion that he had not talked to newspapers and that neither had the Transit Commission nor Mr. Untermyer, with respect to threats of seizure of the lines and other steps to block the company, Mr. Ransom pointed out that there was no denial of the statements attributed to Mayor Walker and Corporation Counsel Nicholson.

Every allegation with respect to threats and actions of the officials as printed in the newspapers "have been fully justified and proved by events occurring since Feb. 14," Mr. Ransom said.

While Mr. Ransom contended that the revised schedules of rates filed with the Transit Commission would automatically supersede the five-cent fare schedule on March 3, this does not mean, necessarily, that the company will begin collecting a seven-cent fare on that date. Rather, it is taken as an assertion of legal right which the company seeks to enforce through the medium of the Federal courts.

Although both sides agree that continuance by Judge Mondy of the Federal court order staying the State court proceedings would prevent officials from interfering with the fare increase, Mr. Ransom gave his promise to Judge Mondy that the seven-cent fare would not be put into effect until an application had been made to the Federal statutory court and had been granted. Even if the court should grant the request for a temporary injunction, the mechanics of convening the special court and hearing the application, all of which must await Judge Mondy's decision some time next week, would not permit the higher fare to become effective until several days have passed.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company suspended yesterday seven employes who are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, according to officials of the union. The union officials charged last night that the company was deliberately inciting a strike while the 7-cent fare fight was on in the hope of forcing the increased fare.

The union leaders coupled a threat of a strike with the announcement of the suspension of the men, but said they would await the return of Mayor Walker from his Southern trip and lay the matter before him. The union heads contend that when a strike threatened last Summer the Interborough promised the Mayor not to do anything which would bring on a strike until the courts had passed upon the right of employes to organize in a labor union. The union men last night charged that the Interborough had violated its promise, but said they would live up to the promise which they made.

"However, we must have prompt action," James H. Coleman, the union organizer, said last night. "The Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes has existed for forty years and has never failed to protect its members with all its resources. We will follow the rule in this situation. These men must be reinstated with pay. We were never before so well prepared to meet such a challenge as we are now."

The union gave the names of four of the men who were relieved yesterday. They were John O'Brien, 1,060 University Avenue; C. V. Gettinger, 1,815 Longfellow Avenue; James McGivney, 1,824 Nelson Avenue, and B. Markowitz, 1,327 Southern Boulevard, all in the Bronx. The first three are members of the executive board of the local union. O'Brien has worked for the Interborough for twenty-one years. Five years ago he received a medal for saving a man's life on the Sixth Avenue elevated. All four are motormen.

Mr. Coleman said the men were told to report to Patrick Connelly, the head of the Brotherhood of Interborough Workers, the company union, but Connelly refused to see McGivney and O'Brien.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Coleman said, brotherhood delegates rode over the lines spreading word of what had happened to the seven men and giving warning that other union men would be "picked off" as soon as the company could fill their places.

"Naturally these tactics are affecting the temper of the men," said Mr. Coleman. "That must be what the company is aiming at. In 1916 the company staged a strike of its own with its convenient tool, the Brotherhood, as part of its campaign for an increased fare. Now it is trying to use the Amalgamated for the same purpose. We are not so pliant as the Brotherhood, but we may be forced to act unless some one else does. I am not prepared to say there is anything the City Administration can do. I rather doubt that there is. But we promised to give the Mayor a chance and we will keep our word. We are just as reasonable now as we were then, but we are sorely pressed. We must and will protect our members.

"The company's ostensible program of firing all Amalgamated men is a palpable absurdity. It would take years to replace their present force piece-meal, and in the meantime we would be organizing the new men as they came on. It appears that they aim to snipe at innocent men here and there as a provocative measure. Three guards fired yesterday afternoon had not been officially active in the union, but they did attend the mass meeting Tuesday night."

Mr. Quackenbush at his home in Nyack last night declined to comment on the Amalgamated statement or to answer questions bearing on the union's charges.

A Message to Big Business Men from an English King!

THE Big Business Men of his day told King Canute that the waves would recede at a wave of his hand . . . so to disillusion his flatterers, Canute tried the experiment and got his feet wet . . . the seas exist not only for health but to teach humility. . . they enlarge the outlook by reducing the ego . . . whoever has a grain of sense knows that he is no more than a grain of sand . . . and Big Business Men come to Atlantic City because they like to be reminded occasionally of their own inconsequence! . . . they like the tribute that a fine Atlantic City hotel pays to their economic importance . . . and then they go out on The Boardwalk and listen to the Atlantic Ocean intoning the truth!

REED RAPS LEAGUE AND PROHIBITION

DENOUNCES LEGAL 'SPIES'

Missouri Democrat Says People Will Not Obey Law They Do Not Respect.

DENVER, Feb. 23 (AP).—Setting off the fires of the Presidential campaign in the fourth State in as many days, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri tonight put his plea for a "united and militant Democracy" before a large audience in the Denver City Auditorium.

The Missouri Presidential candidate renewed his warfare on "corruption at Washington" and called for a campaign on the issue of "restoration of honesty to the Government." But he also struck out at the League of Nations and by inference at prohibition, in saying that "no people will obey a law they do not respect."

Without naming the "unnecessary laws" to which he referred, the Senator declared that "snoopers and spies swarm over the land like the lice of Egypt, devouring the substance of the people, prying into their private affairs and regulating their trade and business.

"What wonder that the average man," he continued, "has come to regard the law as a sword of oppression rather than a shield of protection. Basically, many of these regulatory statutes are mistaken or vicious because they invade the realm of morals.

"We seek to do by legislative enactment that which belongs to the schools, the Church and the home. We fail because a constable cannot take the place of a minister or a priest; neither can the coercions of a police matron be substituted for the precepts of a mother.

"Like it or not, the cold fact is that no people will obey a law they do not respect. And no law can be enforced by officers which is not in the vast majority of instances voluntarily obeyed and enforced by the people."

Senator Reed made it clear, however, that he felt it the "high duty" of all law officers to enforce that which they take oath to enforce, and if laws are to be laid aside "they must be repealed in the way set out by the Constitution."

Taking a fling at the League of Nations, which the Missourian helped to defeat in the Senate, he declared:

"Those who sought to establish the League of Nations sought to set up a world authority which, had it fully functioned, would have controlled the destinies of all nations, save that of the masters of the League.

"Once establish such a power, and outraged liberty will some day draw the rebellious sword."

M. C. A. The general theme for the conference is "School, College and Life." Discussion groups will be conducted by undergraduates from Amherst, Harvard, Dartmouth, Wesleyan, Williams and Yale.

fests interest in all America, which was builded and made by persons from all parts of the world and from all the other forty-seven States," he said.

"My city believes that the traditions and the history of all the States should be perpetuated and has a keen interest in perpetuating all viewpoints. I can't remember such a thrill as I received when I looked upon this mountain. My town reveres the memory of the three Americans—Lee, Jefferson and Jackson—whom you are honoring with your Confederate soldiers.

"We know that the finest types of Americans exist in what is called the Southland. You know, we are not very good geographers. New York is interested in Stone Mountain as it is interested in all American history.

"We supported it because we belong to this movement and it belongs partially to us. It's an American movement, and some day it will be coupled with Washington, Lincoln, Pershing and countless others. It is ours because it is American, and anything that's American is part of us and we are part of it."

Spurned Meeting "Bosses" of Mobile.

The Mayor was impressed by the first work on the carving of the August Lukeman giant equestrian statue of General Lee and his horse, Traveler, on the side of the granite mountain. He went through the studio where Lukeman's models were displayed, and later visited the Atlanta Women's Club and returned to his special car, where he received other distinguished Atlantans.

The Mayor declined to discuss today his reasons for the cancellation of the Mobile invitation, but it was learned that the explanation of Mayor Leon Schwartz of that city made no impression on him.

The information Mayor Walker's party received, it was said, showed that tickets had been bought by the public for a reception at a theatre. The party learned that the reception was changed to a private affair, and that this "seemed too much like a high-hat or exclusive party for the Mayor of New York, who wanted to meet the people and had nothing in mind warranting a private conference."

He canceled the invitation, it was said, because he did not want anything that could be construed as his having left a public reception to talk with political bosses."

The Mayor departed this evening for Winston-Salem, where he will visit tomorrow before returning home, where he is due on Saturday.

McLean to Name Horse for Walker.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23 (AP).—"Jimmy Walker" will run next year, but not for Mayor of New York.

Mayor Walker, on his way home from a visit to the New Orleans Mardi Gras, has advised Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, that he has no objection to having a horse in the McLean stable named for him.

"I hope he's good and fast," said the Mayor, "If he's not he will cost me money, for I will have to be patriotic and support the name."

At the Fair Grounds track in New Orleans Tuesday the Mayor wagered on horses of McLean in the three races he saw, winning once and losing twice, but finishing all square.

Mobile Mayor Offers Explanation.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 23 (AP).—Discussing the cancellation by Mayor James J. Walker of New York of his planned four-hour stop at Mobile last night, Mayor Leon Schwarz of Mobile said today that arrangements had been made to use the auditorium of the Battle House for the New York Mayor only in the event there were more people than the hotel lobby could accommodate.

It was said that Mayor Schwarz and other city officials had met at any time planned to have the New York Mayor speak in a theatre, taking the position that it would not be fair to the city to permit an admission charge to hear him.

The New York Mayor received an ovation at the station last night, where his train stopped for twenty minutes. He stepped out on the platform of his private car and waved greetings to those assembled under the shed. He then moved back into the observation car, and the Reception Committee and a score or more of others filed in, the Mayor shaking hands with the visitors.

Mayor Schwarz was the first of the official reception committee to greet Mayor Walker inside the car. Mayor Schwarz presented to Mr. Walker a silver goblet as a souvenir of his visit to Mobile.

THANKS SOUTH FOR HONORS.

Walker Says New York Has Many Friends There.

By JAMES J. WALKER.

Written for The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—I hope and believe my visit through a part of the South will mark a progressive step toward the elimination of misunderstanding between the great cities and the places of smaller population.

Everywhere I have been greeted with the utmost cordiality and appreciated honors have been paid me as the Mayor of New York.

I have said to some of the friends I have met in the South that our giant metropolis has been good to its sons and daughters from the forty-seven States outside New York and acknowledges with gratitude the outstanding services they have contributed. This cannot be said too often.

New York knows no geography and asks no questions of the men and women who come from other places to cast their lot with it. As I have traveled in the South I have been gratified to learn that New York has more friends than we knew. The people, when they think about it, it seems to me, decide that New York is not so bad after all.

I have had a great time at the New Orleans Mardi Gras. I don't think any one saw more of it than I.

MRS. LEEDS IN SECLUSION.

Uncle Says She Wishes to Avoid Queries About "Grand Duchess."

The seclusion of Mrs. William B. Leeds, the former Princess Xenia of Russia, who returned on Wednesday after a pleasure cruise to the West Indies, barred efforts yesterday to learn from her the plans she has made for the entertainment of Mme. Anastasia Tchaikovsky, who calls herself the daughter of the late Czar Nicholas.

That Mrs. Leeds is now with the reputed Grand Duchess Anastasia of Russia was denied yesterday by Mrs. Leed's uncle, Henderson Green of Montclair, N. J. Mr. Green said his niece wished to evade being interrogated about Mme. Tchaikovsky and her place of retreat.

The butler at the Leeds home at Oyster Bay denied last night that Mr. and Mrs. Leeds or Mme. Tchaikovsky were there.

Mme. Tchaikovsky is believed to be resting under medical care preparatory to a dental surgery operation which she is to undergo.

LINDBERGH FORCED TO EARTH BY FOG

THEIR VISIT A MYSTERY

Lindbergh Is Reported to Have Designed New Plane to Meet Conditions He Has Encountered.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, flying in a single-seater pursuit ship from Selfridge Field to the Ford Airport, was forced down by the thick fog north of Detroit a little after noon today. It was a landing such as the Colonel has not experienced for many months, for there was not a person in sight to welcome him.

Colonel Lindbergh's airplane came to earth in an open field northwest of the city. Major Thomas G. Lanphier, in another plane, also came down. The landing was made without difficulty.

Colonel Lindbergh said that he decided the fog was too impenetrable to make flying safe. Major Lanphier, answering his signal, came down also.

Three other airplanes had accompanied them out of Selfridge, but they went on through and arrived safely at the Ford Airport. The other two fliers finished the trip by motor car.

Farmer Describes Talk.

The landing was made on a farm owned by J. W. Cornair, who was the first person to tal with the fliers after they came down. Telling of his conversation with them, Mr. Cornair said:

"It was some time after noon when I saw two planes fly directly over the house, and low. I knew they were going to land within a short distance. I had no idea who they belonged to, but I thought I would run over and see what happened.

"I was running across the fields as the first plane came down. They landed within thirty seconds of each other. Both bumped along the ground about 200 yards and stopped.

"As I came up to the first plane I saw a tall, yellow-haired boy getting out.

"'Hello! What's the matter, boy?' I said. 'Did you have to make a forced landing or something?'

"He looked at me and grinned.

"'No, I wouldn't exactly call it a forced landing,' he said, talking kind of slow.

"'The fog was too heavy, and we thought we had better come down,' he said.

"About that time the pilot of the second plane came up.

"'By the way,' he says, 'have you any idea who you're talking to?'

"'No,' I said, 'who is it?'

"'Why, it's the Colonel,' he said.

"'That doesn't mean anything to me,' I said. 'What Colonel?'

"'He said, 'Colonel Lindbergh, of course.'

"Colonel Lindbergh asked me how far it was to the Ford Airport. I told him ten or twelve miles."

The remainder of the trip, about twelve miles, was made in an automobile owned by Earl Lathrup, a near-by farmer.

Mr. Lathrup, after he returned to the scene of the landing, said that Major Lanphier had told him before they started away in the automobile that he was forced to come down because a switch cut out in his plane and he could not repair it.

The three crowded into the single seat of Mr. Lathrup's small coupé for the drive to the airport. Mr. Lathrup received a $5 bill from Colonel Lindbergh for his trouble and the farmer plans to frame it.

Visit Mask of a Mystery.

The question why Colonel Lindbergh and a party of four St. Louis business men made their "mystery trip" to Selfridge Field yesterday and then jumped over to the Ford airport today, where they spent this afternoon in close conference with Ford officials, has not yet been cleared up.

The party included Major William B. Robertson, Harold M. Bixby, President of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce; B. F. Mahoney, builder of the Spirit of St. Louis, and Harry F. Knight, President of the St. Louis Flying Club.

The party inspected a partially completed airplane last night. This machine, it is said, embodies several new principles designed to meet situations which Colonel Lindbergh met during his famous flights in the Spirit of St. Louis.

After the conference this afternoon, at which Edsel Ford and William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company, were present, Ford officials issued a formal denial that their airplane division had built or was planning to build an airplane to the specifications of Colonel Lindbergh and Major Lanphier, as had been reported.

Some see a partial explanation at least of the visitors' presence here in the announcement this afternoon at Milwaukee by Postmaster Peter F. Piasecki of a new air line to be operated by Stout Air Services, operators of the Detroit-Cleveland passenger line. The new line will carry passengers, mail and express. William B. Stout, head of the Ford Airplane Division and President of Stout Air Services, is in charge of the project, the announcement stated.

The proposed route includes Chicago, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Albany. A branch line from Montreal would meet the mail line at Albany, with planes going from there directly down the Hudson to New York.

Colonel Lindbergh and his party returned to Selfridge Field tonight by automobile from the Ford airport.

DETROIT, Feb. 23 (AP).—One reason given for Colonel Lindbergh's presence here was the reported formation of a new transcontinental airway for freight and passenger service, with the flying Colonel as an executive.

Still another report is that, in connection with an air transportation project, Colonel Lindbergh plans to operate an aeronautical school. This report has been branded as erroneous by Major Lanphier.

Lindbergh Amity Day Urged in a House Bill; Bloom Asks for Celebration of Paris Flight

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A movement to set aside Monday, May 21, the first anniversary of the landing in Paris of Colonel Lindbergh, as "International Good-Will Day" was begun in the House today.

Representative Bloom of New York introduced a resolution providing that the anniversary should be celebrated with a joint session of Congress, attended by the President, members of his Cabinet, the Chief Justice and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and the diplomatic envoys of all nations accredited to Washington. Colonel Lindbergh would be asked to attend as guest of honor.

"Under my resolution, arrangements for celebration of 'International Good-Will Day' would be in charge of a joint committee of the Senate and House," Mr. Bloom said.

"I should suggest that this committee arrange for addresses by the President, a representative of the foreign Governments and a spokesman for the Latin-American countries which Mr. Lindbergh has just visited." Mr. Bloom expressed the hope that the Lindbergh celebration would tend to further the development of good feeling among the United States and other nations.

"Wherever Colonel Lindbergh has gone," Mr. Bloom said, "he has been received with great acclaim as a messenger of peace and good-will among peoples. It is no exaggeration to say that his flights to Central and South American countries have done more for a renewal of good feeling among peoples of the various nations than anything that has happened in centuries. The expressions of amity at the proposed celebration would be echoed in every country on earth and would tend to promote international good-will."

HINKLER FLIES TODAY FOR BUNDABERG HOME

After Visit With Mother, He Plans Tour of Australia and Return Trip by Air.

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Feb. 23.—Bert Hinkler, an Australian airman who has flown from England to Australia in fifteen and a half days, will start tomorrow for his home at Bundaberg, Queensland. Though his chief desire today seemed to be to rest, he was on the landing ground at an early hour inspecting his machine and decided to overhaul the engine before beginning his next stage. He expects to leave at daylight tomorrow for Camoonweal, probably continue to Long Reach Saturday and to Bundaberg Sunday. Hinkler will stay at Bundaberg with his mother for a few days before he flies to Brisbane and the southern capitals and probably to Canberra. The distance to Bundaberg is 1,770 miles.

Hinkler is very tired and the continuous noise of the engine has caused a partial deafness. He had only a drink of water before he left Bima, Sumbawa, for Port Darwin, and had carried no food. He intends to attempt a return flight to London immediately after his visit to the south in the hope of completing the return journey within five weeks of leaving England. His machine looks spick and span as though it had just left the factory.

Hinkler hopes to fly across the Atlantic in the Spring with Captain McIntosh. He and McIntosh attempted a non-stop flight to India some months ago, but had to descend in Poland.

Landed by Sir Robert Horne.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 23 (AP).—Commenting on the flight of Bart Hinkler from England to Australia, Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in an interview:

"Captain Hinkler has outclassed Colonel Lindbergh's achievement. His flight is the most encouraging and inspiring that has taken place and has relieved the whole British race of the feeling that it has been outclassed in recent times in air developments.

"Hinkler's flight required endurance over long periods and patient courage of an exceptional order. This flight is the greatest single achievement in the history of aviation."

Davison Hails Feat.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The fifteen-day flight of Bert Hinkler, English aviator, from England to Australia, was praised on every hand in official air circles today and especially by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, as adding "a new and brilliant chapter to army aviation."

"Hinkler's remarkable flight," Davison said, "has added a new and brilliant chapter of army aviation."

AIRMEN OF 8 NATIONS PLAN FLIGHTS HERE

PARIS, Feb. 23.—In the Spring the European aviator turns to thoughts of the Atlantic. Although officially speaking Spring is still a month away, the present period of fine, warm weather has served to revive French hopes of being first to cross the ocean to New York, while from other countries on the Continent, including Poland, Germany and Italy, have come reports of active preparations to accomplish the same feat.

The French Ministry of Marine has just announced plans for an attempt and has designated Lieutenant Sala, commander of the Hydroavion Escadrille at Cherbourg, as pilot. He will leave this week for the Azores to make preparations, presumably for a halt there before taking off across the Atlantic. Lieutenant Sala has a number of fine exploits to his credit.

The Blue Bird of recent memory was taken off yesterday at Villacoublay by M. Givon in anticipation of a flight from Paris to Casablanca and return without a stop. This is believed to be preliminary to another attempt by Givon to span the Atlantic.

It is understood that there are at least two other French projects being quietly considered, but the details are withheld until later in the season.

From Warsaw comes news that two schemes for traversing the Atlantic are under way there. Lieutenant Idikonski will make a try in the White Eagle and Lieutenant Kalinas of the Polish Aviation Corps will pilot a Fokker plane in a similar flight. A large sum of money is behind the project and Polish sportsmen, as well as the Government, are enthusiastic supporters of it.

French aeronautical circles are informed that there are at least three German and two Italian attempts in prospect. Rumania, Belgium and Spain also are possible contenders.

None of these take consideration of probable British plans, which are expected to develop two or three attempts to fly from England to the United States.

15 Nations Attend Air Meeting.

WARSAW, Feb. 23 (AP).—The nineteenth convention of the International Air Traffic Association met here today. Directors and delegates representing nave companies of fifteen nations were present, as well as an agent from the League of Nations. American interests sent Allen Kelly.

AIRPORT MEASURE ADOPTED AT ALBANY

Senate Passes Webb Bill to Clear Decks for Wednesday's Big Hearing.

JOINT SESSION ARRANGED

Great Honor to Be Paid Colonel Lindbergh, Who Will Speak With Other Notables.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—Preparations for New York's official welcome to Colonel Lindbergh Wednesday went forward rapidly today, while the Senate took the first step in enacting the State aviation program into law by passing the Webb bill authorizing cities and villages to establish airports outside of their municipal boundaries.

The bill was to have been held up until the time of the hearing, together with another measure, introduced by Senator Webb, Chairman of the Aviation Committee, but it was rushed through at the request of Utica officials. Utica, it was explained, has options on several parcels of proposed airport land outside the city. The options are due to expire on March 1.

The aviation hearing of Wednesday, originally intended to be confined to the Joint Aviation Committees of the Senate and Assembly, was lifted today to the dignity of a joint session of the entire Legislature, to be presided over by Lieut. Gov. Corning. A joint session to honor a distinguished visitor to the Capitol is unique in the State history.

Word was received from the War Department today that Colonel Lindbergh would fly from St. Louis to this city Wednesday in the Spirit of St. Louis, instead of an army plane.

Practically final details for the reception of the Colonel were settled today. It is Colonel Lindbergh's wish that he be subjected to public gaze as little as possible during his stay and his public appearance will therefore be confined to a ride from the Albany airport to the Capitol, where he will meet Governor Smith, and a few minutes in the Assembly chamber, where the hearing will take place. He will be the last speaker on the program. Colonel Lindbergh regards the Albany visit as purely in the interest of aviation, it was said, and not in the nature of a public greeting.

Mrs. Lindbergh's Plans in Doubt.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Colonel Lindbergh, has received the invitation to be present when Colonel Lindbergh addresses a joint session of the Legislature Wednesday. She said today she did not know if the plans for her flight to Boston would permit her acceptance of the invitation.

She is to be a guest at the National Education Association meeting, which opens in Boston Thursday, and is to receive a gold emblem from the association.

Details of the flight are being worked out in a conference between Brig. Gen. William E. Gillmore, Chief of the Army Air Corps Material Division, and Lieut. Col. Charles H. Danforth, commandant at Selfridge Field.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—New York's proposed law to require all airplane pilots operating in that State to hold a Federal license, and making "avigation" the legal terminology for flying, will have the support of the three Assistant Secretaries of the Air, MacCracken, of the Commerce Department; Davison of the War Department and Warner of the Navy Department, in addition to Colonel Lindbergh.

They will be at Albany on Wednesday to explain why they believe the Webb bill should be passed. Similar measures, said to be pending in other States, are regarded by Federal officials as an important safeguard that should be thrown around those who go into the air.

AFTER AIR SPEED RECORD.

British Seaplane Will Attempt More Than 300 Miles an Hour.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—A British attempt to set up a world's aircraft speed record of more than 300 miles per hour will be made over Southampton Water before accredited representatives of the Fédération Aeronautique Internationale the first favorable day after March 5.

Flight Lieutenant S. M. Kinkead, who flew a Gloster-Napier biplane in the Schneider Cup race last September, will probably be the pilot and the machine will be a reserve supermarine Napier seaplane, a duplicate of the one in which Flight Lieutenant Webster won the Schneider trophy for Britain.

GIRL FLIES FROM HERE TO SAN FRANCISCO

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—The first girl to fly from New York to San Francisco on regular air mail schedule, Miss Margaret Bartlett, Columbia University student and daughter of Judge George A. Bartlett, Reno, Nev., today stepped jauntily from the cabin of a transcontinental mail plane at the Oakland municipal airport, a confirmed aviation enthusiast.

Forty-one hours in the air, flying steadily, regardless of weather, from Hadley Field to the Pacific, she called a glorious adventure.

"Words simply cannot express the thrill of it," she said.

"I had hoped to make the trip in record air mail time," the amateur flier explained, "but our plane was forced down at Atlantic, Ohio, at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. We also were held two hours in Chicago. On my return trip, which I shall make in approximately two weeks, I hope to escape delay.

On the trip across the Continent the mail planes, with their enthusiastic passenger, made their regular ten-minute stops at Cleveland, Omaha, North Platte, Cheyenne, Rock Springs, Salt Lake City and Reno.

"It truly was a revelation," Miss Bartlett said, "to see the progress that has been made in commercial aviation."

Endurance Flight Fails.

IMPERIAL, Cal., Feb. 23 (AP).—The huge monoplane Albatross, attempting a world's endurance flight record, was forced down near here tonight after being in the air 10 hours and 22 minutes.

The third attempt of the plane to better the record now held in Germany was lost when a broken push rod forced the Albatross to descend, said Charles Rocheville, the chief pilot.

OPPOSES SCOLDINGS FOR NAUGHTY CHILD

Dr. M. C. Hill Asserts at Medical Academy Nervousness Often Is Responsible.

DR. NICHOL TELLS OF WORK

State Commissioner of Health Says Maternity Mortality Is Rising In Cities.

"Keep away from the rod but don't lay too much emphasis on psychoanalysis in solving the problem of the bad child," was the message of Dr. Miner C. Hill, who spoke yesterday afternoon at the New York Academy of Medicine on "The Nervous Child as a Defense of the Bad Child."

Dr. Hill said that environment, physical condition and heredity influenced the development of the child. He urged a combination of strictness with a psychological study of the child, and adjustment of environment as a solution of most problems of child training.

"The nervousness of a child," he said, "is often due to nothing more than mere fatigue, the result of the third or fourth child of the family trying to keep up with his older brothers and sisters. Get them younger playmates, or else shorten their day and, what is most important, let them run wild without the hindrance of too many don'ts. The results will be surprising."

In the matter of a poor appetite, Dr. Hill suggested that the monotony of repeating the same items of diet day after day be avoided.

"Then don't urge the child to eat," he said, "but set the food before it and leave the room for ten or twelve minutes. When you come back take the food away without saying anything by way of reproof for not having eaten. The child soon will be asking for second helpings.

"Don't worry about the child starving itself to death. Our work with epileptics has shown that a child can go as long as two weeks on a diet of nothing more than orange juice without any ill effects."

Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., New York State Commissioner of Health, discussed the work of his department. He said that in spite of an annual appropriation of $200,000 for maternity and child hygiene the mortality in this field was getting worse, a decrease in the country districts being more than offset by an increase in the cities.

"The State of Utah," he said in answer to a question, "has the best maternity and child welfare record in the Union, because it is the only State having a law requiring a prenatal examination before a woman has a child."

Dr. Henry James spoke on "Facts and Fancies About Blood Pressure."

HELD AS PERJURER IN $78,512 FUR SUIT

Former Watchman Says a Cigar 'Doped' Him When He Signed Affidavit About Fire.

Mike Yuftcak, former watchman in a fur dressing plant at East Norwalk, Conn., who was accused before Supreme Court Justice Black of committing perjury in his testimony for fifteen insurance companies that contested claims for a loss on furs sustained by the Brody & Funt Co., Inc., through a fire in 1925, was held yesterday to await the action of the Grand Jury. Justice Black acted as committing Magistrate at the request of I. Geinsburg, attorney for Samuel Leidesdorf, trustee for the creditors of the Brody & Funt Co., who got a verdict for $78,512 in the case. The Judge declared in arraigning the witness that "when perjury comes in the court house door, justice flies out of the window."

The witness was accused after he had testified that an affidavit signed a year ago, in which statements directly contrary to his testimony were made, was only a blank paper when he signed it, and that he was not able to comprehend his acts because he had received a cigar which "doped" him. The formal complaint of perjury was made yesterday by Samuel Funt, formerly of the Brody & Funt Co. When Yuftcak appeared before him yesterday, Justice Black told him of the difference between his testimony and his affidavit and remarked:

"This is the third case of perjury that has occurred before me. Perjury is anarchy, because with perjury justice is impossible. The man who commits perjury commits it with the same motive as the man who would shoot down a juror or burn down a court house. If witnesses do not realize what perjury is, there is only one way to make them realize it, and that is to put them where they cannot commit it. Many juries have disagreed after it had cost the State hundreds of dollars and the litigants thousands of dollars to try their cases. An honest litigant stands no chance against a perjurer."

Justice Black said he had asked the aid of District Attorney Banton, who sent Assistant District Attorney McNaboe to appear against the witness. "This aid will be of little avail if the citizens themselves do not realize that it is their duty to prevent perjury, help to apprehend perjurers, and punish them when they are guilty," said the Court.

When fingerprints taken of Yuftcak last night showed that he had no police record, Justice Black authorized bail of $1,000 to be accepted for him.

KING'S CHIMNEY SMOKES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—King George is a victim of a smoky chimney. He announced the fact himself during a visit to the British Industries Fair in Birmingham today. The King was interested particularly in a display of electric fires, and he said:

"I wish I had one of those, as my chimney at Buckingham Palace smokes."

At another stand the King had himself weighed, and the register showed 150 pounds. "Quite correct," he remarked.

Queen Mary was asked if she would like to try her weight, but replied firmly, "no, thank you."

ADVERTISING HERE PRAISED BY CLAUDEL

French Ambassador Says It Could Be Used to 'Explain' America to His Country.

FOR MORE UNDERSTANDING

He Makes Special Trip to Be Guest of Ad Club—His Career as a Diplomat Sketched by Speaker.

American shrewdness in advertising might be used to good advantage in "explaining" Americans to the French people, in the opinion of Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to Washington, who spoke yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor at the Advertising Club, 33 Park Avenue.

The Ambassador paid tribute to American newspapers and methods of advertising, declaring he learned more of French politics and economics from American newspapers than from French ones.

"But Frenchmen have very poor information about America," he added, to "America is a good and great country, but it can be said of it, as what King Edward said of a certain good wine of Burgundy: It needs explanation. As an Ambassador it would be a great help to me if America in France was a little less extolled and criticized and a little better explained."

In praising American advertising methods at home, the Ambassador expressed wonder that the same methods were not employed in foreign papers. Except for a few brands of automobiles, he said, there is little advertising of American goods in French publications. This is true, he added, not only of products but of "good points."

M. Claudel was introduced by H. H. Charles, President of the Charles Advertising Service, who declared that Ambassadors were neither born nor made, but grew over a long period of time, "like the rubber plant or century plant." Mr. Charles traced the diplomatic career of the Ambassador from the time of his first appointment. Following the Ambassador's address Paul Meyer, publisher of Theatre Magazine, also spoke.

The Ambassador made a special trip to New York for the luncheon and returned to Washington on an afternoon train.

Among the guests, who were introduced by Gilbert T. Hodges, President of the club, were:

BELIEVES DICE GAME CAUSED BRONX MURDER

McGeehan Says Victim and Man Sought Probably Had a Dispute Over Proceeds.

An explanation of the murder which uncovered a thieves' rendezvous in an elaborately furnished Bronx apartment at 541 Union Avenue was given by District Attorney McGeehan yesterday. He said that William (Doyle, former lightweight prizefighter, was probably shot because he and Isaac Behrman, owner of the apartment, quarreled over the proceeds of a craps game in West Forty-seventh Street. Behrman and his wife, Anna, have disappeared.

Mrs. Jean Doyle, 35 years old, of 134 West Eighty-fifth Street, the widow, was questioned yesterday by detectives. She said she knew nothing of her husband's friends, but did know he had been employed as a doorman at a West Forty-seventh Street gambling place.

Doyle, with notes amounting to $102 clutched in his hands, staggered from the apartment Monday evening on the heels of a running man, and collapsed. In the apartment were found letters from numerous convicts and former convicts, drills, soft hats, caps and cheap clothes.

BRITISH HOSPITAL HEAD TELLS OF PENSION PLAN

Sir Edward Penton, Chairman of the Board of the Middlesex Hospital in London and an authority on hospital pensions, was the guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday at the Bankers' Club given by the Hospital Pension Committee of New York City, which is considering the establishment of a pension system here for employes in non-municipal hospitals.

Sir Edward was associated with the organization of the Hospital Pension System adopted by the British Hospital Association in London in January.

The inauguration of the pension system, he said, came about after representatives of the hospitals containing 11,000 out of 14,000 beds had undertaken to organize the project. Eventually the system was extended throughout Great Britain. At the time the inquiry was made 1,068 pensionable hospital officers were reported in London alone.

Pensions are adjusted to character of duties and salaries, he explained. The institutions provide 10 per cent. and the beneficiary of the pension 5 per cent. The cost of pensions to the average hospital is about 2 per cent. of its total ordinary expenditures. The pensions comprise endowment policies and preferred annuity policies taken out for the employes.

Hospital Gets Mortgage Permit.

Supreme Court Justice Delehanty gave permission yesterday to the hospital of St. Elizabeth of Hungary, at 190th Street and Fort Washington Avenue, to mortgage its property, worth $1,250,000, for $600,000 to pay the balance due on the construction of the new building. The hospital owns other property worth $300,000, consisting of 418 West Forty-first Street, mortgaged for $200,000, and has personal assets valued at $250,000.

$1,100,000 MISTAKES LAID TO COL. GREENE

SEES BUNGLING ON BRIDGE

Accident to the Cofferdam of Mid-Hudson Span Is Called Further Incompetence.

Sullivan W. Jones, who resigned as State Architect on Feb. 9, issued a reply yesterday to the announcement attributed to Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, State Superintendent of Public Works, that the State's new office building in Albany would cost "at least $1,100,000 in excess of the original estimate furnished by the State Architect."

Mr. Jones complains that the "interference by the Superintendent of Public Works and the substitution of his judgment for that of the State Architect has cost the State on the office building at Albany nine months' delay and at least $1,100,000." He says this $1,100,000 has been loaded upon the taxpayers because of the inclusion in the statutes of a "stupid and unworkable theory of reorganization which contradicts the experience of centuries." The building, he declares, should have been under roof before now, "and at a cost not in excess of the funds appropriated by the 1927 Legislature."

Mr. Jones lists "unnecessary" changes in the original plans for the building. He says the "incompetency" displayed in connection with the office building has also been shown in the construction of the mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Jones's statement follows in part:

"That the building will cost considerably more than originally estimated, every member of the Sites and Building Commission, including the Governor, has known since June 2, when an order was issued to the contractor omitting work in the upper part of the building and so providing $425,000 needed to pay the additional cost of extravagant and unnecessary changes in the foundation design, as recommended by a majority of the Board of Engineers appointed at the request of the Superintendent of Public Works. Even the retaining wall constructed to keep the Fort Orange Club from sliding into the hole represents a waste of funds. No such retaining wall was required even by the change in foundation design.

"Another item of unnecessary additional cost is the $20,570 which the Superintendent of Public Works agreed to pay the contractor for erecting the steel at the Washington Avenue and State Street ends of the building while excavation was still going on in the central portion. Not only was this procedure unnecessary but it was also unadvisable and hazardous. It was done in the interest of political expediency to stop the Republican Legislature from asking embarrassing questions.

"No one can estimate the final cost to the State of stripping the State Architect of his responsibility and authority under the reorganization of the State Government and giving that responsibility and authority to a builder of highways and canals who knows nothing about building construction.

"Probably there will be several hundred thousand dollars of claims against the State growing out of the work on the office building, which, in my judgment, the contractor will have no difficulty in collecting. This does not include claims for damage which the Fort Orange Club will collect unless the State buys the club property, as has been suggested, to cover the trail of incompetency and engineering blunders committed by the Department of Public Works.

"This incompetency has been displayed not alone on the State Office Building at Albany, but also on the $6,000,000 mid-Hudson bridge at Poughkeepsie, where one of the great cofferdams has tipped over at more than 40 degrees, delaying the opening of the bridge six to eight months, and in the end costing the State an additional million dollars, if I am any judge of where the responsibility lies."

CENTRE OF DISPUTE OVER HIGH COST.

Times Wide World.

Architect's drawing of the State Office Building at Albany, now the subject of controversy because its cost is expected to be $1,100,000 above the estimate.

WOULD END LUNACY FEES.

Albany Bill Provides Examination of Criminals Without Cost.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—The elimination of independent lunacy commissions in criminal cases, with their heavy fees, is contemplated in a bill introduced in the Legislature today by Assemblyman Milan E. Goodrich, Republican, of Westchester. It has the approval of Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, head of the State Department of Correction, who has received complaints of the heavy charges made by lunacy examiners, especially in Brooklyn.

ESTONIANS SING TONIGHT.

Will Repeat Songs That Kept Their Spirit Alive for 700 Years.

Ancient folksongs of Estonia, which kept the national spirit alive during 700 years of bondage, and which Estonia's Consul General in this country, Colonel Victor Mutt, credits with being responsible for his nation's present independence, will resound tonight in Harlem Y. M. C. A. when natives of that country in the United States will celebrate the tenth anniversary of its independence.

Colonel Mutt will preside, and there will be patriotic addresses in Estonian and in English. Among the singers will be groups who expect to return to their native land in June for the national song festival which takes place every five years.

"For centuries," said Colonel Mutt yesterday, "our people were bold sea warriors, raiding the coasts of Denmark and Sweden. We were reduced to practical slavery in the thirteenth century. But we kept the tradition of our glorious days alive by means of our folksongs. We have fought and sung ourselves to freedom and independence."

Estonia, held by Russia until the revolution in 1917, refused to join the rebellion and won its independence.

He said this had brought to light that more than 85 per cent. of the people in this State lacked credit in the banks and were forced, when confronted with immediate and pressing need, to resort to small loan agencies, some of which operate within the law while others are "money bootleggers," charging interest of from 240 to 480 per cent. annually.

Three Classes Offenders.

Illicit money lenders are divided into three categories in the report of the Attorney General, "salary buyers, chattel loan sharks and high pressure automobile lenders."

"The salary loan buyer, operating in all the large cities of the State, is declared the most vicious. The operations of the chattel loan shark are confined largely to the city of New York, the report says, as are those of the "high pressure automobile lender."

The operations of the sharks are described by the Attorney General as follows:

"A borrower receives a loan of $100 and gives in return a promissory note for $200, secured by chattel mortgage payable in instalments over a period of three months. The interest usually exacted approximates 370 per cent. The rate of interest charged by chattel loan sharks varies from 120 per cent. to over 1,000 per cent.

"The high pressure automobile lender operates on about the same plan and rate of interest as the chattel mortgage loan shark, limiting his activities, however, to loans upon automobiles. One prominent automobile lender loans $250 on an automobile provided the applicant also buys $250 in stock, giving his note for $500, secured by a chattel mortgage on his automobile for a similar amount.

"The stock, needless to say, is valueless. The term of the loan is usually one year and payment is made by instalments. Consequently the interest charge exceeds 200 per cent.

"Immediate action of the Legislature is imperative because the present statutes of this State are inadequate to meet the conditions above set forth."

HEARS HE GETS FORTUNE.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Feb. 23.—A textile worker in the Lodz mills named Agazika was notified today by the Polish Consul in New York, according to a report here, that he is the sole heir to a fortune left by a Constance Robakowsky of New York and estimated at $12,000,000.

The bewildered man, who is earning less than $5 weekly, said that he remembered hearing of an uncle of this name but never knew he had died or that he was wealthy. He says his uncle was expelled from Poland after the 1863 uprisings and settled in America.

When asked what he intends to do with the money Agazika replied he must have time to think the thing over. Within a few hours he became the centre of interest of a mob, some of whom wanted to beg money and others to borrow funds to finance wild schemes.

Stanislaw Lapkowski, counselor of the Polish Legation in Washington, Thadeus Marynowski, Polish Consul in this city, and Dr. Ratzynsky, Secretary of the Polish Consulate General here, all denied last night knowing anything regarding the legacy reported from Warsaw. They said that no cable had been sent to Warsaw from the Consulate General here, and also that they knew nothing of the death of Constance Robakowsky.

ALINE HOFHEIMER BRIDE AT THE RITZ

FLORA PAELTZ MARRIES

Miss Aline R. Hofheimer, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Hofheimer of 885 Park Avenue, was married to Dr. Richard Bamberger, Assistant Professor of Anthropology at Harvard University, yesterday afternoon in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton. The Rev. John Haynes Holmes of the Community Church performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Harry Frank, as matron of honor, and Miss Doris Hofheimer, as maid of honor. The Misses Madeline Bamberger and Mildred Herrman were bridesmaids.

The ceremony was followed by a reception and dinner.

Professor Bamberger and his bride will sail today for Paris. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bamberger of this city.

Wolff—Paeltz.

The marriage of Miss Flora Paeltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max A. Paeltz of 845 Riverside Drive, to Frank H. Wolff of San Antonio, Texas, and this city, took place at noon yesterday at the St. Regis. The Rev. Dr. George Alexander performed the ceremony. Mrs. H. Trowbridge Harris was matron of honor, and Edwin Wolff, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A small wedding breakfast followed the ceremony.

Mr. Wolff and his bride will go South on their wedding trip. They will live at 51 West Eighty-sixth Street.

Kulla—Michaels.

Miss Jean Michaels, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Michaels, was married to Maxwell Kulla yesterday at the home of her mother, 23 West Seventy-third Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass in the presence of near relatives and a few friends. The bride was unattended.

Mr. Kulla and his bride will go to Havana on the wedding trip. They will live in New York on their return.

Feldman-Blau.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Blau, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blau, to Herbert F. Feldman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feldman of this city, took place last night at the home of the bride, 330 West Seventy-second Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Solomon Fineberg. There were no attendants.

Mr. Feldman and his bride will sail this afternoon on the Iroquois for Havana. They will live in New York.

Durand-Finlaw.

Miss Francis Finlaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Finlaw of East Orange and Rumson, N. J., and Harry Durand Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Durand of Shrewsbury, N. J., formerly of Newark, were married at noon yesterday in Grace Episcopal Church, Orange. The ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Walkley, rector of the church, was followed by a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride.

Scott—Breingan.

SUPPER-DANCE ON LINER.

500 Persons at Emanu-El League's Benefit for Fellowships.

More than five hundred persons attended the supper-dance of the Emanu-El League, a Temple Emanu-El organization of young people, held aboard the French liner Paris last night to raise funds for the student fellowships by which young Jews who show scholastic ability or artistic talent may have a year's study abroad.

Miss Beatrice Lillie, English comedienne now on Broadway, was the guest of honor. Among those present, some as members of the Advisory Board and others as patronesses, were Colonel Michael Friedsam, Jerome Hanauer, Daniel Guggenheim, Roger W. Straus, Mrs. Louis Fischer, Mrs. Jacob Wertheim, Henry M. Torch, Ludwig Vogelstein, Judge Irving Lehman, Adolph Lewisohn, Mrs. William Gingenstein, Mrs. Paul Block, Mrs. Paul Baerwald, S. W. Straus, Benjamin Mendecal, Mrs. Simon Frankel, Judge Edgar M. Lauer and the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass.

Dr. Krass is honorary Chairman of the Advisory Committee and Henry M. Toch is active Chairman. Irving Ciner was the Chairman of the Supper-Dance Committee. Miss Betty Kalisher is President of the league.

Music was by Vincent Lopez and his orchestra. A group of Chester Hale girls, in rehearsal for a future Broadway revue, danced several numbers, and Charles King and Miss Stella Mayhew, Broadway stars, also contributed to the program.

PALISADES 'PROM' TONIGHT.

Junior Dance of N. Y. U. to Be Held at the Ritz-Carlton.

One hundred and fifty couples, besides patronesses and members of the Faculty, are expected to attend the Interfraternity Palisades Promenade of the class of 1929, College of Arts and Pure Science and the College of Engineering of New York University, to be held tonight at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The "Prom" Girl this year is Miss Helen Lambert of Brooklyn, who was chosen by Chairman Carl H. Heiberg. This will be the second time in more than thirty years that the dance will be held off the campus.

Mrs. Hoover Girl Scouts' Guest.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, was a guest at a luncheon given today by the Girl Scout Council of New Rochelle at their club house, 711 North Avenue, for Mrs. James Dester Rippin, national director of the Girl Scouts of America. After the luncheon Mrs. Hoover, who is the first national Vice President of the Girl Scouts, spoke at an informal meeting of the Scouts in the Junior High School. The girls presented corsage bouquets to Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Rippin.

NYACK LOCKS OUT DISMISSED TEACHER

Combination of School Safe Changed Also in Effort to Bar Ex-Superintendent.

WIGHTMAN TO REPLY TODAY

Board Denies Wasting Funds in Last Two Years, Explaining It Shifted Budget Amounts.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Determined to bar H. J. Wightman, dismissed Superintendent of the Nyack Public School, from the building, the Board of Education gave orders today to have the locks on the doors changed and ordered a new combination on the safe in the office of the Superintendent. Mr. Wightman's keys to the building were taken by Trustee George C. Wesel, but the former Superintendent was said to have a duplicate set.

The deposed Superintendent made no effort to enter the school building today. In the public square he met Chief of Police Vardeman, who is one of his neighbors, and laughingly discussed the possibility of the Chief arresting him if he went to the school. He said he would issue a statement tomorrow after receiving his February check.

Mr. Wightman said he realized that the board had authority to dismiss him as it did and explained that he remained in his office on Tuesday principally to check over some reports and gather data that he would need later. He said he expected to return to the office later to get personal belongings.

The Board of Education charged today that Mr. Wightman had prepared a financial report for the State Department of Education which was incorrect. The board denied Mr. Wightman's allegations, the principal one of which was that it had spent $30,000 more than the taxpayers had authorized during the past two years. In reply to the charge of wasting funds, the board said:

"It often turns out that there were insufficient funds estimated for one purpose and an excess voted for another. Is the school to be closed and the board to wait until a special meeting of the district is called that will authorize the expenditure? If that be the law, then, as Shakespeare says, the law is an ass. No, that is not the law and it is not common sense.

"It is true that this board has spent for school purposes, from time to time, money that was not specifically estimated and placed in the annual budget for those exact purposes. A school of this size could be run in no other way, and this has been the practice of all boards for many years."

MARJORIE CANDEE HEARD.

Marjorie Candee sang the veteran Isidore Luckstone's arrangement of an old English air, Hook's "Sweet Lilies of the Valley," as a spirited climax of classic airs, and his "Come Home, Beloved," among modern lyrics, at her recital last night in the Town Hall, following a European tour. Mr. Luckstone gave artistic accompaniment at the piano.

Miss Candee displayed a voice in early bloom, with a flower-like delicacy of vibrant upper tones, while not as yet so musically developed in all its range. She added Clara Schumann's "Ich stand in dunklen Träumen" to the "Schneeglöckchen" of Robert Schumann, and to a French group of older opera airs the "Chanson Sarrazine" from "Le Chevalier Jean" by Joncières.

Mme. Alda's Farewell in "Faust."

"Faust" was sung for the fourth time this season at the Metropolitan last evening, with Martinelli as hero, Bohnen as Mephisto and Mme. Alda taking her leave as Marguerite after her twentieth American season. Mr. de Luca, the Misses Dalossy and Wakefield and Mr. Wolfe were again in the cast and Mr. Hasselmans conducted. Mme. Alda in her dressing room between the acts received floral greetings from friends here on the eve of her annual holiday at Palm Beach.

Inga Nelson Weds Ben Smith.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 23 (AP).—Miss Inga Connie Nelson, 26, of Minneapolis, vaudeville actress, became the bride of Ben Smith, 40, a vaudeville partner of the late Hugh Jennings, in the First Lutheran Church here last night. The couple met last October. Miss Nelson hurried yesterday to Nashville, where Smith is playing, and they were wed in a church of her faith.

Store Honors 14 Chauffeurs.

Prizes for driving a year without accident have been awarded by Bloomingdale Brothers' Department Store to fourteen chauffeurs of its delivery trucks, it was announced yesterday. The drivers, it was said, covered 200,000 miles without mishap of any kind. There were only half as many accidents in 1927 as in 1926 and they were reported of a less serious nature, despite the fact that the store was operating thirty more vehicles.

Brooklyn Rotarians Celebrate.

Dr. James L. McConaughy, President of Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn., was the principal speaker yesterday at a luncheon given to celebrate the twenty-third anniversary of the Rotary International in the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn, by the Rotary Club of Brooklyn. He was at one time Governor of Rotary in the New England district. More than 150 Rotarians were present.

Miss Valentine Snow Won Contest.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Toscanini Excels in Debussy.

One performance alone of the program given by Arturo Toscanini and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, last night in Carnegie Hall, would have justified the concert and left behind it an imperishable memory. This was the kindling imagination and the supreme mastery of the interpretation of Debussy's "La Mer." There are undoubtedly other conductors capable of excellent readings of this strange and elusive music. But it is not easy to believe that any can equal Mr. Toscanini in it.

The composition, in the first place, is the extreme of Debussyan impressionism. It is the orchestral work, one would say, for which Debussy's whole life, temperament and artistic habits had shaped him. There is no music of such apparent fluidity and evanescence unless it is some other page by this same Debussy. At a first glance at the music, at a first hearing, too, he seems to have left all form, all order, all clear musical shapes behind him. It is only much later, perhaps it is only when Toscanini conducts it, that one gradually realizes the presence, underneath its glamourous surfaces, of a musical organism, and the relationship and development of ideas.

As the eye and the ear and the very consciousness of the beholder can be hypnotized and absorbed by the vast and inscrutable ocean, so does Debussy, on first impression, seem to abandon himself without hope of resistance to a deep and indefinable sea of shifting harmonies, rhythms, orchestral colors—and each sombre or flashing color more bewildering and glamourous to the ear than the last. If one tries to analyze this master's method, he will realize that first of all there is a previously unheard of freedom of tonality.

Debussy seems to modulate as he pleases, in every line, every measure, sometimes with each successive harmony. His rhythms combine and part and meet again. Most elusive of all is the matter of his tempi, and Mr. Toscanini's tempi were simply a marvel of ebb and flux, of acceleration here or a retard there, of what one might call a continuous rubato, sometimes decided, sometimes imperceptible, magically obedient to the slightest impulse of a fluctuating sea of tone. He was as free from the bondage of beats and measures as Debussy himself, yet, like Debussy—that past master of order and logic and never-failing proportion—his performance was based on a bed-rock of the clearest thinking and the most ordered procedure.

But why endeavor to dissect these miracles? How they are accomplished is after all the business of the artists involved. The orchestra of Debussy and Toscanini last night vibrated and sang with the voices of many waters. It had their mystery and depth and joyous or cruel caprice. Incidentally, we know of two scores that have this "depth." One is the score of "La Mer" and the other is the score of "Tristan." Both scores have surface eddies and currents and tumults; both have a profundity which seems to reach down to infinity. The comparison need not go further. Comparisons would be disadvantageous, in different ways, to each of these composers, but the note of the cosmic is present in both Debussy and Wagner. Mr. Toscanini, passionately aware of it, charging the orchestra with the resistless energy of his will and imagination, wrought a multitude of wonders and left a regret at the passing and disappearance of such beauty, when he released the audience from his spell.

This program was of unusual interest for several reasons. One was the revival of Borodin's Second Symphony. A stronger and a cruder contrast to the incomparable art of a Debussy it would be difficult to conceive, and yet Borodin's amateurish symphony has a significance, a color and vitality which are much more than historical. This, as we know, is one of the early Russian symphonies, one of the first fruits of the Russian nationalist school of the '60s and '70s. It has marked technical short-comings and it shows the influence of Liszt, whom Borodin and his colleagues admired. For all that it is superbly of Russia and a precursor of a great deal that has since happened in the music of that nation. The opening theme or motto, which in the manner of its statement reminds the listener of Liszt, is, nevertheless, a perfect chunk—or shall we say nugget of gold, from the old Russian soil. It is as a heroic proclamation from some ancient bylina. Its energy, compressed into eight or nine notes, is incommensurable, and it is armed cap-a-pie.

They had themes, these naïve and earnest geniuses of the group of Five. It is true that Borodin, in his Second Symphony, does not know exactly what to do with them. Therefore he shifts about in a powerful but somewhat undirected way through the development section of a first movement—developing, as it happens, little or nothing from a germinal idea which would have had enormous value for a better trained composer. Also, he is inexpert in instrumentation. He establishes mood very finely with his slow movement, haunted by the motto theme. His scherzo, always the simplest form of symphonic movement, is the clearest, the most compact section. His finale is too long, has too many notes, yet is instinct with youth, vigor and popular feeling. One cannot hear this without hearing also the music for the crowd in "Pe trouchka," and one still stirs to this immature and imperfect expression of the soul of that awakening giant, Russia. And again, would all of this have been so clear without the guiding hand, the revealing comprehension of Arturo Toscanini? It is extremely doubtful. We can imagine, from a less-gifted conductor, a very poor impression of this symphony.

There were also performances of the Mendelssohn overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and the picturesque but already aging music that Pizzetti composed for D'Annunzio's "La Pisanella"—music to which Mr. Toscanini gave of his best, conferring upon it a momentary importance.

"Tristan" in Concert Form.

Walter Damrosch had intended to lead a concert performance of excerpts from "Tristan and Isolde," with solo voices, at the concert given by the New York Symphony Orchestra yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. Illness, from which he is rapidly recovering, made his presence impossible. Eugene Goossens stepped into the breach thus created and led the orchestra at short notice in the performance of the Prelude, a part of the introduction, the love duet, and Brangaene's song of warning, from the second act, and parts of Tristan's wild monologue, his death, and the transfiguration scene of Isolde from the last act of the opera. Mr. Goossens and the orchestra were assisted in these performances by Rachel Morton, an Iowan, who has been singing in New York for some six years, and is now a member of the British National Opera Company; by Violet Silva, soprano; by Rudolph Laubenthal of the Metropolitan Opera Company and Frederic Baer, baritone.

The program contained Mr. Damrosch's explanation of his reasons for giving Wagnerian opera in concert form. "In many of the scenes the so-called illusion of the stage annoys and interferes with the supreme satisfaction which the ear otherwise might obtain from the music. Again and again the static quality of the scenery seems to be at odds with the perpetual motion—the ebb and flow—of the music. It is also undoubtedly true that the musician in Wagner was so strong that he halted the action of the drama in order to satisfy his lyrical urge. As the years have gone by I find that an increasing number of Wagner enthusiasts share my predilection for a purely musical performance. It is as if one listened more intensely with closed eyes, for the imagination paints both scenes and dramatic action more vividly and idealistically than do most stage performances."

We would go Mr. Damrosch one better in this matter if we were able. We would have neither orchestra nor singers visible in a "Tristan" performance. The eye would see only some conventionalized design, symbolic, perhaps, of the drama. The ear and the imagination would follow the true, inner psychological drama of Wagner's music. But an audience of today must at least see a conductor, if nothing else. Yesterday the audience saw the orchestra, Mr. Goossens and three soloists. Brangaene, as she sang her warning to the lovers, was concealed from gaze, as she is in the opera.

The performance was temperamental, authoritative, if not always restrained, on the part of Mr. Goossens. He reveled in the color, the climaxes, the poignant emotional accents of the score. He was not always considerate of the singers, and he was stingy with his pianissimos. Miss Morton was put to it to make herself heard through Mr. Goossens's orchestra. She has a voice of pleasant, if not very dramatic, quality, but it cannot be said that her performance had marked distinctions. Mr. Laubenthal is more effective on the stage than the concert platform, but of course is experienced, intelligent and generally effective in his music. Mr. Baer and Miss Silva were competent elements of the occasion. It is not easy to make the best cuts in a score of such an opera as "Tristan" when the time limitations of orchestral concerts must be considered. Nevertheless much that was coherent and most important in the opera was heard in a rough and vigorous interpretation. The audience responded cordially to Wagner's music transplanted from the opera house, and there were recalls for conductor and singers.

Goetzl to Conduct 'Martha' Tonight.

Robert Goetzl, called "the American conductor" in his native Prague and in Hamburg, Berlin and Vienna, will be guest conductor for the American Opera Company in tonight's performance of "Martha" at the Gallo Theatre. He first came to New York when his father, Dr. Anselm Goetzl, led the Diaghileff ballet here in 1916. Emanuel Balaban leads tomorrow's "Martha" matinee and Gerald Reynolds rejoins the company at the baton on Saturday evening.

'Poor Little Eva,' by Kenyon Nicholson, to Be Shown at Cort Theatre, Chicago.

'STRIKE UP THE BAND' ANEW

Producer Will Also Sponsor 'Move Over' and a Play by Himself —His Plans for London.

Edgar Selwyn, theatrical producer, who is here on a short visit from Palm Beach, yesterday made public his plans for next season. Mr. Selwyn already has four productions on his schedule, all of which will be given Spring tryouts. The producer will return to Palm Beach tomorrow and will stay there until early in April before resuming his producing activities.

At that time Mr. Selwyn, in association with John Golden, will present "Poor Little Eva," by Kenyon Nicholson. The play, which has already been tried out, will begin a Chicago engagement at the Cort Theatre late in April. In addition to Mr. Nicholson's play, Mr. Selwyn will sponsor tryouts of "Move Over," a dramatization of Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche's book; a play by himself, as yet untitled, and the George S. Kaufman-George Gershwin musical comedy, "Strike Up the Band," previously tried out.

Regarding the London presentation of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which opens in the provinces on March 19, Mr. Selwyn said that Joan Bourdelle, who will play the June Walker rôle, will sail for London tonight on the Olympic. Also leaving on the same boat will be John Emerson, who will stage the play of which he is co-author with his wife, Anita Loos. Three other members of the cast, Edna Hibbard, who will appear in her original rôle; Georges Renavis and Adrian Rosely, will leave on the Berengaria a week from tonight. The remainder of the company will be recruited abroad.

Mr. Selwyn will be represented by another production in London this Spring. In association with Charles L. Wagner he will exhibit "The Barker," with Richard Bennett, Claudette Colbert and Norman Foster in the leading parts.

MACK STAR OF OWN PLAY.

In "The Scarlet Fox" He Will Be Seen Again as Sergeant Devlin.

Willard Mack, already highly active in the New York theatre this season, will be seen here late next month as the star of a melodrama of his own authorship, in which he will be seen again as Sergeant Michael Devlin of the Royal Mounted, the part that he acted several years ago in "Tiger Rose." The new play will be entitled "The Scarlet Fox" and will be a sequel to the earlier play only in so far as the continuation of the character of Sergeant Devlin is concerned.

"The Scarlet Fox," which will be presented by James W. Elliott, will go into immediate rehearsal under the direction of the author. The cast, in addition to Mr. Mack, will include Marie Chambers, Joseph Sweeney, Beatrice Reynard, Clark Marshall and A. J. Herbert.

'THREE MUSKETEERS' SOON.

Ziegfeld's Newest Show to Open Here During Week of March 12.

The newest Ziegfeld show, "The Three Musketeers," will begin its New York engagement during the week of March 12, probably at the Lyric Theatre. The new show, which opened in Washington on Tuesday night, has Dennis King as its star, with Vivienne Segal and Lester Allen also in the cast. The show is based on the Dumas novel, with libretto by William Anthony Maguire and music by Rudolph Friml.

"The Three Musketeers" will be the fourth major musical show to be produced here by Mr. Ziegfeld this season, the others having been the "Follies," "Show Boat" and "Rosalie." The producer has been quoted as saying that this production will close his season so far as musical shows are concerned.

"Kidnapper" to Open Here March 8.

"Kidnapper," a melodrama by Samuel Shipman and Max Marcin, now playing in Philadelphia, is announced to open at the Ambassador Theatre on Monday night, March 5. The play marks the second collaboration of the Messrs. Shipman and Marcin, both of whom are well known for their individual contributions to the theatre. Their first joint work, written some years ago, was "The Woman in Room 13."

The cast of "Kidnapper" will include Faik Kramba, A. H. Van Buren, Douglas Montgomery, Frances Dale, David Landau and Calvin Thomas.

Ruth Gordon Engaged for New Play

Jed Harris yesterday confirmed reports of the engagement of Ruth Gordon for the principal rôle in his next production, a comedy by Rida Gould and Beatrice Blackmar. Miss Gordon is at present on tour with "Saturday's Children," and accordingly the new play will not be produced until July. After a try-out engagement the play will then be laid aside until September.

No title has been found for the new play as yet.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Wilda Bennett gave her first performance last night in the leading rôle of "Lovely Lady," at the Harris. Edna Leedom, who first appeared in the rôle, is ill.

Recent additions to the cast of "The Saviour of Mrs. Grahl," which Nick Kenny is at present of "Behold the Bridegroom," Charles Trowbridge and Walter Connolly. The play, with Margaret Lawrence in the chief rôle, is due here next month.

James Rennie Carson will join the cast of "The Great Necker" in Brooklyn tomorrow. The play will probably open here the week of March 5.

The annual benefit for the box office men's organization, the Treasurers Club of America, is announced for Sunday night, March 25, at the Hudson Theater.

The Provincetown Players will give their performances of "Hot Pan" Lady and Tomorrow in the theatre at the Block Fire in Atlantic City.

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Buffoonery Ill-Advised.

DOCTOR KNOCK, comedy in three acts, adapted by H. Granville Barker from the French of Jules Romains. Directed by Richard Boleslavsky; settings and costumes by Clewell Wilenchick. At the American Laboratory Theatre, 222 East Fifteenth Street.

In undertaking the humors of Jules Romains's "Dr. Knock," the American Laboratory Theatre, where it was played last evening, turns a satirical farce into labored buffoonery. Somewhere in the program the skit is accurately described as an "intellectual farce." With stinging neatness it details the clever devices by which a charlatan passes himself off as a prodigious physician in a small provincial town, and turns a modest, legitimate practice into a farrago of profitable illnesses. Dr. Knock, who knows nothing of medicines but a great deal about human credulity, reduces the entire village of St. Maurice to a state of happy invalidism. Money streams into his impetuous pockets. Yet the patients, cleverly deluded, have genuine satisfaction in their maladies. They enjoy bad health; they take their own temperatures. And they kiss the hand that betrays them.

According to breezy cosmopolites who have seen "Dr. Knock" acted by the bland Jouvet in Paris, the keen edging of the lines makes for uproarious satire when the acting is subtle and realistic—in short, when the audience is left to draw its own intelligent conclusions. At the Laboratory Theatre, however, Richard Boleslavsky has directed it as broad, rowdy slap-stick. Lampoon scenery, with murderous knives and saws decorating the doctor's consulting room where constant battle with the flies, and ratty whiskers drawn paints and curious moustaches turn the actors into mountebanks. Furthermore, the sluggish pace, which stretches ninety minutes of satire force into two hours of pedantry, lays a heavy hand upon the humane malice of wit.

If the appeals to be speaking especially of this production, it is because the sins of the director are so unmistakable. We have all heard and said a good deal these past few years about the importance of stage direction. Mr. Boleslavsky has the ideal qualifications of specialization. He commands his productions absolutely, as a good director may. The styles of acting, the costuming and the scene designing bear the stamp of his individuality. And his love of spirit in acting, his readiness for comedy antics unrestrained, his contempt for rigid and airless forms of producing, lead to the spontaneity we all relish in native drama.

In "Dr. Knock," however, he has subordinated an "intellectual farce" to a formula of burlesque persiflage. Translating wit into low comedy renders it heavy and dull. The third season of the American Laboratory Theatre finds them with an accomplished band of actors who apparently know their business. But they have been badly instructed in the performing of M. Romains's Gallic farce. One can regret it more sincerely than one can excuse it.

HONOR FOR LAURI-VOLPI.

Metropolitan's Tenor to Have This Rôle of "Nerone" in King's Presence.

Premier Mussolini's official opening of the Royal Opera House of Rome in the remodelled Costanzis Theatre will take place tomorrow night, according to a private cable dispatch received yesterday by Bruno Zirato, former secretary to Caruso. King Victor Emmanuel and Il Duce will assist in the inaugural event. The opera will be Boito's "Mefistofele," not yet sung in Rome, and Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, tenor of the Metropolitan and a Roman by birth, will sing the rôle of the Emperor. Gino Marinuzzi, formerly of the Chicago Opera, will conduct the gala performance.

HARRY LAUDER TALKS THRIFT TO ACTORS

Jewish Theatrical Guild Host to Those of Catholic and Episcopalians.

A reception to the Catholic and Episcopal Actors' Guilds was given by the Jewish Theatrical Guild at the Knickerbocker Theatre yesterday afternoon. Among the speakers were Harry Lauder, the Rev. Martin E. Fahy, chaplain of the Catholic Guild; Donald Brian, Rabbi Nathan Kraus and the Rev. Routledge Ray, rector of "the Little Church Around the Corner."

Sir Harry, the last speaker, gave a lecture on thrift, told Scotch stories and took occasion to essay the traditional parsimony of his people.

The entertainer said that "a lot of people on the stage have about the same sense as many working people; they don't know the value of a dollar when they get it." Then he added: "Our job is to knock sense into that type, and teach them to save for themselves. It's when they fail to take an interest in themselves that others have no heart to do anything for them."

The work accomplished by the three organizations was described and praised by the other speakers. The Rev. Martin E. Fahy pointed out that the guilds were not of the Sunday school or reformer type. The work of the stage in "lifting human happiness out of the humdrum of existence" was mentioned by Rabbi Kraus in denouncing those who maligned the theatre.

George Arliss, who had been scheduled to speak, sent a telegram saying a cold kept him away. William Morris, President of the Jewish Theatrical Guild, presided, and Rabbi B. A. Tintner delivered the invocation.

RANGERS ROUT JINX, BEAT PIRATES, 3-0

BOUCHER FIRST TO COUNT

Tallies in Third Session When Another Blank Looms—Bun Cook and Gray Also Register Goals.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

The New York Rangers spent a pleasant and profitable evening at the expense of the Pittsburgh Pirates at Madison Square Garden last night, defeating the Smoky City skaters by 3 to 0, thus snapping out of their four-game scoreless slump and at the same time gaining two valuable points on the Boston Bruins, leaders in the American group of the National Hockey League.

Just when it looked as though the Senate might have to appoint an investigation committee to find out why the Rangers couldn't score the blue-jacketed boys surged through to score three times in the final period, a session which contained about all there was of action to the fracas.

Previously it had been a rather colorless and scoreless game, and at the end of the second session the statisticians gloomily announced that the Rangers had not made a goal in five hours of play in nearly five games.

A little while later all of this was changed and the crowd of 5,000 was in a wild uproar as Frank Boucher and Bun Cook flashed in goals in quick succession, with Gray, substitute centre, coming along to score a third counter later in the period. Gray played well all through the game.

As a result of crashing into the scoring column and also winning a game, the Rangers not only gained on Boston but entrenched themselves more strongly in second place in the American group, now leading Pittsburgh by five points.

It was a very important victory at this stage of the season.

Ranger Shots Go Astray.

Milks, the Pirate centre, opened the game with a long drive which Chabot, Ranger goalie, blocked with his stick. Bun Cook carried it back on the left wing and whipped a shot at Worters, who blocked cleverly. The Rangers attacked at high pressure, but many of their shots were wild, apparently through overanxiety to score.

Bill Cook shot one over the netting into the pond and Bun Cook missed a pass when it looked as though he had a sure goal. Both the Cook boys battered through on subsequent drives, however, and had Worters on his knees to make many saves.

Bourgault, Ranger defense man, was sent off for roughing, and while the home team was a man shy, the Pirates kept up a heavy bombardment of the Ranger net. Drury, McCurry and White were the enemy marksmen, and Chabot made some magnificent saves to keep his net clear.

Play slowed down to a walk in the final minutes and the opening period was scoreless. Worters had fourteen stops and Chabot twelve.

Bill Cook Opens Second Period.

Opening the second session, Bill Cook fired a hot shot from inside the Blue line, the disk bouncing off Worters's shoulder over the net. After a speedy but futile sprint by McCaffery, Bill Cook banged another one at Worters which only an acrobatic save kept out of the net.

McCaffray again came down aggressively and there was a heavy drive around the Ranger net. The off-side whistle halted play when it seemed the Pirates had beaten Chabot. Johnson put on some heavy assaults, getting close to the Pirate netting. But they always blocked him, somehow.

Gray, Murdock and Boyd played on the Ranger front line but had no better luck in breaking the Rangers' scoreless record. Worters had a close call on Gray when the latter's shot dusted the goalie's pads crossing their goal mouth. It was close and that's all.

Drury drove down twice but could not beat Chabot and the game was still scoreless at the end of the second period. Chabot had twelve stops and Worters eleven.

Worters Excels in Net.

Boucher skated through almost to the net at the start of the third period, only another gymnastic save by Worters keeping his shot out. Soon afterward, however, the Rangers came roaring down in combination and it fell to Boucher's lot to break the long scoreless streak when he counted from in front of the net on Bun Cook's pass.

The crowd roared as Boucher jabbed the disk past Worters in 4:15 and kept up the pandemonium when Bun Cook scored the second Ranger goal forty seconds later on Boucher's rebound.

The play then went along at a wild clip, nine penalties being distributed for roughing. The Rangers were down to four men at one time but the Pirates could not break through. During the excitement Gray put on a great sprint down the left wing, scoring the third Ranger goal in 15:32, making the final count Rangers 3, Pirates 0.

Worters had fourteen stops for the period and Chabot eleven.

TORONTO LEAFS GAIN TIE WITH MAROONS

Both Sextets Tally Twice in Thrilling Battle, 23 Penalties Being Handed Out.

OTTAWA ALSO IN A DRAW

By The Associated Press.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—For the first time this year the Toronto Leafs battled the Montreal Maroons on even terms in a National Hockey League fixture, and the two teams ended seventy minutes of sparkling hockey with two goals each here tonight, and incidentally, the Maroons were lucky to hold the Leafs to a tie.

The game was decidedly thrilling. Both teams had a chance to get a play-off berth, and neither of them overlooked that fact. They battered each other from pillar to post, twenty-three penalties, including one major, being distributed, and skated off the ice at the end of the overtime period almost exhausted from their wild efforts.

CANADA WINS HONORS IN LAWN BOWLING

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP).—Canada swept the boards in the final day of the national open lawn bowling tournament here today, capturing both singles and doubles titles.

Andrew Laing, Windsor, Ontario, took the singles title by defeating another Canadian, John Angrove of Kingston, Ontario, 17 to 9. Laing's victory today climaxed the steady game he has exhibited throughout the preliminaries.

The doubles finals were also an all-Canadian affair. C. A. Gilchrist, paired with Thomas Holmes, both of Toronto, had an easy time in defeating J. Heather, Guelph, Ontario, and J. Trefford, Toronto, 22 to 5.

More than one hundred bowlers participated in this year's tournament.

MRS. KUNZ BOWLING VICTOR.

Rolls 514 to Lead Final Squad and Tourney—Mrs. Tomlinson Second.

As a result of scoring 514 points to lead the last squad in Dwyer's individual women's bowling tournament at Dwyer's Broadway Alleys, Mrs. D. Kunz yesterday won the tournament. Mrs. E. Tomlinson, with 512, was second, while Mrs. E. Dennings and Mrs. A. Curry were tied for third, with 502 points.

The other leaders were Mrs. Ida Wilson, 496; Mrs. L. Mainbe, 491; Miss M. Brown, 479; Miss E. Mazza, 475; Miss P. Apsley, 474, and Mrs. L. Von Holland, 472.

FIVE YANKEES LEAVE FOR FLORIDA TODAY

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Five Yankee ball players and a couple of mere traffic managers and scouts will leave for the sunny climes of Florida late this afternoon, marking the first departure of the world's champions for their Southern training camp at St. Petersburg.

Before the present month is ended twenty-three athletes will be assembled at St. Petersburg and by March 4 it is hoped to have all of Miller Huggins's champions congregated for the Spring exercises.

The delegation, which swings aboard a Pullman in the Pennsylvania Station at 6:40 o'clock this afternoon, will consist of George Herman Ruth, a well-known home-run hitter; Henry Louis Gehrig, who has been known to sock the old pill for more than one base; John Grabowski, a celebrated catcher; Leo Durocher, an infielder from Springfield, Mass., and Bill Ehsemann, a noted catcher in the college ranks, who was signed by the Yanks after a bitter struggle with a half-dozen other big league clubs.

At Washington the party will be augmented by Myles Thomas, who will travel to the capital from Altoona, Pa.

Work to Start on Monday.

The six ball players en route from New York will be joined at St. Petersburg by seventeen others of the preliminary squad. They will arrive Sunday morning, rest twenty-four hours amid the tranquil beauties of the Sunshine City and start official workouts on Monday morning at Crescent Lake Park.

Miller Huggins and George Pipgras will be on hand to welcome the travelers to St. Petersburg, and of course there will be Al Lang, the father of baseball in Florida, who persuaded the first major league club to train in the Palmetto State years and years ago.

Lang first argued the Phillies into training at St. Petersburg. Later he secured the Boston Braves, and still later the Yankees, who took all the play away from the Braves with Ruth, Gehrig & Co. Lang is now sitting pretty. At one of his ball parks in St. Pete he has Rogers Hornsby. At the other he has Ruth, Gehrig and the famous world's champion Yankees. It looks like a fat and prosperous season for Lang and St. Petersburg.

Accompanying today's party will be Mark Roth, traffic manager; Paul Krichel, scout, and about ten newspaper men. They will go along to report on the waist line of Mr. Ruth.

Robins' Vanguard Departs.

The Robins' preparations for the 1928 National League campaign also were set in motion yesterday afternoon, when their advance guard, consisting of four players, Harry Riconda and Overton Tremper, who ate New Yorkers, the former American Association infielder and Brooklyn recruit residing in Corona and the ex-Penn outfielder and diamond leader living in Brooklyn, and Del Bissonette, clouting first-sacker for Jersey City last season, whose address is Winthrop, Me., and Charlie Hargreaves, of Mercerayille, N. J., catcher of several years' standing, left from the Pennsylvania Station for Clearwater, Fla., site of the Flock's Spring training camp.

Accompanying the four players was a representative of the Brooklyn club and a corps of newspapermen, who will chronicle the deeds of Uncle Robbie's hopefuls under the tropical Florida skies.

The Robins fixed no concentration point for the players other than the training camp, whither the majority of the players will proceed from their homes. The players will answer the summons for the opening drill on Monday.

LOCKE, UNDAUNTED, PLANS MORE RACES

Nebraska Star to Compete in Sprints and Longer Events at K. of C. Games.

Undaunted by his defeats at the New York A. C. and Masonic meets, Roland Locke, star sprinter from Nebraska, will follow his plan of whipping himself into condition by means of a great deal of work. He feels that he is not in top form and that the only way to regain perfect condition is through competition. To this end Locke will compete in both the national 60 and 300 yard championships tomorrow night at the Garden. He will also enter the K. of C. sprint series and longer events at the K. of C. games.

At the Masonic meet last Wednesday night Locke was getting away behind his opponents in the first two dashes. Lloyd Hahn, also a Nebraskan, was a spectator. He went over to Locke and gave him a few tips about getting away on the board floor, where Locke has had comparatively little experience without spikes. As a result Locke was off on the jump in the third of the dashes and finished better than he had in the two previous races.

Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. runner who broke Lloyd Hahn's two-year winning streak, will have a stern test tomorrow night at the National A. A. U. championships in the Garden. He is entered in the 1,000-yard race, where he will meet Phil Edwards and others. Edwards has been beaten by no one save Hahn this season and this record-breaker will be favorite for the championship until Conger turned in his startling race at Kansas City in 2:11.

Shade Booked for March 19.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP).—Dave Shade, California contender for the middleweight championship, and Del Fontaine, middleweight titleholder of Canada, were matched today to box ten rounds in the main event at White City arena, March 19, by Promoter Malloy.

Princeton and Haverford Soccer Candidates Lead in Selections for Olympic Try-Outs

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Eight Eastern college soccer teams were represented in the candidates named for the American Olympic soccer team at a meeting of the Intercollegiate Olympic Soccer Committee held here today. Princeton leads the list with six men, Haverford and Pennsylvania State College follow, each with four; Pennsylvania has two, and Carnall, Yale, Dartmouth and Swarthmore one, each.

The committee, appointed at the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Soccer Football Association to obtain recognition for college men as candidates for the United States Olympic team, consists of: A. B. Nies, Princeton, coach; Morris W. Johnson, Secretary of the association, and James McPate, Haverford coach. Douglas M. Stewart, advisory soccer coach at Pennsylvania, also attended the meeting.

Goal Tenders—Allen, Cornell; Bednow, Princeton.

Fullbacks—Crocker, Princeton; Johnson, Swarthmore; Lingelbach, Pennsylvania; Allen, Penn State.

Halfbacks—Frazier and Maier, Haverford; Saxton, Princeton; West, Pennsylvania; Edgerton, Penn State.

Forwards—Packard, Squires and Stewart, Princeton; Estes and Richardson, Haverford; Luts and Marshall, Penn State; Sleath, Yale; Woodbridge, Dartmouth.

It is planned to stage a practice game between a team picked from the above squad and a team of amateurs from the Philadelphia district. A committee will then pick out the outstanding players on both teams, forming an eleven to represent the entire Philadelphia district. This all-star team would then play a team from New England in the elimination series to be carried on throughout the country.

GIANTS HELD BACK BY COLD WEATHER

SHOW STAGED FOR HOGAN

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 23.—The Giants were stopped by cold weather today. Wind and rain and even snow failed, but something approaching zero weather kept the squad from its usual practice in the ball park this afternoon.

Consequently, the only outdoor exercise in which the athletes participated was a hike up the mountain in the morning and another over the same route in the afternoon. If any of the squad is released before leaving here he can always get a job as a guide. The entire squad knows the mountain trails like George M. Cohan knows the Roaring Forties in New York.

The exercises indoors were more varied. Most of them were for the benefit of Shanty Hogan, who was laid up in bed with a bad cold. Shanty amuses the athletes when he is well and they felt it was up to them to amuse him when he was incapacitated.

The first act on the program was a violin solo by Jack Levy, the Jewish right hander. His fiddling sounds as though he were a side wheeler, though.

Mangum Strums the Banjo.

Then came a banjo offering by Leo Mangum, but this was more of a broadcasting act as Leo is an invalid himself, being confined to bed with a twisted knee. However, Leo's room is just across the hall from Hogan's and Shanty got the full benefit of it.

Jack Cummings did a clog and then came the feature act of the afternoon. It was a rubber-band shooting exhibition by Zeke Barnes and Freddy Fitzsimmons, who showed more control than they ever did with a baseball. First Zeke knocked the ashes of a cigarette which Al Spohrer was smoking. This was purely extemporaneous and gave Al quite a thrill. Then Freddy, not to be outdone, tossed a match over in the air and hit it on the wing. The rubber bands were baseballs neither of these pitchers would ever walk a man.

So passed an otherwise dreary day. Even the golfers were stopped.

Just how Hogan contracted his cold hasn't been determined, but the most logical theory is that he caught it on the ballroom floor last night. Shanty just couldn't resist the formal balls that go on here any longer. He went out to hire a tuxedo and thereby hangs a tale, even though it wasn't a dress suit.

Vest Is Divided.

Shanty found a coat that would go across his shoulders without splitting. So far so good. Then, after trying the trousers of three or four other suits, he found a pair that would go around his waist. All he needed was a vest. Finally, after several attempts to get one that would button, he hit on the idea of splitting one up the back.

Everything seemed all set, and then, to his dismay, Shanty discovered that he and the storekeeper weren't working on the same idea. Hogan thought he was hiring the masquerade. The storekeeper thought he was selling it. So all negotiations ceased.

Driven at last to a point of desperation, Hogan borrowed Doc Knowles's evening attire. And that's how he caught cold. Doc Knowles is the one man with the Giants who is bigger than Hogan, and the draught was something terrible.

Off Chatter at Inactivity.

The weather was welcomed by most of the athletes, for an off day is an off day whether in the Spring or in mid-season, but Mel Ott was an exception. After receiving one trial as a second baseman, the weather has been too bad for him to get another. And Mel says he likes the infield.

Among the new arrivals today was Muddy Ruel, who still would be the best catcher in the American League even if he didn't have a law degree from Harvard.

As we go to press Hogan reports that his cold is cured. Doc Knowles, the chiropractor, twisted his neck just once and Shanty said he never would complain of another ailment as long as Knowles is trainer of the club.

JOCKEY IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Fisher Still Unconscious as Result of Car Toppling Into Ditch.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 23 (AP).—Peter Fisher, jockey, of Amsterdam, N. Y., who had just finished riding at the Tijuana, Mexico, race meeting, is in the hospital at Ajo, south of here, believed to be critically injured as the result of an automobile accident yesterday.

Fisher was driving to New Orleans when his car left the road at Dead Man's Dip and toppled over into a ditch. He was still unconscious late today.

BIG LEAGUE CLUBS IN LONGER DRILLS

FARRELL REPORTS AT CAMP

Howley Praises Blue and Manush, New Browne—Recruit Pitchers of Pirates Promising.

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—Spring training for seven major league clubs in Florida was more vigorous today than at any time since the conditioning campaign started, longer hours being spent on the diamond.

Work was more strenuous in the quarters of the Braves at St. Petersburg, the Phillies at Winter Haven, the Cards at Avon Park, the Senators at Tampa, the Red Sox at Bradenton, the Browns at West Palm Beach and the Athletics at Fort Myers, but the training still is in its preliminary stage, and no casualties have been reported to date. The actual polishing process will not begin until all squads have fully assembled around March 1.

Arrival of Eddie Farrell at the Braves' camp gave Manager Slattery a full infield and a chance to be first to glance at his inner works. The first infield practice was held today, with Eddie Brown at first, Rogers Hornsby at second, Farrell at short and Gautreau at third.

Cards and Braves Work Hardest.

The Cardinals and Braves apparently are hitting the fastest pace, with the former working both morning and afternoon. The Braves already have started real baseball with patched-up line-ups.

Dan Howley took occasion at West Palm Beach today to comment thus on his St. Louis Browns:

"I think the squad is a thousand per cent. better in spirit this year. Of course I hated to see Sisler and the others go, but Lu Blue and Heinie Manush will be a big help to the team. They're great ball players."

Talk of hold-outs is occupying little attention with managers loath to class players thus until March 1, the dead line, is passed.

Meanwhile the Indians continue idle at New Orleans on account of wet grounds.

Pirate Recruits Look Good.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 23 (AP).—James Lindsey and Fred Fussell, recruit Texas League pitchers, looked promising in today's workout of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Manager Donie Bush yielded to importunities of the recruits and permitted some fly-chasing to end the practice. The regulars will get a taste of the same tomorrow. Ralph Dawson, former Louisville pitcher, has reported.

Cubs' Second Party Leaves.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP).—The second contingent of the Chicago Cubs, eight in number, left today for Catalina Island to join Manager McCarthy and the squad of batterymen who have had two weeks of preparation. Hack Wilson, who had expressed some dissatisfaction with the original terms, but who signed on the eve of the party's departure, was one of the group.

Two challenges for a game from the battleships Tennessee and California were received by Manager McCarthy today. March 3 was set tentatively for the battle with the navy. The Tennessee nine holds the Pacific Fleet title.

SPRINGER WINS AT TRAPS.

Retains Eastern Title in Challenge Match With Lamb at Reading.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Feb. 23.—Eugene B. Springer of Wildwood, N. J., successfully defended the Charles J. Esterly Cup, emblematic of the wing shooting championship of the East, today against Richard J. Lamb of the Emerald Gun Club of New York. He defeated the challenger by one flier over the Bristol Gun Club's traps.

Shooting at 100 fliers, 20-yard rise, the pair tied at 86 fliers, after Springer had been on the short end of 44 to 39. They shot even to the century mark and in the shoot-off, at twenty-five additional fliers, Springer won by scoring twenty-five straight. Lamb lost his eighteenth flier.

CONGER INVITED TO RUN.

Conqueror of Hahn and Peltzer Asked to Race in Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 23 (AP).—Ray Conger, who broke the world's 1,000-yard run record in a brilliant upset of Lloyd Hahn, holder of numerous middle-distance records, and who defeated Dr. Otto Peltzer, the noted German runner, has been invited to participate in an exhibition race at the Missouri Valley Conference indoor track and field meet here March 9 and 10.

His opponent has not yet been selected. Athletic Director Ossie Solem said Joey Ray is favored to rival Conger.

TWO GIRL ATHLETES SET WORLD MARKS

PRUDENTIAL TEAM VICTOR

Miss Donovan and Miss Washburn Also Shine Brilliantly—Meet Forty Runs 600 in 1:14 2-5.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The women's metropolitan indoor track and field team championship was won by the Prudential A. A. at the 113th Regiment Armory in Newark last night, with a total of 24 points. It was the third consecutive metropolitan championship for the Prudential girls. Two new world's indoor records for women were set, as well as two new metropolitan marks. A half point gave the Brooklyn Edison Company second place, with 16½ points, as the Millrose A. A. and the Paterson Recreation Club scored 15 points each to tie for third place.

The championships for women were held in conjunction with the New Jersey club championships for men. In this competition the Newark Prep team won, with a total of 18 points. The Newark A. C. was second, with 11 points, and the Prudential A. A. men third, with 10 points.

The new world's records were made by Miss Mabel E. Traver of the Brooklyn Edison Company, in the 6-pound shot put, and by Miss Ethel Emmons of the Paterson Recreation Club in the standing broad jump. Miss Traver hurled the shot 32 feet 6 inches to surpass the old record of 32 feet 1 inch, made by Miss Rena MacDonald at Boston in March, 1927.

Miss Emmons jumped 8 feet 2 inches. The old record of 7 feet 11½ inches, made by Miss Katherine R. Mearls in the same meet at Boston in which Miss MacDonald set her shot put mark. So keen was the competition in the broad jump that Miss Regina O'Mara of the Ascension Parish House, who placed second, also did better than Miss Mearls's record. Miss Beatrice Hurley, a clubmate of Miss Emmons's, who placed third, equalled the old mark.

Prudential Girls Set Mark.

A new metropolitan record was set by the Prudential A. A. girls' relay team, which completed the 440-yard distance in 0:55 1-5, three-fifths of a second better than the old metropolitan mark set last year. The team was composed of the Misses Estelle Hill, Marietta Ceres, Laura Dews and Catherine Donovan. Except for Miss Dews this was the same team which set the former record.

The other metropolitan mark was made in the basketball throw by Miss Mary T. Washburn of the Millrose A. C. She threw the ball 81 feet 8 inches to break the record of 80 feet 11¼ inches set in 1926 by Miss Margaret Dignan.

Other performances by Miss Donovan, anchor on the Prudential relay, and Miss Washburn made them two of the most remarkable girl athletes to appear in metropolitan competition this season. Miss Donovan is the holder of the world's indoor records for women for 880 yards and 800 meters, the latter the shortest distance she has ever run. The 220-yard championship in 0:28 4-5, a fifth of a second slower than the world's record. Then she placed third in the 60-yard hurdles championship.

This event was won by Miss Washburn and made her the only double winner of the night. She won the hurdles in 0:09, only a fraction slower than the world's record.

Miss Washburn Bright Star.

In addition to her two victories Miss Washburn ran on the Millrose A. A. relay team, which finished second and forced the Prudential team, with Miss Donovan as anchor, to the new metropolitan record. Miss Washburn is also an ice hockey player of ability, according to Mal Shephard, coach of the Millrose A.

In the New Jersey Club events considerable praise must go to Harry Coates, coach of the Newark Prep team. He put a strong team in the field and won by a decisive margin. One of his charges turned in a remarkable performance if it can be accepted at face value.

This was the victory of Bernard McCafferty of Seton Hall College, also coached by Coates. McCafferty won a special 600-yard race in the remarkable time of 1:14 2-5. This is considerably behind the world's record of 1:11 2-5, which Alan Helffrich set on the banked track of Madison Square Garden, using spikes. However, McCafferty's mark is well-nigh as remarkable, for he ran on a flat floor with flat shoes. His time is far and away the fastest ever made in competition, the great middle-distance stars of the past.

Only a few weeks ago Oliver Proudlock of the Newark A. C. won a 600-yard race in the armory, with Johnny Gibson second. So fast was the pace that Gibson collapsed at the finish. This was in the Waldron Six Hundred, which Gibson won in 1926. Both Gibson's 1926 time and Proudlock's 1927 time were slower than McCafferty's last night.

McCafferty Shows Speed.

The Seton Hall youngster took the lead shortly after the start and ran a fast race throughout. However, his main competition was furnished by Walter Reich of the Newark A. C., a runner hardly in the first flight. McCafferty did not defeat Reich by a very great margin and neither was the former a great deal ahead of Al Hustenbach of the Warinco A. C., who certainly is not in the first flight of middle distance runners. In any event McCafferty won and he deserves great credit for his performance.

Some comparison to McCafferty's time may be furnished by the 600-yard run for the New Jersey Club's championship. This was won in 0:17 2-5 by John Uldrich of Newark Prep. Edward Deady of the Newark A. C., who is considered as much of an up and coming middle distance man as McCafferty, only 5½ behind in this race.

The summaries:

Women's Metropolitan Championships.

50-Yard Dash—Won by Miss A. Boyne, Brooklyn Edison Company; second, Miss Mildred Lane, A. A.; third, Estelle Hill, Prudential A. A.; fourth, Margaret Ritchie, St. Bonaventure's Lyceum. Time—0:06 2-5.

60-Yard Run—Won by Bernard McCafferty, Seton Hall; Walter Reich, Newark A. C., second; Al Hustenbach, Warinanco A. C., third. Time—0:14 3-5.

Conroy Takes Reading Terms.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Feb. 23.—Infielder William (Win) Conroy, whom Reading recently purchased from the Newark Bears, accepted Hinchman's terms tonight, making the twenty-third player of the Reading club under contract.

Connie Mack Confident Cobb Will Be With Athletics Again

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 (AP).—While announcing that Sammy Hale, third baseman, had not yet signed with the Athletics, Connie Mack said today he had received a long letter from Ty Cobb and "wouldn't be surprised" if the Georgian was with the team again this year.

"It is possible he may fool me and sign elsewhere," Mack said, "but I really think he is going to be with us again. I don't care how many games he plays, just so he is on the team. I'm sure Ty wants to play ball another season."

OLAV SATRE WINS 20-MILE SKI RACE

JANSEN IS SECOND ACROSS

Norway Ski Club Star Completes Course in 2:46:42—Magnus Satre Finishes Third.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Olav Satre of the Salisbury Outing Club, Salisbury, Conn., won the twenty-mile cross-country ski race today, one of the features of the eighth annual ski tournament at Lake Placid Club. Satre's time was 2:44:16.

Martin Jansen, Norway Ski Club, New York City, was second in 2:46:42. Magnus Satre, national cross-country champion, who also won the Eastern championship here in the ten-mile race on Tuesday, set too hot a pace for the first ten miles today and finished rather badly spent in third place in the longer run.

The race today was originally scheduled for twenty-five miles, but a thaw and slight rain last night caused the officials to make a last-minute shift and have the race contested twice around the ten-mile course.

By his victory today Olav Satre gained a first leg on the Jensen Silver Hendrix Trophy donated by Clifford Hendrix of Fisher's Island.

Only a fair field started today in the long grind, the weather causing several withdrawals. The strongest skiers in the group originally announced for today's event were cut at short intervals by the starters.

The summary:

Olav Satre, Salisbury Outing Club, Salisbury, Conn., first, time 2:44:16; Martin Jansen, Norway Ski Club, New York, second, time 2:46:42; Magnus Satre, Salisbury Outing Club, Salisbury, Conn., third, time 2:46:58; Johan Mau, Salisbury Outing Club, Salisbury, Conn., fourth, time 2:55:08 3-5; Linus Foreman, Swedish Ski Club, New York, fifth, time 2:56:48; Ole Vetterstrom, unattached, Syracuse, sixth, time 3:10:51.

GEORGETTI TEAM NAMED.

Motor-Paced Champion to Pair With Debaets in 6-Day Race.

Franco Georgetti, motor paced champion of America and rated as one of the greatest six-day riders, will be paired with Gerard Debaets of Belgium, in the forty-fourth international six-day race starting at Madison Square Garden a week from Sunday night, it was announced yesterday.

"Georgetti has won four races, finished second five times, third once and fourth three times. Debaets has won three races in America. It also was announced that Gaetano Belloni and Tony Beckman would be teamed for the race.

CITY A. C. WINS AGAIN.

Defeats New Rochelle Y. M. H. A. at Handball for Sixth Victory in Row.

The City Athletic Club Class B handball team, which is undefeated this year, won its sixth straight yesterday on its own courts by defeating the New Rochelle Y. M. H. A. 7 matches to 1.

The summaries:

Singles—J. Schreiber, City A. C., defeated A. Tom Geney, 21—16, 21—11; John Lorie, City A. C., defeated J. M. Geney, 21—13, 21—7; B. Birnbaum, City A. C., defeated J. Lorie, 21—18, 21—17; Irving Kutner, City A. C., defeated Dr. Bills, 21—16, 21—19; Lorie and Schreiber, City A. C., defeated M. Mershberg and Bills, New Rochelle, 21—16, 21—20.

Two Titles Lost by Women's Swimming Association Team

N. Y. WOMEN LOSE TWO SWIM TITLES

MISS GERAGHTY DEFEATED

Finishes Third to Miss Mearis in 100-Yard Breast Stroke—Miss Meany Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Representatives of the Women's Swimming Association of New York lost two titles and successfully defended another at the second day of competition in the National A. A. U. senior indoor championship in the seventy-five-foot pool of the Buffalo A. C. here today.

The most spectacular upset came in the 400-yard relay race, in which the New York team was caught at the tape by the women's team of the Illinois A. C. of Chicago and lost the decision by a touch in 4:29 4-5.

The other setback came in the 100-yard breast stroke event, in which the four finalists finished only inches apart. Miss Agnes Geraghty, the defending titleholder and favorite, could do no better than gain third place behind Miss Catherine Mearis of the Boston S. A., the winner in 1:23 2-5, and Miss Jane Faurita of the women's team of the Illinois A. C., the runner-up.

Miss Meany Keeps Title.

Miss Helen Meany retained for the W. S. A. her fancy diving championship. Miss Meany defeated nine rivals decisively, garnering a total of 116.9 points, while Miss Rose Boczeck of Cleveland, unattached, with 107.05 points, was second and Miss Jane Faurita, with 106.95 points, third.

The relay championship brought out four teams, those of the Carnegie Library A. C. of Pittsburgh and Parkdale Dolphinets of Toronto, Canada, competing the field. The New York and Chicago contingent raced together for 300 yards, but Miss Catherine Ames, swimming third for New York, opened a lead and gave Miss Martha Norelius a start of three yards on Miss Ethel Lackie, newly crowned national 100-yard champion.ship.

Miss Lackie swam brilliantly and gained on Miss Norelius, but until the last lap it did not seem possible she could bridge the margin. Miss Norelius missed the final turn, however, and that settled the issue, on the home stretch Miss Lackie kept on gaining to win by a touch. The Homestead team finished third place.

Wins in Final Stretch.

In the final of the 100-yard breast stroke event Miss Mearis on the final stretch came up inch by inch to win by a foot from Miss Faurita, who edged out Miss Geraghty. Miss Dorothy Prior of the Parkdale Dolphinets was a foot behind Miss Geraghty.

The day's results enabled the women's team of the Illinois A. C. to creep up on the New York organization in the point-score race. The latter group now has 24 points, and the Chicago Club 19.

An invitation 200-yard back stroke swim was won by Miss Elaine Delany of the New York W. S. A., in 2:54 1-5, with her teammate, Miss Doris O'Mara a close second.

The summaries:

Has Short Drill on Machines With Jayvee, Which Is Sent Through Severe Session.

MAY BE AT STROKE TODAY

MacBain Then to Be Shifted to No. 2 Seat, With Lightowne at No. 3 and Blease No. 5.

Eric Lambart, captain and stroke of last year's Columbia crew, participated in his first practice drill of the season yesterday when he worked out with the junior varsity eight on the rowing machines.

Coach Richard J. Glendon cut short Lambert's drill, but the rest of the squad was sent through one of the hardest workouts of the season. Lambert has not fully recovered from the operation he underwent in Chicago last week for the removal of his tonsils. When the varsity squad reports for practice today, Glendon probably will seat Lambert at the stroke oar position, and with this move the list of available veterans from the winning Poughkeepsie boat will reach its full quota of seven.

Lambert did not return to Columbia until last Monday, ten days after the opening of the Spring semester and nine days after rowing practice started. Lambert's absence was interpreted by the majority of Blue and White rowing supporters as his withdrawal from school. Columbia officials, however, were notified by Lambert a week ago yesterday by telephone from Chicago that he would report for practice within a week.

An indication of how the Lion crew will be seated this season may be gleaned from today's drill. If Lambert is sent in at stroke, Captain Alastair MacBain will be shifted to No.2, at which position he rowed in the Poughkeepsie and Childs Cup races last year. MacBain has been stroking the varsity eight during the absence of Lambert. Bill Lightowne, No. 5 last year and on the freshman crew in 1926, was shifted to No. 3 early this week. Bill Blease, stroke of the freshman crew last year, went to No. 5.

SHIFT DARTMOUTH HOCKEY.

Lack of Ice Moves Tiger Game From Hanover to Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 23.—Because of the lack of ice at Hanover, N. H., the hockey game between Dartmouth and Princeton, originally scheduled for Hanover, will be played in Princeton on Saturday night.

The game will make the second journey to Princeton for the Green sextet this season. The first battle resulted in a 5 to 4 victory for Princeton in an overtime contest.

UNIVERSITY SIX TRIUMPHS.

Boston Club Wins Opening Game of Series at Halifax by 3 to 1.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 23 (AP).—The Boston University Hockey Club opened its two-game series here tonight with a 3 to 1 victory over Kentville. Hardy got the first goal for Boston in the opening period. Member evened the score in the second and Thomas's two additional goals came in quick succession in the early part of the third.

Juvenal and Marsh to Coach.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Jim Juvenal and Eddie Marsh, members of the Vesper Boat Club eight-oared shell, which won the world championship in the 1900 Olympic Games at Paris, were today appointed rowing coaches at the Penn Athletic Club.

Delfin	28	Halcyon	0
Almendares II	28	Talita	0
Fleet Star	26	Clarion	0
Bodeal II	25	Mara	0
Midge II	24	Aurrora IV	0

HAVANA, Feb. 23.—Irex III was first home today in the third and final of the Pan-American Cup race series, but the Cuban skipper, E. J. Gerrin, with Gavilan II carried off the honors and gave the local enthusiasts something to cheer about when he accomplished what no Cuban has ever done in the history of international star boat racing, that is, capture a major event.

By placing second today Gavilan II rolled up a total of 45 points, which was 2 more than Irex III, the Western Long Island Sound representative, which placed second, made. In the three races held in the series the Cuban yachtsman twice brought Gavilan II across second, while on the other occasion he finished fourth, which was sufficient to enable him to defeat Irex III, which, although it captured the first and third races, could do no better than eighth in yesterday's skilling.

South Wind II Is Third.

South Wind II, sailed by W. J. McHugh finishing fourth in today's race managed to capture third place, scoring with 32 points while Sinkin Susie of the Southern Yacht Club from New Orleans and Delfin, a Habana Yacht Club star boat, tied for fourth place, each with 28 tallies.

The race was sailed in extremely light south easterly winds and on smooth seas and consequently developed into little more than a drifting affair. Ratsey in Irex III taking the lead at the start and managing to hold on to finish first. The course sailed was the same that was used in the mid-winter series, a triangle of which the first leg today was a very close reach, the second a run before whatever wind there was to Morro Castle, and a beat back to the finish mark. Gavilan II was skillfully handled by Gerrin to take second while the Massachusetts Coast yacht, Midge II, came on to take third.

Only Eleven Craft Finish.

Thirteen yachts started, but only eleven finished. Talita, the French yacht sailed by Enrique Conill, and Mayari of the Habana Yacht Club withdrawing. Of the yachts competing six were American representatives, six Cuban and one French.

In the mid-winter championship series for the Mid-winter Challenge Trophy of Cuba, which was concluded yesterday, two American yachts, Fleet Star of Gravesend Bay, sailed by T. D. Parshman, and Bodeal II of Peconic Bay, sailed by F. H. Robinson, finished in a tie, each scoring 18 points. The two will meet tomorrow in a special race to determine the winner.

The order of finish:

Irex III, West. L. I. S., first; Gavilan II, Habana Y. C., second; Midge II, Mass. Coast, third; South Wind II, Cent. L. I. S., fourth; Delfin, Habana Y. C., fifth; Almendares II, Habana Y. C., sixth; Lucky Lind, Gravesend Bay, seventh; Sinkin Susie, Southern Y. C., eighth; Fleet Star, Gravesend Bay, ninth; Isaura II, Habana Y. C., tenth; Mayari, Habana Y. C., eleventh; Talita, France, withdrew; Aurrera IV, Mirama Y. C., withdrew.

BOSTON COLLEGE SIX WINS.

DAVIS HORSESHOE LEADER.

Conquers Nunamaker in One of His Five Victories.

By taking the five contests today and with the Clevelander dropping a pair of games after winning seventeen straight, Davis now is leading with twenty-one victories and one loss. Nunamaker, however, slings to second position with twenty victories and two defeats.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 24 (AP).—Dartmouth's chances of victory in Saturday's triangular track and field engagement in Boston with Harvard and Cornell appeared to hinge today on a bruised foot. The owner of the foot is Monty Wells, intercollegiate hurdle champion and leader of the Green track forces, who had been counted on for five points in the 45-yard high hurdles. Wells was in the hospital today and Harry Hillman, Dartmouth coach, could not say whether Wells would be available Saturday. Wells hurt his foot when he fell at the New York A. C. meet. A severe bruise on the left instep and a smaller one on the heel put him on crutches.

PENN STATE BEATS COLGATE FIVE 33-32

SCORE TIED SEVEN TIMES

Mickle, Colgate Captain, Tallies 18 Points, Von Nieda Counting 12 for Victors.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Penn State snatched a 33 to 32 basketball victory from Colgate here tonight, winning in the last minute of play on a basket by Captain Von Nieda. Play was fast all the way and the score was tied seven times during the contest. The Colgate five held a three-point margin, 20-17, at half time, but the lead alternated several times during the second period.

The rival captains were high point men of the evening, Mickle of Colgate leading with 18 points and Von Nieda of Penn State being close behind with 12. Hagy of Colgate with 11 and Delp of Penn State with 9 also were prominent in offensive play.

Tonight's game was the second of the season which Colgate has lost by a 33-32 score, Fordham gaining such a victory more than a month ago. The line-up:

MORAVIAN DEFEATS LOYOLA.

Bollman, Winners' Centre, Makes 23 Points in 42-22 Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Feb. 23.—Moravian College defeated the Loyola College five this afternoon, 42 to 22. The Moravians were deadly on the short passing game and small heaves for the cords. Bollman, lanky centre for Moravian, was particularly effective, caging ten goals. Trumbauer also had his eye on the hoop.

Loyola, handicapped on a small floor, was forced to try long heaves but with poor results. Dudley found the hoop for four field goals and Leston registered three times. At half time the Moravians led, 19 to 13. The line-up:

CLEVELAND BEATS CELTICS, 26 TO 25

Kerr's Field Goal in Final Seconds Decides Game—Victors Lead at Half, 13-10.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 23.—A field goal from the middle of the court by Manager Kerr with only ten seconds left to play, gave the Cleveland Rosenblooms a 26 to 25 victory over the New York Celtics here tonight before a capacity crowd.

Fighting desperately the Clevelanders led until only forty-five seconds were left to play. Davey Banks made a basket to place the Celtics in the lead, but Kerr's toss turned the tide.

Cleveland led, 12 to 10, at the half and increased the lead to six points early in the second half, but goals by Holman put the Celtics back in the running. Cunningham and Hickey, Cleveland, were removed on fouls late in the second half.

WISCONSIN FIVE IN LEAD.

Defeats Purdue, 28 to 22, to Top Conference Standing.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 23 (AP).—Wisconsin's basketball team moved into first place in the Western Conference standings tonight by handing Purdue its second defeat of the season, 28 to 22. Wisconsin led at the half, 15 to 12.

The Badgers' offensive was noticeably stronger than Purdue's, and their defense kept Purdue shooting at a distance. Purdue scored only three short field goals out of the few close shots they had.

The two centres, Bud Foster and Stretch Murphy, furnished most of the activity, and each made the highest score on his team. Foster, however, outshone his six-foot-six rival by caging six, while Murphy made only two, both long shots. Glenn Harmeson returned to the boilermakers' line-up, but his lame ankle troubled him and he gave way to Cummins.

GOLDEN MAC FIRST AT JEFFERSON PARK

FAVORITES FARE BADLY

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23.—The Jefferson Park racing strip was very heavy and holding today and the program was without exceptional interest. The favorites came off second best, public choices landing home first in only three races. Riding honors for the afternoon were equally divided between Jockey Bowden and Jockey Pichon, each scoring a double. Not a race on the card was a named event, but the best of the seven was the fourth number, in which Golden Mac triumphed.

Golden Mac toppled the only odds-on favorite of the afternoon, coming home first, a length in front of the public choice, Roycrofter, which was quoted at only 80 cents for $1. The race was a sprint at six furlongs for four-year-olds and upward, and as was the case with most of the card there was much scratching. Eighteen had been named over night, but eleven were eliminated. Mark Master was first away when the webbing snapped and remained in front to the stretch, where Roycrofter, with Pichon in the saddle, came with a rush.

In the last sixteenth Roycrofter weakened, however, and Gross brought up Golden Mac on the inside to close with a fine show of courage and then stand a hard drive in the last fifty yards to get the verdict. Paul Weidel II ran third all the way, but finished five lengths back of Roycrofter. Golden Mac, which ran for Mrs. J. H. Buscher, rewarded his followers at the rate of $8.70 for $1.

Ride Hampers Roxie Weidel.

The downfall of the favored Roxie Weidel in the sixth race was due, in part at least, to the poor ride of Bowden. Off third, Bowden permitted his mount to drop back to the very last position at the half mile, and though the filly made up a lot of ground before the mile and seventy yards had been completed, she finished entirely on her own courage and could do no better than land in third place, while the winner was Sleepy Time, George C. Winfrey's three-year-old Bonifacе gelding, which beat Southern Kiss by two lengths and paid $18.60 for $2.

The longest-priced winner was Anaconda, in the fifth race. This five-year-old gelded son of the famous Donnacona was so little thought of that he was quoted at $21.80 for $1, while Medley was much in public esteem and commanded the favorite's role at $1.90 for $1. Anaconda ran in a contending position from the start and in the last sixteenth came fast on the inside under Meyer's skillful finish and won by a head margin.

Bowden wound up the card, as he had begun it, with a victory. He had the mount on Dry Moon, the public choice in the opening struggle, a horse in this event tossed his rider, the victim in this case being Jockey B. Jenkins, who was unseated but unhurt by Caplinger turning into the stretch. Dry Moon beat Montclair by a head in a driving finish.

Lady Partridge Scores.

The favored Lady Partridge experienced no difficulty in annexing the opening race, a six-furlong claiming affair for maiden three-year-olds. With Bowden in the saddle the Valley Lake Stable's filly ran in front all the way and finished four lengths in front of Mau-Dale, while Forebec pulled up two lengths further along to get the short end of the purse. Just after the start of the race Captain Devil unseated his rider, Jockey L. Craver, but Craver escaped with only a shaking up, as his mount had broken nearly last in the field of twelve, and none were near him when he toppled off.

N. B. Tevis's eight-year-old gelding Wildrake, rated as a superior mudder, added to his prestige in this respect when he captured the second race, a six-furlong sprint for horses of the older division, which attracted eleven to the barrier. Jockey Pichon broke the gelding fast, soon had him in front and kept him there, though in the last sixteenth Wildrake was doing his best. He beat Master Sweep by a length and a half, while the latter in turn had a length and a half margin over Robert Mandel. Wildrake was the favorite.

Pichon brought home his second winner of the day in the third event. This was another race for the older horses, but at one mile and a furlong. Eleven accepted the issue, and the winner was an outsider, Pride, running in the colors of J. H. Manheimer. Pichon rushed the mare to the front at the turn, and then drove her steadily and hard to the finish wire to get a half length decision over the favorite, Clique.

Navy Five Holds Short Drill And Leaves for Army Game

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23.—Completing their practice on the home court for the season with a short session the Naval Academy basketball squad left shortly after the drill this afternoon for West Point, where the service school teams meet on Saturday. Indications point to this starting lineup: Forwards, Miller and Farrin; Centre, Smith; Guards, Howard and Lloyd.

ROBERTSON RUSHES RED BLAZE TO WIRE

Makes Every Post a Winning One to Capture Hotel Miramar Purse at Havana.

HAVANA, Feb. 23.—The Hotel Miramar Purse was the featured race on the card at Oriental Park this afternoon and brought six good sprinters to the post. The winner was W. F. Hausman's Red Blaze, a 6-to-1 shot, which made every post a winning one and defeated The Dago by a nose in a whirlwind finish. Jockey Robertson had the mount on the gelded son of Under Fire and the victory marked the second of the afternoon for the rider, as he previously had scored on Mary Dale in the third race.

DEMPSEY-KEARNS FEUD FLARES IN CHALLENGE

Ex-Champion Backs Emanuel for Bout With Walker and Will Be His Second.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP).—Jack Dempsey today went on the warpath in the open against Jack Kearns, his former manager, when he publicly instructed Charles Emanuel, father of Armand Emanuel, San Francisco boxer, to challenge Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, for a fight to a decision.

Dempsey, as the backer of Emanuel called Armand, and his father into a conference at a hotel here, where he advised them to call the turn on Walker and Kearns for a bout in this city. Kearns several days ago offered to let Walker fight Emanuel when he heard that Dempsey was interested in the young fighter.

At the conference today Dempsey told Emanuel he wanted him to fight Walker because of Kearns's statement alone. Young Emanuel agreed to the bout, stating that he did not think much of Walker after his showing with Cowboy Willis at San Francisco Wednesday. Dempsey said that he would second Emanuel in the event that the bout is held.

MISS ORCUTT WINS; MISS VAN WIE ALSO

Englewood Girl Plays Plucky Golf to Down Miss Bryant, 2 and 1, in Florida Tourney.

EASY FOR MISS VAN WIE

Chicago Star Does Not Lose a Hole, Beating Mrs. McHose by 8 and 7 in Other Semi-Final.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23.—Miss Maurean Orcutt won a plucky, uphill match today against Miss Katherine Bryant of Chicago in a semi-final of the Florida State tournament on the links of the Palm Beach Country Club. Trailing at one stage by three holes, the Englewood, N. J., girl finally won by 2 to 1.

In the other section of the draw Miss Virginia Van Wie, the 18-year-old Chicago girl who won the Florida tourney two years ago, routed Mrs. Charles McHose of the Westchester Biltmore Club of New York. The margin was 8 and 7. Miss Van Wie did not lose a hole.

Miss Orcutt in Difficulties.

Miss Orcutt's short game went completely off today and she was in difficulties from the start. She lost three of the first five holes and did not score until she took the sixth, the first and fourth being halved. Then Miss Orcutt began her run. A birdie 3 gave her the seventh and a 5 won the ninth for her as Miss Bryant was taking her second in four holes.

With a medal score of 41 to Miss Bryant's 43, Miss Orcutt had managed to square the match at the turn. They were still on even terms going to the fourteenth tee, as they halved the tenth and thirteenth, the eleventh going to Miss Orcutt and the twelfth to Miss Bryant when she sank another long putt.

Miss Bryant's excellent work on the greens was keeping her in the fight on the incoming journey. But she faltered on the fourteenth and fifteenth, losing each by a stroke with a 6. Playing safely, Miss Orcutt was content to get a half on each of the next two holes, bringing the match to a close.

Mrs. Hill's Score Best.

The best nine-hole score of the day was turned in by Mrs. O. S. Hill, twice trans-Mississippi champion, in defeating Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit, in the consolation semi-finals. Mrs. Hill went out in 36, only two over the men's par, and won by 5 up and 4 to play.

Miss Orcutt and Miss Van Wie, who meet in the final tomorrow, tied for the qualifying medal Monday, each taking a 77.

The cards of the matches in the first sixteen:

First Sixteen—Miss Maurean Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., defeated Miss Katherine Bryant, Chicago, 2 and 1; Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Charles McHose, New York, 8 and 7.

Consolation Sixteen—Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, Mo., defeated Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, 5 and 4; Miss Le G. Riley, Pittsburgh, Pa., defeated Miss Virginia Forrest, Boston, 3 and 2.

Second Sixteen—Mrs. L. Heineman, New York, defeated Mrs. C. E. Deland, Boston, 1 up; Mrs. H. Foreman, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Charles Downey, Springfield, Mass., 3 up (20 holes).

Third Sixteen—Mrs. Heatherton, New York, defeated Miss M. C. Wolf, Baltimore, Md., 6 and 4; Mrs. Leo G. Federman, New York, defeated Miss Ruth Replogle, New York, 2 and 1.

MISS HUTCHINGS GAINS BERMUDA NET FINAL

Beats Mrs. Hubbard in Three-Set Match—Bowman Repulses Crawford by 6-2, 8-6.

Miss Hutchings will oppose Miss Alice Francis of Orange, N. J., in the final round tomorrow. Miss Francis defeated Miss Penelope Anderson in a semi-final bracket played yesterday.

The men's singles crown will be decided tomorrow in a match between Herbert L. Bowman of New York, former champion, and W. H. Powell of England.

Bowman advanced by defeating Leighton Crawford today at 6—2, 8—6. Crawford eliminated Bowman in the 1925 tournament. Powell gained the final competition by beating G. P. Hughes, 4—6, 7—5, 7—5.

In the doubles play for women Miss Anderson and Mrs. Hubbard defeated Miss Hutchings and Miss Beryl Robinson, winners of the 1927 doubles, by 6—3, 6—1, 6—4.

Hall Victor Over Mercer, 50-10.

Allen Hall defeated Sid Mercer, 50 to 10, in a three-cushion exhibition match at Doyle's Academy last night in 26 innings. Hall had a high run of 8 and Mercer of 4.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

HERE'S the gay and gladsome truth:
Old Jack Frost begins to quail
When he reads that "G. H. Ruth Hits the Southern training trail."

Colonel Jacob Ruppert's famous hired man will climb aboard a Pullman today and head for the Yankee training quarters at Crescent Park, St. Petersburg, Fla. This will be his fourteenth season in the big league and his eleventh appearance as the outstanding home-run hitter between the Back Bay and the Golden Gate.

For the first three years of his career at Fenway Park, the Babe specialized in left-handed pitching. He still holds the record of having pitched twenty-nine scoreless innings in world's series competition. Ruth was used as a pinch hitter even when he was a star pitcher, but it wasn't until 1918 that he began to make more or less regular appearances as an outfielder. And even in 1918 he was in action as a pitcher and not as an outfielder in the world's series with the Cubs.

Early Days of a Great Man.

On one of his early appearances as a pitcher in the big league, the Babe threw a ball that he thought was waist high and over the exact geographical centre of the plate.

"Ball one," said the umpire, none other than "Brick" Owens.

"What!" yelled the young pitcher. "Call another like that and I'll punch you right on the jaw."

He threw a fast one to the catcher, and again in the mind of the rookie flinger it was a perfect strike.

"Ball two!" sang out the umpire.

Whereupon, and without further ado, Master Ruth moved toward the umpire and gave him the punch on the jaw he had promised him. He was always a man of his word.

But those days are dead and gone. The Babe maintains friendly, or at least diplomatic, relations with the umpires nowadays. The last rousing combat he had was in the nature of a double-header some years ago. He started by challenging an umpire and ended by chasing a railroad conductor out the back gate at the Polo Grounds.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Another incident of his rookie pitching days. The veteran Ben Egan was sent in to catch for him. Said Ben: "Two fingers, a hook. Four fingers, a fast one. Open hand, a waste ball. Get me?"

Ruth nodded sagely. All went well until a late inning when a heavy hitter came up with several enemy runners on the bases. It was a fine opportunity to lose a ball game. Ruth put over two strikes, and then Egan signed for a waste ball. The Babe threw one through the middle, and the batter knocked it over the fence for a homer, giving the game to the visiting clan.

"You flat-headed, copper-riveted idiot!" wailed Egan in the clubhouse. "How come you threw that ball in the slot? I signed for a waste ball! Don't you know what a waste ball is?"

A Changed Man.

But the Ruth of today is not the heedless and heedless rookie of the early Red Sox era. He knows what a waste ball is. He has seen more of them in ten years than any other player ever saw in a lifetime. He is a real "smart" ball player. He makes the right move instinctively.

Moreover, he has become a sober man, and a proper man, and a moneyed man without losing any of the color of his prodigal days. He is as natural as a child. He is obliging. He has an apparently inexhaustible fund of good nature in his huge frame. Quite a lad, this G. H. Ruth.

His training costume is a sight to behold. For some mysterious reason that has never come to light he wears the pants of his training uniform in the Zouave fashion, the nether extremities grouped, so to speak, around his ankles. On his head is perched one of those "Helen Wills" skeleton affairs with a green eyeshade. Over his torso he drapes a black, sleeveless rubber jacket of the kind affected by suburban loemen in August.

Charging across Crescent Park in pursuit of a ball, he looks like a cross between a galloping grab-bag and an African rhinoceros. He is always worth the price of admission, even where admission is free.

In his great comeback last season he set a new record of sixty home runs for a single campaign. It was a wonderful achievement, and perhaps the odds are against a new record for Ruth this year. But he's in good shape, and he intends to have a full shot at it. It's a prodigious undertaking, which makes it a fit task for him. He's a prodigy, if the diamond ever saw one.

The Yankee Outlook.

Manager Miller Huggins can look forward to the coming campaign with a fair measure of confidence. There isn't a real weak spot in his whole team. A manager is always looking for better pitching, but if Huggins gets as good pitching in 1928 as he did in 1927 he will have no cause to grumble.

There is some talk about "the third base problem," but Joe Dugan is not yet a doddering invalid. And if Joe's trick knee bogs down again, Gene Robertson should be able to fill the bill. He looked like a good third baseman with the Browns until he got into personal difficulties with the St. Louis management.

The catching is "adequate," as the dramatic critics say, and the outfield is awe-inspiring: Ruth, Combs and Meusel, with Paschal and Durst as reservists.

Ruth is the veteran of the regulars, and last year was his best year. Pennock, Hoyt and Meusel, the other veteran members of the squad, have shown no signs of weakening. Combs, Pipgras, Lazzeri, Koenig and Gehrig are on the up grade.

QUEENSBORO PRIZE TO BOSTON TERRIER

Pomeranian Heads Toys, With a Scotty, Whippet and Great Dane the Other Leaders.

The Boston terrier, Jickey Girl, owned by Mrs. R. M. Grocell of Brooklyn, was named best of the evening last night at the regular monthly dog show of the Queensboro Kennel Club, held at the Court Square Restaurant, Long Island City, last night.

There were more than seventy dogs benched. Two hundred members saw Jickey Girl take best in breed of the Boston terriers and then win her way to best of the non-sporting dogs.

When the five variety classes were judged by Mrs. G. Schaefer and L. J. Inberry, Jickey Girl was on the carpet as best non-sporting dog. Mrs. F. Bartlett's pomeranian Tiny King Trit had been judged the best toy; Edward Silver's Scottish terrier, Scotch Bag Pipe, was the best terrier; M. F. Cunniff's whippet, Social Traveler, the best sporting dog, and Mrs. S. May's Great Dane Flapper, the best working dog.

TATER GAINS CUE VICTORY.

Defeats Sohl, 150-66, for Fifth Straight in National 14.2 Tourney.

Harry Tater scored his fifth straight victory yesterday at Lawler's Brooklyn Academy in the national amateur 14.2 balkline tournament by triumphing over Henry Sohl, 150 to 66, in forty-one innings. Sohl evened matters when he defeated Al Hoskins, 150 to 85, in sixty-three innings.

In the third game James Clemens vanquished Dr. J. Giambaldo, 150 to 96, in fifty-three innings. Sohl had high runs of 27 and 17; Clemens, 26; Tater, 16; Hoskins, 13, and Dr. Giambaldo, 12.

HOPPE WINS FIRST BLOCK.

Defeats Morgan Hughes, 80 to 19, in Three-Cushion Match.

Willie Hoppe won the first block of his three-cushion handicap match with Morgan Hughes at the Strand Academy yesterday, 80 to 19. They are playing on a basis of 80 for Hoppe to 45 for Hughes. The match required forty-four innings. Hoppe had a high run of 7 and Hughes one of 4. The second block will be played today and the final tomorrow.

WOODS GAINS ON CUE RIVAL.

Divides Two Blocks With Lauri, Taking 753 to 599 Lead.

Aided by a high run of 86, Arthur Woods increased his lead over Orfino Lauri, New York State pocket billiard champion, to 753 to 630, although they divided yesterday's blocks at Kreuter's Academy. Woods won in the afternoon, 121 to 41, in six innings, but lost at night, 174 to 123, in twelve innings. Woods had a high run of 32 at night. Lauri's best runs were 30 and 55.

PALEY LOSES TWO GAMES.

Beaten by Downs and Wood in the National Snooker Tourney.

Lou Paley lost two games yesterday in the national amateur snooker billiard tournament at Doyle's Academy. He was defeated by William Downs, 100 to 66, and by Courtney Wood, 100 to 72. While losing to Wood, Paley made the highest run of the tourney to date, 32. His other run was 16. Downs ran 51 and Wood 21.

Bob Cannefax Gravely Ill.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 23 (AP).—Bob Cannefax, former three-cushion billiard champion of the world, is gravely ill with spinal meningitis at Dreamy Draw, a desert camp near here. Cannefax came to Phoenix about two years ago for his health.

Matsuyama Wins, 200 to 21.

Kinrey Matsuyama defeated Irving Schwartz, 200 to 21, in three innings yesterday at the Yorkville Premier Academy, where he is meeting local stars at 18.2 balkline billiards. Matsuyama had a high run of 142 and Schwartz of 19.

Grimmels Defeats Crosby.

F. Grimmels defeated M. Crosby, 25 to 24, in the White Elephant amateur three cushion tournament at Thuma's Academy yesterday. The match lasted seventy-two innings with Grimmels making a high run of 3 and Crosby of 4.

Kleckhefer Wins Exhibition.

Augie Kleckhefer defeated Carl Bock, 50 to 37, in forty-seven innings yesterday at Dwyer's Broadway Academy in an exhibition three-cushion match. Kleckhefer had a high run of eight and Bock of five.

HOPPE DEFEATS DE ORO, INCREASES CUE LEAD

Wins, 50 to 43, Aided by Run of 10, and Now Leads Hall, Second-Placer, by Two Games.

STANDING OF THE PLAYERS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Hoppe	29	11	Rabell	20	20
Hall	28	13	Jackson	20	22
Layton	23	16	De Oro	16	21

The Schedule for Tonight.

Layton vs. Jackson at Thum's, 8:00.
De Oro vs. Hoppe at the Strand, 9:30.

Willie Hoppe increased his lead over Allen Hall in the American Three-Cushion League to two full games as the result of a 50 to 43 victory over the veteran Alfred De Oro at Wilbur's Academy last night, while Hall remained idle. In the other league game Johnny Layton gained on Hall by winning from Harry Wakefield at Hoppe's Academy, 50 to 37.

De Oro gave Hoppe a bitter fight and forced the former balkline champion to employ every bit of his skill in order to eke out a victory. Hoppe was aided by a high run of 10, while De Oro could do no better than 4, and yet Hoppe's margin of victory was only 7 points. The match required fifty-six innings.

In the other game Layton had a slight edge over Wakefield, even though their high runs, 4, were identical. This match was played in fifty-one innings.

Hall now stands between two fires. He will be idle today, while Hoppe will have an opportunity to increase his lead and Layton will get a chance to narrow the gap between second and third places.

HUTCHINSON BEATS BECKER

Has 3 and 2 Advantage as Merwin Vanquishes Parks, 1 Up, Latter Being Stymied at 18th.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 23.—S. K. Kerns of Brae Burn, medalist, continued to set the pace in the first round of match play in the annual seniors' tournament on the No. 2 links here today. Only one other player was able to match his 41 for the outward nine, J. A. Middleton, a Chicagoan.

Kerns defeated F. B. Porter of Dubedread, Fla., winning by the margin of 6 and 4. Kerns lost but three holes during the match—the second, where he was partially stymied, the ninth and the twelfth. Par figures won the first, third, sixth, seventh, eighth and tenth for the Bostonian. At the eleventh Kerns got a half in six after his drive nestled against the stubble and the ball barely moved on his second shot.

Kerns Faces Middleton Today.

Tomorrow Kerns meets Middleton, who won today over J. M. Jamison of Greensburg, Pa., by 2 and 1. Middleton was two up at the turn, but he dropped both the eleventh and twelfth, coming back to win the fourteenth and sixteenth, where the Pennsylvanian missed a shot in the fairway.

The cards:

Out—
Middleton	4	5	4	5	4	5	3	5	4—39
Jamison	5	4	5	4	5	5	3	5	5—41
In—
Middleton	5	6	4	5	5	4
Jamison	6	5	5	5	6	6

C. L. Becker of Philadelphia, N. Y., lost his match to O. C. Hutchinson of Detroit by 3 and 2. Becker started badly with 7 and 6, losing both holes. He was 3 down after losing the ninth to a par 4. Becker got back both the eleventh and twelfth, but at the fifteenth, 212 yards, after being trapped on his tee shot, Hutchinson recovered and then sank a twenty-foot putt for his 3. Becker missed his putt of ten feet for a half. Becker, trapped in 2 at the sixteenth, lost to a par 5.

Merwin Puts Out Parks.

H. P. Merwin of Stockbridge, Mass., defeated R. S. Parks of Worcester by 1 up. Merwin was 3 up at the turn, but lost the tenth, eleventh and thirteenth, having trouble with his tee shots. Merwin got the short fifteenth when Parks was in trouble and held the lead, taking a half at the final hole when he was stymied.

The summaries:

First Division—S. K. Kerns, Brae Burn, Southport, N. C., defeated F. B. Porter, Dubedread, Fla., 6 and 4; J. A. Middleton, Chicago, defeated J. M. Jamison, Greensburg, Pa., 2 and 1; O. C. Hutchinson, Detroit, defeated C. L. Becker, Philadelphia, N. Y., 3 and 2; H. P. Merwin, Stockbridge, Mass., defeated R. S. Parks, Worcester, Mass., 1 up.

Second Division—O. F. Warner, Manufacturers, Pittsburgh, defeated H. C. Keating, Montclair, N. J., 2 up (19 holes); W. H. Clarke, Cleveland, defeated A. P. Dysart, Pittsburgh, 6 and 5; S. C. Strout, Biddeford, Me., defeated S. R. Smith, Garden City, 6 and 5; L. Schoonover, Warren, Ohio, defeated J. L. Weller, Hamilton, Ontario, 4 and 3.

Third Division—H. R. Cushman, Brae Burn, defeated R. C. Goodwin, Youngstown, 4 and 2; H. L. Tyrell, Fox Hills, defeated J. R. Sheaff, West Hills, 4 and 3; W. H. B. Ward, Cleveland, defeated G. T. Reeves, Shankamaxon, 3 and 1; J. Hawley, Huntington, W. Va., defeated A. M. Dickinson, Waterbury, 4 and 3.

Fourth Division—David McLeod, Pittsburgh, defeated W. C. Goodwin, Rochester, 4 and 3; E. McClure, Springfield, defeated J. P. Newton, Pinehurst, 6 and 5; Julius Mathews, Boston, defeated J. G. Swift, Boston, 1 up; Robert Foote, New Haven, won by default from Fred W. Agan, Rutland, Vt.

Fifth Division—C. F. Marshall, Pittsburgh, defeated S. C. Milligan, Pittsburgh, 4 and 2; G. D. Boice, Princeton, won by default from F. W. Scott, Douglaston, L. I.; P. A. MacLaughlin, Manchester, Vt., defeated George Bridges, Commonwealth, 3 and 2; T. Newton Hellman, Williamsport, Pa., defeated Henry T. Lumb, Poughkeepsie, 2 and 1.

Caldwell Sees Delaney Work; Impressed by His Condition

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 23 (AP).—Bruce Caldwell and Jack Delaney, two of the leading exponents of their respective athletic activities, met here today at the latter's gymnasium where Delaney went through a heavy workout in preparation for his encounter with Tom Heeney in New York. Caldwell was impressed by Delaney's condition and his punching power.

"I don't know much about fighting conditions, but as far as being conditioned for athletics, he looks all right," said Caldwell after the workout.

WESTERNERS TO MEET IN BELLEAIR FINAL

Harold Ingersoll of Colorado Springs Wins, Will Play David Talman of Minneapolis.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP).—Harold Ingersoll of Colorado Springs, Col., and David N. Talman of Minneapolis will meet tomorrow in the thirty-six-hole final round of the annual Washington's Birthday golf tournament here by virtue of their victories in the semi-finals today.

Ingersoll, who already has won two tournaments here during the present season, defeated Henry J. Topping of Greenwich, Conn., at the nineteenth hole in a nip-and-tuck match today, while Talman had a little easier time eliminating J. G. Bishop, Summit, N. J., 3 and 2.

STRIBLINGS STOPS CLANCY.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 23 (AP).—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight contender, knocked out Joe Clancy of Atlanta ten seconds after the second round started of their scheduled ten-round bout on the American Legion fight program here tonight.

Schuler Loses to Sherman.

Sol Sherman defeated Harry Schuler, 40 to 37, in 82 innings at the Highway Academy in Brooklyn last night in a three-cushion billiard match. Sherman had a high run of 4 and Schuler one of 2.

STRASSER FINALIST IN CLASS C SQUASH

GREEN VICTOR OVER MAYER

By ALLISON DANZIG.

L. A. Strasser of the Shelton Club and Leonard S. Green of the home club will meet for the national Class C squash tennis championship tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the City Athletic Club.

In the semi-finals last night Strasser defeated H. R. Sutphen Jr. of the Princeton Club in a beautifully played match that approached Class C calibre at times, 15—10, 15—8, 13—15, 15—6. The two finalists stand as the survivors of a field of eighty-seven players that started out last week.

The match between Strasser and Sutphen was the big attraction last night and every seat in the gallery was occupied when they went on the court. From start to finish it was a battle royal with the men so evenly matched that it was futile to pick the winner. Neither player is a hard hitter but both kept their shots low, stroked aggressively at all times and covered court with nimble feet.

Strasser's Defense Strong.

Sutphen, playing his shots within inches of the telltale on drives to the side wall, was deserving of a better fate than he met with, but Strasser's splendid defense and ability to retrieve the most difficult shots turned him back.

The match reached its climax in the final game, which was Class A squash all the way. In spite of the fact that both men were stroking beautifully, it was almost impossible for either to put over a point winner, so impenetrable was the defense on both sides, and in hand after hand the server was retired scoreless after a desperate rally. Strasser gradually forged ahead to gain a lead of 12—7.

At this point Sutphen played such unbeatable squash that Strasser could make no progress and the score went to 13—11 before the Shelton representative got another point. Sutphen drew even at 13-all, the score went to 2-all and then the Princetonian made a mistake in judgment that cost him his last chance. He failed to play a ball that he thought had struck his opponent, and Strasser, getting the service, scored 3 points to end the match.

Green Fulfills Expectations.

Green was the clear favorite to win over Mayer and fulfilled expectations. His cleverly placed shots around the corners caught Mayer out of position continually and his up-and-down volley, used with nice discrimination, was an almost certain point winner. His return of service retired Mayer scoreless almost invariably before he could score a point.

In the first set, in pulling up from 3—13, and in winning the third, Mayer played a high grade of squash, scoring on a dead ball off the back wall and mixing his strokes in a fashion to keep the other scrambling. But for the most part Green dominated the play and did it coolly and with a smoothness and lack of effort that clearly stamped him as the better player.

Small-Bubble Lather + + + that's the SECRET!

That Stubborn Beard No Problem Now

Whiskers come off quick and smooth when small bubbles soak them soft. No razor-pull, no sting or smart

If we can show you a way to banish razor-pull, sting and smart . . . will you try it?

If we can show you a shaving method that's smoother, easier, faster than any you've ever known before . . . will you adopt it?

Then it will pay you to read this advertisement from start to finish.

It's the story of a wonderful new principle of beard-softening . . . a new and strictly scientific way to get your whiskers off.

You'll see the difference the minute you try Colgate's. It's a closer shave. An easier, quicker shave. You've never known such comfort in all your life-long days.

It is, we believe, the ultimate attainment in the science of beard-softening.

A shaving cream based on the new proven principle that water and not soap, is the real softener of your beard.

Colgate's lather is designed to absorb more water . . . to scientifically drench your beard with moisture, right at the base where the razor work is done.

It's a small-bubble lather. For small bubbles hold more water. They carry it closer to the base of your beard.

The minute you brush Colgate's on your face, two things happen: First, the soap in the lather breaks up the oil film that covers each hair . . . floats it quickly away. Then billions of tiny, moisture-laden bubbles seep down through your beard . . . crowd around each whisker . . . soak it soft with water at the base.

Instantly your beard gets moist and pliable . . . limp and lifeless. Whiskers come off quick and clean . . . without razor-pull, sting or smart. You've never had a shave like this before. You've never known such comfort.

Just step up to any drug store counter and ask for Colgate's. Compare it with ordinary shave cream, and you'll agree it's the fastest, smoothest, cleanest shaving method ever created.

MR. HOOVER REPLIES.

Secretary HOOVER has done only the expected in answering Senator BORAH'S question relating to prohibition. Incidentally, he sensibly declines to submit himself to questionnaires on every kind of subject. This is apparently meant as advance notice to Mr. WILLIS that the Secretary of Commerce will pay no attention to the long list of questions which the Ohio Senator has said that he was prepared to put to Mr. HOOVER. These relate to his earlier venture into politics, his support of President WILSON in 1918, and various other matters relating to the League of Nations, the World Court, and, worst of all, that "international-mindedness" which is above all things abhorrent to the home-keeping Senator WILLIS. He may ask Mr. HOOVER about all these things, but he will get no answer.

To Senator BORAH the Secretary of Commerce frankly states his position. Speaking strictly to the point of the Volstead act, he remarks that it is the law, and that whoever is President must take an oath to see that this and all other laws are executed. So far, this is but common form. It does not differ from what Governor SMITH has said. It is probably the sort of declaration which will be made in the platforms of both political parties. But Mr. HOOVER goes further. He declares that he does not favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Moreover, repeating what he has, in effect, said before, he speaks of the attempt to enforce prohibition in this country as "a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose." This may well be true as regards many of those who originally favored the Eighteenth Amendment, though not a few even of them are now ready to confess that the experiment has broken down. On this point Secretary HOOVER says nothing.

His statement will be considered by politicians in two aspects. The first is its effect on the Ohio primary. There it cannot fail to throw the plans of Senator WILLIS out of gear. He was going to claim all the prohibition votes in Ohio as his peculiar preserve, since he was the driest as he is the loudest of the Drys. But he can scarcely do that now. Mr. HOOVER'S letter will be sadly disconcerting to the Willis managers. They had reconciled themselves, as best they could, to seeing the chief Ohio cities, Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati and Columbus, turn away from Senator WILLIS mainly because he is too Dry, but they had counted upon a tremendous vote for the Senator in the rural districts, where prohibition is still a kind of sacred symbol. But now Mr. HOOVER'S words will go out to the women and farmers in the interior of Ohio, and will doubtless win from them many votes in the Presidential primary next April. This result will be looked upon by the workers for WILLIS as due to an astute political move by Secretary HOOVER, by which he may obtain the support both of the wet cities and the dry country in Ohio.

The second aspect of Mr. HOOVER'S answer to Senator BORAH is national. It will, if Mr. HOOVER is nominated at Kansas City, enter into the Presidential campaign. With what effect? It would be rash to prophesy anything except that it will undoubtedly tend to bring forward and intensify the prohibition issue. Those who, in either party, hope to hush it up and ignore it are bound to fail. It may prove to be like a sword thrust into both parties, causing divisions, bitterness and a great shifting of votes. But however it works, whatever the political surprises it may entail, there it is. The more politicians, like Senator REED of Missouri, try to keep silence about it, the more millions of people will talk of it. After what Secretary HOOVER has said, all the Mrs. Partingtons who can be gathered into the National Convention of either party cannot sweep back that rising sea.

A WESTERN HOPE.

For twenty years the Northwest, with the exception of three men, has not added much national material to the Democratic Party. Governor JOHN A. JOHNSON of Minnesota died at a time when it was felt he was coming to be among Presidential probabilities. JOHN BURKE of North Dakota wound up what seemed a wider prospect as Treasurer of the United States. Senator WALSH of Montana is still prominently in the popular eye, but he is the only Democratic Northwesterner who is. Therefore the party is regarding with more and more interest A. SCOTT BULLITT of Seattle, who came within a few votes of defeating Senator JONES, Republican, last Fall, and who, according to newspaper reports in the State of Washington, has more than an even chance to be elected Governor this Fall. The Republicans are divided over Governor HARTLEY, who has announced his intention to run again, and Mr. BULLITT seems to have distanced his fellow-townsman, Judge STEPHEN J. CHADWICK, by having been selected as Temporary Chairman of the Democratic State Convention in April.

If Mr. BULLITT is nominated and elected as Governor, a new and colorful national figure will have arisen in the Northwest. His ancestors were the settlers both of Virginia and Kentucky, and his direct progenitor was commissioned by PATRICK HENRY to govern the Virginia county which became the State of Kentucky. He is a graduate of Princeton, where his campus fame has persisted to this day, and in Kentucky he occupied several offices which he filled with distinction. Removing a decade ago to Seattle, "to convert the heathen there," he has had unusual political success and planted the banner of the Jeffersonian tradition well north of "Fifty-Four Forty or Fight."

The general newspaper comment on his candidacy is that he is pro-Smith and wet. Neither of these soft impeachments has Mr. BULLITT admitted, but there seems to be no doubt that the Smith adherents in Washington are strongly committed to him and that he is their choice for a delegate-at-large to the Houston Convention. A Northwestern Democrat who has made so much stir would, if elected Governor of a strongly Republican State, unquestionably attract national party attention in 1932. A wet Protestant Kentuckian from the Northwest would hold an obvious appeal for the Democrats in the next few years.

A SECOND LOCARNO.

Great Britain's reiterated veto on the Protocol idea, which would extend a blanket guarantee of security to the entire membership of the League of Nations, has seemingly been accepted as final in Central Europe. Under the leadership of BENES of Czechoslovakia the League's Security and Arbitration Committee is now engaged upon the alternative of regional agreement suggested by Sir AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN. A Locarno for the Central European States is now reported in the making. The nucleus will be the existing Little Entente between Prague, Belgrade and Bucharest. To be added are Austria and Hungary. An entente is a union of prima facie friends. A "Locarno" is an agreement between potential enemies. Austria's adhesion may be won without difficulty. The move for shifting the capital of the League from Geneva to Vienna would be the price paid for Austria's definite abandonment of the much-discussed though never very real proposal of a union with Germany. The ground has been apparently prepared in Mgr. SEIPEL'S recent visit to Prague.

The winning of Hungary would be a much more difficult matter. For Budapest to enter a five-nation Locarno would mean acquiescence in the post-war settlements. To all three members of the Little Entente the Hungarian State has lost great slices of territory with more than one-half of its pre-war population. No evidence has been forthcoming of a change of temper in Hungary in this matter of bowing to the inevitable. Evidence to the contrary is at hand in the famous incident of the five carloads of Italian machine guns apprehended on the Austro-Hungarian frontier. The mystery is no longer mysterious. Hungary's action in destroying the now inconvenient guns confirms the charge that she was the real customer behind the non-existent Polish consignee. It is now asserted that the shipment of arms is by no means the first of its kind. Next month the League Council will take up the case.

If Hungary is to join BENES'S proposed security pact it will be under pressure. The choice for her will be between subscribing to a pledge of non-aggression and accepting the brand of mischief-maker. Observers anticipate that Hungary will not be utterly without friends at Geneva. To Italy the prospect of something like a Hapsburg reunification is not agreeable. Germany may not easily abandon the hope of some day incorporating Austria. Yet it remains to be seen how openly Italian or German statesmanship can take a stand against a proposal which has for its purpose the strengthening of peace in the heart of Europe. On the contrary, Germany's own precedent may be cited in favor of the new arrangement. In the original Locarno the German Government recognized the permanency of her western frontier. With regard to Poland it would bind itself only to abstaining from force in seeking a revision of frontiers. On some such basis Hungary might consent to enter the proposed Locarno. Despite smuggled machine guns it is out of the question that she can ever succeed in revising the peace treaties by force.

CUTTING THE NAVAL PROGRAM.

The decision of the House Naval Committee to reduce the General Board's construction program from seventy-one ships, including destroyers and submarines, to fifteen large cruisers and one aircraft carrier was not unexpected. They are to cost, it is estimated, $274,000,000, as compared with $740,000,000 asked for by Secretary WILBUR. Thus economy will be served, and no more is likely to be heard of competitive building. Republican members of the House Committee doubted the necessity of adding twenty-five modern cruisers of 10,000 tons to the fleet, although admitting that replacements are overdue. It seems reasonable to suppose that the halt of the British cruiser program was interpreted in Washington as a sign that no attempt would be made to build ship for ship. Neither Great Britain nor Japan could question America's need of a substantial increase of modern cruiser strength.

With fifteen more 10,000-ton ships, to be completed in six years, the United States Navy would be fairly well equipped in that type of vessel. Great Britain has lately completed three 10,000-ton cruisers and ten more have been laid down, five of them only last year. She has three cruisers of between 9,000 and 10,000 tons in commission, and the rest of her fleet is made up of ships of from 3,895 to 7,100 tons. Our Omahas, of which we have ten, are more powerful and faster by several knots than the units of the large group of British cruisers running up to 5,120 tons, forty-two in number. Possession of many fueling stations accounts for the favor in which they are held by the British Admiralty. The Omahas are fine ships, and perhaps more could be used with advantage.

Great Britain has scrapped all her cruisers completed before 1911, but on the United States naval lists twenty-two obsolete cruisers, completed from 1898 to 1908, have been retained. Until the Omahas were built and a small number of 10,000-ton ships were laid down our cruiser fleet was absurdly inadequate. Even Japan was forging ahead in this unit. It is to be regretted that the House Naval Committee has eliminated all of the nine destroyer leaders asked for. In that class the United States is weak. It is well that the door is left open to further limitation by a proviso that if a new conference is called the President may suspend construction authorized.

THEY DISCOVER NEW YORK.

President COOLIDGE'S renunciation and the prospect of Governor SMITH'S nomination have kept the New York machine flopping and fluttering like a just decapitated hen. Counsels of impossibility, pretenses of neutrality, a blind waiting for something to turn up and a generous desire to save their own bacon are about all that can be made out of the public performances of the organization masters. Privately they must divagate into occasional intelligence. Chairman MORRIS, buffaloing Buffalo on Tuesday, wasn't so directly unprofessional. All the horsepower in Erie must have laughed when he said: "We can defeat any candidate the Democrats put up, and that goes for 'AL' SMITH." The Assembly Judiciary Committee of that Legislature which he calls "we" was just helping the Governor again by throwing out his four-year-term proposal.

But Mr. MORRIS had to confess the Republican plight. Everything is to be as it isn't. Up-State and down-State must be words forgot. Perish ambition, perish jealousy. Be a band of brothers. Roll up your shirt sleeves and "a majority of 500,000." By way of developing enthusiasm, send uninstructed delegates. At Rochester Mr. HILLES showed the danger signal. The Empire State is still imperial. The Republican Party must have its forty-five electoral votes. Mr. COOLIDGE'S policies must be continued. That must be the reason why Mr. HILLES is cold to the candidate intimately associated with them. Mr. HILLES praised the late Uncle GEORGE ALDRICH. Naturally, he couldn't say that the jovial boss of Monroe was always adding Democratic votes to his Republican collection, whereas the newer gods are distinguished for nothing so much as the creation of Smith Republicans."

Dr. BUTLER was contributing to the happiness of the oligarchs by including not only New York but five other States from Massachusetts to Maryland in the battleground doubtful or disastrous to the Republicans unless they name a strong candidate against Governor SMITH or Governor RITCHIE. He was stressing the prohibition issue, but in a general way it may be said that the growth of cities in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey more and more threatens Republican ascendency. There are two Republican parties in New York besides the Smith Republicans; another creeping fast for the dauntless leaders of uninstruction. In Massachusetts Governor FULLER refuses to be a delegate-at-large to Kansas City. He is no friend of "unpledged" delegates; and he has unpleasant memories of the convention of 1920, when the Massachusetts delegation was uninstructed and "a nomination was made at 11 minutes past 2 o'clock in the morning."

His prediction of HOOVER and SMITH may not be verified; but the course of his political education must interest Mr. HILLES. He was for COOLIDGE. Then he was for HUGHES. Now he is for HOOVER. But he is no politician. Therefore he is without wisdom, sagacity, subtlety. Our Republican Magi own among themselves that it will be the devil's own job to tear New York away from Governor SMITH. The party is confused, disorganized, sullen. So the way to animate, solidify and unite it is to keep it doubtful, to suppress as far as possible its desires in regard to the candidate, to trust its fortunes to a conciliatorium of men with a genius for going wrong and being beaten. "We shall be fighting this Fall," said Mr. HILLES. "Why, man alive, you are always fighting. The victors of Albany survive."

HIGH SPEED IN FLORIDA.

Although it is difficult to measure accurately the conductivity of nerves, there is reason to believe that sensation is transmitted to the brain at a speed that lies somewhere between 110 and 180 feet a second. The racing car in which LOCKHART came to grief in the ocean was roaring over the sands of Daytona at a rate more than twice as great—280 feet a second. In the two seconds required to shift his eye from the course to a speedometer and back 560 feet were traversed. That a machine should be able to travel faster than sensation raises the question whether human brain and muscle are equal to the task of driving a racing car at speeds much higher than those attained in Florida by SEGRAVE, CAMPBELL and LOCKHART. There is no time to think when three city blocks are covered in two seconds. The driver is thrown back on reflexes. Doubtless an evolutionist would regard the craving for speed as a heritage of the time when fleetness was of importance in the struggle for existence. To him CAMPBELL and LOCKHART clutching the steering wheels of their cars have slipped back a million years because they relied solely on inherited primordial instincts.

Few winds have a velocity so high as that reached by CAMPBELL or LOCKHART. Long before 200 miles is attained by a gale flimsy farmhouse roofs are torn off and whirled like sheets of paper for miles. The air pressure against the forehead of a Campbell or a Lockhart must be over a hundred pounds to the square foot. Fully half the power required to attain a speed of 200 miles an hour is consumed in overcoming wind resistance, which increases as the cube of the speed. Such is the downward pressure on the nose of a high-speed car and such the suction behind, that wind tunnel experiments must be conducted to discover a form which will make it possible to equalize pressures and avoid somersaulting.

Ordinary tires are useless when wheels spin around thirty-three times a second. The centrifugal force generated is measured by tons. It is of such magnitude that the normally circular cross section of tubes and casings becomes oval. Indeed, it is actually possible to run over the sands without inflating tires at all at 200 miles an hour. No wonder that SEGRAVE and LOCKHART took the precaution of protecting themselves with armor and shields against the possible bursting of rapidly spinning wheels. Yet the engineer has not uttered the last word in the attainment of land speed. Probably the difficulty in beating the record made by CAMPBELL is more psychological than technological.

"BOUGHT HEALTH."

There is a Latin proverb to the effect that unbought health which comes by favor of a good heritage or of a healthful natural environment, is "a deity presiding over the affairs of men." But men have come to know that there is also such a thing as "bought health," developed through rigorous care and sound habits of personal hygiene in spite of bad heritage, or protected by the measures that society takes in guarding against the approach of infection. Postponement of "the inevitable hour" can be procured for millions if only they are prepared to pay the price of public health. One disease after another has been driven from the habitations of men and can be kept away if there is continuing personal and social vigilance. Others come, but science is ever finding new ways to resist them, if only the public will follow its advice—which is not an interference with the deity who presides over the affairs of men, but an effort to comply with the inexorable laws of that presiding.

The New York Health Conference in session in New York City is but a coming together of the health agencies of the city, public and private, to learn what has been accomplished through intensive activities in certain selected districts, rural, urban and metropolitan, and to take counsel as to future cooperative expenditure of money and skill for the purchase of what is "better than wealth." It was stated in one of the addresses that there are every day about 2 per cent. of the people in the United States so sick as to be unable to work, and that the efficiency of 20 per cent. of those gainfully employed is greatly reduced (25 per cent. is the estimate) by minor ailments such as headaches, colds, &c. In dollars the aggregate annual loss to industry of these little ailments alone is a billion and a half. Yet the total public expenditure for health protection and conservation is inconsiderable when compared with what is spent for education and police, fire and other protection (71 cents per capita in 127 cities for the former as compared with $14.28 for the latter).

Health in some measure, at any rate, is purchasable. This is demonstrable; and in the experience of the health centres, where the medical profession, the nursing profession and the social worker are brought together in their preventive and curative service, it has been demonstrated to such an extent that their continuance is considered "inevitable." That twenty-one agencies led by the New York Health Department have been held together under one roof, pooling their experiences, in their service to a district in this State with 100,000 people is in itself significant and promises both bought and unbought health. The most serious problem seems to be that of a completely satisfactory working relationship between the medical profession and the social agencies.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Playing a Lone Hand.

A match in steadfastness for the seventeen Democrats who used for years to carry the party banner in the mountain county of Leslie, Kentucky, has been discovered by The Arkansas Gazette at Salem in the Ozark State. He is JOHN HALL, now aged 70, who for fifty years has been a Republican editor in Arkansas and, as The Gazette headliner puts it, "lives to tell the tale." The dispatch about Mr. HALL makes it quite clear, however, why he has lived and is still so cheerful and interesting. Like the Messrs. Hown and Watts of Kansas, this editor of Arkansas is a humorist. He believes, he says, that he is the only Republican newspaper man in the State who ever got out of politics without having been kicked out.

When Representative OLDFIELD beat Mr. HALL for Congress, the latter got "some spiritual compensations. The women of the district, God bless 'em, became my friends because I kissed the kids and nursed the babies. But the husbands and sweethearts, dog-gone 'em, got jealous and voted against me." The editor once appeared on the stage at Little Rock. But he told The Gazette that he did well with it and "would be on big time now in monologue except for a bond issue I underwrote fifty years ago and haven't paid off yet." This was a bond which Mr. HALL "put up for his marriage license and is still drawing interest. Women, you know, don't like to travel around the country."

As the only Republican editor in his district, Mr. HALL once repelled the gang attacks of every Democratic paper in the region, says The Gazette, by wielding the most sarcastic pen ever seen in those mountains. Now he has retired with a little material wealth and "a million dollars' worth of experience on time deposit in his brain." He should certainly be an honored guest in June at Kansas City.

Clothiers Out for Big League.

Men mannequins are sometimes employed in New York shops for displaying the latest styles. But the business of being a model is still regarded as a feminine occupation. The man who earns his living in that way is not generally considered a particularly heroic or athletic type.

That sentiment will be greatly shaken if Ty Cobb accepts the offer of an association of clothiers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. They have asked the famous baseball star to be, not a mannequin, but a "good-will ambassador," traveling about the country as an exponent of what the well-dressed man will wear. They appeal to him as "the idol of the boys today" to join in their missionary work: "America needs you to make the nation better dressed, and, therefore, better equipped to handle the affairs of life."

There is no doubt that a popular hero of American sport would inspire respect, admiration and a desire to imitate in youths who would be unmoved by the smart get-up of a professional model. But will "fans" admire their hero as much in a correct black jacket and striped trousers as they do in a baseball uniform? Many a distinguished looking officer, the pink of fashion in his uniform, has apparently lost in stature and style when demobilized into civilian clothes. And Cobb might have to play ball to make his admirers recognize him.

What Congress Likes.

In Florida—at least at Key West, where Postmaster General NEW is recuperating—"the skies are bright, the temperature delightful, the people congenial," and before Mr. NEW leaves he hopes to meet some of the many friends of Representative W. J. SEARS. This would seem justification enough, both for the virtues of Florida as a sanitarium and the brilliance of Mr. SEARS'S personal group of friends. But in making these important facts known to the House recently Mr. SEARS allowed a stern official note to intrude:

I wished him [Mr. New] this morning that I was glad he had found I had not overdrawn the picture of Florida's wonderful climate and the hospitality of our people. I added I also hoped before he returned to Washington he would have a chance to make an investigation and also find that I had not overdrawn the congested postal conditions down there.

This statement the House applauded. The House always applauds the general intimation that, while health is health, and the homeland of the Congressman on his feet is the asparagus-bed of the garden spot of creation, duty is duty and a public official should make a local investigation wherever he is. To the House this is an unfailing expression of grim American virtue.

The Postmaster General has a large department full of investigators who could give him a much better idea of postal congestion in Florida or elsewhere than he could gain personally in twice the time. The House knows that, and Mr. SEARS knows it. But the idea isn't poetical.

Mr. New will probably try to get well and let others look into the congestion, and the subject won't be mentioned again. But it makes a typical passage for the Congressional Record.

"Father & Daughter, Inc."

An English merchant selling fish and game has recently hung out a new sign over his door. "H. Marment & Daughter" is the new name of the concern. It all happened in the old approved way in which sons used to be taken into the firm. In 1914 the father was called to France on important business for the Government. With no more help from him than an occasional visit on leave, Miss MARMENT conducted her own little battle with the intricacies of selling to the public.

She managed so well that she was made a partner on her father's return. In the best conservative British manner that arrangement was thoroughly tested until the other day; when the new sign was put out.

One does not hear often of sons being taken into their father's business. It used to be much more frequent that occupations and professions ran in families. Nowadays the sons and daughters of ditch diggers become lawyers and doctors, while the children of professional men take to bricklaying and farming. Probably many American fathers are bucking the business enterprises of their children, but no sign "Miss Business Woman & Father" appears. He remains a silent partner.

Federal Reserve Policy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was interested in THE TIMES'S somewhat sarcastic treatment of the explanation of the policy of the Federal Reserve system by the "London economic pundits," among them Mr. McKENNA of the Midland Bank.

It is curious to note that the able ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer, the present head of the great Midland Bank, gives the same explanation as that revealed in the ablest and most incisive book that has been published on the Federal Reserve system. Says the author, the Assistant Agent of the New York Reserve Bank: "The policy has been to prevent the huge surplus of gold that has flowed into this country from entering the channels of commercial banking in such quantities as to cause a dangerous degree of inflation." Maybe he's a "pundit" too.

It is easy to understand why the English are somewhat dissatisfied with the policy, but that does not appear to have prevented their understanding either its motive or its method.

Professor Shaler's "Snap" Courses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest Dean Hawkes's reference to "snap" courses. While Nathaniel Southgate Shaler lived, Harvard supplied a long procession of able geologists to the United States Geological Survey and to the world. He died, and Harvard stopped doing this. He gave snap courses, but he was perhaps the greatest teacher of earth science that America ever had: at least he had few peers.

Men of science sometimes laughed at some of his easy generalizations and he talked to the boys not only of geology but of everything human. He was my teacher and my friend, and I know. Students elected not geology but Shaler. Boys should do this in large measure in college. Choose almost any subject, but elect your teachers. Shaler sucked in the geology so deftly that it was a life-saving injection to many. It caught—they found themselves, and then got their technique largely from lesser men.

TWO LIVES.

Do you recall that February night
When we met first? Young faces, gay and fair,
Were all about us. Down the perfumed air
Sweet music fell. The room was very bright
And jewels glinted in the rosy light
Like tiny flames. I saw you sitting there,
But one of many. Then—had Heaven a care
That I should hand you cakes, and see you right?

I heard your voice, nor dreamed of locking gyves,
Passed on unthinking, since the chains were slack.
Forgot your name, your face—as strangers do.
So light the line dividing my two lives.
That one, which knew you not, nor knew its lack,
And this one which is yours, and is all you.

ETHEL BROOKS STILLWELL.

THE FUTURE PANAMA CANAL.

M. Bunau Varilla Recalls His Great Conception of a Lockless Waterway.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was happy to see your great organ of public thought raising the question: "How will be handled the hundred million tons traffic of the Panama Canal twenty years from now?" You have done very well to put in line the three conceptions.

First comes that of those who think a little remodelling of the Panama Canal by constructing some new dams may solve the problem. This is just as bad a solution as that of the economical mother who thinks that the same trousers may be used by her son of 10 years until he is 20 by adding some new pieces of cloth. With thirty million tons of traffic, the canal enters its period of difficulties in the dry seasons of dry years. More dams will not cause more rain to fall.

The second solution is that of the people who still, in 1928, think in terms of their forefathers' conceptions in 1850: they still hope for the Nicaragua Canal. They forget that with the huge dams and locks necessary, all made of stiff material, it is almost crazy to entrust such a gigantic rigid piece of engineering to the volcanic and continually vibrating soil of Nicaragua. Some thousands of United States Marines may keep down the upheavals of the political volcanos of Nicaragua. All the forces of the United States, all her gold, all her technical genius will not prevent the Momotombo, the Masaya, the Omotope and their many brother volcanoes from spouting flames and ashes and their gigantic eruptions from shaking to earth the dams and the locks which engineers, lacking observation and foresight, may be led to erect at their base.

The third solution and the only one available consists in the gradual widening and deepening of the actually existing lock canal. This great work can be accomplished without stopping or hampering navigation for half an hour, thanks to the solution I have found and to which I gave publicity as far back as 1887. This great work can be accomplished at a relatively low cost, thanks to the presence of a canal and to the cheap excavation, transportation and dumping which it permits.

The end must be a canal connecting the two oceans, without any locks between; a canal having 1,000 feet width at the bottom and 50 feet of water at the lowest stages of the tide. This could be done within twenty years from now without spending one cent of the taxpayers' money. The surplus earnings of the gigantic and ever-increasing traffic, once capitalized, will more than cover the billion-dollar cost of the great undertaking, which will make the Panama Straits a reality worthy of the owner of the passage—the United States.

Technically and financially, the lock canal will be, as I stated since 1886, the tool by which the Straits of Panama can become a reality. Without the lock canal it would have remained a pure chimera.

Maladjusted Personality.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading an article of the 20th inst. in THE TIMES entitled "Masters of Personality" under "Topics of the Times," I am constrained to send you this letter in order to clarify to the writer of that article the serious and commendable aims of the newly organized "Association for Personality Training." If the writer had read the feature article in THE TIMES of Feb. 12, entitled "College Personality Course Is Backed by a New Society" he would have realized the comprehensive scope of the association. In my humble opinion it is one of the most practical and constructive efforts that have been made in many a year.

The genesis of the association is the result of many months of earnest conferences on the part of personnel managers and psychologists who have felt the need of such a training in those characteristics that go to make up personality, because of the problems that have constantly presented themselves due to the maladjustments and failures of large numbers of young men and women in the business world. The college course is by no means intended for those whose defects of personality often make them misfits, but rather for those personnel workers and teachers through whose instrumentality defective personalities may be transformed and made into successful, completely socialized men and women.

If this association can succeed in constructing bridges of understanding across the chasms of prejudice, if it can effect a change of attitude on the part of employer and employe toward each other, if it can promote and develop a better understanding of the relationship between personality and vocational adjustment," I think the writer of the aforementioned article will agree that it will have more than justified its existence.

Concerning Patriotism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me to thank you for your editorial on George Washington in THE TIMES today.

Love of country, home and liberty and the recognition of the principles which developed institutions in our fathers more than 150 years ago are lost in this generation.

The best and most interesting historical background which will obviate the defect may be found in the neglected "Works of Francis Parkman."

In them we find how, amid obscurity, religious bigotry and hardship, seeded, together in the united history of the three nations therein recorded than in any other age in the world. Yet Parkman's works are relegated to the cupboards by the libraries.

I bought eight volumes for 10 cents each, years ago, because they were not called for, in the Y. M. C. A. library in New York City.

Hospital Radio Here, Too.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A dispatch to THE TIMES from London states that a new radio device has been installed whereby every patient in the Lambeth Hospital is enabled to listen to radio programs through a centralized receiver.

Such a device is now in use in the new Sydenham Hospital on 124th Street and Manhattan Avenue. Every patient has a headphone and can listen to programs of any one of two stations which are always operating.

DECRIES PROTESTS IN HOSPITAL CLOSING

Frederick Warburg, Trustee, Deplores Stir Over Plan to End Infirmary for Women.

INSTITUTION IS DEFENDED

Dr. Josephine Baker Says It Fills a Need for Women Physicians —Scores Deficit Plea.

As still further protests against the closing of the New York Infirmary for Women were voiced yesterday, Frederick Warburg, a trustee of the institution, deplored what he called the "premature washing of the hospital's dirty linen by the women physicians." The present plan, he said, was to close the institution on July 1, by a vote of the Board of Trustees. The disposition of the institution and its fund is uncertain and will remain so until a committee appointed to study the situation makes its report.

"In the meantime there is no point in making such a stir in the columns of the press," said Mr. Warburg, "especially by persons who are in no wise connected with the institution and who cannot know anything about it."

Dr. Josephine Baker Protests.

Dr. S. Josephine Baker, former Director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene and for three years a trustee of the Women's Infirmary, protested against the proposed closing yesterday, on the ground that it was the only institution in the city where a woman physician could continue her hospital work after her internership. The deficit question and the doubt that has been expressed as to the need for the Women's Infirmary were both characterized by Dr. Baker as entirely inadequate reasons for closing the institution.

"Every hospital in New York and probably in the country has an annual deficit," she said. "Other hospitals meet their deficits and the Women's Infirmary ought to be able to meet its deficit in some way. It is no greater than that of other hospitals. Every college and every welfare institution can tell the same story. If that were a legitimate reason every hospital in New York should close its doors."

To the other objection Dr. Baker replied emphatically that the institution was sorely needed. To her knowledge, she said, there were only three woman doctors now on the general staffs of New York hospitals.

Sees Women Barred From Staffs.

"Of course, the opportunities for a woman as an interne in the New York hospitals are favorable," she continued, "but after the internership it is almost impossible for a woman to continue her work on the general staff of the hospital. I do not think it is a matter of prejudice. It is simply tradition, habit, and the result of the law of supply and demand. I do not blame the men for not wanting to give up their jobs. But, nevertheless, it is a fact, and I think that it would be very inadvisable to close the Women's Infirmary and eliminate the one institution where a woman doctor can continue her hospital work.

"My opinion as to the proposed closing of the institution is impersonal. I am interested in child hygiene, and severed my connection with the hospital two years ago, when my term as trustee expired."

Dr. Eleanor Conover of the Women's Medical Association, said that, according to the Bureau of Hospital Information, the thirteen leading New York hospitals, employing a total of 1,072 physicians, had only eleven women physicians on their staffs of consultants and out-patient physicians were excluded. The New York Infirmary for Women has a staff of forty-five women.

BUDAPEST, Feb. 23.—Representatives of the Hungarian Government and the City of Budapest and diplomatic and literary figures of Hungary attended the banquet here last night in honor of Vilma Banky, the nation's popular Hollywood star, who is visiting her parents here.

The Government sent M. Nagy, the Under-Secretary of Public Instruction, to honor the actress, and Budapest, Magistrate Lobmayer.

Julius Pekar, Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee on Foreign Affairs and a former Minister, praised the merits of the actress, who, he said, carried the prestige of Hungary into the film world. He gave the star a silver box containing soil of Hungary.

Great crowds of enthusiastic Hungarians follow the actress about the city.

SCHOOL WORKERS IDLE.

Architect Says Building Inquiries Affect About 1,000.

The action of the Board of Education in delaying the erection of new schools pending the building investigations has swelled the ranks of the unemployed by not more than 1,000 workers, Clarence E. Dobbin, acting chief architect of the board, said yesterday. Had it not been for the various surveys initiated last Fall nine or ten schools would now be under construction, thus affording an opportunity for work to seven or eight hundred workers, he said.

Mr. Dobbin's bureau is now revising the old school plans with a view to eliminating features of construction found objectionable by the committee of architects and engineers whose report was made public recently. It will be at least a month before work can be resumed on any of the new schools.

Brings Costumes of Many Lands.

SAILS FOR A STUDY OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

Dr. Josephine B. Neal of Medical Centre Will Consult With European Specialists.

Dr. Josephine B. Neal, specialist in serological diagnosis and director for the Medical Centre of the William J. Matheson Survey of Epidemic Encephalitis, sailed for London yesterday on the American Banker to consult with European specialists who have been studying sleeping sickness. After her research trip, officials of the Joint Administrative Board of the Medical Centre announced, it is hoped actually to begin studying this disease at the Medical Centre. The disease, it was said, has baffled scientists for hundreds of years and has averaged 250,000 cases since 1917. It sprang up in this country after the war.

"I hope to find out what is being done throughout Europe to combat encephalitis," said Dr. Neal, "and I will incorporate my findings into the research I have already conducted in this country as a basis for an active campaign to combat this disease."

Dr. Frederick Tilney, attending physician at the Neurological Institute and Professor of Neurology at Columbia University, said the work of the Matheson Survey would be the first attack of both national and international scope on sleeping sickness.

DIVORCE RISES IN GERMANY.

Ratio Last Year Double That of Pre-War Times.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Divorces in Germany have almost doubled in comparison to pre-war times. While the ratio of marriages legally dissolved in 1913 was only 27.9 for every 100,000 inhabitants, it was 56.6 last year, according to statistics published today.

Berlin holds the record among German cities, with 186.3 divorces per 100,000 population, or more than 3,000 a year. Hamburg comes second with 108.5. Bremen third with 104.3 and Lubeck fourth with 76.6.

The smallest percentage of marriage ends to smash in Germany is in the little State of Waldeck, where only 7.6 divorces per 100,000 inhabitants were granted last year.

BUDAPEST, Feb. 23.—A "classical" suicide is the latest sensation in the Hungarian capital. Leo Brueck, professor at the Jewish College, made his exit from this world today à la Socrates.

Toward the close of his lecture he ordered one of the students to bring him a glass of water and into it he poured poison. The students, unaware of his action, began to wonder as he changed the subject of his lecture and began to discuss Socrates's quiet death. Then, as the poison took effect and he began to collapse, he bade them farewell.

Help was summoned and he was rushed to a hospital, but could not be revived.

TRIES TO FIGHT AUTOS AND DISRUPTS TRAFFIC

Gray-Bearded Man Objects to Their Right of Way and Smites Them With Cane.

Thurston Lee Roberts, formerly of Ulster County, now living at the Hotel Elton, Fourth Avenue at Twenty-sixth Street, is an individualist. His long gray hair and his long tidy beard proclaim him such. Also his long heavy blackthorn stick and the way he swings it. Mr. Roberts was taken last night to the East Twenty-second Street Police Station and charged with disorderly conduct. Later in the evening he journeyed to night court.

Mr. Roberts's individualism was the cause of his trouble—he can't abide the traffic regulations, according to Patrolman Edward Kepko of Traffic B.

Equipped with his blackthorn stick Mr. Roberts defied the stop-and-go rules last evening. Defiantly looking a red light in the eye he started across Fourth Avenue at Twenty-sixth Street. An automobile clipped his back hair; another one his beard. Mr. Roberts raised his blackthorn. The next car that came by, and it came very close, Mr. Roberts took a swing at.

Patrolman Kepko blew his whistle. Then he gently escorted Mr. Roberts across the street. "They'll get you," he confided softly to Mr. Roberts. "They have the weight and the speed."

"I'll defend myself," Mr. Roberts cried, and the swish of his blackthorn rose above the rumble of the motors. Then he shouted at Kepko, "Did you get the number of that car that threatened me?"

So saying he returned to the middle of the street. "I'll defend myself," he cried, and his blackthorn sang. It sang very close to the patrolman's ear. Kepko blew his whistle, halted the passing procession and led Mr. Roberts gently through it to the police station. "Dodging cars is part of my job," said Patrolman Kepko softly, "but not milliakes. Bring it with you, but don't wave it."

In night court Roberts pleaded not guilty and was released in $25 bail for a hearing in Yorkville court on March 1.

JACOB JOHNSTON DICKINSON

Jacob Johnston Dickinson, veteran newspaper man, who was political editor and Albany correspondent for The Herald about twenty-five years ago, died yesterday at his residence, 101 West 163d Street, from a recent stroke of apoplexy after a year of ill health. He was sixty-four years old, and is survived by his widow and a son, Julian Allen Dickinson. Services will be held in St. Alban's Church, 163d Street and Ogden Avenue.

Mr. Dickinson, who was a native of Lexington, Ky., was a nephew of Jacob McG. Dickinson, former Secretary of War. To most of his friends he was known as "Major." He did his first newspaper work on The Cincinnati Times-Star and Inquirer. Later he was on The Republic and Post-Dispatch in St. Louis.

He served in the Nebraska volunteer regiment organized by William J. Bryan for the war with Spain, and performed several confidential missions for Mr. Bryan when the latter was Secretary of State.

Mr. Dickinson had written for The World and The American of this city at various times, and of late years he had been associated with E. P. Coxsum, railroad executive. Before the entrance of the United States into the World War, he was employed by George S. Viereck, editor of The Fatherland, but he severed his relations with Viereck on Feb. 9, 1917.

GEORGE URBAN JR. DEAD.

Financier of Electric Projects and Political Leader Dies in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—George Urban Jr., 73, one of the most noted figures of the Niagara frontier, died late tonight.

It was in the "log cabin" of the Urban estate in Cheektowaga that Mr. Urban conceived the idea of backing and becoming a fellow citizen and intimate friend, Grover Cleveland, for Governor and President. It was in the same log cabin that the Pan-American Exposition was formulated and promulgated.

Always keenly interested in electric power, and particularly the development of Niagara Falls power, Mr. Urban became President of the Niagara Service Electric Corporation.

DR. ANNA J. GLOSS DEAD.

Pioneer Medical Missionary in China Dies in California.

DEKALB, Ill., Feb. 23.—Dr. Anna J. Gloss, the first United States medical missionary to take up work in China, died today in Pasadena, Cal., friends here learned. Dr. Gloss left the United States in 1885, developing the first medical-missionary hospital in Peking, now known as the Union Medical College. She returned in 1913 to become active in Methodist missionary work as a lecturer.

Captain Gilbert P. Cotton, U. S. A.

Captain Gilbert P. Cotton, U. S. A., retired, died yesterday at his residence 427 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, after a long illness, at the age of 81. Until he moved to Brooklyn three years ago he had lived for seventeen years at the Plaza Hotel, Manhattan. He graduated from West Point in 1867 and retired in 1897. Most of his service was in the artillery. His wife, who was Mary Read Haddock, died in 1906. He was a member of the Union, University and Army and Navy Clubs.

EDMOND CLEMENT, NOTED SINGER, DEAD

SANG AT THE METROPOLITAN

NICE, France, Feb. 23 (AP).—Edmond Clément, who had been acclaimed as the greatest French tenor of recent years, died here today.

M. Clément was the leading French tenor with the Metropolitan Opera Company here during the season of 1909-10. In May, 1910, he announced that he would not be a member of the company the next year, because few French operas were to be given, and he did not care to learn Italian rôles. He made concert tours of this country and Canada in 1912 and again in 1921.

In reviewing one of his New York concerts in 1921, Richard Aldrich wrote in THE TIMES that his art was "still beautifully finished, characteristically French in all its manifestations," and that "his presentation of every song is a masterpiece in phrasing, in the composition of the details and the polish of the general effect."

Born in Paris in 1867, Clément studied singing under Warot at the Conservatoire, winning the first prize in 1889. That Autumn he made his début at the Opera Comique in Gounod's "Mireille" with such success that he was at once engaged as first tenor. He retained the position at the Comique until 1910, with frequent leaves for appearances throughout Europe. He was a member of the Boston Opera Company from 1911 to 1913.

Among the many rôles created by Clément at the Opera Comique were the chief tenor parts of "Paryne," "Attaque du Moulin," "La Vivandière," "Le Juif Polonais," "Madama Butterfly" and "La Reine Fiammette." He was noted especially for his performance of the tenor rôles of "Carmen," "Manon," "Bohème" and "Lakme." He was a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. He married Lea Borel of Paris in 1894.

Lawrence Comer, who played in vaudeville and in musical comedies for twenty years, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital, aged 42, following an illness of five days that began as he was about to leave for a tour of vaudeville theatres in the West. Comer first played in vaudeville as "The Head Brummel Comedian," making his début in 1907. He was with Otis Harlan and Alice Fork in "A Broken Idol" in 1909. He lived with his mother, Mrs. Minnie Comer, at 308 West Forty-fifth Street.

WOMAN, 108, IS DEAD IN A BROOKLYN HOME

Mrs. Sarah F. Strofsky Outlived Her Nine Children—Active Till Six Months Ago.

Reputed to be the oldest resident of Brooklyn, Mrs. Sarah Feige Strofsky died yesterday at the Hebrew Hospital and Home for the Aged, Howard and Rockaway Avenues, at the age of 108 years. Isidore Greenspan, Superintendent of the home, vouched for the authenticity of her age and said that two years ago at a family wedding, 402 of her direct lineal descendants were present.

Mrs. Strofsky was born in Russia and came to this country twenty-nine years ago. Her husband died in Russia when she was 34 years old. She had nine children and outlived them all.

Her grandchildren who reside in Brooklyn are Mrs. Celia Steinberg, 404 Junius Street; Mrs. Minnie Budnick, 86 Barrett Street; Mrs. Sarah Rosen, 307 Sackman Street; Mrs. Frank Ostrofsky, 276 Dumont Avenue, and Mrs. Bella Steinberg, 341 South Fourth Street.

Mrs. Strofsky was admitted to the home six years ago and was active until six months ago. Prior to her last illness she was able to walk, read and sew and she retained her faculties almost to the end.

Funeral services will be held this morning in the Synagogue of the Home. Interment will be in Mount Zion Cemetery.

Mrs. Armour's Funeral Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Livingston Armour, who died on Wednesday of pneumonia in her eighty-fourth year after an illness of five days, will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock at her late residence, 777 Madison Avenue. Interment, which will be private, will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Armour was the widow of Herman Ossian Armour of Chicago and is survived by her daughter, Mrs. William Gilman Nichols of Rye, N. Y., another daughter, Mrs. Farquhar Ferguson, died some years ago. Her late husband was a brother of Philip D. Armour, founder of the packing firm of Armour & Co., Chicago, and was a partner in the firm from the time it was founded until he died in 1901.

Henry Silberfeld.

Henry Silberfeld of 780 West End Avenue, for many years proprietor of a jewelry store at 1,295 Broadway, died suddenly yesterday. He left a wife, Rose, two sons, Irving and Albert, and two daughters, Florence and Viola, and two brothers, Solomon and Arthur. On Nov. 12, 1926, his store was the scene of an attempted hold-up, during which the lone robber was seriously wounded and a policeman and a civilian were hurt.

Edward Riker.

Edward Riker, 85 years old, Civil War veteran and a volunteer fireman of Brooklyn, died yesterday at his home, 115 Woodruff Avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Riker enlisted in the 14th Regiment and was under fire in twenty-two battles, but was never wounded. He joined the Volunteer Fire Department of Brooklyn after the war and remained in the service until it was taken over by the city system. He was a member of Rankin Post, G. A. R., Kings County Lodge of Masons and the Kings County Masonic Veterans' Association. He is survived by six children. Funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow night and also on Sunday afternoon in the 14th Regiment Armory.

Dr. Griffin was graduated from Harvard College in 1886 and the College of Physicians and Surgeons four years later. He taught for several years at the latter institution. His appointment as Controller of Barnard followed his presentation of a report of his lengthy survey of conditions at the college with suggestions for the reorganization of several departments. Mrs. Griffin, as Mrs. Strange was well known during the World War period as Chairman of the Executive Board of the War Relief Committee in New York City.

WOMAN ARTIST DROPS DEAD

Mrs. Phebe Rae Whitney Is Stricken at Desk in Her Studio.

Mrs. Phebe Rae Whitney, a commercial artist, of 270 Central Park West, died suddenly in her studio, 54 East Twenty-second Street, late yesterday afternoon. Death was attributed to heart disease. Her age was 43.

Mrs. Whitney, whose work consisted in making poster manikins; her brother, Philip Hildreth of 104 Perry Street, and her assistant, Miss Hilda Stone Tuse of 106 Perry Street, were in the studio. Suddenly Mrs. Whitney, who was seated at her desk, cried out that she felt ill. A moment later she fell to the floor. When her brother and Miss Tuse reached her she was unconscious. Dr. Bell of New York Hospital responded to an ambulance call, but Mrs. Whitney was dead when he reached the studio. Mr. Hildreth said his sister had been occasionally under the care of doctors for a weak heart.

FOG TIES UP TRAFFIC IN HARBOR FOUR HOURS

2,000 Passengers Are Detained on Liners and the Ferryboat Service Is Disrupted.

The fog which blanketed the harbor from the Ambrose Channel Lightship to the Battery for four hours yesterday morning detained five ocean liners, bringing 2,000 passengers.

Thousands of commuters on the ferryboats were delayed. Lights were turned on in all the big downtown office buildings. Automobiles and surface cars were lighted, too.

Railroad floats and tugboats, with tows, tied up at various slips along the North and the East rivers until after 10 o'clock.

Small craft kept close in, blowing their whistles and steering to avoid collision.

The liners delayed were the White Star Adriatic, from Mediterranean ports, including Egypt and Palestine; the Italo-America Colombo, from Naples and Genoa; the Furness motorship Bermuda, the Dollar liner President Harrison, from her regular round-the-world voyage, and the Eastern Steamship Company's Yarmouth, from the West Indies.

Two young men, who started to row across to Brooklyn from the Battery, ended their voyage in the Kill von Kull. A police patrol boat towed them to Staten Island.

The Sound steamboats had to anchor after passing City Island and all were late in reaching their piers.

At Quarantine the fog was so heavy that the Public Health Officers' boat was delayed in getting to the anchored liners.

Mary Astor Now Mrs. Hawks.

"Beauty is truth, truth beauty"—and since geometry, a science of exactness, cannot falsify, it is not surprising to find beauty in these clear geometric forms ... these intriguing treatments of lines and curves and angles ...

The spirit of Venturus is above all the spirit of New York ... Progress ... the expression of our own age rather than the copying of another ... The things we live with must harmonize with the trend of our thoughts ... And strangely, never before has a furniture style been so malleable ... never before has it offered such opportunities of making one's dwelling characteristic of oneself ...

Because it is definitely a trend of the age, and not a fad for the few, Venturus furniture that is American furniture based on Venetian designs, can now be reproduced at a moderate price ...

NAVY PROGRAM CUT TO 16 WARSHIPS

NEW PROGRAM MANDATORY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Fifteen cruisers and one aircraft carrier involving a total expenditure of $274,000,000, comprise the naval building program agreed to today by the House Committee on Naval Affairs, instead of the Wilbur program, approved by President Coolidge, of seventy-one ships, including four types of fighting craft, to cost close to $800,000,000.

The committee's action was a compromise resulting from the bitter fight made on the Wilbur program.

Fears of piling up expenditures that would menace other legislative proposals, including flood relief and tax reduction—the latter still pending in Senate committee—were among the reasons that prompted the House Naval Committee to hold the naval building program to less than $300,000,000.

Under the terms of the compromise bill, to be introduced in the House on Monday by Chairman Butler, all new cruiser construction must be laid down in three years and completed in six years.

To avoid repetition of the action of the Administration two years ago in refusing to ask for appropriations for six of the cruisers authorized in the 1924 program, the bill will contain a provision making it mandatory on the Secretary of the Navy to submit estimates for work on the fifteen cruisers at the beginning of each session of Congress during the period of construction.

Permits Suspension for Arms Treaty.

Another precaution was taken by the House committee to assure expeditious work on the building program. This was the adoption of a provision directing that if any of the ships were not laid down in the first year, ten should be started in the second year, and that in any event all should be laid down before the close of the third year.

One of the outstanding features of the bill is a provision empowering the President to suspend building in the event of another international agreement to further limit armaments, to which the United States may be a signatory. It reads:

"In the event of an agreement for further limitation of naval armament by international conference to which the United States is a signatory, the President is hereby authorized and empowered to suspend in whole or in part any of the naval construction authorized under this act."

The new provision excited prolonged discussion in committee. Many took the position that the original bill simply meant a "paper navy," especially in view of the fact that the automatic revival of the Washington Arms Conference must occur in 1931.

Under the terms of the bill ordered reported today, members of the committee declared, the navy is assured some ships, while they insist that assurance was lacking in the department bill, which they regarded as one calling more for "paper" than for "steel" ships.

A comparison of the Wilbur bill with the one agreed on today shows best the wide divergence between the two. The bill drafted by Secretary Wilbur asked for seventy-one ships, comprising twenty-five cruisers, thirty-two submarines, nine destroyer leaders and five aircraft carriers. The House committee deleted completely the provisions with respect to destroyer leaders and submarines, and reduced the number of other craft.

The fifteen cruisers authorized will each be of 10,000 tons and cost $17,000,000 per unit, or a total of $255,000,000. The aircraft carrier will be of 13,800 tons, in accordance with the recommendations of the Navy General Board. It is estimated it will cost $19,000,000.

The bill will provide that the aircraft carrier must be laid down in two years. The committee declined to take any action on the destroyer leaders asked, for the reason that there were twelve such ships authorized in 1916 which have not yet been built. There was general opposition to an authorization for new submarines.

Committee Votes 20 to 1.

The committee program had the approval of twenty of its twenty-one members. The one negative vote was cast by Representative McClintic, Democrat, of Oklahoma, who wants submarines and intends to carry his fight for them to the House floor.

While the cost of the sixteen ships is fixed at $274,000,000, the actual outlay on them, House leaders believe, will run as high as $300,000,000. To this must be added, officials say, additional expenditures for aircraft and enlarged personnel.

The committee also included a provision directing the Secretary of the Navy to furnish to it before the December session of Congress plans and specifications for the construction of two salvage ships for use in recovering wrecked submarines and for other emergency operations.

Chairman Butler expressed satisfaction today with the committee building program. He said it would provide a navy adequate for present needs and in accordance with the American proposals at Geneva.

Representative Britten, Republican, of Illinois, generally recognized as a "big navy" member, made this statement following the committee's action:

"All things considered, the bill is about as good as could be expected. It gives the navy five cruisers a year for the length of the bill. It provides only one aircraft carrier, because the Navy Department itself says that this type of ship is now only in an experimental stage and we should wait until we have the Langley in service and have the Langley at work.

"I think we have gotten pretty well, both with the department and with the President."

On the other hand, Representative McClintic believes "we have put the cart before the horse." He says the navy needs submarines, not cruisers.

"There is real danger should war come because of our inability to cope with submarines," he declared in stressing his opposition to the new bill.

The committee report is expected to call the attention of the Navy Department to the fact that it can build nine of the twelve destroyer leaders authorized in 1916, but never appropriated for, and also the V type submarines authorized in the same year and still unbuilt.

Wilbur Expresses Disappointment.

Disappointment was evidenced at the Navy Department over the curtailed building program decided on. Secretary Wilbur argued that the seventy-one ship program proposed by him was "moderate" as a "replacement" schedule.

The navy has 735 ships, he said, with their ages at the outside placed at twenty years. To replace these ships within twenty years on a graduated scale, he added, would really require laying down 184 every five years. He said the tonnage aggregated 2,234,846, or 356,181 tons for renewal every five years. It is estimated that the cost of construction averages $1,400 a ton, and that a five-year program on that basis, it was argued, ought to run to $334,241,500.

Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, displayed concern over the reduction of airplane carriers from five to one by the committee. The ratio of carriers to cruisers as proposed to Congress was one to five, he recalled, whereas it had now been decreased to one to thirteen.

This he regarded as a most serious development, on the ground that aircraft carriers were essential to provide "eyes" for "the fleet."

BRITAIN HAILS REDUCTION.

Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The big cuts made by the House Committee in the American naval program, and particularly the deletion of ten heavy cruisers, is received here with great satisfaction by all shades of opinion. Responsible people here had always doubted that the United States would proceed with the original proposal for an $800,000,000 building program, particularly when it was made clear that Great Britain had no intention of engaging in building competition with her, and was willing to acknowledge the American right to achieve parity or even superiority if they wished.

"As the American program has been cut down," declares The Daily Telegraph in the Admiralty Gazette editorially, "we are entitled to conclude that popular approval had not been given to the Navy Department's proposals. We are then faced with a position in which the feeling of the people here and in America has shown itself to be in opposition to that of their respective Governments and the people have made their views felt, even at the cost of something that looks like self-stultification.

"If this conclusion is correct, we can only regard it as a happy augury for a solution of the problem which emerged at Geneva when the time comes for a resumption of discussions with the United States. Sooner or later it is inevitable that the thorny problem of the freedom of the seas should be discussed. It is to be hoped that Government is alive to the significance of recent developments and will take the first suitable opportunity of dealing with the one serious issue between us and the United States."

Admiralty experts are hastening to point out, however, that even though ten heavy cruisers have been scrapped, the construction of the remaining fifteen, if, as is generally understood here, they are to be in addition to the eight previously projected, will give the United States superiority in this class. She will have twenty-three, whereas Britain has fourteen built, building or projected. Britain will, however, be able to offset against America's superiority in this class her own greater number of lighter cruisers.

Thus the position which British naval opinion refused to countenance at the Geneva parley will be produced. The two fleets will have something like a comparable aggregate cruiser tonnage, but America's tonnage will be represented by more heavy-type vessels, and Britain's by a greater number of light cruisers, which she believes necessary for the protection of her trade routes.

JAILS CONSUL'S ASSAILANTS.

Albanian Court Fines Them, Too, but British Victim Charges Leniency

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DURAZZO, Feb. 23.—The six bandits who on Feb. 8 attacked John Purcell, the British Consul at Koritsa, North Albania, were sentenced yesterday to three months' imprisonment and fines of 50 francs apiece.

Mr. Purcell is said to have remarked that he was not satisfied with the sentence, which he thought too lenient, and to have suggested that the court had been influenced because of a report he gave his Government last Spring to the effect that Tugendhat was not concentrating troops on the Albanian frontier.

The bandits held up Mr. Purcell's car and broke the glass in it, but the appearance of another motorist saved the Consul from bodily harm.

Taxi Men Hold Spelling Bees During Idle Hours in Flushing

Shakespeare's vocabulary, according to the latest standard dictionary, was 15,000 words, but the cabbies were like that, they would have to look to his laurels, for among the cab ranks of Flushing, Queens, a class is being developed that bids fair to outstrip the great writer.

Instead of shooting craps, playing pinochle or engaging in other games of chance, those taxicab philosophers who make their headquarters in a small restaurant at Main and Amity Streets now beguile their waiting hours by holding spelling bees. Each driver contributes $1 to a pool, and words that would ordinarily make one gasp for breath are hurled at the contestants. The one who survives longest takes the pool.

Besides his book of rules and police traffic regulations each Flushing chauffeur now carries a vest pocket dictionary, and between fares can be seen studiously going over tongue-twisters in the hope of winning the pool. It is said the nightly contest is a direct outcome of the crossword-puzzle craze.

PEACE MOVE FAILS IN CLEANERS' STRIKE

State Labor Mediator Calls a Conference, but Union and A. F. of L. Men Do Not Attend.

Attempt to Stop Cut Rate Work Causes Arrest of 6 Pickets—Jersey Shopkeeper Attacked.

With officials of the Allied Council of Cleaners and Dyers declaring yesterday that more than 25,000 workers are on strike in retail tailoring shops and wholesale cleaning plants, officials of the State Department of Labor made an unsuccessful attempt to mediate between the striking unions of pressers, drivers and engineers and the owners of the chains of cut-rate "dollar cleaners."

The peace move resulted in the first meeting of leaders of both sides since the strike began last Monday. But the absence of American Federation of Labor officials and most of the leaders of the Allied Council resulted in a half-hearted discussion of issues at the Department of Labor Building, 124 East Twenty-eighth Street, by a handful of men who would not have had authority to effect a settlement if they had been able to agree.

All Parties Invited to Confer.

The conference call was issued by A. J. Portenar, chief mediator of the Department of Labor, who sent telegraphic invitations to representatives of all parties to the controversy.

Although Joseph D. Cannon, business representative, and Alexander Marks, American Federation of Labor representative of the Allied Council, had intimated earlier in the day that they would attend the conference they did not appear, spending the afternoon with Hugh Frayne of the American Federation of Labor to discuss legal matters in connection with the temporary injunction obtained against the Allied Council and its officials by David Stark, general manager of the Manhattan Steam Dyeing and Scouring Works at 233 Greene Street, Brooklyn. Cannon, Jacob Effrat of the drivers' union and othe officials of the Allied Council and the American Federation of Labor are to appear before Supreme Court Justice Siegelman in Brooklyn Tuesday to argue against the continuance of the injunction.

All day yesterday 100 picketing squads in automobiles patroled the city to see that union tailors kept their shops closed and to try to persuade the employes of non-union wholesalers to quit. Only one disturbance was reported in the city. That was at Twenty-third Street and Third Avenue, where the police arrested five pickets. The men were later discharged in Yorkville Court.

Paterson Shop Owner Attacked.

In Paterson, Morris Scher, owner of an independent tailoring and cleaning shop at 773 Summer Street, was cut with shears and beaten by a group of eight men believed to be strike pickets. The men escaped as Scher was calling for help.

At the request of Jahir Mesquilden, proprietor of a store at 960 Bergenline Avenue, North Bergen, N. J., for protection from picketing squads, policemen were assigned to watch his store until the end of the strike.

A delegation of strikers called yesterday morning on Angelo Marginu, who has a small cleaning and dyeing plant at New York Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street, Union City, N. J., and warned him to close his shop or they would blow up the place. Marginu appealed to the police, who placed a guard at the building.

The first violence of the cleaners and dyers strike to be reported in Newark took place yesterday afternoon when the police quelled a demonstration in front of the establishment of S. Feldman & Sons at 599 Clinton Avenue, Newark. Two of the three men arrested were strikers, and the other was Irving Feldman, connected with the firm. He was charged with a disorderly assault and battery and carrying concealed weapons. The others, Anthony Mesiti and Teadore Sherman, both of Newark, were charged with assault and battery.

Policemen in the suburbs of Newark broke up several groups of pickets around cleaning plants. In Irvington a group of fifty strikers was dispersed after complaints had been received that men working in the shop had been threatened with violence. No arrests were reported.

New Jersey union officials said all the independent wholesale cleaning plants there were ready to agree to the union's terms and a like condition was reported in Staten Island. Cannon said no peace would be made in any locality until the eight or ten Manhattan and Brooklyn wholesalers who still refused the union's demands agreed to quit the retail field and do no more cut-rate cleaning.

SIX HOLD UP STORE, BUT DISDAIN CHEAP FUR

Leave Empty-Handed After Tying Up Six in Twenty-ninth Street Establishment.

Six robbers, three of them armed, held up the fur storeroom of E. Taxdan on the fifth floor of 146 West Twenty-ninth Street yesterday morning, but when the haul did not meet with their expectations they departed taking nothing.

The thieves entered the offices shortly before 9 o'clock. They herded Landau Louis B. Heffin, the bookkeeper, and four others into a rear room and tied their hands. Then while one thief stood guard the others piled wool furs into large sacks.

Apparently they had expected to find a higher grade of pelts, for they muttered as they worked over the less valuable variety. Finally, when all the sacks had been filled, the robbers threw them in a heap into a corner and walked out empty handed.

One employe finally managed to work his hands loose and telephoned to the police.

Policeman Pays Woman's Fine.

Mrs. Augusta Drumm, 22 years old, of 899 Elton Avenue, the Bronx, was ordered by Magistrate Beyer yesterday in Traffic Court to pay a $5 fine or spend two days in jail for passing a traffic light at Twenty-eighth Street and First Avenue on Sunday. She began to cry. Patrolman Vincent Priore, who had given her the summons, asked the specific reason for the tears. She sobbed that she had left her money at home and that she did not know what would happen to her three-year-old son if she had to go to jail. Priore produced the money for the fine, and she left the court expressing her thanks and promising prompt payment.

Princeton Scholarships Offer Year Abroad For Students to Mingle With Foreigners

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 23.—The endowment of two unusual scholarships at Princeton University was announced here today. No stipulations as to study are made for the recipients except that they are to have "an opportunity to broaden themselves by travel, by study and by life among foreign peoples."

Mrs. Edgar Palmer is the donor of the scholarships, which carry a $2,500 stipend, and are to be known as the Ziph Hayes Palmer awards.

"The scholarships will be given to men of varied interests," the announcement reads, "and must be accepted with the understanding that whether in university life or in traveling the recipients are under obligation to mingle as much as possible with people of other nationalities. This being the primary idea of these scholarships, it is expected that one year will be spent abroad without interruption. The committee reserves the right to allow one or both scholarships to lapse in any year."

The members of the committee in charge of the award this year are Mrs. Palmer, Dean Radcliffe Heermance, Stephen R. Sheldon, J. Stokewell Jadwin and H. Chapin Rose.

In commenting on the scholarships The Daily Princetonian praises the "simplicity of the conditions to be imposed on the recipient and the wide range of activity permitted him. Thousands of scholarships are an existence but a certain broadening and humanizing element is lacking in all of them," the editorial states.

READING DEFENDS $25,000 DECIMO FEE

RESIGNATION SUGGESTED

Legislative Committee Indicates It Will Open Inquiry if He Does Not Quit.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—Attorney General Arthur K. Reading today admitted and defended to the House Rules Committee his having received a $25,000 retaining fee from the Decimo Club, Inc., and the committee members indicated that unless he resigns his office before Monday noon the committee will recommend a sweeping investigation into his conduct in office.

Following the hearing before the committee, during which the Attorney General admitted that he had received the $25,000 through a third party as a preliminary retainer before he had done any work for the Decimo Club and that he has since received other sums, the amount of which he declined to disclose, sentiment was almost unanimous among members of the Legislature, including some of his close personal friends, that he should at once resign.

Governor Fuller was amazed when he learned of the admissions of the Attorney General, and declined to comment tonight, taking the ground that at present the whole affair is one between the Legislature and Mr. Reading.

Had the committee gone into executive session at the conclusion of Mr. Reading's examination, it would unquestionably have voted to report the resolution of Representative Sawyer, which calls for the appointment of a special investigation committee of seven.

An unofficial poll of the committee showed practically unanimous opinion that the investigation should be ordered, unless the Attorney General should anticipate it by resigning.

Mr. Reading's resignation did not appear probable. He came before the Rules Committee with an attitude of what might be termed "righteous indignation," but it was apparent from the outset that he was under a terrific nervous strain.

Defends Right to Practice.

BOSTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—After defending his right to engage in private practice while serving as Attorney General, Arthur K. Reading today declared that his employment as advisory counsel to the Decimo Club was not during any investigation of the club by his department. Further, he said, all transactions conducted by him for the club were "outside the jurisdiction of Massachusetts" and concerned matters on which the organization had a right to be advised.

The inquiry resolution was filed by Representative Sawyer soon after Hugo B. Monjar started court proceedings in New York to compel Mr. Reading to restore to him property taken in October, 1927. In his bill of particulars Mr. Monjar alleged he had paid Mr. Reading $25,000 for his services in revising the Decimo Club's by-laws so it could operate in Massachusetts.

FUN COSTS HIM JAIL TERM.

Worker Sets Pool of Gasoline Afire in Bronx Garage.

Peter Crescitelli, 20 years old, of 299 East 142d Street, the Bronx, a garage worker at 310 East 144th Street, the Bronx, thought it would be fun to throw a lighted match on the garage floor and ignite a pool of oil and, as he admitted yesterday, followed his impulse. He must spend the next twenty days in jail in default of a $100 fine, Magistrate Douras decided in Morrisania Court, as the result of his "joke."

Crescitelli pleaded guilty to a charge of not having a personal certificate of fitness to sell gasoline as required by a city ordinance, and also to a charge of disorderly conduct, the latter brought by Joseph Copeland, taxi chauffeur, of 341 East 145th Street, the Bronx, whose cab was damaged to the extent of $300 by Crescitelli's playfulness. He received a suspended sentence on the disorderly charge and the jail sentence on failure to pay the fine imposed for the ordinance violation.

SEEKS TO ASCERTAIN BANK STOCK'S VALUE

TELLS OF SALE OF ASSETS

Charges Transfer Following the Organization of New Institution Was Fraudulent.

A legal inquiry to determine the value of $400,000 par of stock in the Mercantile Bank of the Americas, Inc., of which Robert F. Loree, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, is said to be President, general manager and director, due to alleged statements by Mr. Loree and others that the stock is worthless, was started in the Supreme Court yesterday by Miss Elizabeth Larke, as owner of 4,000 shares.

On behalf of Miss Larke, her attorneys, T. Gainsburg and Slade & Slade, filed an application for an order to compel the bank, Mr. Loree, Philip Tillinghast as Secretary, Jacob B. Bloom as Treasurer and Alfred S. Gini as Assistant Treasurer to permit the examination of all the books and records by her attorneys and accountants to determine what has become of alleged assets of "about $25,000,000," said to have been absorbed in a transaction with the Bank of Central and South America and the subsequent acquisition of the latter's property by the Royal Bank of Canada for $8,108,597, alleged to have left the value of the plaintiff's shares questionable.

Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy, who will appear for the defendants before Justice Callahan, probably a week from today, issued the following statement on the case last night:

Bank Denies Charges.

"The statements contained in the petition are entirely unfounded, and the Mercantile Bank of the Americas, Inc., is prepared to answer them in court."

The petition filed yesterday asserts that it is made necessary because of refusal of officers of the Mercantile Bank of the Americas to give any information, although they are alleged to have said that the Mercantile Bank of the Americas had sustained large losses and was insolvent. Mr. Tillinghast is asserted to have said that "the company had lost millions of dollars." An affidavit referring to a statement by Mr. Tillinghast for information declared, he said, that "the company was financially irresponsible and bankrupt and that it would be to no advantage to bother with the matter or to make an effort to secure an inspection of the books." He is also alleged to have said that the plaintiff "would be wasting her money to spend it on any investigation, and that she had better sell her stock to him for about $3,000."

Fraudulent Sale Alleged.

The plaintiff asserts that investigation by her attorneys has shown that, shortly after the Bank of Central and South America was organized by practically the same officers as headed the Mercantile Bank of the Americas, all the Mercantile's property was transferred to the former for 49,950 shares of the Bank of Central and South America stock. It is charged that "immediately" after this transfer the Bank of Central and South America "went through the form of a fictitious and fraudulent alleged sale of all the said assets and property to the Royal Bank of Canada for $8,108,597."

The petition alleges further that to "prevent the possible recovery of said property and to cover up the unlawful and fraudulent transfer" the "majority of the directors" of the Bank of Central and South America filed in Connecticut in 1925 a certificate of dissolution with notice that every stockholder had agreed to it, and that all claims against the corporation were to be sent to the Royal Bank of Canada. The plaintiff charges that the $8,108,597 was divided among the interested parties of the Bank of Central and South America and the officers and directors of the Mercantile Bank of the Americas.

Quit Hunt for Maid Bitten by Dog.

After the combined efforts of the radio, the Police Department, Board of Health and the newspapers failed to locate Mrs. Margaret Dougherty so that she might receive the Pasteur treatment for a dog bite, the seriousness of which she was not aware, it was decided yesterday to end the search in the hope that the woman is out of danger by this time. Mrs. Dougherty, a maid, was bitten by a pet dog in the home of William E. Donaldson at Douglas Manor, Queens, two weeks ago.

HARRIS WANTS CITY SOLE HEALTH AGENT

Private Demonstrations Sap Official Body's Strength, He Tells Their Sponsors.

BUT HE WELCOMES ADVICE

Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris, presiding at a luncheon of the New York Health Conference at the Hotel Roosevelt yesterday, declared that privately conducted health demonstrations were "sapping the strength of the official health body." He said he saw no reason for the existence of private agencies in the public health field in New York City except as advisory committees.

"The City of New York," he said, "has been a pioneer in public health work since the close of the Civil War. The Health Department is the logical agency for this work. We can do it just as well as private agencies. If wealthy men would supply the necessary money we could do public health work and cover the entire city as it should be done, instead of just a small section. We have trained workers and the organization. All we lack is the money.

Wants Advice of Experts.

"A volunteer health organization ought to be essentially a help organization. The private agencies that have money to spend could best help by appointing an advisory council of public health experts as a Board of Trustees who will counsel the Health Commissioner or duly constituted health officers how most wisely to expend such private funds, leaving the Health Department free to conduct health work on a more intensive and wider scale without competition by private agencies."

The luncheon was given under the auspices of the Community Health Councils of the Bellevue-Yorkville Health Demonstration, the East Harlem Health Centre and the East Harlem Nursing and Health Demonstration. For the past five years they have conducted a health education campaign in their districts with funds supplied by the Milbank Memorial Fund, the fourth annual meeting of which was held the occasion for the health conference. State and local committees on tuberculosis and public health of the State Charities Aid Association also held their semi-annual conferences to compare results and make reports of the work done.

John A. Kingsbury, Secretary of the Milbank Memorial Fund, refused to enter into any controversy with Dr. Harris over the position of private agencies in the public health field. He said:

"I quite agree with Dr. Harris that the city should be in charge of health work. That is the purpose of a health demonstration, to show what can be done. But the city has not the money to spend."

Besides Dr. Harris and Mr. Kingsbury, speakers at the luncheon were Homer Folks, who reported on the work of the East Harlem Centre; Miss Mabel S. Welch, who told of the East Harlem Nursing and Health Service; Katherine Tucker, who spoke of the activities of the Bellevue-Yorkville demonstration; Bailey B. Burritt, general director of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, who said health centres meant increased service to families in their respective neighborhoods; that the experimental stage had been passed and that indications were for an expansion of the health centre idea.

Doctor Fears "State Medicine."

Dr. Linsley R. Williams, director of the New York Academy of Medicine, discussed "The Doctor and Health Activities," and pointed out that there was a feeling of fear and unrest in the medical profession over the possibility of "state medicine." He urged that social welfare agencies engaged in any type of health activity keep the county medical societies informed of their work and seek advice and counsel of them before undertaking new work.

The danger and loss of life from diphtheria and the progress made in immunization were dramatically presented at the morning session when a mock trial was held with diphtheria as defendant charged with the murder of 264 children in New York State, exclusive of New York City, in 1927. Expert testimony was offered to show the methods of prevention. The Court, in the person of George J. Nelbach, Secretary of the Charities Aid Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, ruled that the defendant be banished from the State by 1930.

"Publicity Crook" Denounced.

Edward McKernon, Superintendent of the Eastern Division of The Associated Press, who discussed publicity, said:

"The most vicious, politically dangerous and socially destructive business that modern methods have developed is the business of stealing space in the news columns of the daily press. I would like to see every publicity crook in the penitentiary. There is an irony about this, too, that ought to be brought home to all who employ those skilled in stealing space. The newspapers are bunked occasionally, but when they are bunked once the employer is bunked a dozen times. I have no sympathy for the receiver of stolen goods, and if any one thinks he is buying influence with the press I hope he will pay well for his share in the futile conspiracy.

"The one sure way to get newspaper publicity is to do something in which your neighbor may be interested.

"More than four hundred and fifty representatives of official and voluntary health agencies attended the luncheon conference. The sessions continue today and tomorrow.

Commissioner Harris announced yesterday that he was forming an advisory council of twenty-five to assist him in formulating general policies for the Health Department. Members of this council are being invited and when he has received acceptances Dr. Harris will announce the personnel.

It will be composed of specialists in various fields and will include a representative of the social agencies, an attorney familiar with public health laws, representatives of the medical societies, the clergy and prominent citizens.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—Just passed through Jefferson City, Mo., the home of the State Prison and the State Capitol. The worst in the State is sent there. The Sheriff was on our train and he had two men who had escaped and he was taking them back to the Legislature.

You remember Missouri got so sore at Jim Reed one time because he wouldn't let them join the League of Nations that they was going to hang him. Well, they are naming the Missouri River after him now. And may be the Mississippi.

Yours for the news,
WILL ROGERS.

HIGH COURT HEARS APPEALS ON SEWERS

Steuer Argues Scudder Holds Two Posts of Public Trust, Therefore Acts Illegally.

BUCKNER UPHOLDS POWER

Awixa Corporation Plea Also Made on Subpoenas—Ruling on Both Is Expected Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—The authority of Justice Scudder to conduct secret hearings into the charges against Borough President Connolly was challenged as unconstitutional today in the Court of Appeals by Max D. Steuer, counsel for Connolly. Emory R. Buckner, counsel for Justice Scudder, opposed the contentions and insisted that the act passed by the Legislature of Feb. 8 and signed the next day by the Governor was legal. The law gave Justice Scudder authority to conduct preliminary hearings without the presence of the accused or his counsel.

No decision is expected until next week when the court will return to Albany from a recess which begins tomorrow.

Mr. Steuer's Contentions.

Mr. Steuer argued that under the statute Justice Scudder was acting only in an advisory capacity. He insisted that neither the Governor nor the Legislature could impose the duty upon him to render an advisory opinion as a Judge, and that Article VI, Section 19, of the Constitution prohibited him from acting in this matter in any other capacity. He declared the duties under the designation of the Governor imposed on Justice Scudder were judicial.

Mr. Steuer contended that Justice Scudder was disqualified because he was holding two offices, one as a Justice of the Supreme Court and another as the Governor's investigator. During this part of Mr. Steuer's argument Chief Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, Judges Cuthbert W. Pound and Frederick E. Crane asked many questions.

Another point he brought out was that the power to conduct an investigation is an administrative and not a judicial function and under the constitution it may not devolve upon a Justice of the Supreme Court. He also declared that the statute inevitably denied the accused a fair hearing. If the amendment to Section 34 of the Public Officers' law is unconstitutional, he held that there is no power in the Justice to conduct preliminary hearings. Even though the duties contemplated by the section could be discharged by a Justice of the Supreme Court, they might not be discharged by Justice Scudder as a member of the Appellate Division, he asserted.

Mr. Steuer told the court that he had never delayed the hearings for a moment.

Buckner Opposes Argument.

Mr. Buckner argued that Justice Scudder was not holding another public office or trust.

The appellant Connolly, he said, "in his brief here as in the court below," while apparently conceding that the proceedings under Section 34 so far as they embrace a formal hearing are judicial in their nature, urges that the amended act by authorizing an ex parte investigation, to that extent imposes functions purely administrative upon the Justice. We submit that there were two answers to this contention. First, that if the power to investigate given by the statute embraces within it certain functions which are purely administrative, their delegation to a Justice of the Supreme Court is not improper because such functions are incidental; second, that the courts of this State have not condemned, or questioned the propriety of appointing Justices of the Supreme Court with investigatorial powers where they are acting in other than judicial proceedings." He also contended that the designation of Justice Scudder to the Appellate Division bench did not disqualify him.

The case of the Awixa Corporation, contractors of Islip, L. I., who objected to appearing before Justice Scudder, was argued in conjunction with the Connolly case. This appeal also was based on constitutional grounds.

5 HELD FOR ROBBING BERLIN

Boys Charged With Twice Entering Composer's Dobbs Ferry Garage.

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—The example of America's national models of honesty apparently had little influence on five boys arraigned here tonight on charges of having twice broken into the garage on the rural summer estate of Irving Berlin, the composer, once on Lincoln's birthday and again on Washington's birthday.

Chief of Police Costello, who arrested the boys, reported that they chose an odd way of observing these holidays. The boys were Dominis Severino, 15 years old, of Ardsley; Angelo de Rosa, 16 years old, of Dobbs Ferry; Daniel and Frank De Stefano, 15 and 13 years old, respectively, and Michael Furiello, 10 years old, all of Ardsley. At tonight's hearing they were paroled by Police Judge McCormick in the custody of their parents to await trial in Children's Court.

The goods taken from the garage, valued by the police at $700, included clothing, jewelry trinkets and musical instruments. Some of the articles have been recovered, but Chief Costello said a complete list of what is missing could not be obtained until Berlin and his wife, the former Ellin Mackay, return from California.

SCUDDER NEAR END OF PRIVATE INQUIRY

Justice Hopes He Can Wind It Up in Two Days and Launch the Public Hearings March 1.

HEARS QUEENS WITNESSES

SEWER APPLICATIONS DROP

Waiting Policy by Property Owners Indicated by Report Showing Slump in Demand for Work.

Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder, Governor Smith's special investigator into Queens sewer graft charges, will hear approximately a dozen witnesses today and tomorrow, completing his preliminary hearings. Justice Scudder will then be prepared to begin public hearings into the charges against Borough President Connolly in Long Island City about March 1.

He announced yesterday in Long Island City his plans for the public hearings, but said they would be contingent upon the decision of the Court of Appeals on the appeal taken by Mr. Connolly through his counsel, Max D. Steuer, from the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn upholding Justice Scudder's right to make the investigation.

Justice Scudder told his plans for the public hearings after he had examined witnesses in his chambers in the Court House in Long Island City. He would not reveal what information he obtained from George Everett of the Everett Construction Company and the Oxford Engineering Company and from the bank account of the Awixa Corporation produced by a representative of the Fairfield National Bank.

Plans Public Inquiry Next Week.

"I believe I will need only two or three days to complete the preliminary hearings," he said, "and in all probability by the middle of next week the public hearings will be started."

Others who appeared were Thomas Caldicott, a contractors' bonding agent; Harry Smith of the contracting firm of Kennedy & Smith; Charles McWilliams, an engineer of the Queens Topographical Bureau; Harry A. Clarke, Queens sewer inspector, and Carmine Petrazzo, contractor, of Flushing, L. I. Some of the men were requested by members of the legal staff of Emory R. Buckner, counsel to Justice Scudder, to return on March 2.

According to Henry H. Klein, counsel for Alderman George U. Harvey of Flushing, who brought the charges against Mr. Connolly, information has been submitted to Justice Scudder for investigation to the effect that Mr. Connolly put 1,500 temporary employes on the Queens payroll as against 700 taken from civil service lists. Martin Healy, Secretary of the Civil Service Commission, referred inquiries to Justice Scudder.

Other matters to be investigated, Mr. Klein said, are rental of office space by Queens officials and the use by persons with honorary badges of city garages and automobiles driven by city chauffeurs.

Slump in Sewer Applications.

A marked slump in applications for new sewers by property owners in Queens was shown by an announcement at the office of the Borough President that a meeting would be held on the evening of March 2 to consider new sewer projects, applied for by property owners. Those well informed on borough affairs explained that property owners were delaying applications until after the Scudder investigation because of their desire for further information as to cost and probable future costs of sewers.

The applications up for consideration on March 2 are for sewers in 81st, eighth Street from Fiftieth to Railroad Avenue, Corona, and in Grand Street from Newton Creek to Creek Street, Second Ward, Long Island City.

7,000 PAINTERS IDLE; WON'T ASK INCREASE

"Unemployment Affects Half of Members of the Union" Here.

Unemployment has struck the painting craft in this city so hard that no wage increase will be sought when representatives of the Painters' Brotherhood meet the Master Painters' Association to sign this year's agreement within the next few days. This was the opinion of delegates to the Central Council meeting of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers in the organization hall, 156 East Fifty-sixth Street, last evening.

"At present almost four-fifths of the 14,000 painters in New York are out of work, according to Dayid Shapiro, Secretary of the Brotherhood. The fifteen are working under last year's scale of $12 for eight hours' work.

The council also favored the amalgamation of the organized painting craft with the Building Trades Council.

"Present conditions do not warrant any demands for an increase in wages," Shapiro said. "However, the painters' session, which will open on the first Monday in March, will decide what action will be taken when the unemployment situation will be discussed."

GOVERNMENT RESTS TODAY IN RADIO SUIT

The Federal Trade Commission will rest its case today in its action against the Radio Corporation of America and other companies alleged to constitute a monopoly in the radio field. The inquiry has been conducted for two years and four months before Examiner William C. Reeves at 45 Broadway and in other cities throughout the East.

The hearings were resumed yesterday when Edward L. Smith, counsel for the commission, produced two witnesses, Elmer E. Bucher, Vice President and sales manager of the Radio Corporation of America, and Raymond Asserson, broadcasting supervisor of the City of New York before the establishment of station WNYC. In questioning Mr. Bucher, the commission's counsel attempted to show that appliances which the Radio Corporation of America said it had developed had been invented some years before by other engineers.

The examination of Mr. Asserson was an attempt to show that the Western Electric Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company had built up a monopoly in the construction of broadcasting stations. Mr. Asserson told of the receipt of a single bid in 1922 for building of the municipal station here. The bid was submitted by the Western Electric Company. Eventually the city was compelled to purchase American broadcasting equipment in South America, Mr. Asserson declared.

Mr. Smith will produce the commission's last witness this afternoon. An adjournment of two weeks is anticipated, after which the respondent corporations will begin the presentation of their case. It is believed that almost a year will elapse before the mass of evidence is turned over to the Federal Trade Commission for study.

The inquiry is the most extensive anti-trust proceeding by the commission. On Jan. 27, 1924, the commission issued a complaint against corporations with a total capitalization of more than $2,000,000,000, alleging that a monopoly had been formed in the radio field. The complaint accused the respondents of combining and conspiring to restrain competition, with creating a monopoly in the manufacture, purchase and sale of radio devices and in domestic and transoceanic radio communication.

The corporations named in the complaint were the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric Company, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Westinghouse Electric Company, Inc., Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, International Radio Company, United Fruit Company and the Wireless Specialty Apparatus Company. The corporations filed formal denials with the commission in April, 1924.

Inquiry Begun Oct. 20, 1925.

On Oct. 20, 1925, the inquiry before Examiner Reeves got under way. Since then thousands of pages of testimony have been taken, scores of witnesses have been produced by the Government, more than 800 exhibits, many of them volumes and drawings, have been offered as evidence. The commission's counsel, Mr. Smith, has undergone two operations, which interrupted the hearings for short periods.

Two thousand patents, which are alleged to have been pooled by the respondents, are involved in the commission's complaint. Early in the hearings it was stipulated that the inquiry would confine itself to defenses said to have been committed before the filing of the complaint in 1924.

TO EQUALIZE RADIO IN FIVE BIG ZONES

DISPLACES THE SENATE BILL

Measure Extends the Life of the Radio Commission as Control Body for Another Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Equal allocation of wave lengths and of station power to each of the five radio zones, and "a fair and equitable" distribution of air channels to the various States "in proportion to population and area," are objectives sought in a bill ordered reported today by the House Committee on Merchant Marine.

The bill, offered as a substitute for the Watson Radio bill passed by the Senate, would extend the life of the Federal Radio Commission as control body for another year, and it provides that broadcast licenses shall be limited to three months and other classes of licenses to six months, instead of three years and five years respectively, as under existing laws.

The House committee refused to concur in the section of the Senate bill which proposed to terminate the tenure of office of each of the Radio Commissioners as of Feb. 23, 1928, and which provided that thereafter appointees should be chosen for terms of two, three, four, five and six years respectively.

The new provision calling for a "fair and equitable" division of licenses and power in the five radio zones and among the States was adopted at the instance of Southern Democrats on the House committee.

The Substitute Provisions.

It would strike out the second paragraph of Section 9 of the Radio act of 1927, which authorizes a distribution of wave lengths and power among the different States and communities so "as to give fair, efficient and equitable radio service to each of the same." The language substituted follows:

"The licensing authority shall make an equal allocation to each of the five zones established in Section 8 of this act of broadcasting licenses on wave length and of station power, and within each zone shall make a fair and equitable allocation among the different States thereof in proportion to population and area."

Complaint was made by Southern Democrats, among them Representative Davis of Tennessee, a member of the House committee, that under the law as it now stands the Radio Commission had been guilty of grave discriminations against certain regions, notably the South. The present law, Mr. Davis contended, was ambiguous. He insisted that it should be clarified in order that it might be made mandatory on the Radio Commission to allocate licenses and power "equally as between the zones and States."

Says South Is Neglected.

Mr. Davis charged before the commission that, although the Southern zone had a larger population than any other zone, it had been allocated only 7.6 per cent. of radio power. Of sixty stations in the United States using 1,000 watts or more, only four are located in the South, Mr. Davis asserted. The total power allocated to the South, he said, is 47,105 watts.

He contrasted this with 200,000 watts power equally divided among four big stations in other sections. Mr. Davis was severe in his criticism of the refusal of the Radio Commission to grant the application of Station WBAW, Nashville, Tenn., for an increase in power to 50,000 watts.

"The Tennessee station was turned down," said Mr. Davis, "and at the same time the commission acted favorably to the application of a station to be operated by Samuel Insull of Chicago for the use of 50,000 watts. There are a dozen stations in the South that have been denied increased power. We should see to it that the station licenses and power are distributed equally and this we seek to do in the bill just ordered reported."

BORI, GIGLI, DE LUCA ON RADIO TONIGHT

'La Traviata' to Be Broadcast in Concert Form by Stars of Metropolitan.

Radio auditors will hear a concert version of Verdi's "La Traviata" tonight at 10 o'clock over WJZ and ten stations. Miss Lucrezia Bori, Beniamino Gigli and Giuseppe De Luca of the Metropolitan Opera Company will sing arias, duets and trios from the opera with the Victor Symphony Orchestra, Rosario Bourdon conducting. The broadcast will be sponsored by the Victor Talking Machine Company of Camden, N. J.

Linked with WJZ will be WBZ, WBZA, WBAL, WHAM, KDKA, WJR, KWK, WSBN, WLW and KTW.

The eighteenth anniversary of the Socialist movement will be celebrated tonight by a gathering in the auditorium of the Rand School, 7 East Fifteenth Street. The proceedings are to be broadcast at 8 o'clock over WEVD. Morris Hillquit, Jacob Panken and others will speak, and there will be music.

Governor Smith will talk on "George Washington" as part of the program to be broadcast on Monday night beginning at 11 o'clock over WJZ and nine stations. The Governor will speak before a microphone in the Executive Mansion in Albany.

Statement Not Dr. Silver's.

In an account of the meeting of the Child Welfare Committee of America at the Hotel Commodore Monday night, printed in The New York Times Feb. 21, Dr. Abba Hillel Silver of the Temple, Cleveland, Ohio, was quoted as saying the home was the best place to bring up a child and that "for every physically sound, mentally sane orphan or defendant child in the country there are fifty to a hundred homes waiting to receive them," and that this had been determined in a survey conducted by a woman's magazine. These remarks were incorrectly attributed to Dr. Silver. They were made by another speaker.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Slightly Higher, Trading Little Larger—Money 4¼%. Sterling Very Strong.

The Reserve Bank's report on New York brokers' loans, published after the close of business yesterday, showed that last week's extensive liquidation on the Stock Exchange had been effective. The reduction of $91,000,000 in that account is the largest of any week since March of 1926. It can hardly be said to have brought it to normal proportions, for the outstanding total is still $10,000,000 greater than at the end of 1927 and exceeds the figure of a year ago by $906,322,000. But the movement is distinctly reassuring, especially when it is remembered that the account has been reduced at all in only eight weeks of the twelve-month past, and that nearly all of those reductions were of unimportant scope.

No doubt it was partly in anticipation of the character of the loan report that yesterday's stock market generally held firm. There was no increase in the business done, however; the day's transactions were again less than those of Saturday's two-hour market. In the more important stocks, changes were only fractional and a few shares, United States Steel among them, went slightly lower. The day's comparatively few advances of more than a point or two occurred only in speculative industrial shares, and were offset by declines in other similar stocks. Railway shares lost ground; they may have been influenced by a batch of January earnings whose comparison with 1927 was considerably less favorable than those previously published. Last month's loadings of freight were less by 7 or 8 per cent. than in the preceding January, and it was therefore hardly to be expected that earnings would turn out any greater.

Sterling exchange provided the single noteworthy movement of any market. The rate rose more than ¼ cent yesterday, to a figure nearly 1¼ cents above that of three weeks ago and less than half a cent below the highest price of the season. No more gold was added on balance to its reserve in the Bank of England's weekly statement, but it is not easy to doubt the purpose of the operations in sterling. The bank's position was shown to be the strongest since the outbreak of the war. For the first time in more than thirteen years, its ratio of reserve against deposits nearly touched the traditional pre-war figure of 40 per cent.

A somewhat firmer money rate probably reflected the extent to which the banks, in the Wall Street phrase, have been "loaned up." There was no sign in the weekly Reserve Bank statement that the reserves of the Associated Banks were being strengthened, in view of the recurrent deficit. Rediscounts were reduced $85,000,000 in the week and member banks' reserve credits $25,000,000.

Production of motor cars has a double interest this year to watchers of the business situation—first, in order to measure the effect on other contributory industries of increase or decrease in the automobile output; second, in order to discover if possible whether last year's decrease of 20 per cent., or nearly 906,000 cars, meant smaller purchasing capacity among consumers or merely postponement of orders by patrons of the Ford. The production figures for January, published by the Department of Commerce yesterday, throw little light on the question, except as they explain why the steel trade has been reporting only slight increase in purchases for the motor trade. The 225,039 cars turned out last month made a better showing than in the late months of 1927, but they were less than the January output of any other year since 1922.

Since several of the manufacturing companies have reported nearly or quite the largest January production in their history, the relatively small aggregate will be commonly ascribed to the very slow progress of the new Ford model in reaching the promised mass production. But the Ford output was very small in the same month of 1927, and the only positive inference to be drawn from last month's results is still the fact that the public is not buying cars on the scale of other years.

OPPENHEIM, COLLINS NET.

Earnings for Six Months to Jan. 28 Were $628,406.

The net earnings of Oppenheim, Collins & Co. for the six months ended Jan. 28, 1928, amounted to $628,406, after all taxes and charges, equal to $4.62 a share earned on 200,000 shares of common stock, against $1,000,804, or $5 a share, earned in the same period a year ago. A 10 per cent. stock dividend declared on Feb. 15, 1928, has increased the outstanding stock to 220,000 shares.

Sales for the period amounted to $10,644,669, against $11,276,292. In the quarter ended Jan. 31, 1928, sales were $5,912,861, against $7,082,544 in the January quarter of 1927.

Current assets of the company as of Jan. 28, 1928, amounted to $5,586,585, comparing with current liabilities of $1,824,792. Undivided profits were $2,729,860, in addition to an initial surplus of $1,000,000. Total assets amounted to $11,055,969.

Mullins's Income $589,709 Net.

The Mullins Manufacturing Corporation reports for 1927 a net income of $589,709, after all charges and taxes, equal to $5.12 a share earned on 100,000 no par shares of stock after preferred dividend requirements. This compares with $301,090 in 1926. Net profit in the fourth quarter of 1927 was $130,000, against $201,332 in the third quarter.

Savannah Sugar Refining.

The statement of the Savannah Sugar Refining Corporation at the close of 1927 shows total assets of $6,446,227, against $6,580,477 at the end of 1926. The profit and loss surplus was $1,082,803, comparing with $1,027,121 a year before.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Stocks made little progress in either direction yesterday on the Stock Exchange. The market was described in Wall Street as apathetic and therefore most unsatisfactory. Sales fell short of 1,000,000 shares and movement of prices was erratic. There were sporadic efforts to rally the list or to depress it, both without success. The market had its weak as well as strong spots, but in none of the day's shifts of values was there any key to future trend. Stocks rose or fell as they were affected by special developments. The issues which are usually relied upon to set the pace were lethargic. General Motors had a fractional gain, U. S. Steel a fractional loss. Other so-called pivotal stocks did nothing that could be called significant. Certain pool groups were active again, but they did not accomplish much.

Poor Guessing.

Wall Street has about given up the idea that it can guess even approximately the figures of brokers' loans. Time was when the guesses were accurate, coming usually within a few million dollars of the actual amount of decrease or increase. This has been changed, however, by the new system of handling these figures. It was assumed in the financial district yesterday that there would be a reduction in the loans in the light of the liquidation which has taken place, but the guesses which one heard in all parts of the street ranged from a reduction of $30,000,000 up to one of $60,000,000. The actual $91,000,000 reduction was greater than had been expected by even the most habitually optimistic quarters.

Crowd Psychology.

It is recognized as one of the peculiarities of the present-day speculator in the stock market that when things are going right and well he is likely to stay away from Wall Street, depending on a telephone call once or twice a day to keep in touch with the fluctuations of his stock. Let something happen, however, so that the market "goes against him," and he wants to be right on the spot, watching with painful attention the dancing figures on the tape. In the long upswing of stocks from late Fall until early February, many of the large brokerage offices in the financial district were wall-nigh deserted. Chairs were frequently occupied only by a few stragglers and hangers-on. Last week and this, however, when the smash was in progress, most of these offices were crowded to the point of suffocation. One of them had so many visitors in its customers' room that all the chairs were moved out. Even then the customers had difficulty in finding standing space.

Seeking Monopolies.

One of the large Stock Exchange houses, in skirmishing for issues in which its customers can make a profit, has advised them that the best purchases in the market at this present time are the shares of those corporations which represent a monopoly or practically a monopoly in their particular lines. There are any number of these quoted on the Stock Exchange. This firm expressed the opinion that the best of these stocks are likely to sell in 1928 at twenty-five or thirty times their annual earnings.

The "Americans" Have a Good Day.

A long list of stocks whose name includes the word "American" had a good day in the market yesterday, as some of the sharp-eyed watchers of the tape were anxious to point out. There are fifty-seven of these "Americans" listed on the Stock Exchange, ranging from American Agricultural Chemical to American Zinc and Lead. Twenty-six of them advanced yesterday from fractions to as much as three points, fourteen declined from a fraction to as much as 7/8 points, while the balance showed no change.

"Temporary" Security Sales.

Holdings of United States Government securities of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York decreased about $5,000,000 this week, and similar holdings of the twelve Reserve banks combined decreased about $7,000,000. Bankers said, however, that it was a mistake to assume that every change in these holdings represented part of a "policy" of the Reserve banks. The banks at times do undertake to influence money rate movements by purchases or sales of Government securities, but often the changes are without significance. For instance, the Reserve banks frequently purchase Government securities on a "repurchase contract." This occurs when money is tight and dealers desire to raise funds on Government securities. The Reserve banks buy the securities at such times and the dealers contract to buy them back within a specified period, usually fifteen days or less. Thus when a Reserve bank's holdings show a decrease it often merely means that the Reserve bank is selling back securities that it had bought temporarily from dealers.

The Gold Situation.

The gold situation has come into prominence this week from three angles. Discussion has been aroused in Wall Street by the shipment of $5,000,000 of gold to New York by the Soviet Government, the drawing to Paris of portions of French gold that had been held abroad, and the possibility that gold will be sent from New York to London as a result of the rise in sterling exchange. When the arrival of about $7,000,000 of gold at Havre was announced, it was believed at first that it was part of the ear-marked stock that had been held in New York for France, but the Reserve Bank's figures did not bear out this idea, and it is now believed that the gold came from some other foreign source.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, FEB. 23, 1928.

Money market was quiet but firm on the Stock Exchange demand loans ruling at 4½ per cent. all day, a fractional advance over Tuesday's final. Some $35,000,000 was withdrawn by banks, first sizable calling this week. Time money market showed no change at 4¼@4½ per cent., a moderate amount of new money being loaned at both rates. Acceptances and commercial paper were unchanged.

No longer merely a "Cotton State"

LITTLE advertising has marked the steady progress of Mississippi, long regarded as wholly a "Cotton State". Nevertheless, in 1926, this State's manufactures amounted to $175,000,000—exclusive of cotton and seed products.

Mississippi is fast becoming the great dairy empire of the South. She now supports five condenseries, bearing such names as Borden and Carnation; altogether, her cheese factories, creameries, milk plants and condenseries now represent millions of invested dollars. In 1926 and 1927 no less than $340,000,000 of new capital came into the State.

There are four new railroads now under construction here. With two deep-water ports, with great raw resources, with diversified industries (already ranging from tooth paste to paper, from textiles to furniture), with vast hydro power to draw from, with business expanding solidly in a hundred directions, Mississippi typifies the transformed South.

For many years, Caldwell & Company, Southern investment bankers, have studied carefully, and frequently contributed to the substantial progress of the South. With first-hand knowledge of conditions, we invite inquiries concerning Southern investments of standard character. Suggestions of sound securities based on the prospering South will be furnished gladly upon request.

The Investment Trust In A Bear Market

Many shareholders in investment trusts are now asking, "What will happen in a declining market?" The answer depends on the capital structure of the trust and its plan of investing.

If a trust owns a fixed list of stocks, possibly purchased at high prices, and is not authorized to make changes to meet new conditions, a declining market naturally depreciates its assets and the value of its shares.

On the other hand, general investment trusts of the true British type have weathered the vicissitudes of stock markets for over half a century. Shareholders of such trusts may look upon a decline scarce with satisfaction than dismay, for their trust is but on the eve of another rich profit-making opportunity.

The British-type trust, being essentially a management institution, invests a portion of its resources in stocks when prices are low. It sells them when the market is high, makes a profit for its shareholders and concentrates on bonds until sound stocks are again in the bargain zone.

The question as to what will happen to investment trusts in a declining market is fully and clearly answered in our circular just published. For a free copy

VACUUM OIL PLANS GREAT EXPANSION

Vast Program Revealed in Move to Increase Capital Stock to $175,000,000.

TO ENTER BRITISH FIELD

Increase Provides for 100 Per Cent. Stock Dividend as Well as for Property Acquisitions.

An ambitious expansion program is about to be undertaken in this country and abroad by the Vacuum Oil Company, it was disclosed yesterday. In connection with the announcement of a proposal to increase the authorized capital stock from $70,000,000 par value to $175,000,000 to provide for a stock dividend of 100 per cent. The plan for the stock dividend was worked out at a meeting of the Vacuum directors on Tuesday.

George P. Whaley, President of the Vacuum, in making public yesterday the details of the proposed capital readjustment, said the company was considering the establishment of a gasoline and kerosene distributing business in the British Isles. The company is now engaged chiefly in the marketing of trade-marked lubricants and related products. Decision to enter the gasoline and kerosene business in Great Britain may mean, it was said here yesterday, that the company intends eventually to enlarge its business in the United States in the same way.

Provides for Acquisitions.

Mr. Whaley said that the management, in recommending an increase in the authorized capital stock from $70,000,000 to $175,000,000,000, had in mind, besides providing for a stock dividend of 100 per cent., creating a reserve of stock that could be used "from time to time for acquisition of properties or stock of other companies as in the judgment of the directors may be necessitate."

The company, in order to declare the proposed 100 per cent. stock dividend, will have to increase the number of its outstanding shares from 2,498,832 to 4,997,664. It is planned, however, to increase the number of authorized shares from 2,800,000 to 7,000,000, so that there will be left, after the stock dividend, 3,002,336 shares of unissued capital stock. There will be no change in the $25 par value. The present outstanding 2,498,832 shares of capital stock had a market value yesterday of about $367,000,000, on the basis of the closing price on the New York Curb Exchange. The stock closed at 147, showing a net gain on the day of 1½ points.

Annual Meeting March 31.

Mr. Whaley indicated that the additional stock to be authorized in excess of the amount required for the 100 per cent. stock dividend would be used for expansion purposes that are not related to the plan for marketing gasoline and kerosene in the British Isles. He would not identify the properties which it is proposed to acquire in this country. The English expansion, it was indicated, will be financed with cash, with which the Vacuum is well supplied. Mr. Whaley said that there had been conferences with officials of the Anglo-American Oil Company, Ltd., which is a large marketing company in the British Isles, but he would not confirm reports that the Vacuum and that company are jointly organizing a marketing company to enter the British field. The Vacuum and the Anglo-American, he said, have common interests, and the officials of the two companies are in consultation frequently.

The Vacuum President made public the letter sent to his company's stockholders, explaining the proposed capital readjustment and 100 per cent. dividend. The plan is to be ratified at the annual meeting March 31. Of the additional stock to be authorized, 510,000,000 is to be set aside for issuance to employes under conditions fixed in the second stock purchase plan of the company. Part of the stock is to be used as a "bonus or special compensation" to officials or employes, at a price to be fixed by the directors, which price shall be approximately the average market price for the shares for the three months preceding the issuance."

GASOLINE PRICE RISE EFFECTED IN 2 PLACES

Retail Cost Up 2 Cents in Tulsa—Tank and Service Station Advance in Minneapolis.

Two increases in gasoline prices were viewed in financial circles yesterday as the immediate result of the readjustment in crude oil prices announced Tuesday in the midcontinent field.

The retail price of gasoline at Tulsa, Okla., was advanced 2 cents a gallon, while the tank wagon price at Minneapolis was advanced 1 cent to 16 cents and the service station price 1 cent to 19 cents a gallon.

In the Eastern section crude oil prices were cut 10 cents a barrel yesterday by the Ohio Oil Company, affecting the Illinois, Princeton and Plymouth crude grades.

Salt Creek crude oil, in Wyoming, was reduced 5 to 15 cents a barrel yesterday, according to gravity, by the Midwest Refining Company. The new prices range from $1.01 for 29 to 29.9 gravity to $1.37 a barrel for 37 gravity and above. The bulk of Salt Creek output is heavy.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company, whose reductions of 15 to 25 cents a barrel recently determined Tuesday's cuts by other leading producers, met yesterday the Carter Oil Company's price readjustment in Oklahoma and Kansas for 32 gravity and above, and the Humble Oil and Refining Company's schedules for North and Central Texas and Panhandle crudes:

Under its new schedules, Magnolia's crude below 32 gravity remains unchanged, while 32 to 32.9 gravity is 4 cents under the previous price and 16 cents higher for 32 gravity oil.

CURB SEMINOLE DRILLING.

Operators Vote to Modify Program for Little River Pool.

The Seminole oil operators have voted to modify the drilling program for the Little River pool when the present shut-down agreement comes to an end March 1, but restrictions on all prospective outside areas, which were formerly shut in until April 1, were extended thirty days, contingent upon the occurrence of a few operators not present at Tuesday's meeting.

The new Little River plan adopted calls for a number of test wells to explore the possibilities of the area. These key wells will be drilled in various parts of the field, and their cost will be shared jointly by the companies owning near-by acreage.

The plan will eliminate a large number of wells from being started and will also prevent any large production coming on the market until August. Primarily, expenses will be reduced to the minimum by this method of doing away with the offsetting usually practiced.

Production in the Seminole area for the twenty-four hours ended 7 A. M. yesterday amounted to 305,252 barrels. The record is 527,400 barrels, made on July 30, 1927.

BUS LINE CONTROL URGED BY RAILWAYS

Seven Roads in This Area Petition the I. C. C. to Seek Regulatory Powers.

PROMPT LEGISLATION ASKED

Carriers Say They Need Immediate Relief From Increasing Losses Due to Motor Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Immediate enactment of a law by which the Interstate Commerce Commission can exercise at once a measure of control over motor bus routes and their location was urged in a petition sent to the commission today on behalf of seven railroads operating in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Particular complaint was directed at the competition offered by motor buses and trucks crossing the Delaware River at Philadelphia and various Hudson River points between New York City and New Jersey. The roads taking part in the appeal were the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad Company, the New York & Long Branch Railroad Company, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the Atlantic City Railroad Company and the Reading Company.

The commission has before it a tentative report from Examiner Flynn suggesting measures for general supervision of motor bus traffic and legislation to carry this into effect is contemplated by certain Congressional leaders. There are prospects that a long drawn-out fight will attend any effort to enact a law.

The memorandum of the seven railroads pointed out today that the problem presents many complexities, with wide differences of opinion.

"There is one point, however," it was declared, "on which there is general accord, that is, the urgent need for the prompt regulation of interstate motor buses."

Their operation between Philadelphia and New Jersey points across the new Camden bridge and between Northern New Jersey points and New York City via ferries and the Holland Tunnel was described as such that heavy inroads into the income of the railroads is resulting.

"Confronted with heavy and increasing losses of revenue from the operation of interstate motor buses," said the statement for the roads, "the carriers on whose behalf this memorandum is filed urgently need relief through the prompt enactment of a Federal law providing for the regulation of interstate motor buses.

"Such a law must be the first step in dealing with the problem of coordinating rail and motor transportation. The above named railroad companies believe that a law constituting an authority to determine the primary question whether public convenience and necessity require the operation of interstate motor buses on particular routes should be passed with the least possible delay."

The commission was urged to report the situation to Congress accordingly with recommendations that it be given authority to pass upon the point raised as promptly as possible.

The appeal for the roads was signed by H. E. Maxwell, Douglas Swift, A. H. Elder and W. L. Kinter.

Skelly Oil Completes New Well.

The Skelly Oil Company announced yesterday the completion of Well 4 in the Krebs lease, Carter County, Okla., making 800 barrels in the first twenty-four hours, giving the company four producing wells on this lease, embracing 110 acres, and with off-set wells proving up the entire area.

Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company, New York, Corporate Trustee.

STOCK PURCHASE PRIVILEGE

Each holder of a $1,000 First Mortgage Bond, Series A, will be entitled to purchase a unit of ten shares of common stock of the Corporation, without par value, at $5 per share on or before February 1, 1931; thereafter to and including February 1, 1933 at $7.50 per share; thereafter to and including February 1, 1935 at $10 per share; thereafter to and including February 1, 1936 at $12.50 per share; and thereafter to and including February 1, 1938 at $15 per share. Holders of $500 and $100 bonds will be entitled to purchase proportionate units of the Corporation's common stock on the same basis.

BUSINESS: Inland Gas Corporation, organized under the laws of the State of Delaware on March 21, 1927, is engaged in the production, transportation and distribution of natural gas in Eastern Kentucky. Consumption of natural gas by companies which have already contracted for natural gas or fuel requirements from the Inland Gas Corporation is estimated by F. P. Fisher, Engineer, at 17,600,000 cubic feet per day. In addition to the contracted requirements there are negotiations pending with other companies whose probable requirements will be not less than 7,000,000 cubic feet per day. In addition to the gas for which contracts have already been consummated and for the sale of which negotiations are now pending, there is an available market for about 27,000,000 cubic feet per day in the territory to be served.

SECURITY: These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured, upon redemption of outstanding First Mortgage Seven Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, by a first mortgage on all fixed properties now owned or hereafter acquired by Inland Gas Corporation, subject as to after-acquired property to existing liens thereon or to purchase money liens created in connection with such acquisition. Pipe line rights of way and natural gas rights may be subject to customary farm mortgages. The value of the properties to be placed under the mortgage securing these Bonds has been estimated by engineers to be approximately twice the principal amount of such Bonds.

PROPERTIES: The properties include over 82,000 acres of gas leaseholds with 56 producing wells, together with 25 miles of main pipe lines and gathering lines now in operation, and will include about 120 miles additional of main pipe lines and gathering lines, the construction of which has already been contracted for. Of the latter approximately 70 miles of 16-inch line will run from a point near Prestonsburg to Ashland, Kentucky, on the Ohio River, with about 50 miles of gathering and branch lines. Branch lines will run to the Olive Hill District and Hitchins, Kentucky. In addition the Corporation has gas purchase contracts which together with its own reserves are estimated to be sufficient to meet the requirements of the Corporation beyond the life of these Bonds. The Corporation will set aside appropriations sufficient to extend its lines to probable customers who are now negotiating for service.

SINKING FUND: The mortgage will provide for a fixed sinking fund to begin November 1, 1929, which will retire approximately 65% of this issue prior to maturity. In addition to this fixed sinking fund, 10% of the net earnings, as defined in the Mortgage, commencing with the calendar year 1929, will be paid annually to the Trustee for similar retirement of additional Series A Bonds. It is estimated that the fixed and additional sinking funds will retire approximately 71% of these Bonds by maturity. The Mortgage will also provide that the cash received by the Corporation through the exercise of the stock purchase privilege will be used to retire additional Series A Bonds.

EARNINGS: Annual net earnings for the first 5 years of full operation available for interest charges, as estimated by F. P. Fisher, Engineer, are more than 3½ times maximum interest requirements on these First Mortgage Bonds. Of these earnings $794,500 or over 2.77 times such interest requirements are based on estimated earnings from sales to customers already under contract.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of these Bonds and the Debentures will be used for the retirement of outstanding funded debt and preferred stock, for the construction of its pipe line system and for other corporate purposes.

MANAGEMENT: The management of the Inland Gas Corporation will be under the direct supervision of the Hope Engineering & Supply Company, Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Inland Gas Corporation

10-Year 7% Sinking Fund Debentures

WITH STOCK PURCHASE PRIVILEGE

Dated February 1, 1928 — Due February 1, 1938

Authorized $1,500,000; to be outstanding $1,500,000. Principal and semi-annual interest (February 1 and August 1) payable in gold coin at the office of the Trustee. Coupon Debentures in interchangeable denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, registerable as to principal, and redeemable as a whole or in part by lot at any time upon thirty days' published notice at 105 and accrued interest if effected on or before February 1, 1933, with successive reductions of 1% of principal amount for each year or fraction thereof elapsed after February 1, 1933. Interest payable without deduction for the Normal Federal Income Tax up to 2%. The Corporation agrees to refund, upon timely and appropriate application, all personal property taxes and securities taxes of any State or of the District of Columbia not exceeding in any year 4 mills of the principal amount, and all income taxes of any such State or such District not exceeding in any year 6% of the income derived from the Debentures. The New York Trust Company, New York, Trustee.

STOCK PURCHASE PRIVILEGE

Each holder of a $1,000 Debenture will be entitled to purchase a unit of 15 shares of common stock of the Corporation, without par value, at $5 per share on or before February 1, 1931; thereafter to and including February 1, 1933 at $7.50 per share; thereafter to and including February 1, 1935 at $10 per share; thereafter to and including February 1, 1936 at $12.50 per share; and thereafter to and including February 1, 1938 at $15 per share. Holders of $500 and $100 Debentures will be entitled to purchase proportionate units of the Corporation's common stock on the same basis.

SECURITY: These Debentures will be, in the opinion of counsel, direct obligations of the Inland Gas Corporation. They are to be issued under an Indenture which will provide that no additional funded indebtedness (except First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A) in excess of $400,000 principal amount shall be created unless net earnings, as defined in the Indenture, during twelve of the preceding fifteen months shall have been at least three times interest requirements on all funded indebtedness outstanding including the additional funded indebtedness to be created.

The properties and other assets, including those to be presently acquired, are estimated by engineers to have a value of $8,793,841 upon completion of pipe line system and when in full operation as a going concern. This is the lower estimate submitted by the engineers who have made appraisals.

SINKING FUND: The Indenture will provide for a fixed sinking fund to begin November 1, 1929, which will retire approximately 64% of the Debentures prior to maturity. In addition to this fixed sinking fund, 25% of the net earnings, as defined in the Indenture, commencing with the calendar year 1931, will be paid annually to the Trustee for similar retirement of additional Debentures. It is estimated that the fixed and additional sinking funds will retire all of these Debentures by maturity. The cash received by the Corporation through the exercise of the stock purchase privilege will be used to retire additional Debentures.

EARNINGS: Annual net earnings for the first 5 years of full operation available for interest charges, after First Mortgage Bond interest, as estimated by F. P. Fisher, Engineer, are nearly 7 times maximum interest requirements on these Debentures. Of these earnings $506,500, or over 4.84 times such interest requirements, are based on estimated earnings from sales to customers already under contract.

Engineers' reports and estimates were made by Messrs. Brokaw, Dixon, Gomez & McKee, New York; Raymond S. Hinckley, Los Angeles, Cal.; Herbert R. Davis, Buffalo, N. Y., and F. P. Fisher, Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Audits by Main and Company. Appraisals by Messrs. Herbert R. Davis and F. P. Fisher.

We offer these Bonds and Debentures when, as and if issued and accepted by us subject to the approval of all legal proceedings by our counsel. Legal matters in connection with these issues will be passed upon by Messrs. Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, New York, for the Bankers, and by Cornelius D. Scully, Esq., Philadelphia, and Robert F. Stallworth, for the Corporation. Definitive of the Bonds may be made in the form of Trustee's interim receipts of Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company (Temporary Bonds), and delivery of the Debentures may be made in the form of Trustee's interim receipts of The New York Trust Company, or Temporary Debentures.

will sell at his office at Albany, New York, March 6, 1928, at 1.00 o'clock P.M.

State of New York

Principal and Interest Payable in Gold Coin.
Exempt from all Federal and State Income Taxes.

$12,500,000.00 for State Institutions Buildings
$10,000,000.00 for General State Improvements

The interest will be paid semi-annually on March 1st and September 1st, the principal maturing in series as follows:

State Institutions Buildings—These bonds will bear a coupon rate of 3½%. $500,000.00 maturing annually on March 1st in each of the years from 1929 to 1953, both inclusive.

General State Improvements—$7,400,000.00, of which $304,000.00 will mature annually on March 1st in each of the years from 1929 to 1953, both inclusive.

General State Improvements—$7,400,000.00, of which $48,000.00 will mature annually on March 1st in each of the years from 1929 to 1978, both inclusive.

Bidders for the General State Improvement bonds will be required to name interest rates on such issues not exceeding four per centum per annum expressed in multiples of ¼ of 1%. Comparison of bids will be by taking the aggregate of interest on all issues at the rates named in the respective bids and deducting therefrom the premium bid. No higher rate of interest shall be taken than shall be required to insure a sale at par, and all bonds of each issue shall bear the same rate of interest.

No bids will be accepted for options maturities, or for less than par value of the bonds and unless accompanied by a deposit of one per centum in certified check or bank draft, payable to the order of the Comptroller of the State of New York for at least one per cent of the par value of the bonds bid for.

All proposals together with security deposits must be in a sealed envelope, indorsed "Proposal for Bonds", and directed to the Comptroller of the State of New York, Albany, New York.

The net State Debt of the State of New York on January 1, 1928, amounted to $243,299,911.29, which is less than 1% of the total assessed valuation of the real and personal property of the State subject to taxation for State purposes.

Circulars descriptive of these bonds, bidding blanks, etc., will be mailed upon application to MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, an exquisite example of Moorish architecture, built in 1890, occupying the site of the Union Depot of the New York & Harlem Railroad, housed for more than a quarter of a century industrial exhibitions, pageants, boxing, rodeos, conventions. Razed in 1926 to make way for a towering office building, the Garden, with all of its color and tradition, moved to a newer and finer structure on 50th Street and Eighth Avenue, where industry finds ample accommodation for the largest display.

$9,200,000 BONDS OF UTILITY OFFERED

$3,500,000 FOR INDUSTRIAL

United States Radiator Company's Securities on Market—Other Issues for Investment.

A new series of first and refunding mortgage 4½ per cent. bonds of the Birmingham Electric Company, due in 1968, amounting to $92,000,000, and priced at 96½ and interest, to yield about 4.77 per cent, will be offered today by a syndicate headed by Harris, Forbes & Co. and including Bonbright & Co., Inc.; Tucker, Anthony & Co. and the Old Colony Corporation. On completion of this financing the only other funded debt of the company will be an issue of $8,449,000 Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company general mortgage refunding 4½s, due in 1954.

Offering of a new issue of $3,500,000 of 5 per cent. sinking fund debentures of the United States Radiator Corporation, Series A, due on Feb. 1, 1938, will be made today by a banking group headed by the First National Company of Detroit, Inc., and including White, Weld & Co., F. L. Carlisle & Co. and the Marine Trust Company of Buffalo, at 98½ and accrued interest, to yield about 5.20 per cent. The issue is redeemable as a whole or in part on any interest date on thirty days' notice at 102½, to Feb. 1, 1933; at 101½ to Feb. 1, 1936, and thereafter to maturity at 101 and interest. Part of the proceeds will be applied toward the purchase of the Pacific Steel Boiler Corporation and subsidiaries.

A new issue of $1,150,000 Southern Public Service Company first mortgage and collateral lien 6 per cent. bonds, Series A, due on Feb. 1, 1943, will be placed on the market today at 97½ and interest, to yield more than 6.25 per cent., by a syndicate composed of Henry D. Lindsley & Co., Inc.; Toy, Gilson & Taylor, Inc.; Gorrell & Co., Inc.; the Emery, Peck & Rockwood Co. and Dangler-Lapham & Co. The issuing company is controlled by the Atlantic Public Service Corporation.

An issue of $1,100,000 Lackawanna & Wyoming Valley Railroad Co. twenty-year 6 per cent. debentures will be offered today at par and interest by Taylor, Ewart & Co.

Offering will be made shortly of a new issue of $3,000,000 Troy Laundry Machinery Company, Inc., fifteen-year convertible sinking fund 6½ per cent. debentures, proceeds of which will be used to retire all funded debt and for other corporate purposes. The company purchased the Manhattan Electrical Supply Company early in 1927.

MIAMI LAND BONDS ARE AUCTIONED HERE

BUYER'S IDENTITY A SECRET

Sale Thought to Have Been Made to Establish Losses for Income Tax Purposes.

There was an echo of Florida's boom in the auction rooms of Adrian H. Muller & Son yesterday when $1,800,000 face value of leasehold and second mortgage bonds from Florida were sold for $147,000. All the securities were bought on one bid by a man who was believed to be acting as agent for interested parties. The identity of these interests was not divulged, although at the beginning of the sale a man stepped forward and read a caveat which indicated that the United Finance Company of Florida owned the securities. One surmise was that the securities were sold to establish losses for income tax purposes.

The securities were sold in eighteen lots. There were eleven lots each of $56,000 face value, which were sold for $4,000 each, or a total of $44,000. One lot of different securities was sold for $4,600, two lots brought $300 each; two, $27,500 each; one, $17,000, and one, $24,000.

The groups of securities that sold for $4,000 each comprised 8 per cent. gold bonds secured by Miami properties and common stocks of realty companies. The bonds were issued by the Northland Properties, Inc.; the Bacon Company, the Rand Company and the Virginia Key Company. They were secured by Bay Shore property, the Carruthers property, the Central, Columbia, Coolidge, Ford-Lincoln and Harding buildings, property in Ninth Street, the Valencia Apartments and the Virginia Key property. The stocks comprised thirty Randel Corporation shares and twenty shares each of the Bacon Company, Northland Properties, Inc.; the Rand Company and the Virginia Key Company.

Muller & Son's auction rooms are frequently used for the sale of securities which either are obsolete or are not actively bought and sold by security houses.

NORWAY IN MARKET FOR $30,000,000

Government Reported Planning Bond Sale Here—Will Seek Bids Abroad Also.

OTHER FOREIGN FINANCING

Proposed Loan to Buenos Aires to Be at 6 Per Cent.—Austrian Deal Progressing.

The Government of Norway is planning to market an issue of $30,000,000 bonds here shortly. According to advices received here yesterday, competition for the business will be sought from several banking groups here and abroad.

The last issue of the Norwegian Government was brought out here in June, 1925, by Blair & Co., Inc., and associates, although all of Norway's financing for some years previously had been done by the National City Company and associates. However, in the same week that the Blair syndicate offered the $30,000,000 Norway issue J. P. Morgan & Co. and the National City Company announced $45,000,000 financing for the Argentine Government, which business previously had gone to the Blair group. Last year, however, Blair & Co. floated an Argentine loan.

An international loan of $100,000,000 to Austria and a loan of $40,000,000 to the Province of Buenos Aires, Argentina, are also contemplated, the latter being in the final stages of negotiation. The fact that Secretary Mellon has recommended to Congress that the United States Government subordinate its first lien of $24,055,708 against Austria's assets in favor of the new loan indicates that a considerable portion of the new financing may be done here. Proceeds of the new loan will be used for improvement of the Austrian railway, telegraph and telephone systems.

The issue of $40,000,000 Province of Buenos Aires bonds, according to a report yesterday, will bear a 6 per cent. coupon, as against a 7 on the previous issue. Proceeds of this issue will be used for refunding purposes.

A loan of $5,000,000 to Scheibler & Grohmann, Poland's largest cotton manufacturers, may be announced shortly. According to word received here from Warsaw, $2,500,000 of the issue will be floated at this time, half of it being placed here and the balance in Poland.

An international loan to Portugal under the auspices of the League of Nations is believed to be a step nearer, now that the committee of the League has completed its investigation of the financial situation of the country and is ready to report to Geneva.

Reis & Co. Earn $200,352 Net.

Robert Reis & Co. report for 1927 a net income of $200,352 after charges but before Federal taxes, comparing with $140,750 for 1926. Net income after taxes was $191,802, equal to $8.54 a share on the second preferred stock after first preferred dividends.

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF $3,710,000 ASKED

Allegheny County, Pa., Again in Market—Two $500,000 Bond Issues Awarded.

Allegheny County, Pa., by scheduling the sale of an issue of $3,710,000 bonds for March 9, has established a record for borrowing in the current market, having sold an issue of almost equal size on Feb. 7. The county, which includes the City of Pittsburgh, will sell an issue of 65, consisting of $1,300,000 bridge and $2,000,000 road bonds, both due serially in thirty years, and $210,000 court house and $200,000 workhouse extension bonds, both issues due in twenty-five years. On Feb. 7 an issue of $3,457,000 4s was sold on a 3.76 per cent. basis.

Wayne County, Mich., which includes the City of Detroit, yesterday awarded a $500,000 issue of bonds as 4½s at a price of 100.3718 to a syndicate composed of the Bank of Detroit, the Security Trust Company of Detroit and Livingstone, Crouse & Co. The second highest bid was 100.3539, made by the National City Company. There were ten other bids. The bonds will be due in from one to two years.

An issue of $500,000 of bonds of Tulsa, Okla., consisting of $249,000 4½s and $251,000 4s, due on Jan. 1, 1933 to 1952, has been awarded to E. H. Rollins & Sons at their bid of par.

The town of Amherst, N. Y., will open bids on Feb. 28 for an issue of $404,000 bonds, due serially, Feb. 1, 1929 to 1958, on which bidders are asked to name the interest rate at not to exceed 5 per cent.

Chautauqua, N. Y., has issued a call for tenders for an issue of $250,000 5 per cent. bonds, due $50,000 in 1936 and $200,000 in 1937, to be opened on March 12.

$2,500,000 STOCK ON SALE.

Preferred Shares of National Electric Power Company.

An additional issue of $2,500,000 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the National Electric Power Company will be offered today at $94.50 a share and accrued dividend, to yield 6.35 per cent., by a banking group headed by A. C. Allyn & Co., Inc., and including the Utility Securities Corporation, Howe, Snow & Co., Inc.; the Old Colony Corporation and Emery, Peck & Rockwood Company.

Earnings of the company for the twelve months ended on Dec. 31, 1927, available for preferred dividends amounted to $2,174,442, or more than 2.7 times the annual requirements.

Insurance Stock to Be Sold.

The State Insurance Department has granted permission to the Excess Insurance Company of America, a New Jersey Corporation, to do business in this State. Public offering of 100,000 shares of capital stock of the company will be made on Monday by West & Co., Potter & Co., and Pirnie, Simons & Co. The company underwrites excess portions of casualty, surety and fidelity insurance for other companies and also for public utility and industrial corporations which carry part of their own risk.

Mr. Henry T. Cole, President of the United States Radiator Corporation, has summarized in part his letter to us as follows:

Business: The United States Radiator Corporation, organized in 1910 as a consolidation of six well-established boiler and radiator companies, is one of the largest producers of cast iron low pressure heating boilers and radiators in the world. Its products, which are marketed under the well-known name of "Capitol" boilers and "Capitol" radiators, are used for low pressure steam and hot water heating systems in all types of buildings.

Purpose of Issue: These Debentures and/or the proceeds from their sale will be used partly in connection with the purchase of the assets of the Pacific Steel Boiler Corporation, a New Jersey corporation, and all its subsidiaries, and partly as an addition to cash resources of United States Radiator Corporation.

Earnings: Net earnings, after depreciation and before Federal Taxes, of the United States Radiator Corporation alone, as certified to by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, averaged $1,572,128 for the past five fiscal years, or approximately nine times the maximum annual interest charges of Series "A" Debentures. Net earnings for the year ending January 31, 1928 of the United States Radiator Corporation and the Pacific Steel Boiler Corporation combined, as certified to by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, were $1,217,288, after depreciation and before Federal Taxes, or approximately seven times the maximum annual interest charges on Series "A" Debentures.

Assets: The Balance Sheet of the United States Radiator Corporation, certified to by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst as of December 31, 1927, after giving effect to the present financing and to the purchase of the assets of the Pacific Steel Boiler Corporation and its subsidiaries, shows net tangible assets of $11,683,030, equivalent to over $3,300 per $1,000 Debenture, and net quick assets of over $1,984 per $1,000 Debenture to be presently outstanding.

The foregoing is subject to the more complete statements contained in descriptive circular, copies of which may be obtained upon application.

We are offering these Debentures if, as and when issued and received by us, subject to approval by counsel. All legal proceedings in connection therewith have been passed upon by Messrs. Stevenson, Butler, Eaman & Long for the bankers and Messrs. Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone for the Corporation. It is expected that delivery of permanent Debentures will be made on or about March 5, 1928.

Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad Company

Twenty-Year Six Percent. Gold Debentures

To Be Dated February 1, 1928 — Due February 1, 1948

To be authorized and outstanding $1,100,000. Principal and semi-annual interest payable February 1 and August 1 in gold coin at the office of the Trustee, and coupons collectible at the principal office of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in New York City. Debentures in coupon form in interchangeable denominations of $1,000 and $500 registerable as to principal. Redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the Railroad Company on any interest date upon 30 days' published notice at 105 and accrued interest, reducing 1% every two years thereafter to 101. The Railroad Company agrees to refund upon timely and appropriate application, all personal property taxes and securities taxes of any state or of the District of Columbia not exceeding in any year 6 mills of the principal amount, and all income taxes of any such state or district not exceeding in any year 6% of the interest upon the Debentures.

BANK OF NORTH AMERICA & TRUST COMPANY, PHILADELPHIA, PA., TRUSTEE.

Mr. P. J. Murphy, Vice-President of the Railroad Company, has summarized as follows his letter describing these Debentures:

PROPERTY: The Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad Company, organized under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, operates by a third-rail electric system a double-track railroad of modern and substantial construction between Scranton, Pittston and Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. This road, including an extension to Dunmore, Pa., is twenty-two miles in length and has been built entirely on private right-of-way owned by the Railroad Company, with one minor exception. Construction, both as to road-bed and equipment, has been according to standard specifications in order to permit the interchange of equipment with the steam railroads connecting with its lines, i. e., the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, the Lehigh Valley Railroad and the Erie Railroad.

The Railroad Company owns the entire capital stock of the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Power Company which generates the electric power used by the railroad.

The Railroad Company owns valuable terminal properties, consisting of modern brick structures and 98 acres of real estate in Scranton and 15 acres in Wilkes-Barre.

TERRITORY: The important manufacturing centers, Scranton, Pittston and Wilkes-Barre are situated in the heart of one of the richest anthracite mining regions in the United States. The total population tributary to the lines of the Railroad Company is estimated to be in excess of 500,000.

DEBENTURE ISSUE: These Debentures will, in the opinion of counsel, be a direct obligation of the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad Company and will be subordinate only to the Five Percent. First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the Railroad Company authorized in the principal amount of $3,500,000, of which $2,900,000 will be presently outstanding. As of December 31, 1927, the cost of road and equipment, based on construction vouchers, was $8,137,627. Estimated on the basis of the index numbers of the United States Department of Labor, the cost of reproduction of the road and equipment was $13,440,921 as of December 31, 1926. The foregoing figures do not take account of accrued depreciation which appears on the books of the Railroad Company as of December 31, 1927, at $933,923.95. Additional bonds may be issued only in accordance with the conservative provisions of the mortgage as supplemented.

SINKING FUND: These Debentures will have the benefit of a sinking fund under the terms of which Debentures in the aggregate principal amount of $25,000 will be retired on or after March 1st of each year, commencing March 1, 1929, in accordance with the terms of the indenture. The Debentures so retired will be cancelled.

EARNINGS: The average net earnings including those of subsidiaries after depreciation and all deductions, except Federal income taxes, for the five years ended December 31, 1927, were $438,739, an amount in excess of twice the total interest charges on the funded debt to be presently outstanding, including these Debentures. The net earnings for the year ended December 31, 1927, were $440,549.

MANAGEMENT: The management of the Railroad Company, since 1914, has been under supervision of Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., Engineers. Among the Directors of the Railroad Company are the Hon. Wm. C. Sproul, former Governor of Pennsylvania, Mr. Frank R. Ford of Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., New York, and Mr. Walter H. Lippincott of Philadelphia.

We offer these Debentures when, as and if issued and accepted by us subject to the approval of all legal proceedings by counsel, Messrs. Wise, Whitney and Parker of New York City and Messrs. Townsend, Elliott and Munson of Philadelphia, Pa., for the Bankers, and Messrs. Davies, Auerbach and Cornell of New York City for the Company. It is expected that temporary Debentures or interim receipts will be delivered about March 23, 1928.

LOOMIS HITS INQUIRY INTO FREIGHT RATES

Charges Congress Intervened in the I. C. C. Investigation for "Political Reasons."

LEHIGH HEAD ASKS REPEAL

Says Commission Must Go on Spending Money on Impossible Task Under Hoch-Smith Resolution.

The charge that Congress intervened for political reasons in the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation into freight rates, called for in the Hoch-Smith resolution, and the recommendation that the resolution be repealed, were made by Edward E. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, in his remarks to stockholders in the road's annual report for 1927, which was issued yesterday. President Loomis declared that unless Congress repeals the Hoch-Smith resolution "the commission must go on spending the taxpayers' money on what seems to be an impossible and well-nigh endless task."

The report, which is the first of the Class I roads' statements to appear in pamphlet form, shows net income for 1927 of $4,266,006, after expenses, taxes and other charges, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $3.51 a share on 121,001 shares of common stock, the same as shown in the preliminary account. In the preceding year the net was $10,021,-113, or $8.29 a share on the common. Total operating revenues were $74,-302,819 last year, against $80,853,150 in the previous year. The balance sheet for 1927 shows total assets of $241,080,777, current assets of $16,-536,645, and current liabilities of $10,484,043. The total corporate surplus as of Dec. 31, 1927, aggregated $83,354,819.

After discussing the various improvements, operations and difficulties of 1927, and commenting on the merger question, President Loomis said:

"Aside from this matter of consolidation, those outside of the railroad industry concerned about its problems seem most disturbed over freight rates. In 1920, Congress, ostensibly to help the agricultural interests, then facing a serious depression, adopted the Hoch-Smith resolution, providing that the commission should investigate the country's freight rate structure and then readjust freight rates so that agricultural products and the products of other industries suffering from depression might be transported at the lowest rates consistible with the maintenance of adequate railroad service.

"Congress recently has been advised that the commission thus far has spent a considerable sum on this inquiry, to say nothing of the expenses of the railroads and shippers who found it necessary to protect their interests. Furthermore it is impossible to predict when the inquiry will be finished.

"In the meanwhile, the conditions responsible are changing, but unless Congress repeals the resolution, the commission must go ahead spending the taxpayers' money on what seems an impossible and well-nigh endless task. This is one of the cases where Congress, having given the commission full authority in rate matters, later intervened, for political reasons. The commission should be permitted to handle rate matters in a judicial manner and without regard to other considerations, if full justice is to be done the public and if it is to be assured adequate transportation service. Recently there has been a tendency on the part of many interests to seek to reduce their transportation costs in an effort to overcome economic conditions within their own industries or to meet new competition from without.

"Apparently the first thought under such circumstances is to appeal to the commission for aid in compelling a contribution from the railroads regardless of their own relative prosperity. Such an attitude is one of grave danger to these industries and to the railroads. It is an established axiom that the country receives the kind of transportation for which it pays. As rates are forced down and the net earnings of the railroads approach the vanishing point, it must necessarily follow that there is going to be a slowing up in the efficiency of operation, which will have a material effect upon business and completely nullify the advantages of the rate reductions."

The earnings statements of six railroads for January, 1928, were issued yesterday. Tabular accounts of these earnings, with comparisons to the like periods in the last two years are shown below:

The preliminary report for 1927 of the Chicago & Alton shows a deficit of $1,685,280 after taxes and charges, as against a deficit for 1926 of $498,-758. Gross for 1927 aggregated $28,-345,728, as compared with $31,474,824 for the preceding year.

The West Pacific reports net income for 1927 of $394,851 after taxes and charges, equivalent to $1.43 per share on 275,000 shares of 6 per cent. preferred stock. In 1926 the net was $2,470,264, or $1.72 a share on 475,000 shares of common after preferred dividends. Gross for last year totaled $15,423,463, against $16,007,005 in 1926.

Allows $30,000,000 Stock Issue.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—The Western New York & Pennsylvania Railroad, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania System, was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $7,009,868 in 5 per cent. preferred stock and $23,840,-951 in common stock, all of which will eventually be delivered to the Pennsylvania Railroad. The common stock issue will represent repayment of advances made by the Pennsylvania to its subsidiary, while the preferred stock delivery will constitute an exchange for bonds and other securities formerly held by the Pennsylvania.

COMMON LOSES 3⅛ POINTS

Chairman Nutt Unable to Explain Decline—Insists Road Will Pay Bond Interest.

Stocks and bonds of the Seaboard Air Line Railway were subjected yesterday to extreme pressure with the result that at the close of the market seven of the nine Seaboard securities listed had touched new low points for the year.

The common stock of the road, which had a turnover of 10,100 shares, dropped from the day's high of 19¼ to 16, and closed the session at 16⅛ for a net loss of 3⅛ points. Transactions in the preferred aggregated 5,200 shares, and the price dropped from 35⅞ to 33, at which it closed, off 2⅝ points from the previous final. At its low of yesterday, the common stock was off 14¼ points from the 1928 high of 30½, reached on Jan. 3, while the preferred was off 15 points from its high for the year, which was 38, touched on the same date.

Of the Seaboard bonds listed, new low ground was reached yesterday by the 6s of 1945 at 83¼; the adjustment 5s of 1949 at 51; the refunding 4s of 1959 at 61½; the Seaboard All-Florida Series A 6s of 1935 at 82¼; and the Seaboard All-Florida Series B 6s of 1935 at 65. Net losses of the listed Seaboard bond issues ranged from 2¼ to 4½ points, and one issue, first 4s of 1950, scored a net gain of 1 point. The following table shows the high, low and net changes of the seven Seaboard bond issues, together with the high prices for 1928:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Ch'ge.	High.

*New low for 1928.

Robert L. Nutt, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Seaboard, declared yesterday that he knew of no reason why the stocks and bonds of the road should sustain such losses in the market. He reiterated his recent statement that the Seaboard expects to pay the adjustment bond interest when it comes due and declared that in his opinion the Seaboard in 1928 will earn substantially more than the requirements on the adjustment bonds.

Roy A. Young to Address Bankers.

Roy A. Young of the Federal Reserve Board, Washington, D. C., will address the New York Chapter, Inc., American Institute of Banking, at its twenty-seventh annual dinner tomorrow in the Hotel Astor. Several national officers, including P. R. Williams, President, and Frank M. Totten, Vice President, will attend a breakfast there on the following morning.

WOULD ADD TO OHIO LINE.

P. L. & W. Railroad Urges Extension Plan Before I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—A railroad project for giving the Youngstown industrial district in Ohio direct rail connection with the Ohio River was laid before the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

The Montour Railroad, a Pennsylvania corporation, asked permission to pay $425,000 for the controlling stock of the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western Railroad, which corporation in turn sought authority to undertake the construction of a new line.

The Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western company proposes to build twenty-seven miles from Mill Rock into Youngstown, with a four-mile branch to Struthers, near Youngstown. In addition it seeks to build an additional thirteen miles from Negley, Ohio, to Smith's Ferry, a point on the Ohio River in Pennsylvania. The application explained that the connection would enable Youngstown products to take advantage of a rail and water haul to all points on the Ohio-Mississippi River section.

Pennsylvania Chiefs Outline Improvements at Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 23.—Plans for the improvement of the facilities of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Baltimore, which will include electrification of the road here and will involve the expenditure of many millions of dollars, were outlined at a luncheon here today by executives of the railroad.

At a dinner given in his honor at the Belvedere Hotel, W. W. Atterbury, President of the railroad, said the proposed plans depend upon satisfactory accord being reached with the city authorities. He anticipated no fundamental difficulty, he added.

As outlined by Elisha Lee, Vice President of the railroad, the prospective improvement includes, among other things, the building of another two-track tunnel paralleling the present Baltimore & Potomac tunnel from Union Station to West Baltimore.

Southern Public Service Company

First Mortgage and Collateral Lien 6% Gold Bonds Series A

To be dated February 1st, 1928. Due February 1st, 1948. Semi-annual interest February 1st and August 1st, payable at the office of the Trustee in New York, without deduction for that proportion of any Federal Income Tax not in excess of two percent. Redeemable at any time upon 30 days' public notice at 107½ and accrued interest if redeemed on or prior to August 1, 1933 and at 1/2 and accrued interest from 1/2 of 1% for each full twelve months elapsed or portion thereof elapsed at the date of redemption subsequent to August 1, 1933. $500 and $1000 denominations coupon bonds with the privilege of registration as to principal. The Company covenants to refund any taxes (other than succession or inheritance taxes) paid by the holders not in excess of five mills (0.005) per dollar of the principal amount and interest of these bonds when such taxes are in excess of 6% per annum on the interest thereon, subject to the limitations and in the manner set forth in the Indenture. The Fidelity National Bank of the City of New York, Trustee.

Mr. L. C. Chase, President of the Company, summarizes as follows:

BUSINESS: Southern Public Service Company, incorporated under the laws of Delaware, will acquire the business and properties of companies engaged in the manufacture and distribution of ice in Roanoke, Virginia and Greensboro and Gastonia, North Carolina, and will own directly or indirectly not less than 95% of the Common stock of Carolina-Georgia Service Company, doing a similar business in and around eighteen communities in South Carolina and Georgia, including the cities of Greenville, Anderson and Aiken, South Carolina, and Augusta, Georgia. A number of these properties have been in successful operation from fifteen to twenty years. The permanent population of the territory served by the Company and its subsidiaries is about 500,000.

PROPERTIES: The Company and its subsidiaries will own and operate 27 ice manufacturing plants, equipped with modern type of ice-making machinery and in a good state of operating efficiency. These plants have a present daily capacity of over 1,400 tons. Company will distribute largely through its own delivery system which is adequately equipped with wagons and motor equipment.

SECURITY: These bonds will be secured in the opinion of counsel by a direct first mortgage on all fixed properties owned by the Company, and, except for liens existing at time of acquisition, on all fixed properties hereafter acquired by the Company. The properties to be owned have been examined and appraised by Van Rensselaer H. Greene, Refrigeration Engineer, of New York, who reports a sound depreciated going value of $3,010,-328. There will be pledged certain stocks and/or voting trust certificates of subsidiary companies representing, directly or indirectly, not less than 95% of the common stock of Carolina-Georgia Service Company which, based on a similar valuation by Van Rensselaer H. Greene, and after deducting prior securities, show a sound value of over $1,010,000. Balance sheet as of October 31, 1927, giving effect to this financing and the foregoing appraised values, shows net tangible assets behind these bonds of $4,259,000, equal to over $3,700 per $1,000 bond to be outstanding. Seventy-five per cent. of the stock of Roanoke Ice Delivery, Inc. will also be pledged.

EARNINGS: Consolidated net earnings of the Company and its subsidiaries available for interest charges on these bonds, depreciation and Federal income taxes, adjusted for certain non-recurring expenses made up chiefly of management compensation which will be eliminated, for the twelve months ended on or about September 30, 1927 amounted to $334,355, equivalent to 4.84 times the interest requirements on these bonds. Such earnings for the twelve months ended on or about September 30, 1927 and net earnings available for interest charges on these bonds, depreciation and Federal Income Taxes for the two years ended on or about December 31, 1926, have averaged $318,595 per annum, equivalent to 4.62 times these interest requirements.

For the twelve months ended on or about September 30, 1927, such earnings from properties on which these bonds are secured by a direct first mortgage were alone equal to four times the interest requirements on these bonds.

SINKING FUND: The Trust Indenture will provide for a cumulative sinking fund sufficient to retire over 60% of these bonds by maturity.

OWNERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT: The entire issue of notes and common stock of this Company will be owned by the Atlantic Public Service Corporation which is to be under the management of Chase & Gilbert, Inc.

All legal details in connection with this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Chadbourne and Parker, 30 the Stockholders by Messrs. Pruyn, Kenny & Storey of Boston, for the Company. The accounts of the Company have been audited annually by Messrs. Arthur Anderson & Co., Accountants and the properties have been examined and appraised by Mr. Van Rensselaer H. Greene of New York. These bonds are offered when, as and if issued, and received and accepted by us, and subject to approval of our counsel.

ADDITIONAL ISSUE

(Fully Paid and Non-Assessable)

Preferred both as to Assets and Dividends — Par Value $100 per Share

DIVIDENDS EXEMPT FROM PRESENT NORMAL FEDERAL INCOME TAX

BUSINESS: National Electric Power Company owns practically all of the common stocks of a diversified group of companies operating public utility properties located in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Maine and Michigan, and a large majority of the Common Stock of New England Public Service Company. The Company has also acquired a substantial interest in the Class B Common Stock of National Public Service Corporation and in the Common Stock of The Commonwealth Light and Power Company.

The territories served with electric light and power include about 762 communities with a total population estimated to exceed 1,250,000.

ASSETS: As determined by public utility engineers and appraisers, the reproduction cost new, less accrued depreciation, of the properties of the said subsidiary companies, plus additions to date at cost, after deduction of all prior obligations and liabilities, is largely in excess of the $12,610,000 par value of the Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. The Preferred Stock is followed by 312,130 shares of Class A Stock and 620,065 shares of Class B Stock.

CONSOLIDATED EARNINGS: For the twelve months ended December 31, 1927, the consolidated earnings of National Electric Power Company and said subsidiaries, including those of New England Public Service Company, were as follows:

Gross Earnings (including Other Income)	$25,757,427
Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Depreciation, Taxes, including Federal Taxes	15,472,129
Net Earnings	$10,285,298
Balance of Net Earnings, applicable to securities of subsidiary companies of National Electric Power Company, after deduction of interest charges and dividends paid or accrued during the period on funded and unfunded debt and preferred stocks of subsidiary companies, amortization and net earnings applicable to common stocks of subsidiary companies held by the public	$ 3,675,442
Annual Interest Charges on Secured Gold Debentures	500,000
Balance	$ 3,174,442
Annual Dividend Requirements on Cumulative Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding, including this issue	$ 304,450

The balance of net earnings, as shown above, was thus more than 2.78 times such annual dividend requirements.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of this Cumulative Preferred Stock will be used for the acquisition of additional securities of subsidiary companies.

Legal matters in connection with this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Seibert & Riggs, New York. The books and accounts of the Company are audited annually by Messrs. Arthur Young & Co., New York.

This stock is offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. It is expected that definitive certificates will be ready for delivery on or about March 7, 1928.

Price: $94.50 per Share and Accrued Dividend, to Yield 6.35%

FRATERNAL GROUP TO BE LIQUIDATED

Court Grants Application of Beha to End Lincoln Benefit Association.

ANOTHER ORDER SOUGHT

Attorney General to Ask Similar Action on Telegraph and Telephone Life.

Supreme Court Justice Delehanty yesterday granted the application of State Insurance Superintendent Beha for power to liquidate the Lincoln Fraternal Benefit Association. The Court said that while there was only a small impairment of capital and that improper investment of money was made innocently, the condition of the company was such that it should be liquidated.

Justice Delehanty said that the officers of the company had asked time in which to make good the impairment, but had failed to do so in two months, and that while the State Insurance law provided that a company issuing death benefit certificates must have at least 500 certificate holders, the company's number had been reduced to four after a period of three years. The Court pointed out that there were no charges of fraud made against any of the officers, but that its weakness made the liquidation order advisable.

Supreme Court Justice Callahan will be asked today by Attorney General Ottinger to grant an order to direct Superintendent Beha to take possession of the property and liquidate the business of the Telegraph and Telephone Life Insurance Association, with home offices at 195 Broadway. The court application will be made for the purpose of carrying out the intention of a majority of the members who recently held a meeting and adopted a resolution requesting the State officials to place the association in liquidation.

Yesterday afternoon the Attorney General procured from Justice Delehanty an order to show cause permitting the association to appear in court to carry out the resolution of the majority of the members. Recently the association at its own request was examined by Warren T. Gray, an official examiner of the Insurance Department. His report showed that the association had assets of $239,309 and liabilities of $21,042, the excess of assets over liabilities being $218,268. The membership has been constantly declining since 1924. On Dec. 15, 1927, the association reinsured the members of the third class with the United States Life Insurance Company, upon payment to it of the legal reserve aggregating $177,660. The membership is now 1,007.

About 64 per cent. of the members are more than 65 years old. The annual cost for $1,000 of insurance to the members from 1889 to 1921 was about $14. Since 1921 the annual cost has been $48, which was not sufficient to pay the losses and expenses, and the association was compelled to use $30,000 of its reserves.

FOUR MORE BROKERS ARE WARNED BY BEHA

He Says They Are Advertising the Stocks of Insurance Companies Not Admitted to the State.

Although no decision has been handed down by the Insurance Department regarding the sale of stock of the Insurance Securities Company, Inc., by Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. and Curtis & Sanger, James A. Beha, State Superintendent of Insurance, yesterday notified four additional financial houses that they were advertising the sale of stock of insurance companies not admitted to do business in this State. Further, the stock brokers have not been licensed under Section 68 of the Insurance law.

The firms notified are Jesse Spier & Co., advertising the sale of Occidental Insurance stock; J. Roy Prosser & Co. and Holt, Rose & Trostr, selling Halifax Fire Insurance Company stock, and Ward & Co., in regard to the Missouri State Life Insurance Company, Halifax Insurance Company and the Occidental Insurance Company.

In defining his stand relating to the sale of stocks of insurance companies unlicensed to do business in this State, Superintendent Beha said yesterday that his position was analogous to that of the Attorney General in enforcing the Martin act.

The only comment available from any of the firms named by Superintendent Beha yesterday was made by an official of Holt, Rose & Trostr. He said that inasmuch as the Halifax Insurance Company was a member of the Home group, the firm assumed that it was legal to trade in the stock.

EQUITABLE ASSETS RISE.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States in its sixty-eighth annual statement ended Dec. 31 shows total assets of $966,825,151, an increase of $97,220,000 over 1926, which is the largest gain ever made in a year by the company. Outstanding insurance amounts to $5,651,884,438. New insurance paid for aggregated $941,412,586, including $124,424,877 of initial group insurance.

During the year the company paid $112,698,000 to its policy holders and beneficiaries, of which more than $67,000,000 was paid to living policy holders. More than $44,000,000 was set aside for payment of dividends on annual dividend policies in 1928. More than 98 per cent. of all domestic death claims paid in the year were settled within one day after receipt of due proofs of death.

POWER HOLDERS GET RIGHTS

To Subscribe to $17,700 Shawinigan Shares in Ratio of 1 to 4.

The stockholders of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company of record March 26 have been offered the right to subscribe to $17,700 shares of stock at $50 a share in the ratio of one new share for each four shares held. The directors have reserved 70,900 shares of the stock, which is to be exchanged for stock of the St. Maurice Power Company in the ratio of two Shawinigan for each St. Maurice share.

The company reports a profit of $3,394,753 for 1927 after expenses and interest, but before depreciation, against $2,957,823 in 1926. Gross earnings were $9,302,828, against $7,966,207.

DOES BANKING SERVICE MEAN BUSINESS SERVICE TO YOU?

Making Business Contacts Useful to Our Clients

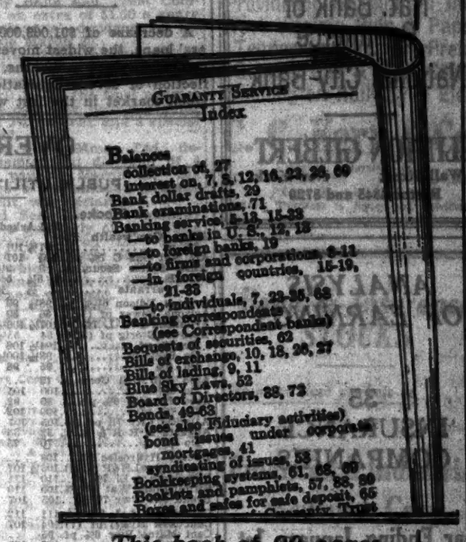
SOME time ago, one of our commercial banking clients was seeking means of expanding an already satisfactory business.

Another of our customers had a product which was not being marketed profitably.

The Guaranty was able to bring these two companies into contact with each other. The former took over the distribution of the latter's line—to their mutual profit.

The Guaranty, with wide contacts throughout the business community and complete facilities at home and abroad, has been able to render distinctive service to its customers in many ways.

Our officers are glad to discuss with executives the banking requirements of their business and the facilities that this Company affords to strong, established houses.



This book of 90 pages will prove useful in your office library. It is a complete, yet brief, story of our facilities. More than 400 indexed subjects enable quick reference to any service in the whole range of banking, trusts and investments. A copy of "Guaranty Service" will be sent to business executives on request.

3½ Billion Dollars Spent for Your Benefit!

THE railroads of the country have spent 3½ billion dollars during the past six years for new equipment and facilities of far-reaching consequence to every citizen.

A leading authority states that due to these expenditures, it has been possible for the railroads to handle an average of 1,000,000 cars of revenue freight a week, thereby greatly stabilizing business by assuring to the merchant and manufacturer regularity of deliveries. The benefit of this is inevitably passed on to the consumer.

Various phases of commercial banking are used to expedite all kinds of shipments handled by our railroads.

$91,069,000 DECLINE IN BROKERS' LOANS

Widest Movement in Months Reported by Reserve Board for the Week.

SMALLEST TOTAL OF YEAR

Drop Due to Recent Advance in Rediscount Rate and Reflects Stock Liquidation.

A decrease of $91,069,000 in brokers' loans, the widest movement that has taken place in months, and a reflection of severe liquidation in the stock market in the last week, was announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board. There were reductions alike in the loans made by the New York banks for their own account and for the account of out-of-town banks, and the total, $3,728,316,000, was the lowest recorded this year.

Following are the detailed figures on the loans made to brokers on stock and bond collateral by the reporting Federal Reserve member banks of New York City:

	Feb. 21.	Feb. 15.
Loans for own account	$1,061,965,000	$1,157,815,000
Total	$3,728,316,000	$3,819,385,000

The reduction in loans was considered a direct result of the conditions attending the advance in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York three weeks ago. When the advance was made it was indicated by the Federal Reserve authorities that they had in mind the great expansion in brokers' loans in the last year, while comparatively small amounts of bank credits were going into commercial business. Until yesterday, however, the rate action had not been reflected in the brokers' loans figures. On the day the rate advance was announced the loan total increased $27,000,000, and there was a further increase of $19,000,000 in the following week. The loan total, however, decreased $15,000,000 last week, followed by the big drop announced yesterday. While the present total is smaller than any previously recorded this year, it is still above the level of the latter part of December, and it is $966,162,000 larger than the total of the corresponding week of last year. It was the first time in months that a difference between the current loan total and that of a year before had been less than a billion dollars.

The reduction had been forecast by the heavy selling which took place in the stock market during the week. Wall Street predictions had been general that the loan total would decline, though the extent of the reduction came as a distinct surprise. The general guess had been that loans would be reduced by about $50,000,000. As the demand for loans has not been large in the last few days, even with the rally that has been in progress in the stock market, Wall Street looks for a further reduction in brokers' loans. The reductions of the last two weeks have been accompanied by increased loans for commercial purposes, as shown by the reports of the member banks of the Federal Reserve System.

Following are the brokers' loans since the first of the year, with comparisons for the corresponding weeks of last year:

	1928.	1927.
Jan. 11	3,816,976,000	3,871,188,000
Jan. 18	3,787,858,000	3,709,179,000
Jan. 25	3,799,886,000	3,731,640,000
Feb. 1	3,845,820,000	3,760,004,000
Feb. 8	3,819,385,000	3,750,878,000
Feb. 15	3,819,385,000	3,761,784,000

Reports Progress in Broadcast Plan.

Progress in the plan of the North American Company to broadcast programs over electric light wires through devices owned by the Wired Radio Corporation was reported yesterday by Frank L. Dame, President of both companies. He said that the corporation was negotiating for patent agreements which would assure the service. Wired Radio has been developing the plan for about two years.

COUNTER STOCKS SHOW BETTER TONE ALL DAY

Most Groups Stronger, With Chain Stores and Bank Shares Leading—Sugars Firm.

Practically every division of the over-the-counter market displayed a better tone from the outset in yesterday's trading session. The return to higher levels was most marked in the chain store and bank and trust company groups, while the sugar issues were free from losses and the buying demand among the industrials returned to something nearer normal. The insurance group was spotty, but showed better buying throughout the day.

The forward move in chain store issues carried the Kinnear Stores and Isaac Silver stocks almost back to the level held previous to the last week-end selling market. F. & W. Grand common and Schiff Company common were also higher. Leonard, Fitzpatrick & Mueller and H. C. Bohack commons were lower. Holly Sugar gained 5 points and Central Aguirre closed up 2 point.

A better tone prevailed in Capital Bank and Trust, Continental, Yorkville, America, Bowery and East River, Longacre, Central Union and Farmers Loan and Trust. Markdowns of 5 points appeared against Liberty and Prince State. Lloyds Plate Glass, Aetna Life, Hartford Fire, Globe and Rutgers and Aetna Fire in the insurance group showed better than 10-point gains. Markdowns of 10 points or more came to Aetna Casualty, Stuyvesant, Connecticut General Life and Sun Life.

Among the utilities Virginian Railway was up 3 points. Canadian Celanese common, General Bond and Share, Manhattan Rubber, Phelps-Dodge, Columbia Phonograph and Smith-Corona were in a better position. The losses for the day were in E. W. Bliss common, American Manufacturing common, Lawrence Portland Cement, Industrial Finance common and Rolls-Royce common.

GIANNINI REPORTED NEAR BANK MERGER

SEVEN CONCERNS INVOLVED

Conferences With Delafield and Others Held—Announcement of Consolidation Expected.

Negotiations for the formation of one bank through a merger of the banks in New York controlled by the Bancitaly Corporation, the Manufacturers Trust Company and its affiliated institutions and the 116-year-old Bank of America have progressed to the point where formal announcement of the consolidation is expected within a few days. The combined bank, it is estimated, would rank as the third largest financial institution in New York, with capital and surplus of approximately $100,000,000, deposits of more than $600,000,000 and total resources in the neighborhood of $850,000,000. This would make it only slightly smaller than the Chase National Bank, which is exceeded in size only by the National City Bank, with its resources of more than $1,400,000,000.

A. P. Giannini, President of the Bancitaly Corporation and founder of the Bank of Italy of San Francisco, will be the dominant figure in the consolidation if this is effected on the lines now being followed. Conferences have been held in the last few days between Mr. Giannini and Edward C. Delafield, President of the Bank of America, at which an understanding is understood to have been reached, although both sides in the negotiations maintained their attitude of silence yesterday. Mr. Giannini is known to have conferred also with other Wall Street financial leaders in the last few days.

It was learned on good authority yesterday that if an agreement is reached, with Mr. Giannini dominating the merger, the Bank of America will drop all consideration of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the decision of the New York State Court of Appeals invalidating voting trust control of the Bank of America and giving control of the latter institution to the Jonas interests, which head the Manufacturers Trust Company. Mr. Giannini entered the situation through purchases of stock of the Financial and Industrial Securities Corporation, the investment affiliate of the Manufacturers Trust Company, and also of stock in the Bank of America.

According to the present plans one institution will be made of the Bank of America, the Manufacturers Trust Company, the Capitol National Bank and Trust Company, the United National Bank and the Longacre Bank—the last three are controlled by the Financial and Industrial Securities Corporation—the Bowery and East River National Bank and the Commercial Exchange Bank, both of which institutions are controlled by the Bancitaly Corporation. Such a consolidation would give the resulting institution a city-wide branch banking system as well as ownership of the twenty-three-story Bank of America building at Wall and William Streets and the new Commercial Exchange Bank building, which is nearing completion near by in Wall Street.

$75,000 Loss in Camden Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 23.—A fire which swept a 300-foot factory building occupied by four companies on the waterfront here today caused a loss estimated at more than $75,000. The companies were the Blue and Gray Textile Company, the Allied Metal Stamping Company, the Philadelphia Metal Stamping Company and the Lithographing Factory of the MacIntosh Company.

COUNTY TRUST 2 YEARS OLD.

Deposits Exceed $20,000,000—15-Story Building Now Planned.

The County Trust Company celebrated its second birthday yesterday with the announcement that deposits exceeded $20,000,000 and assets $22,000,000. It opened for business under the Presidency of James J. Riordan with a paid-in capital surplus of $1,500,000. Governor Smith made the first deposit and total deposits on the opening day were $1,248,248.

The bank has outgrown its quarters at Eighth Avenue and Fifteenth Street and plans a fifteen-story building one block south. The company will occupy the first three floors of this building, which will be started within a year. It draws on the West Washington and Gansevoort Markets and expects the new Eighth Avenue Subway to increase its business.

Original subscribers to the company's stock paid $155 a share, $100 going to capital, $50 to surplus and $5 to organization expenses. Today the stock is quoted at $300 bid with none offered. In addition to the paid-in surplus of $500,000, the company has earned undivided profits of $300,000. It is planned soon to increase the capital stock.

TO OPEN BANK IN FLORIDA.

Northern Men Get Charter for Institution at Fort Lauderdale.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP).—The Broward Bank and Trust Company, financed by a group headed by John Lochrie, Pennsylvania coal operator, has received a State charter and will open for business here Feb. 29, it was announced today. Fort Lauderdale's only bank closed its doors last week.

The new bank, backed by a number of Northern financiers, will have capital of $150,000 and surplus of $75,000.

Erie County to Create Employment.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—Acting on the suggestion of Governor Smith, the Erie County Board of Supervisors will meet tomorrow to draft a building program in an effort to reduce unemployment. Plans will be considered for a new cell block at the penitentiary and a new dormitory in the County Home, both at Alden.

C. F. Baker Goes to Jekyl Island.

George F. Baker, veteran Chairman of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank, has departed for his Winter home on Jekyl Island, Ga., for his annual vacation of about a month. He is accompanied as usual by E. E. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Mr. Baker will be 88 years old on March 26.

CURB ACTIVITY WANES AFTER BRISK ADVANCES

Closing Prices Below Day's Best Levels—Largest Turnover in the Leading Oil Stocks.

Strength was again the rule on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, but after brisk early rises, with prominent oils, mines and artificial silks bought on the constructive news in their respective fields, the market became more quiet, with the closing prices somewhat below the best levels for the day.

Transactions bulked largest, so far as individual shares are concerned, in the leading oils, with Vacuum Oil, Standard of Indiana and Creole Syndicate the objects of greatest trading, but all these closed well under their best levels. Gulf Oil, Anglo-American, International Petroleum, Prairie Oil and Standard of Kentucky were other firm issues.

Celanese was strong and active in the artificial silk group, with trading in Courtaulds comparatively small and the gain slight. Industrial Rayon and American Rayon were moderately active and stronger, while Tubize in small dealings ended with a loss.

The utilities were somewhat mixed. American Gas and Electric and United Light and Power rose slightly, while Electric Bond and Share and American Superpower B eased.

The miscellaneous list showed few interesting developments. Bancitaly lost a point and St. Paul rails, Atlas-Portland Cement and Evans Auto Loading eased. American Rolling Mills was heavy, and Deere & Co. weakened in light trading. Bohn Aluminum was quite active and fractionally stronger, with Doehler Die Casting, Consolidated Dairy Products, Standard Commercial Tobacco and General Baking gained moderately. Sparks Withering eased. Safeway Stores closed at a year's high.

CURB ADMITS SECURITIES.

Seven Get Unlisted Privileges—One on Temporary Listing.

The New York Curb Exchange has admitted the no-par common stock of Russ Clark, Inc., to temporary listing on a when-issued basis. The following stocks have been admitted to unlisted trading privileges:

Rochester Gas and Electric general mortgage 4½ per cent. gold bonds, Series D, due 1977, w. i.; A. M. Castle & Co., $10 par capital stock; Lunkenheimer Company no-par common stock; Dairy Dale Company Class A and Class B no-par common stocks; Western Massachusetts Company no-par common stock, and Lehigh Portland Cement Company $50 par common stock.

COURTAULDS AGAIN HIGHER.

Stock Rises ½ Point on Curb for Day—Close Lower Than Opening.

The calm which greeted the shares of Courtaulds, Ltd., on the New York Curb Exchange here yesterday was a surprise to many who had looked forward to a spectacular repetition of the sky-rocketing which occurred on Wednesday in Capel Court, London.

The explanation lies in the fact that the Curb traders had already learned of the $60,000,000 bonus on Tuesday, before the Londoners had an opportunity to demonstrate in the open market the enhanced value of the shares. It is pointed out that when it is 5 P. M. in London, some hours after trading has ended for the day, it is only noon here, so that if the news had come out in London well after the close it was still time enough to have an effect on the market here, with some hours of trading to go.

On Tuesday the stock opened at 28½ here, against 36¾ on Monday's close, and soon passed the previous 1928 high of 30¾, closing at 42, up 6¾ points, at the highest price that had ever been quoted here. Transactions totaled 3,500 shares.

Yesterday the stock opened at 43¼, rose to 43¾, a high for all time, and subsequently reacted to as low as 41¾. The closing price was 42½, up ½ point on the day. Trading amounted to only 2,700 shares.

EXCHANGE OF SHARES URGED

Frederic H. Frazier, Chairman of the board of the General Baking Corporation, said that beginning today only the preferred and common stocks of the company would be traded in on the New York Curb Exchange, and that the Class A and B stocks would be removed from the list.

The new stocks have been traded in together with the old since last Friday, and all old shares now remaining should be exchanged promptly, it was said, for the new stock on the basis of one share of preferred and one-half share of new common stock for each share of old Class A stock and one share of new common stock for each share of old Class B stock.

Approves S. P. Refinancing Plan.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—A refinancing project of the Southern Pacific Railroad under which $39,400,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds will be issued and sold, was approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The road will use the proceeds to retire a like amount of 5 per cent. bonds which it has outstanding.

COMMUNITY TRUST EXPANDS

Mount Vernon Now Included in Operations—Trustee Is Named.

Operations of the New York Community Trust have been extended to Mount Vernon, N. Y., through the appointment of the Mount Vernon Trust Company as a trustee. Seventeen other banks and trust companies in Manhattan, Brooklyn, White Plains and Larchmont are associated in the trust. These institutions act as trustees for the Westchester Welfare Foundation.

County Judge Otis yesterday appointed Mrs. Daniel O'Day of Rye a member of the Westchester Committee. Eugene Meyer, Managing Director of the War Finance Corporation, was reappointed a member by George Warner, Westchester Commissioner of Public Welfare. Mark D. Stiles and Lawrence C. Wellington, respectively President and trust officer of the Mount Vernon Trust Company, have been made members of the Trustees' Committee of the Community Trust.

MERGENTHALER TO PAY EXTRA WITH QUARTERLY

Certo Corporation and Olney Bank and Trust Also Vote Extra Disbursements.

Extra dividends were declared yesterday by three companies, with another increasing its rate and two other companies announcing sharp declines in their disbursements.

Mergenthaler Linotype Company declared an extra of 25 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly of $1.25, both payable March 31.

The Certo Corporation announced an extra of 25 cents a share, in addition to the regular quarterly of 75 cents, both payable March 31.

The Olney Bank and Trust Company voted an extra of $1.50 a share and a semiannual dividend of $2, both payable March 20.

The Pacific Finance Corporation has authorized an increase in its annual rate from 8 to 10 per cent., effective April 1. In the final quarter of 1927 the company paid a regular dividend of 2% per cent. and a special of 1 per cent.

The Kelly Silver Mines, Ltd., declared a semiannual dividend of 4 per cent., payable March 15. Six months ago a semiannual dividend of 3 per cent. was declared.

The Gold Seal Electric Company announced a quarterly of 15 cents a share, payable March 15. Three months ago a quarterly of 40 cents was paid, which was the first disbursement since March 15, 1927, when 15 cents a share was paid.

SOVIET GOLD GOES DIRECTLY TO BANKS

BAN IS STILL IN EFFECT

$7,000,000 Arrives in France—Exports in Past Week $4,615,000. Imports $218,000.

The $5,000,000 in gold which arrived here on Tuesday from the Soviet Bank of Moscow has been transferred directly from the steamship which brought it to the vaults of the Chase National Bank and the Equitable Trust Company, the banks to which it was consigned, it was learned yesterday. This marked a departure from the usual procedure by which gold arriving from other countries is almost invariably sent first to the United States Assay Office in Wall Street.

The procedure showed that the Government ban on the receipt of Russian gold at American assay offices, which was adopted seven years ago is still in effect. It was said yesterday that the gold had not been received at the assay office and could not be under the present Treasury regulations.

In some cases in the past gold arriving here from other countries has gone directly to the Federal Reserve Bank, but this procedure also was avoided with the Russian gold. Half of the $5,000,000 shipment was sent to the Chase National and half to the Equitable Trust and will be held by them subject to Russian orders. No detailed explanation has been given, other than that the gold will be used in expanding trade between the United States and Russia.

Attention also was drawn to the international gold situation yesterday by the arrival of about $7,000,000 of gold in France, presumably part of a stock that had been ear-marked abroad for account. It was believed at first that the gold had been sent from the United States, but it was learned that it went from another source. A shipment of $10,000,000 of gold was sent from New York to France last December, and it is believed that further shipments will be made in preparation for the stabilization of rFench currency this year.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday that exports of gold here in the week ended Wednesday were $4,615,000, of which $3,000,000 went to Uruguay and $1,500,000 to Argentina. Imports of gold for the week were $218,000, which came chiefly from Latin America. In addition, $4,700,000 was received from Canada, which was not listed as an import here.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

British Trading Is Active, With High-Priced Industrials in Demand.

COURTAULD PROFITS TAKEN

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The stock market today was fairly active and the tone cheerful. Gilt-edged securities continued firm, without showing much movement. There was a resumption of the demand for foreign Government bonds, Argentinian and Brazilian issues being favored.

The Courtaulds bonus appears to have stimulated the demand for other high-priced industrial issues, and extensive dealings took place in a number of shares. There was a very large turnover in Courtaulds as a result of further profit taking. For the greater part of the day the price was comparatively steady at about £8 11s 16d, but toward the close it eased to £8 5s 6d.

The oil market reacted to a slight extent. Mexican Eagle showed a wide fluctuation. Following the opening of the New York market the shares dropped from 20s 6d to 19s 9d, but rallied later to 19s 6d.

Several mining shares were affected by Continental selling, including De Beers, which lost 3-16 of a point.

The feature of foreign exchanges was the further advance of sterling on the dollar. Reopening after the holiday, New York banks again bid for sterling and the rate rose to $4.86 1-32, closing at $4.86 1-32.

Marked Decline Hits Paris.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Selling started with the opening of the Bourse today, and throughout the session the movement was accentuated up to closing time, when most stocks were quoted at their lowest figures. The slump was variously attributed to the new policy regarding gold purchases and to the selling of French stocks in other markets, particularly at Brussels.

The recessions were not drastic, and at no time was there anything resembling a panic, but instead a steady, slow decline.

Rentes, in contrast to other securities, were actively exchanged and some made gains. The 3 per cents, closed at 67.60; 4s of 1917, 74.95; 4s of 1918, 74.10; 5s of 1920, amortissable, 102.20; 5s of 1915, 86.35; 6s, 97.15.

Closing Is Dull at Berlin.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The Stock Exchange opened slightly firmer today despite the continued lack of buying orders. Optimism was perceptible in the first hour, due to the decision of the Central German metal workers to return to the plants tomorrow and the expectation that the conflict between the Berlin tool makers and their employers will likewise be settled. The report that the New York money market was easy also exerted a favorable influence.

A feature of the day was a bull movement in certain specialties. Cloaked textiles gained 10 to 15 points within a short time. Shipping stocks also were considerably advanced on account of large purchases by a local bank, allegedly for American clients.

In the afternoon the publication of the report of the general meeting of the Siemens Halske Company caused a new depression. The market closed dull at the lowest quotations. Foreign stocks were weak and generally lower.

Call money was plentiful at 4½ to 6½ per cent.

Lockout to Hit Swedish Paper Mills.

STOCKHOLM, Feb 23 (AP).—The Swedish Employers' Association has decided to extend its lockout in the pulp industry to the paper mills beginning March 5. The decision was reached after an attempt at mediation in the pulp industry failed. The number of men affected in the paper mills is 133,000. Those involved in the present dispute in the pulp industry number 57,000.

Brazilian Traction's Earnings Rise.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—The net earnings of the Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company for the month of January were $1,922,870, as compared with $1,674,929 in January, 1927.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sterling Higher—Big Amounts Involved in Buying—Europeans Move Forward in Sympathy.

An active market for sterling with new highs for the current movement for both check and cable transfers, featured the foreign exchanges yesterday. The market was particularly active in the first few hours, up to about 11 o'clock, when $4.87 11-16 and $4.88 1-16, for sight and cables, were made. Large size amounts were involved in the turn-over, lots of one and two hundred thousand pound sterling being reported. Interest slackened in the afternoon and the rate sagged slightly from the top.

Other Europeans were also buoyantly higher, the French franc moving up ⅝ to 2.93⅝ cents, with gains in the Scandinavians ranging from 1¼ to 2½ points. Swiss francs rose 2 points to 19.25⅝ cents. German, Holland, Belgian and Italian were firm. Spanish pesetas were lower. Chinese exchanges were strong, but the Japanese yen sagged. South Americans were firm, but quiet.

BANK OF ENGLAND'S RESERVE RATIO 39¾%

Now Nearly Back to Pre-War Percentage—Bank Lost Gold Last Week.

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP).—The statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes for the week ended Feb. 22:

Gold coin and bullion	decreased £79,000
Reserve in banking dept.	decreased 135,000
Note circulation	decreased 214,000
Notes in reserve	decreased 113,000
Government securities	decreased 4,300,000
Other securities	increased 222,000
Loans on other securities	decreased 6,902,000
Public deposits	increased 2,063,000
Other deposits

The proportion of the Bank's reserve to liability is 39.79 per cent.

Last week the ratio of reserve was 38.09 per cent.; two weeks ago, 37.32 per cent. This week's percentage is the highest for the year to date, and is also the highest since the 40 per cent. of July 29, 1914. The highest in 1927 was 34.22 per cent., which was also the highest since Dec. 23, 1914; the lowest was 20.55, on Jan. 5.

The statement, compared with the corresponding weeks one and two years ago, is as follows:

	1928.	1927.	1926.

Ratio of reserve	39.79	28.62	18.97

The £164,500,162 gold holdings in the Bank of England on Aug. 5, 1925, were the largest in the history of the institution. It held £155,742,064 when gold payments were resumed at the end of April, 1925. Last week's gold holdings, £157,996,000, were the highest of the year to date and were also the highest since Sept. 27, 1922. The highest in 1927 were £155,416,610, on May 8; the lowest, £147,579,200, on Feb. 16.

The Bank's official discount rate remains unchanged at 4½ per cent., to which it was reduced on April 20, 1927.

BANK FOR COLUMBUS CIRCLE

The Controller of Currency in Washington has received an application for permission to organize the Hudson National Bank of New York, with a capital of $250,000 from George D. Hauser, correspondent. Mr. Hauser is expected to become President of the institution, which will be in the Columbus Circle district. E. H. Proudman is to be Chairman of the Board. Mr. Hauser was Vice President of the Gotham National Bank. Mr. Proudman is President of the West Side Taxpayers' Association.

It is expected that the stock will be sold at $140 a share, giving a surplus of $100,000 at the start of operations. Among the directors selected are Firmin Hull, John Millen, Simon Lubarsky, Alexander Forstein, Abraham Goldberg, Alvin M. Powell and Abe Finkelstein.

RESERVE BANK POSITION.

Range of Important Items in 1928, Compared With Preceding Years.

Yesterday's statement of the twelve Reserve Banks showed that total gold holdings for the system, and the ratio of reserve at the New York Reserve Bank, were at the highest figures for the year to date. No other important item in the system reached a new high or low point. The following table shows the highest and lowest points reached thus far in 1928, and in a series of years past, by the important items in the Reserve Bank statements:

Decrease in Bill and Security Holdings Shown in Weekly Report of Federal Board

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on February 21, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, shows decreases of $20,000,000 in holdings of discounted bills, $1,600,000 in acceptances bought in open market, $6,900,000 in holdings of United States securities and $24,100,000 in member bank reserve deposits, and increases of $5,700,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation and $3,500,000 in cash reserves. Total bills and securities were $28,500,000 less than the amount held on Feb. 15.

A decline of $86,000,000 in discount holdings at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and smaller declines at the Philadelphia and Kansas City banks were partly offset by increases, principally at the Chicago, Boston, Cleveland, St. Louis and San Francisco banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market decreased $1,600,000, of United States bonds $2,000,000, and of Treasury notes $6,000,000, while holdings of certificates of indebtedness were $1,100,000 above the previous week's total.

Federal Reserve note circulation was $5,700,000 more than a week ago, the principal changes being an increase of $5,168,000 at Chicago and $3,100,000 at New York and a decline of $2,160,000 at San Francisco.

WHEAT PRICES SAG AFTER EARLY BULGE

TRADERS TAKE PROFITS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Wheat opened ⅞ to 1¼ cents higher on fairly general buying, induced by the persistent strength in foreign markets, press and private cables telling of the development of a food scarcity in parts of Central Europe, as well as Russia, and of cold weather over the belt which caught part of the new Winter wheat crop without snow protection. The bulge put the old crop months to a new high on the present movement and the July at a new high on the crop. A sharp bulge of late induced many recent buyers to take profits and the close was at about the bottom, with net losses of ⅛ to ⅝ cent. The late break in corn had considerable influence on the pit element, who generally were long at the time.

Liverpool closed ¼d. higher as compared with Tuesday and Buenos Ayres was 1¼ to 1⅝ cents higher as compared with last Saturday, both markets failing to hold the best prices of the day. There was some buying of wheat and selling of corn by spreaders.

Primary arrivals today were 1,376,000 bushels; week ago, 773,000 bushels; last year, 379,000 bushels. Shipments, 692,000 bushels; week ago, 621,000 bushels; last year, 447,000.

Many of the leading local professionals who have been aggressive buyers of corn recently were heavy sellers of futures today to secure profits, and while commission houses were persistent buyers the close was at the bottom, with net losses of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents, with May leading. The bulk of the selling was in that delivery. The market acted somewhat overbought toward the last, but the decline was orderly.

Basis on spot here was ½ cent higher to 1 cent lower, with Kansas City unchanged to ½ cent higher. No export demand was reported. Buenos Ayres closed ⅝ cent higher as compared with Saturday.

Primary arrivals today, 2,111,000 bushels; week ago, 669,000 bushels; last year, 1,343,000 bushels; shipments, 1,120,000 bushels; week ago, 709,000 bushels; last year, 482,000 bushels.

Oats finished ⅜ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, with longs rather persistent sellers, while commission houses were on the buying side. The seaboard and foreigners bought rye early and all deliveries sold at a new high on the crop, reacting toward the last with wheat and closed ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Export sales in all positions were finally estimated at 200,000 bushels.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

WEATHER ONLY FAIR FOR GROWING CROPS

Reports of the Killing of Wheat Come From States in Ohio Valley.

The weekly weather report released at Washington yesterday by the United States Department of Agriculture was, in part, as follows:

"A rather extensive snowstorm the latter part of the week gave wheat fields a fair covering and protection in the Northeastern Ohio Valley area, parts of the Middle Atlantic States and the Lake region, but in other portions of the wheat belt fields continued mostly bare.

"Numerous unfavorable reports continue as to weather killing of wheat in Ohio Valley States, where but little protection by snow has been afforded during the Winter and rather frequent alternate thawing and freezing has occurred.

"In the trans-Mississippi States little or no change is indicated in Missouri, but in most other States, including Iowa and those from Nebraska southward, recent rain has been very beneficial for wheat, although additional moisture would be helpful in some sections.

"The crop shows distinct improvement in Kansas, Western Oklahoma and in Texas, though in the latter State growth was slow, because of cold weather. In the Pacific Northwest snow cover has practically disappeared from grain fields, but no damage is apparent as yet."

May Reveal Yarn Mill Mergers.

Flint & Co may announce soon the names of Southern yarn mills it plans to merge. Robert & Co. are appraising properties with about 1,700,000 spindles for Flint & Co. More than 100 mills have been thus appraised.

COTTON IS STEADY IN NARROW RANGE

Firmness at Liverpool Causes an Improvement of 10 Points or More in Early Trading.

The volume of liquidation in the March position prior to notices today reflected the heavy long interest which has existed in that month and the steady selling yesterday held the cotton market within a narrow range of fluctuations. Continued firmness in Liverpool caused an early improvement of 10 points or more when March operations and private reports of rains in West Texas brought out contracts and left final quotations 1 point lower to 5 points higher on the day.

Exports were only about 10,000 bales for the two days and for five days aggregated 91,000 bales, compared with 143,000 for the full six days of the corresponding week two years ago. Port receipts decreased to smallest figures of the season, only 63,000 bales this week so far, against 99,000 for the five days last week. Spot sales at Southern markets aggregated 17,000 bales, at an advance of 15 to a decline of 15 points, all three Atlantic points quoting middling 10 to 40 points above the March position in New York.

According to the Bureau of Economics, the per capita consumption of cotton cloths in this country has increased from 57 square yards in 1909 to 64 square yards in 1925. Despite the obvious decrease in the quantity going into women's clothing the consumption in automobiles, wall covering, rayon and other substitutes has more than offset the changing styles.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
March	18.13	18.16	17.98	18.01-02	18.02-.03

EXAMINES GRAIN RATES.

Commerce Commission Opens Hearing on Export Trade.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission began today an investigation of the export grain transportation rates to determine if farm relief can be afforded by a readjustment of those tariffs. The export hearing follows the completion of an investigation of domestic traffic rates, both being authorized by Congress.

While Pacific as well as Atlantic and Gulf interests may present their cases here, the Commission later will hold a hearing at Seattle for the Western carriers, ports and shippers.

Three cities, Chicago, Buffalo and Boston, advised the commission that they will urge a reduction of export rates below those on domestic grain movement.

Two witnesses gave testimony today. Huber J. Horan, President of the Commercial Exchange, Philadelphia, requested that his city's rate be substantially reduced below that of New York. The difference now, based on movements via Buffalo, is ½ cent per 100 pounds, in favor of the Pennsylvania city. This should be more than 2 cents, Mr. Horan contended.

The Philadelphia witness complained that reductions in Canadian rates had diverted foreign-bound grain from ports of the United States to those of the Dominion.

Arthur Mackley, Commission Examiner, sought to show that lower rates in Canada were made possible because railroads affected were Government owned.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Hogs were steady to 10 cents lower early, but the market firmed up later and the close was in line with the finish of the previous day. Top was 5 cents lower at $8.15, while the general average was 5 cents higher at $7.90. Bulk of the 170 to 210 pound averages sold at $7.90 to $8.10 with 220 to 250 pound kinds $7.75 to $8, and 260 to 320 pound butchers $7.50 to $7.80. Packing sows sold at $6.75 to $7. Packers bought 42,000 and shippers 16,000, with 13,000 left over. Receipts, 62,000, with 47,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Good quality fed steers were strong to 25 cents higher, with the general run selling at former prices. There is a heavy accumulation of dressed beef in local coolers. Best heavy steers sold at $16, with bulk of sales at $11.50 to $14. Receipts, 9,000. Fat lambs, strong to 25 cents higher, closing at the top. Top was $16.25, with 91-pound averages and under selling largely at $15.50 to $16 and 93 to 98-pound kinds at $15.25 to $15.85. Sheep, strong to 15 cents higher, at $9 to $9.40. Receipts, 10,000.

PAPER MAN OPPOSES TAXES ON FORESTS

1928 PROSPERITY FORECAST

Pearson of Auto Chamber Says Record Car Production Will Aid Business Generally.

The present generation cannot be expected to go into the business of growing trees to replace denuded forests, in the opinion of F. J. Sensenbrenner, President of the Kimberly-Clark Company, paper manufacturers of Neenah, Wis., "if they must pay additional taxes annually for the privilege."

In a paper sent to the American Paper and Pulp Association, read yesterday at the concluding session of its annual convention at the Waldorf by T. W. Boyce of the United States Forest Service, Secretary of the association, Mr. Sensenbrenner said the two big drawbacks to commercial forestry were fire and taxes.

Discussing the problem of inducing citizens to undertake the growing of trees as a business, Mr. Sensenbrenner said there must be a reasonable opportunity for profit, otherwise it would not be a business. Let the "business of growing trees," he advised, "pay its just proportion of taxes, but let those taxes be paid out of the business not from year to year as the 'business' is growing, but out of the 'business' when it is materialized."

Since the people of every State are the ultimate consumers of forest products, he asserted, the nation as a whole should be interested in the conservation of forests.

With reference to the fire hazard, Mr. Sensenbrenner emphasized the need for education along the lines of prevention. Education, he said, would do more than the most drastic laws to put out a fire at its inception.

O. F. Pearson, statistician of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, another speaker at the meeting, compared the automobile and telephone industries, pointing out that 16,500,000 telephones and more than 20,000,000 passenger automobiles were in use in the country. He predicted that 1928 would equal the year of record production, 1926, in the automobile industry. He said the increased activity would stimulate business generally, and that the paper industry would come in for its share of prosperity.

George W. Sisson Jr of the Racquette River Paper Company, Potsdam, N. Y., suggested that public forest areas be turned over to industry for proper use, declaring that such handling would result in utilization of spare timber and at the same time improve the condition of the forest preserves.

Speaking at a dinner of the association in the Waldorf last night, Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin outlined the history of the progress of administrative law and business.

"The first of the extra-constitutional governmental agencies, the Interstate Commerce Commission," Judge Rosenberry said, "created by an act of Congress, developed within thirty years into one of the most powerful agencies of government, directly controlling and influencing operations of carriers and shippers vastly greater in extent than the operations of the government itself.

"The boards, bureaus and commissions that have followed have been charged with executive responsibilities comparable to those of a cabinet ministry, and because this body of administrative law has burst the bonds of constitutional restraint, its future development is largely unpredictable."

Frasers' Earnings Increased.

The Fraser Companies, Ltd., and Fraser Paper, Ltd., report for 1927 earnings of $1,672,954 after all charges and taxes, against $1,561,825 in 1926. The surplus after depreciation, depletion, interest and common and preferred dividends amounted to $1,582,165, an increase of $231,194 over 1926.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Opening from 1 to 3 points higher, the raw sugar futures market on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange made further gains yesterday. During the holiday the foreign markets were steady and no hedging was evident. The Cuban Export Corporation has sold 216,000 tons of Cuban raw sugar, April-May shipment, at 2.33 cents, f. o. b., and 7,000 tons, June, shipment, at 2.41 cents, f. o. b. Operators bought 15,000 bags of Cubas, prompt shipment, at 2½ cents a pound, c. & f. Business in the refined market has improved slightly. Sales totaled 106,800 tons. The market closed from 4 to 6 points higher.

Coffee.

Better cables and a firmer tone in the spot market caused raw coffee futures to advance higher yesterday. Old contracts opened from 5 to 10 points higher, while new contracts were 17 to 21 points higher. Although trading was quiet, a better local demand was evident. Business in the spot market was slightly better, with Rio 7s quoted at 16 to 16¼ cents, while Santos 4s ranged from 23¼ to 22¾ cents. Sales totaled 87,000 bags. Old contracts closed from 20 to 28 points higher, while the new contracts closed from 5 to 25 points higher.

Cocoa.

Trading in cocoa futures on the New York Cocoa Exchange was more active yesterday with a turnover of 306 lots. The opening prices were practically unchanged, but under aggressive short covering and strong trade buying all trades thereafter were put through at advanced prices. Many of the trades were switches. Toward the close, profit-taking sales appeared, causing a few-point recessions. Cables were higher. The spot market was quoted at 13¾ cents. The market closed from 13 to 22 points higher.

COMMODITY PRICES

Cash markets displayed a soft tone yesterday, the grains especially pointing lower after the buoyancy of recent days which carried them to new highs. Lard, tin and eggs were lower, the last named touching a new bottom. Rubber regained ten points. Metals, groceries and other provisions were firm.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

Predicts Greater Nitrate Production.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 23 (AP).—Chilean nitrate companies are producing about 243,000 tons monthly, an estimate made public by the Minister of Finance says. On returning from an inspection of the nitrate producing zone he predicted that soon the production would rise to 400,000 tons monthly.

Lower London Cables Cause Drop at Start, but Dutch Reports Aid the Upturn.

Trading in crude rubber futures was highly irregular yesterday, preliminary trading being done at a sharp decline on lower London cables, followed by an upturn which revolved around a report that the Dutch producers were in favor of forming an alliance with the London rubber growers to effect a selling organization to check the activities of the American rubber "pool." At the close six active positions showed avances of from 20 to 70 points over Tuesday's finals, a recovery from initial losses of 40 to 90 points.

In the first hour some heavy selling, which reflected weak foreign markets over our holiday on Tuesday, caused a sharp break all around, with losses reaching up to 90 and 110 points. The trend was reversed on the receipt here of the proposed action by the Dutch producers, and increased buying by nervous shorts as well as from speculators who had previously hammered the list caused a rebound of as much as 130 points from the lows. Thereafter the tone steadied, with most deliveries finishing at the highs of the day. May and September were the active months, while July and March also were turned over in good volume. Sales amounted to 2,180 lots, with twenty transfer notices issued.

London opened steady after Tuesday's weakness, worked lower in early hours, but rallied ¼d to ⅝d. Spot was ⅛d lower and February ⅝d down. The distant months closed ⅛d to ¼d lower. Singapore was quiet and unchanged.

DOMESTIC TRADE.

Textiles.

Fall Clothing Fabrics Advanced.

Prices advanced, ranging mostly from 5 to 10 cents a yard over the spring levels featured the opening yesterday of men's wear Fall fancy worsteds and cheviots by the American Woolen Company. The new set prices of leading numbers in Department 2, with those for Spring in parentheses, are this way: B 9007, $3.15 ($3.00); B 9008, $3.30 ($3.15); DD 9089, $2.32 ($2.22); B 9100, $2.40 ($2.43); B 9105, $2.76 ($2.67), and C 9781, $2.82 ($2.65). In men's wear Department 7 had these prices: B 9672, $2.60 ($2.52), and B 9600, $2.45 ($2.39). The lowest price all-worsted fabric in the line is priced at $1.90, net. The cheapest all-wool cloth is quoted at 80 cents, net.

Toy Buying Somewhat Spotty.

The trend of buying at the Toy Fair here has been quite spotty, according to several exhibitors. While many firms have booked business equal to or ahead of last year the tendency of buyers quite generally has been to delay the placing of definite orders. The number of "outs" taken on the various exhibits is large. Buyers express their intention of writing until they get home before placing their orders. Buyers are placing stress on the novelty or newness element. This has developed some copying and underpricing of items which are taking well and complaint is raised by the manufacturers affected.

Extreme Fashion Are Avoided.

A marked reaction away from extreme effects in patterns and colors is noted in practically all men's wear lines for the Fall. Tones of the blue are playing up most effects, notably modified herringbone and chevron designs. In colors stress is placed on the darker tones of blue, gray and brown. In the blues and grays those of a greenish cast are being featured to a considerable extent. Oxfords are held likely to continue their popularity. In overcoatings the trend is still very uncertain. Blues by virtue of their popularity during the past season are well regarded.

Open Stock Chinawares Favored.

Buyers of chinawares are still coming into the market here. Business since the opening of the new lines last month has been about equal to that of last year for the same period, according to estimates made yesterday. One feature of the orders, it was added, has been the greater demand for open stock patterns, reflecting the tendency of consumers to buy small piece lots and then add to them as time goes on. The new color effects, particularly the combination of ivory with white, have taken well.

Skirts to Remain Short.

Although there has been a great deal of discussion about new skirt lengths, many buyers and manufacturers maintain that the short skirt in some form will remain. They believe, however, that a longer skirt will be accepted only in combination with overskirts, draperies, tiers and uneven hemlines. In the regular daytime and sports costumes, the knees will be covered. One manufacturer shows certain models with skirts in two different lengths. The slightly longer one is designed to convey an impression of slenderness and length to the woman with a heavy figure.

Snow Will Help Shoe Sales.

The snow and slush of late last week are expected soon to be transformed into orders for shoes. Local wholesalers of footwear here said yesterday that while the storm had not resulted in much duplicating of protective goods, it had released quite a little "frozen capital." As yet little of it has found its way into the Duane Street district, but indications are that it will play no small part in increasing payments early in March on goods previously bought. Business in general footwear has slumped a little, although in a few instances a slight gain is reported. Present signs, however, point to a February volume under that of last year.

Sees Ensembles for Summer.

One of the leading manufacturers of women's high-grade garments expresses the belief that the ensemble will be the accepted costume throughout the Summer for both afternoon and evening wear. He is therefore making coats to match all gowns. New yokes and sleeve treatments are noted in the new models. So far, only dark colors are featured in the afternoon coats, while those for evening range from ivory to tropical reds. Materials are varied, velvet leading all others for day wear, and metallic chiffons being foremost for evening. The velvet coats are lined with the dress fabric of chiffon or silk crêpe.

Burlap Prices Quite Steady.

Burlap prices have been quite steady in the local market during the past week. Spot quotations are 5 to 10 points lower than a week ago, but all other positions are unchanged. The Calcutta market both advanced and declined during the week, with no net change. Yesterday it was 10 points higher than on Tuesday. Limited trading in the local market was done at unchanged prices. These were the prices quoted here yesterday by C. H. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., on standard 40-inch goods:

Spot	7.90c	9.75c
February shipment	7.80c	9.65c
March shipment	7.80c	9.65c
April-June shipment	7.75c	9.60c

Prices Not Holding Orders Back.

Contrary to views generally held, the opinion was advanced here yesterday that price uncertainties regarding heavyweight knitted underwear are not wholly responsible for the present dearth of business. The contention is that jobbing buyers are not yet ready to lay down similar orders and that they are using the present period as a time to clean up stocks in part on the fact that in many cases all productions are retroactive to the opening of the season, which protects jobbers from loss. The fact that lightweights, which were opened several months ago, have only recently begun to be taken as further proof of the jobbers' unwillingness to operate far in advance of their selling season.

Gray Goods Undertone Better.

The undertone of the local gray goods market was considerably stronger yesterday, with trading fairly large in the aggregate. Printcloth sales on the day included the following: 39-inch 80-square 10¾ cents; 39-inch 68-72s, 8½ cents; 39-inch 64-60s, 7¾ cents, and 38½-inch 64-60s, 7¾ cents, for delivery next month; there was trading in 4/4 inch 48-square printcloths at 7¼ cents. Forty-inch 64-60s broadcloths brought 8¼ cents and there was trading in 39-inch 64-60s sateen gray goods at 7½ cents. Two 68-inch 5.50s buyers paid 8¾ cents. More inquiry was reported for broadcloths, with asking prices based on 11 cents for the 100-inch. Combed and carded handkerchief cloths were also in more active requests.

GAS LIFTS EXTEND LIFE OF OIL WELLS

Process Credited With Keeping the Seminole Output So Long at High Peak.

PETROLEUM ENGINEERS DINE

Other Members of Institute Tour Holland Tunnel and Perth Amboy Refinery.

The use of the gas lift, which consists of sending a tubing down through an oil well and injecting gas at high pressure as a means of extracting additional oil after the flow has stopped, was discussed yesterday at the meeting of the Petroleum Division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

It was said that by the use of this method the life of a well was frequently extended for as much as three months, and that it was due to the gas lift method that such flows as the Seminole were maintained at a high peak, which was the sensation of last year's oil production.

In the evening the Petroleum Division held its dinner. Joseph E. Pogue of New York was the principal speaker.

"The past year in the petroleum industry," Mr. Pogue said, "was one of overproduction, rising inventories, low prices and meagre to vanishing profits. This outcome was the result of a long period of intensive and uncompensated effort on the part of both financial and industrial interests to stimulate supply on the theory that the primary problem facing the petroleum industry was the development of an adequate reserve of raw material to protect a large and ever-growing investment."

The Division of Coal and Coal Products and the Institute of Metals also held meetings yesterday. While in session the other members of the institute made a trip through the Holland Vehicular Tunnel and a visit to the Perth Amboy smelter and refinery of the American Smelting and Refining Company. The trip through the Holland Tunnel included an hour's visit to the administration building to inspect its ventilating system.

At the refinery the engineers inspected the lead plant, including the Harris process installation, the copper refinery and other important units.

At 8 P.M. there was a general meeting to review the work accomplished at the present sessions.

Attendance records, according to officials of the institute, were broken at this year's sessions. Last year 1,500 attended, while this year's total exceeded 2,000, with practically every State and every province in Canada represented. There also were delegates from Peking, China; Stockholm, Sweden; Tezuiplas, Mexico; Maria Elena, Chile; Johannesburg, South Africa; London, England; Stability, Honduras, and other countries.

The sessions closed tonight.

HUDSON BAY MINING RIGHTS

Holders of Newmont Stock May Buy Into Affiliated Company.

The directors of the Newmont Mining Corporation yesterday authorized the offering to stockholders of record of March 31 the right to subscribe to one share of Hudson Bay Mining stock for each two shares of Newmont stock held at a price of $15 a share.

Stocks of both mining companies have been active and generally strong on the New York Curb Exchange since the Hudson Bay Mining stock was admitted to trading on Feb. 6 in the amount of 2,500,000 no par shares. Yesterday Newmont Mining rose 7 points in the first hour, with Hudson Bay up ¼ point in the same period. At the close the stocks were 15¾, up 4¼ points, and 17¾, up 3 points, respectively.

The Hudson Bay Mining Company was incorporated this year in Canada to operate the Flin Flon mine, owned by the Whitney interests. Cornelius V. Whitney is a director of the company. The Newmont Mining Company acquired a 35 per cent. interest in the Flin Flon mine from Harry Payne Whitney at the end of 1927.

LEAD COMPANIES TO MERGE.

Evans and Golden Rod to Consolidate—E. Z. Wallower President.

Consolidation of the Evans Lead Company of Charleston, W. Va., and the Golden Rod Mining and Smelting Corporation of Joplin, Mo., into the Evans-Wallower Lead Company was announced yesterday. Edgar Z. Wallower of Joplin, President of Golden Rod, will head the new company. Ray M. Evans of Charleston will be First Vice President, and Louis M. Atha of Charleston will be Treasurer. Marshall Field and Thomas P. Durell of Field, Glore & Co. of New York, directors of Evans Lead, will be directors of the new company, with John Gates Williams, Vice President of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company, and Charles W. Moore of Smith, Moore & Co. of St. Louis.

The capital structure of the new company will consist of $1,250,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock authorized and outstanding and 500,000 shares of no par value common stock authorized, of which 450,000 shares will be outstanding.

NORTH BUTTE MINING PLAN.

Proposed Stock Issue Would Pay Debts and Rehabilitate Property.

The Stockholders' Protective Committee of the North Butte Mining Company has prepared a new plan for the payment of debts and bonds and the rehabilitation of the property, consisting in the issuance of 1,500,000 new shares of common stock, exchangeable share for share for the old common stock, the offering of 800,000 new no-par shares to stockholders at not less than $2.50 a share as a pro rata basis, and the payment of all debts of approximately $825,000 now outstanding, including bonds and debts to which the company is obligated.

The company has outstanding 631,631 shares of stock and 268,249 shares in the treasury. The treasury stock cannot be sold for less than $10 a share.

This will give the company about $1,200,000 in cash, of which the balance of about $500,000 after debts would be used for development of properties. The annual meeting will be held on April 16.

Duke-Price Power Revenue Rises.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—The financial report of the Duke-Price Power Company for the year ended Dec. 31 shows operating revenue at $5,123,-986, as compared with $1,813,624 in 1926.

DISCUSS RELATION OF PAY TO OUTPUT

Speakers at Statisticians' Dinner Debate Effect of Wage Rises on Productivity.

Wages and the effect on productivity were discussed last night at the dinner meeting of the American Statistical Association in the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue.

George Soule of The New Republic said that "it is to be doubted whether American industry has seriously set itself to the task of increasing real wages as fast as productivity increases, and it is to be doubted whether, if it had done so, it could achieve its object without marked improvements in the existing industrial order, which would require many years of study and experiment to effectuate."

According to Sumner H. Slichter of Cornell University, real hourly earnings in America have increased about 35 per cent since 1914. About two-thirds of the increase came between 1914 and 1920, since which time the increase has been about 12 per cent. in the face of diminishing need for factory labor and rapidly declining trade union membership. One reason for that increase, he said, was the adjustment in wages to the rise of 3 per cent. in the cost of living. Other reasons were the building boom, savings in cost of materials and a 37 per cent. increase in the physical productivity of the worker since 1919, which was due to a rapid expansion in the use of mechanical power, mass production and the employment of more capital.

Leo Wollman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, in an open discussion held after the addresses, denied that wages had increased in proportion to productivity. Other speakers were Roland P. Falkner, chief statistician of the National Industrial Conference Board, and Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago. About 200 members were present. Dr. Edmund E. Day, Dean of the School of Business Administration, University of Michigan, presided.

FUR MANUFACTURERS PROPOSE REFORMS

Unanimously Adopt Resolution Calling for Cooperation in Sales Methods.

Efforts to eliminate several outstanding evils of the fur trade were made last night at a special meeting of the members of the Associated Fur Manufacturers, Inc. A resolution was unanimously adopted to sign a contractual agreement of all the members to cooperate on matters of "business on memorandum," "returned merchandise" and "varied and diversified terms of sale." Of the 250 members represented at the meeting, it was announced that about 150 had signed the agreement. There are about 475 members firms in the association. About 750 persons attended. Samuel N. Samuels, President of the association, presided.

After hearing the terms of the agreement read by Mr. Samuels a detailed analysis of the document was presented by Aaron Sapiro, a member of the committee which formulated the contract. Mr. Sapiro said that it was an effort to help the whole industry by removing the defects in distribution which existed between manufacturer and consumer.

Several objections to the terms of sale were presented by members who said the plan affected those engaged in the manufacture of fur trimmings. Some representatives of the jobbing trade also objected.

NAMED TEXTILE AIDE HERE.

W. C. Flake Is Picked by Commerce Department for Export Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Wilson C. Flake of Pelkton, N. C., who for several years has been connected with the textile division of the Department of Commerce, has been appointed special representative of that division in New York.

Mr. Flake has been giving special attention to knit goods, cotton yarns and cotton piece goods. His principal duties in New York will be to take care of the growing number of inquiries for samples, prices and other information about American textiles coming from prospective foreign purchasers by way of the export trade promotion offices of the department abroad.

The Commerce Department has been giving special attention to increasing the sale of American textiles in the most likely markets of Europe and the Far East.

During 1927 experienced cotton piece goods from the United States not only increased in volume as compared with 1926 but also in value. Sales of these goods amounted to 561,657,436 square yards, valued at $76,508,766, in 1927, as compared with 513,296,791 square yards, valued at $74,558,981, during the preceding year.

MOTION PICTURE CAPITAL.

The report of the Motion Picture Capital Corporation for 1927 shows a net income of $97,390, after interest, Federal taxes and provisions for losses, equal after preferred dividends to 28 cents a share earned on 175,464 no-par common shares, against $293,848, or $1.60 a share, earned in 1926.

"Rapidly changing conditions in the motion-picture industry have tended not only to decrease the volume of business available, but to reduce the prevailing rates of return on money and to increase the hazard of operations," President Frank R. Wilson reports.

Less Profit for Ahumada Lead.

Net profit of the Ahumada Lead Company in 1927 was $200,399 after depreciation and Federal taxes but before depletion. This was equal to 17 cents a share earned on 1,197,018 shares, against $1,068,723, or 98 cents a share, earned in 1926. Sales were $1,317,520, against $3,691,027.

GOTHAM HOSIERY SUES KAYSER & CO.

Seeks Injunction, Accounting and Termination of Agreement on Patented Machine.

POINTED HEEL IS INVOLVED

Defendant Called Capricious in Refusing to Let Others Manufacture the Stocking.

An equity suit for an injunction and an accounting was filed in the Federal Court yesterday by the Gotham Silk Hosiery Company, Inc., against Julius Kayser & Co. The controversy grew out of patents for making pointed heel silk hosiery obtained by Gustav A. Landerberger in April, 1915. These patents were assigned to the Emery-Beers Company, which transferred them to Gray Hosiery, Inc. Later the rights under the patents were acquired by the plaintiff. Under the first transfer the patentee, it is alleged, stipulated that the defendant should have equal rights under them.

The complaint says that the plaintiff granted to the defendant a "non-exclusive and non-transferable license" to make the pointed heel stockings and to use the patented machine in their manufacture. This agreement contained a provision binding the plaintiff not to grant any licenses to others without the consent of the defendant.

Between Jan. 17 and Nov. 30, 1927, the plaintiff, it is alleged, sought the consent of the defendant to grant licenses, but consent was refused. This refusal is described by the plaintiff as arbitrary and capricious. Later the agreement was modified by permitting the plaintiff to grant licenses to nine hosiery firms who were to pay royalties of not less than 50 cents for each pair of stockings. Only two firms obtained licenses because, according to the complaint, the defendant by its "conduct and acts" rendered it impossible to issue more notwithstanding that many good firms applied for them.

Besides asking for an injunction to restrain the defendant from continuing the practices complained of and for an accounting, the plaintiff seeks permission to terminate the license issued to the defendant.

PREDICTS BUSINESS RISE.

Rentchler of National City Bank Talks to Frigidaire Men.

Gordon Rentchler, Vice President of the National City Bank, told 1,300 salesmen of the Frigidaire Corporation at a dinner at the Hotel Astor last night that he was expecting greater business activity this year than in 1927.

"More buildings are being constructed than ever," Mr. Bentchler said. "Steel is selling better than last year, the automobile business is back on its feet and export activity is increasing."

The dinner concluded the first regional sales convention of the company in this city. E. G. Biechler, President and sales manager, announced that the salesmen pledged orders amounting to $75,000,000 last night and turned in 300,000 orders.

"Sales of the company for the first quarter should exceed $30,000,000," Mr. Biechler said. "This would be two and a half times the business in the corresponding period last year. More than 500,000 Frigidaire refrigerators have been produced by the company."

LATEST DEALINGS IN REAL ESTATE

NINTH AVENUE SALES A MARKET FEATURE

Henry S. Mansfield Purchases Five-Story Building on Fifty-third Street Corner.

736 IS SOLD TO INVESTOR

Noyes Company Announces Sale of West and Charles Street Corner —Columbia Adds to Housing.

Real estate trading in Manhattan was light yesterday, few transactions of importance being reported. Deals involving business and housing properties in widely scattered sections were announced, however, two of the changes being on Ninth Avenue.

Henry S. Mansfield purchased from the 400 West Fifty-third Street Holding Corporation, George La Tour, President, the five-story business building at 795 Ninth Avenue, southwest corner of Fifty-third Street. The structure contains stores and occupies a lot of 25 by 70 feet. It was held at $90,000 and was sold through J. C. Hough & Co., brokers.

In another Ninth Avenue deal Frederick Feldman sold to an investing client of Alfred P. Coburn, Inc., broker in the transaction, the three-story tenement house at 736. This building is on a lot of 23 by 80 feet.

Charles F. Noyes Company, Inc., sold for Katherine E. Larrabee of Troy, N. Y., and Walter A. Dailey to the Floyd Realty Corporation 409-4 West Street, at the south corner of Charles, a four-story building. The property will be altered, leased and held for investment. It is assessed at $45,000 and valued at $52,000.

The New University Court and Hague Court Apartments, occupying the blockfront on the west side of Morningside Drive between 117th and 118th Streets, have been purchased by the trustees of Columbia University from the John Pierce Foundation. The buildings are seven stories high and have a frontage of 201 feet on the Drive, 120 feet on 117th Street and 125 feet on 118th Street.

Columbia owns the entire block to the south, extending over to Amsterdam Avenue, which is improved with Faculty houses, Johnson Hall and laboratories. The trustees also hold title to several other parcels on 117th Street, adjacent to the apartments just acquired.

Irving Breff, builder, purchased from Jonas A. Hagemeyer the plot of 75 by 100 feet on the south side of 174th Street, 100 feet east of St. Nicholas Avenue, for an apartment house.

The Alliance Realty Company purchased from 1,052 First Avenue Inc., Joseph W. Powell, President, the five-story tenement at 974 First Avenue. The purchaser recently acquired the buildings at 966 First Avenue, northeast corner of Fifty-third Street, and 409-411 East Fifty-third Street.

LEASES TWO THEATRES.

Thomashefsky Group to Operate Houses in Two Boroughs.

Two theatres, one in Manhattan and the other in Brooklyn, have been leased by a syndicate which contemplates the establishment of a chain of houses throughout the country, according to an announcement yesterday by Harold H. Rothman, attorney. The syndicate is composed of Boris Thomashefsky, dean of the Jewish actors in America; his brother Max Thomashefsky, and Jack Linder, producer and manager.

The group has leased for ten years the Grand Street Theatre, at the southeast corner of Grand and Clarke Streets, Manhattan, and for five years the Elton Theatre at Forty-third Street and New Utrecht Avenue, in the Borough Park section of Brooklyn.

DOWNTOWN SITE IS SOLD.

The Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia has sold 18-26 South William Street, held at $600,000, to the Kerr Realty Corporation. The plot contains 8,546 square feet.

It abuts the Kerr Building at 44 Beaver Street, giving the new owners a plot of 19,862 square feet extending from Beaver Street to South William Street, on which eventually a new building will be erected to conform to the present Kerr Building.

In the same block Fred E. Sturgis, the broker, also sold 14 and 16 South William Street to the Kerr company.

Add to Holdings in Brooklyn.

Dr. George W. Averell, who recently purchased the property at 224 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, has leased it for twenty-one years, with renewal and purchase privileges, to Alexander Kahn and associates, who control other properties adjoining this parcel and the St. George Playhouse, which they erected. The entire holding fronts 110 feet on Fulton Street and 87 feet on Pineapple Street, from the southwest corner. No improvement for the plot has been announced. Samuel Swett was the broker.

TO BUILD TALL WAREHOUSE.

White Construction Company Will Erect $2,500,000 Structure.

The general contract for the erection of a ten-story warehouse and distributing building for the Eleto Company, the delivery organization of Lord & Taylor and James McCreery & Co., to be located on the west side of First Avenue from Thirty-eighth to Thirty-ninth Street, has been awarded to the White Construction Company, Inc. The project involves approximately $2,500,000.

The structure will contain more than 400,000 square feet of floor area. It is to be built of reinforced concrete, faced on all street fronts with granite, limestone, terra-cotta and tapestry brick. Structural steel cores will be used in all interior columns, by which method about twelve square feet of floor space is gained at each column.

The basement, first and second floors will be used for the store delivery system. The third floor is to be a garage. The upper floors will be devoted to storage and the manufacture of furniture and kindred products.

Results---Not Price--- Determine the Cost

The secret of reduced fuel costs lies not so much in the cost of the fuel as in the amount of heat the fuel gives you, ton for ton.

Koppers SEABOARD COKE is not the cheapest fuel, but it is the most economical—and for these reasons:—

It contains the least amount of ash
Fewer tons of it are required for any heating purpose
It always shows a considerable margin of saving.

Many building owners now using this good fuel have reported actual savings of from 20 to 25%; some few as high as 40%.

SALE OF THE HAITI ENDS RATE CLASH

Ocean Dominion Line Now Has Clear Field in Transporting Guiana Bauxite.

COLUMBIA TO GET BARGES

Transportation to Be Bettered There by Company Which Sold the Steamship.

The purchase of the steamer Haiti by the Ocean Dominion Steamship Corporation, 80 Broad Street, from the Colombian Line ends another rate controversy. The Haiti will sail from this port at 6 o'clock tomorrow night with a general cargo, consisting mainly of machinery, boilers, oil and a prize boar for the Leeward and Windward islands and the Guianas on her first trip under her new ownership.

Some time ago the Ocean Dominion Steamship Corporation, controlled by the Aluminum Corporation of America, bought the Bickford & Lack ships, which were in competition, and sought to adjust rate matters with the owners of the Haiti. In shipping circles it is explained that the principal bauxite (aluminum ore) mines of the Aluminum Corporation are at Demerara and Paramaribo in the Guianas, and that the Ocean Dominion Corporation preferred a clear field. The refusal of the Colombian Line to agree on rates of the Haiti held up this possibility.

The sale of the Bickford & Lack ships helped clear up matters. Now the Ocean Dominion Steamship Corporation is without competition and its controllers will be enabled to transport their aluminum ore without serious competition in rates. It is understood that the Aluminum Corporation plans the development of factories on the St. Lawrence and needs a clear field from Demerara and Paramaribo.

The Haiti is 255 feet long, 42.8 feet beam, and carries 4,000 tons cargo and sixteen passengers.

At the offices of the Colombian Line it was said yesterday that the line plans to spend $1,000,000 or more in the development of shipping facilities in Colombia. American exporters have not found it difficult to dispose of their goods at favorable terms, but complain of the difficulty of transportation.

Alfred Weller, freight traffic manager of the Colombian Line, said yesterday that the line would take the initiative in organizing a barge line to operate on the Magdalena River in Colombia and make other efforts to open the Colombian field to American exporters.

The steamship Haiti will call at St. Thomas, St. Croix, St. Kitts, Antigua, Guadeloupe, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Barbados, Grenada, Trinidad, Demerara and Paramaribo.

Burning Ship Sinks at Quibdo.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 23 (AP).—The sinking of a burning ship saved the town of Quibdo from a major disaster yesterday. The steamer Bogota, moored in the Atrato River off Quibdo, caught fire. The blaze spread rapidly and the crew saved themselves by jumping overboard. Lack of sufficient fire-fighting equipment and the proximity of several wooden houses put the city in danger, which was averted only when the flaming ship sank.

MOTORCYCLIST IS HERE AFTER 17,500-MILE TRIP

After having covered about 17,500 miles in a motorcycle tour around the world, Lieutenant S. T. Glanfield arrived in New York at 5 A. M. yesterday. He plans to sail for England on the Olympic tonight on the final leg of his seven-month journey.

His experiences have been exciting, he said yesterday afternoon in the offices of C. C. Wakefield & Co., Ltd., 117 Liberty Street. He was pursued by a panther early one morning while riding along a jungle road in India and was traveling at about thirty-five m'les an hour when he caught sight of the animal bounding along beside him.

"I had visions of the beast jumping on my back, and I hunched down over my machine, increasing my speed to outdistance it."

He told of a band of Arabs approaching him on camels and of routing them by charging into their midst, relying on the noise of the motorcycle and the suddenness of the attack to scare them into retreat. He also gave an account of accidentally digging up a crocodile in the mud of a creek bottom in Northern Australia when he was searching for slabs of slate to help him get his machine out of a bog.

But the trip around the world on a motorcycle was not made for pure adventure, Lieutenant Glanfield said. He explained that the primary object had been to report on the general motoring conditions throughout the world to the English motorcycle manufacturing firms under whose patronage he made the trip. He said his information would enable these concerns to adapt their machines to the conditions in the various countries to which they were exported. The tour is sponsored by the British Department of Overseas Trade in London, he said.

Lieutenant Glanfield said he was the first man to cross Australia alone from the northern territory to Sydney, and that he had established a record in crossing India from Bombay to Calcutta, via Agra, in six days.

WOULD LIMIT ANCHORAGE.

Hearing Is Be Held Today on Added Powers for Port Captain.

Greater power is sought for the Captain of the Port of New York in determining anchorage time for vessels in active use, and the Harbor Line Board, which is empowered to recommend such changes, will have a public hearing at 10:30 A. M. today at the Army Building, 39 Whitehall Street, to obtain an expression of public sentiment.

Eugene F. Moran, President of the Moran Transportation Company, and Chairman of the committee of the Maritime Association which is investigating causes of harbor congestion, said yesterday that he would appear to sponsor the proposed changes in the regulations. They will operate to alleviate congestion, said Mr. Moran. It is expected that the towing and steamship interests also will be represented.

The four proposed changes provide that no vessel be permitted to occupy a permanent berth in any anchorage area when vessels in regular traffic require the berth, or when navigation would be menaced by such occupation; and that the period of anchorage be restricted in different parts of the anchorage area to forty-eight hours, seventy-two hours or thirty days. Permission of the Captain of the Port is required in these instances.

Adriatic Going on Second Cruise.

The White Star liner Adriatic arrived yesterday from her first Winter cruise to the Mediterranean, including Palestine and Egypt, and will return with 600 American tourists tomorrow. Captain V. W. Hickson said the channel at Alexandria had been dredged, but was not yet deep enough to allow the Adriatic to go alongside the new stone piers.

PROPOSES COMPROMISE IN FLOOD CONTROL BILL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Senator Jones of Washington, Chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, personally submitted a compromise flood control plan to President Coolidge today which eliminates the direct 20 per cent. assessment on the States concerned and fixes the limit of appropriation at $325,000,000.

In his conference with President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover, Mr. Jones represented the situation in the Senate as almost unanimously opposed to the States carrying any part of the burden for enlarged flood control. Senator Jones, as a compromise, proposed that the States and communities play $13,000,000, representing the cost of replacing the flood walls to the height they were in 1914.

The rest of the cost of construction according to the plan he and a majority of the Commerce Committee favored, would be carried by the Federal Government. Construction for the first year would be limited to the Mississippi River stretch below Cairo, Ill.

It is proposed to create a special board of control, to be composed of army engineers, the Mississippi River Flood Commission and a civilian engineer, the latter to be appointed by the President. This board would be authorized to study and pass upon engineering differences that arise between the army engineers and the Mississippi Flood Commission. The work of carrying out the flood control plans would be entrusted to the Mississippi Flood Commission under supervision of the Secretary of War and the Chief of Army Engineers.

Senator Jones said upon leaving the President that his bill could be enacted by the Senate within a very reasonable time, but if the Administration continued to insist on the plan prepared by Major Gen. Jadwin, a long fight in Congress would ensue.

MISS TIERNEY STAYS ON JOB AS HOUSEMAID

No Further Efforts Will Be Made to Persuade Her to Come Home, Mother Says.

Still bent on making her own way in the world, Miss Catherine A. Tierney continued her duties yesterday as maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lobsenze at Kew Gardens, L. I., and has as yet shown no disposition to return either to her home in Middletown, Conn., or to Marymount College at Tarrytown, N. Y., from where she disappeared on Feb. 5.

The twenty-two-year-old girl, who was a freshman at Marymount, has shown a marked improvement in her mental outlook, according to Mr. Lobsenze, who said yesterday that although she was still very reticent, she seemed much more cheerful than during the days when her parents were searching for her.

Mr. Lobsenze said she expected to continue in his employ indefinitely, so far as he knew, and that Mrs. Lobsenze had found her to be entirely satisfactory.

"But of course," Mr. Lobsenze added, "she isn't the kind of a girl who would stay in a position like that for long."

The girls' mother, Mrs. George A. Tierney of Middletown, Conn., said yesterday that she talked with her daughter by telephone Wednesday morning. She said she did not want to come home, according to Mrs. Tierney, who said that no further effort is persuade her had been made. "The girl's home is here," declared Mrs. Tierney, "and she knows we want her and will welcome her. But she is of age and I can't force her to come back."

and may lead to serious illness. At the first sign of throat irritation take PERTUSSIN freely. It soothes the inflamed throat at once, quiets the cough spasms and helps to clear the air passages from infectious mucus. PERTUSSIN is a natural herbal remedy that acts without Dope. It does not upset the stomach. Doctors have prescribed it for 20 years and it is sold by all drug stores.
